Freshman Women Enjoy Two Days At Camp Hochelaga

Dean Simpson Greets Girls at First Meeting at Freshman Camp

Freshman Camp for the women of the University of Vermont opened at one o'clock on Friday, September 11, at Camp Hochelaga, South Hero, Vt. Phyllis Savage '43, was the director of the camp, which is given each fall by the Y. W. C. A. of the University. Registration of the freshmen started the night before camp opened with the first visitor, and by six o'clock on Friday there were about eighty-five freshmen and sixteen upperclassmen present.

Opens Friday

The camp opened officially with a welcoming banquet on Friday evening. The girls were greeted by Miss Savage, Patricia Pike '43, president fo the Y. W., Catherine Nulty, and Dean Mary Jean Simpson.

Using the analogy of factory heads with the problems caused by women workers, Dean Simpson impressed upon the girls the seriousness of the task before them in this school year, socially as well as scholastically. She also spoke of the intention of President Millis that there may be more mixed group activities on campus this year. She then told of her wish that no one shall waste, by cutting or inadequately preparing for classes, the opportunities that have been provided for them by the University and the people responsible for their enrollment in it.

Activities

Other activities of the week-end included swimming and canoeing, softball, and a scavenger hike that ended in a hike to supper. Upperclassmen spoke on the activities with which they were best acquainted, and on Sunday night the freshmen, divided into six groups, presented a series of skits.

A service was held in the outdoor chapel on Sunday morning. It was led by Patricia Pike and Ruth Burnell '43.

Under Phyllis Savage were Carolyn Brown '44, who was assistant director, and a group of counsellors made up of Mortar Board members and the cabinet of the Y. W. The Mortar Board members who were able to attend were Marjorie Abel, Janet Hackwell, June Hoffman, Alice Needham, and Natalie Spear. From the cabinet were Carolyn Brown, Ruth Burnell, Alison Carr '44, Elizabeth Demming '43, Penelope Easton '44, Ruth Jordan '45, Patricia Maxfield '45, and Patricia Pike '43.

The Hochelaga hostess was Miss Charlotte Perkins '38, from the State Board of the Y. W. C. A.

Big Sisters Take Freshmen to Tea

The freshman women were entertained at the Dean's Tea, Saturday, September 19. Acting as hostesses were the President's wife, the Dean of Women, Miss Simpson, and the presidents of Mortar Board and Student Union. They were assisted by the Faculty women, House Directors, and the Mortar Board girls. This was an occasion for the Big Sisters to take their Little Sisters and help them get acquainted. Staff and Sandal members ushered and took the girls through the line and the Sophomore Aides served. Very appropriate flowers were used as decorations.

UNIVERSITY PLAYERS! — Important meeting Wednesday afternoon, 4.00 p.m., in 1 North College.
WENDELL HARVEY, Pres.

President and Mrs. Millis

Francis Colburn, Young Painter, Added to U. V. M. Faculty

Once more the University is pioneering by adding to its faculty an artist-in-residence in the person of Mr. Francis Colburn, talented young painter. As far as is known Dartmouth College is the only other college in New England employing an artist-in-residence.

With this fine new instructor comes a new course to our curricula. Meeting on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays from 1.30 to 4.30 it gives six hours credit. The cost will be relatively small as painting will be done on paper instead of canvas. Much practice work in design and composition will be done in charcoal. Landscape study, anatomy and a variety of subjects will be touched upon although the course will depend to a large extent upon the interest of the students who enter the course. Mr. Colburn emphasizes that he intends to develop students along their own lines rather than having the student copy his style.

Born in Burlington

Mr. Colburn was born and brought up in Burlington, his father being principal of B. H. S. After being graduated from U. V. M. with his Ph.B. degree, he went to study under Stefan Hirsch at Bennington College where he worked as Director of Publicity. While he worked and studied, his wife worked in the college library.

Through Hirsch he became interested in a national competition and through this he won one of the ten scholarships to the Art Students League of New York City. Having been selected from hundreds of applicants from all over United States and Canada, he immediately started study under Harry Sternberg, Raphael Soyer, and Yasuo Kunyoshi for a year. The next year he returned and studied privately under Sternberg, during the year doing a mural with his instructor for the Roebling Steel exhibit at the 1939 World's Fair.

Son Born

At this moment he returned to Vermont when his son David was born. Mr. Colburn remarked, "Not only was it cheaper to have a son born in Vermont, but I'm also easier in my mind having him brought up in Vermont."

For the past three years, he has been teaching art in Barton Academy, spending his summers in Craftsbury.

His pictures have been shown in many nationally known exhibits including the Exhibition of Contemporary American Art at the World's Fair of '39. From his mid-western shows, the University of Oklahoma has procured one painting for its permanent collection. During the latter part of October his private showing will be shown in Fleming Museum, going directly from there to the Knoedler Gallery in New York City.

Honor Societies Entertain Frosh

Something new in the way of freshmen orientation was the Freshmen Picnic held Wednesday evening on the campus behind the Old Mill and subsequently in the cage. The picnic, arranged by the honor societies, was largely attended by both boys and girls and took the place of the Big Sister-Little Sister picnic in former years held on the Redstone campus. After being separated into couples, the freshmen enjoyed a light supper in charge of the Sophomore Aides and Gold Key men and were entertained by exhibitions of Kake Walking by B. Mott '43 and J. Williams '43, a skit put on by the members of Staff and Sandal, cheers led by M. Allen '43, a presentation of the football team and songs with L. Killick '44 as master of ceremonies. The members of Staff and Sandal and Key and Serpent were in charge of the entertainment committee while the members of Boulder Society and Mortar Board acted as general hosts and hostesses.

Phi Sigma Delta Awarded Trophy

Phi Sigma Delta topped the campus in all-around ability for the year. This, in effect, sums up the words of George Little, as he presented the coveted Traynor Trophy on behalf of Key and Serpent to Bob Steinman '42 of the Phi Sigs at the final baseball game of the season on May 16 of last semester.

The awarding of Traynor Trophy, given each year to that fraternity which has proven itself outstanding on the campus throughout the year in interfraternity competition, signalized the termination of a season which witnessed possibly the closet competition in recent years.

The trophy, begun in 1930 in memory of Edward L. Traynor '32, captain-elect of the baseball team fatally injured in an accident is awarded each year on a point system. This point system includes numerous and varied activities. Among these are athletics, scholarship, Kake Walk activities, and participation in various campus functions. Phi Sigma Delta, high point organization of the year gathered winning points in baseball, basketball, scholarship, and Kake Walk.

152nd Freshman Class Invades Vermont Campus

Sophs Win—Frosh Spirit Not Dampened

Although the freshman far outnumbered the representatives of the class of '45, it is generally agreed (with the final judgment of a member of Boulder, the senior men's honorary society) that the sophomores are the victors of the Fountain Fight held last Friday night.

Following this traditional water battle, both spectators and participants formed their customary snake line and carried the celebration to Church Street and back.

End of Freshman Week Finds Class of '46 Well Oriented

"Could you please tell me where I can find ..... ?" and with a multitude of questions, the class of 1946 invaded the campus of the University of Vermont. The "bewildered freshmen" spent last week from Monday through Saturday learning those essentials which will enable them to find the cafeteria at any time of the day or night, and also the correct building in which their classes are supposed to be. From the payment of the registration fee through taking their first glimpse of classes, the class of '46 has progressed rather well, with no casualties as yet reported.

Preliminary Events

The preliminary events of last week were designed "to acquaint the new student with all the conditions under which he will be working and to instruct him in advance in the privileges and responsibilities that become his as a student in the University." The first appointment for the incoming freshmen was on Monday, September 14 in the afternoon, when both Pres. John S. Millis and Joe Corbett, president of the Student Government, welcomed the group to U. V. M. Then followed payment of registration fees. These students enrolling in the Arts and Sciences were then addressed by Dean Swift, those in Agriculture, by Professor King and Dean Carrigan, and those enrolling in Engineering, by Dean Eckhard. A campus tour, conducted by Gold Key, finished the afternoon program. The first day's events was concluded with a campus sing conducted by Professor Long in front of the Waterman Building.

Tuesday morning saw the entire body taking the Intelligence Test, and the afternoon witnessed payment of tuition

President Millis Addresses First Convocation Fri.

Urges Students to Make the Most of Present Opportunities

On Friday, September 18, an old custom was reinstated on our campus. The student body assembled in the chapel for an opening convocation. Prof. E. J. Pooley and Prof. L. S. Rowell were marshals of the day.

The convocation was opened with an invocation by Rev. R. A. Hall of the English Department. Following the prayer Michael Anselmo, accompanied by Miss Miriam Marston, played a violin selection.

The convocation struck a definite wartime note. President Millis, admitting the difficulty of giving advice in these times, addressed the old and new students. Doctor Millis stated that, although human intelligence and imagination had made mankind ready for a world brotherhood, science had indicted humanity by turning its forces to destruction. Selfishness of man is to blame. Renewed faith is the answer. He urged the students to dedicate rather than resignate their energies and ambitions to continual examination of current events; to be more alert; to ask the How, Why and Wherefores. President Millis further added that concentration should be on personality and individuality in college life. Personal past values are becoming more important than academic credits.

President Millis assured the student body that U. V. M. men enlisted in the reserve corps would not be called to active duty during the semester even though they reach selective service age. He based this statement on a letter from the American Council of Education in Washington. The letter said that there was no indication that either men already enlisted in the reserve corps or men enlisting during this semester before the end of the semester will be called.

Doctor Millis added that in colleges, as in all schools, students would not be taught more concentrated or more distributed courses but more probably different courses altogether.

The convocation closed with the entire congregation singing "Champlain."

Prospective Medics Get Application Blanks

Students intending to seek entrance to the Medical College for this coming session which begins in April, 1943, should obtain application blanks from the Dean's Office, Room 6, Medical Building, if they have not already done so. These blanks must be filled out and returned immediately.

Y. W. C. A. Starts Drive on Friday

Religious, Knitting and G. S. O. Projects

Every year the Young Women's Christian Association of U. V. M. makes its membership drive in the fall. This year the membership tickets will be sold in the Waterman Cafeteria on September 25. The officers, Patricia Pike, president; Alison Carr, vice-president; Barbara Fiske, secretary; and Elizabeth Deming, treasurer, with the members of the Cabinet will be on hand to enroll you as a member for the coming year.

The Y. W. C. A. is the oldest organization on this campus, and its activities are many. In previous years the girls have helped at the Settlement School and at Rock Point; this year the work of the organization will be devoted to three main projects. The G. S. O., the Girls' Service Organization and one of this year's projects, has been formed to work with the U. S. O. by ushering at plays and serving on various occasions. The religious work will be carried out in cooperation with the Student Religious Life Committee in conducting the Vesper Services which were begun by the Y. W. C. A. This year as of last year knitting for the Red Cross and the Blue Jackets will be one of their projects.

The Y. W. C. A. has charge of the Freshman Camp at Hochelaga and conducts the Freshman Mixer each year among its other activities.

Remember, girls, Friday, September 25 is the membership drive. Everyone should join!

The Vermont Cynic

VOL. 61 SEPTEMBER 22, 1942 NO. 1

CYNIC welcomes the 152nd freshman class to the University of Vermont. We could elaborate on the virtues and traditions of our U. V. M. and hope to impress the Frosh by listing the great opportunities which they have and responsibilities they are about to undertake but we will refrain because we imagine that they already have been told these facts in the last few days by persons more expert than we. However, we do choose to remind our new college mates of a number of facts of which we considered it vital for them to be aware.

During the past few years our University has gone through a major financial crisis. Just a little over a year ago there was even a rumor about that U. V. M. might shut down. It had no President, it had no money and in short to put it mildly the whole situation was very dark. Yet in face of all of this darkness the student body, the faculty and alumni rose up as one and drew Vermont up from the dregs and put it on the road to recovery. A new President came, the Waterman Building was completed, a drive was staged to obtain funds and from all over the country alumni and friends came to the support of the college. The point we are trying to put over to you freshmen is that the other three classes, faculty and alumni have done a fine job in saving and building up our University. They expect you to continue the work they started, for it is by no means finished, to carry out the final steps of the job and in your four years to bring the recovery to a grand and glorious finish. We might also say a word to the upperclassmen and to remind them that their job is not done, you did well last year but must continue to do so in order to complete the drive (many students have Security Fund Pledges, we hope these are paid).

Freshmen—The CYNIC is the official University of Vermont newspaper, it is published every Tuesday and Friday and is obtainable free of charge (fee comes out of $35 activity fee) on the afternoon of these two days at the University Bookstore. Letters, criticisms and articles are welcome.

Home Economics Department Offers New Four-Way Program This Year

With the opening of the University this fall a new four-way program goes into effect in the Home Economics Department. After several years of planning the department is now organized to give training in many diversified fields. A student can now specialize in general home economics; teaching of home economics; clothing, textiles and related arts; or food and nutrition.

The first of these fields, general home economics—offers a survey of all the various phases of home making. It includes courses in foods, clothing decoration, management and social background. To provide a broader preparation for life is its aim.

The other three fields are career builders. The student who specializes in Home Economics education will be fitted for a professional teaching career. Those choosing clothing will study textiles, clothing construction, design, merchandising and interior decoration. A girl who is interested in the food and nutrition part of the Home Economics course will be prepared to become a dietition in a hospital or in any other type of institution having food problems or for positions as food specialists or demonstrators.

Beginning this fall eight new courses are being offered: Textile chemistry, children's clothing, history of costume, costume design, experimental food preparation, institutional food preparation, institutional management and food economics.

The girls taking foods and nutritions will use the facilities of the large, modern kitchens of the Waterman cafeteria, and will prepare food for people eating there.

These additions to the curriculum have necessitated additions to Morrill Hall itself. Two new laboratories are being set up; one for dietetics work, the other design and related arts courses.

Last, but far from least is the addition of three new members to the faculty to meet the newly created teaching load. They are: Miss Helen Underwood of Clinton, Ia., who is an assistant professor

Fraternity News

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON

It might have been a serene weekend at the Sigma Alpha Epsilon Plant if it weren't for Noisy Nocker Noggin Neal, who, it is alleged, has hired a certain local hotel basement for a study. His roommate will be Paul Sundberg who has yet to take anything seriously. According to Communique No. 1 John "Ig" Noble will lend dignity (at a low rate of interest) to the Summit Street edifice. Bill Roeder denies emphatically that he mixed the first drink at the Freshman Mixer. Pat Harrington is all up in the air about the air corps. Don Morgan is maneuvering a tank about. It doesn't sound safe for Don, because some part of his body must be exposed. Sam Putnam should be hitting the headlines soon, for he is fighting the Guinea pigs in New Guinea. Al Shaw is deploying on the field at Fort Wheeler and ambidextrously too! Paul Pullinen is in the army in Wyoming, Sherb Searl is at Fort Benning, and Flea Guilbert is in Middletown, Pa., in the air corps.

SIGMA NU

Over at the Sigma Nu Lodge things are pretty quiet as yet, but only because Harry Parker went to Barre with Norm Beaulieu, and Russ West and Bob Bloomer have come into the house in time for bed each night. Norm, fondly referred to by his buddies as "Gluefoot," only regrets that Coach Evans wears smaller shoes than he does. The Lodge will be enjoying a few more laughs this year due to the fact that Johnny Reed is moving in. During the summer there have been some changes made; Norm Boyden is an old married man. In the armed forces is Mac McRell at Camp Croft. Don Moran is in the air corps where, it is said, he is uneasy over the ups and downs of it all. Dave Neil is in the army. Herb Long is in a hospital in Maryland where he is being treated for an old football injury sustained while here at the University. His brother, Cliff, is in the air corps as a bombardier.

DELTA PSI

According to the fellow who answered the phone at the Delta Psi House, the most interesting and startling bit of news was the fact that one Donald Ryan prepared breakfast on the morning of September 20, 1942. The coffee was good, and the fellow who answered the phone was . . . you guessed it, Don Ryan. Sam Otis spent the summer preparing for the bar. He was bar tender at a summer resort where he led a stirring life. Bill Sisson has spent a delightful summer with the cadavers in the medical college. He refuses to admit that one of them slapped his face for getting fresh. Reflex action, he claims. Senator "Pookins" Little has moved into his winter quarters. You girls can reach him by calling the East Wing Blue Room of the Delta Psi House. Bob Patterson is in Plattsburg in the army. Ed Corliss is in Texas also in the army, while Hazen Wood is in the South. Norm Strassburg is in the Coast Guard in Maine. Stu Evans will be going October 8 into the Royal Canadian Air Force.

PHI DELTA THETA

I dreamt I dwelt in marble halls. A call at the Phi Delta House was answered by Don Nutter who paused briefly to collect himself. The collecting must have been good. He warns that Bill Benoit is on the loose again. Paul Walgren is back and already complications have set in. Lou Codding is here again giving it another go. I'm sure that all his friends wish him the best of luck in this shining example of pure perseverance. Chief Flynn is back on the warpath looking for another feather in his cap. Don Nutter is looking for a cap. Mathurin Cognetta will conduct rumba classes in his den between the hours of 6.30 a.m. and 1.30 a.m. Sign up early due to those limited hours. Hal Mayforth is in the Armored Division at Pine Camp, and was here for a short time last weekend. Joe Hendricks and John Handrahan are in the Naval Air Corps. Fred Logan is in Candidates Class for Marines at Quantico, Va. Upon completion of the course he will be commissioned as a Second Lieutenant and go to Officers' Training School. Charlie Shortle is an officer in the Naval Air Corps.

TAU EPSILON PHI

It was hard to arouse anyone at the Tau Epsilon Phi House. It seems everyone was watching movies of the final touch football game of the year last year with the Kappa Sigs. Coach Moose Savin was explaining the mistakes and illustrating how they may be rectified. Moose or sometimes called "Daylight" Savin said that he has some good boys coming up from New York who are excellent touch footballers. He fixed them all up with board jobs at the house, and all of the boys came back two weeks early for preliminary practice sessions. The first tea dance of the year was held last Saturday and was run of with great success according to Melvin Gipstein, the very capable chairman. Professor Ladd and Mrs. Ladd chaperoned. No one from TEP has gone into the armed forces of America. The only boys lost were those who have transferred or who were lost due to serious injuries inflicted in last year's touch football contests.

LAMBDA IOTA

There was not an iota of noise coming from the Lambda Iota House save the sound of the cultivated voice (or is it harrowed) of "Nail" Doherty, the renowned bathroom baritone. Harris Thurber has been making one night stands in most of the local night clubs, but he seems to be held over at the Black Cat for a return engagement, and it is said that he threatens a longer run than "Tobacco Road," which is a very good before-breakfast trot. "Punch" Howe, Second Lieutenant-to-be, reports that he has been doing his "Column Right" and "Column Wrong" all summer. Larry Burningham has gone into the navy, and rumor has it that he took along his pet pack of cards. Dick Kipp, last year's basketball luminary, has gone into the Coast Guard. Red White has completed his preliminary course and is commissioned as a Second Lieutenant in the Marines. He is now at Quantico in Officers' Training School and doing very well. In a recent letter he sends his regards to all his friends at U. V. M. and hopes to get up here for a few days. Baxter Cummings '40, '41, '42, and '43 is married!

PHI SIGMA DELTA

At Phi Sigma Delta we find the boys involved in preparations for their first tea dance which will be ably handled by Stan Feldman, a capable socializer. He advised that the theme will be a military secret. It is also a military secret how Newty Goldman passed Freshman Military. Professor and Mrs. Long will chaperone at this unique and unusual tea dance on Saturday, September 26. Last week brother Sid Sisselman and Bernie Rynowecer spent a few days at the house (and Redstone) prior to their entrance to officers' training. Irv Seigal and "Wartorn" Warsaw are now serving in the Army and Marines respectfully and respectively.

KAPPA SIGMA

At the Kappa Sigma Club the most outstanding bit of news evolves around an informal gathering held the other night. The highlight of the evening was the rendering of a sweet little ditty about one of the most beloved characters in American history, Christopher Columbus. The song was sung by Anthony Lewkowicz, who immediately after rendered "Himself Unconscious." Games of all sorts were played, and one contest ended in a quadruple tie between Nick Bottiglieri, "Count" Conti, Ralph Lapointe, and "Quiff" Amour. This contest was a long, drawn out affair. "Bojangles" Maley '41 was present to lend his melodic Irish tenor to the occasion. He should have lended it to Bob Hennessy. Reno Conti did very well as fourth man in the trio. "Snail" Cain poured. Kappa Sigma has a large number of men in the army. More recent members are "Misty" Rice, who is about two weeks out of graduation from Officers' Training School for the Marines. Latest word has it that Misty wants to go into the parachute troops upon his graduation. Henry Beauchemin and Dick Healy are in the Army, as is Whizzer White. Judd Richardson is in the air corps on the California coast. Clarence Akley was here for a short while before returning to duty in the Army.

ALPHA TAU OMEGA

It seems that the A. T. O.'s had a party the other night. From all outward appearances it was a real get-together! Chris Bicoulis was the big man in this shin dig at which fourteen fellows had a grand old-fashioned time. Mike Spylios returned to school after spending a swell summer of eating. He hopes to achieve that boyish figure once again by trying to keep up the pace set by Bill Fagin. Mike and Chris spend their spare time trying to keep Mike's cousin in hand. Phil Chesarone walked into a blackout the other day in scrimmage, and he now sports a "massive mouse" on his eye.

SIGMA PHI

The Sigma Phi's have yet to put a phone in for the school year, so that it is difficult to keep in touch with them. They lose two good men to the Army soon when Dick Page and Ed Blakely are called. They both are expecting to go in the very near future. They figure everything will be all right if left in the hands of Bob Pond. Bob doesn't mind as long as they don't leave a broom in his hands to clean up after the likes of Brud Sutton and Co.

Ready for Stiff Schedule

Rhode Island State Eleven Threat to Green and Gold

New Backs Sparkle In Early Workouts

Varsity coach John C. (Fuzzy) Evans leads his 1942 Vermont eleven to pasture at Centennial Field Saturday, the Catamounts squaring off against rugged Rhode Island State in a Homecoming Day clash.

Rhode Island replaces Hofstra in the Vermont schedule, the Long Island school having abandoned football for the duration. The Rams are expected to prove a more formidable hurdle for the Green and Gold, who are shouldering a job of no mean proportions in tackling Rhode Island and Rutgers in successive weeks.

Happily, Evans has one of the largest U. V. M. squads in years upon which to work. Upwards of fifty candidates, including newly eligible freshmen, are engaged in the daily scrimmages. Among these the coach can lay hands on a dozen variously seasoned veterans, several excellent sophomores, and one or two highly recommended frosh.

Key players are the co-captains, Bill Benoit and Phil Chesarone. Under Evans' interpretation of the Georgia Tech T-formation, this pair calls the plays, Benoit from his running guard slot on the offense, and Chesarone from center on the defense.

A complete set of new backs are operating from the T and the familiar single wing set-up. Pete Kadzis, heralded freshman out of Boston, is at fullback, with sophomores Chick LaPointe and Norm Beaulieu at the halves and either Monk Martin or Mickey Cochran at quarter, depending upon Martin's still dubious scholastic status.

Behind these are the speedy scat back, Johnny Reed, and Harry Parker, Ed O'Connell, Bob Bloomer, freshman Ernie Bushway of Bellows Falls, and others. Evans still has hopes for the eligibility of players of the quality of Tony Lewkowicz, Billy Mahar, and Frank Ecklund.

Up front, line coach Sherry Fogg is building a unit around Chesarone and Benoit. Don Nutter is at the other guard, with Paul Walgren and Dwight Eddy at the tackles and Bart Barry and Len Kunken at the wings. First line reserves include tackles Rog Prior and Art Kehoe, guard Newtie Goldman, center Bud Lippman, and Don (Red) Murphy, light but gritty freshman end from Bellows Falls.

COACH FUZZY EVANS

The versatile backfield lists LaPointe, Kadzis, Beaulieu, Reed, and Parker as strong runners, LaPointe, Beaulieu, and Kadzis as passers, and Kadzis, Cochran, and Martin as punters.

Most obviously improved of the returners is Kehoe, the heavyweight tackle. Art is now hard and aggressive. A fast learner and a keen student of the game, he has developed into an outstanding dropkicker.

Rhode Island will arrive here with a veteran team and a well advertised passing attack. The Rams hope to make Vermont a way station on the way to meeting Brown, whom they next face.

and will teach the courses of Institutional Food Preparation and Institutional Management. She received her training at Iowa State College and Columbia. The second new faculty member is Miss Ruth E. Montgomery of Stockland, Ill., who will teach sophomore courses in fods and food economics. Thirdly, Miss Hazel Westly of Maddock, N. D., who will be an instructor in the Clothing Department, specifically she will teach textile chemistry, history of costume and costume design.

This new plan is a great step; it enables University students to get a very complete training, and is an example of the University's ever widening scope.

Rev. Hugh White Speaks at Vespers In Chapel Sunday

Y. W. C. A., V. C. A. Sponsor First Service of Year Students Lead

The vesper service, held in Ira Allen Chapel, at 4.00 p.m., Sunday, September 20, 1942 was sponsored by the Vermont Christian Association and the Young Women's Christian Association. Malcom Eddy '45 and Patricia Pike '43 were in charge. The service was opened with an organ prelude by Miss Natilee Marston. After a song by the congregation, "O God Beneath Thy Guiding Hand," Malcom Eddy '45 led the call to worship, then an Invocation, followed by the Lord's Prayer. After Responsive Reading 9 and the Gloria Patri the choir sang "The Heaven's are Telling" by Beethoven. The scripture was read by Patricia Pike '43. After a Litany of Loyalty and the hymn "Dear Lord and Father of Mankind," the Rev. Hugh Vernon White, D.D. gave his address.

Dr. H. V. White is a member of the Educational Service of American Board of Commission for Foreign Missions. His works has been with the home division, especially among schools and colleges. He has associated with Ruth Seabury in explaining the work of the missions to the people of the country.

Rev. Hugh Vernon White spoke on the problems of modern youth. The college graduates of the first World War period were known as the lost generation. The college graduates of this World War period may also be the lost generation, but they do not have to be. They can't be the type that say "Our parents got us into this mess, what will we do to get out of it?" After all, they aren't any better than their parents, really. If they had been in the same boat they'd probably have made the same mistakes. People will get plenty of wallops, they'll be betrayed, they'll be thrown into the depths of despondency. When they're in the dumps, they don't want somebody to slap them on the back and say, "Don't worry, Bud, everything will come out in the wash." It just isn't so. The best way to pull out of it, is to have faith. Not a faith in just anything. All college graduates are fundamentally idealists. But if idealists become disillusioned they often turn into worn out liberalists. What we need is faith in God. That faith has meaning, is alive and real, when all the set principles of our everyday life have been shattered into a million pieces.

The congregation then sang "The Day Thou Gavest, Lord, Is Ended." After a moment of silence, Dr. H. V. White gave the benediction. The organ postlude was played by Miss Natilee Marston.

Musicians to Meet for First Time on Wednesday

A meeting of all people interested in the Chapel and University Orchestra will be held in the Music Building, Wednesday, September 23, at 4.15 p.m.

Candidates need not bring their instruments to the meeting, the purpose of which is to discuss the time of rehearsals, the possibility of combining the two orchestras in part, plans for augmenting the organizations.

The Chapel Orchestra accompanies the Choir at the Christmas concert and the oratorio in the spring, and plays occasionally at the Chapel services. The University Orchestra gives a concert with the Glee Club in January, and plays for the opera and at Commencement.

Although attendance at the meeting does not commit anyone to membership all persons who wish to be considered candidates for the instrumental groups are expected to be present.

Freshman Class Meets President

At a very informal gathering in the student lounge Thursday night the class of 1946 met President and Mrs. Millis and the deans of the various colleges. This gathering is another innovation in the events of Freshman Week and seems likely to continue from year to year as it was well attended by the incoming class.

Members of Mortar Board and Boulder introduced the freshmen to President and Mrs. Millis, Dean Swift, Dean Simpson, Dean and Mrs. Eckhard, Dean and Mrs. Carrigan and Doctor King. Refreshments were served afterwards in South cafeteria.

The Rev. J. Graydon Brown, of the Congregational Church in Rutland, will be the speaker at the first Wednesday chapel service at the University of Vermont. Reverend Brown is a favorite speaker at young people's conferences. The public is invited to attend the services on September 23, at 10 o'clock n Ira Allen Chapel.

Freshman Week

and fees. Wednesday physical examination appointments for both men and women were scheduled, followed by health, recreation, and student government conferences. In the afternoon, enrollment, which began Tuesday afternoon and had continued on through Wednesday morning, was finally concluded.

Meetings with advisors formed an important part of the program this year, with the old General Science, Literary Scientific, Classical, and Social Science curricula combined under the title Liberal Arts. Under this new system, there are many less requirements than under the old, and consequently the student is faced with a greater number of electives from which to chose his course; hence, the greater importance of the personal advisors appointed for each freshman.

New Addition

A new event added to this year's preliminary week was the picnic held Thursday evening at five until seven in the cage at the gymnasium. The object of this affair was to get the frosh acquainted among themselves. The R. O. T. C. band turning out for the first time before school had started, gave renditions of various school songs and then treated the frosh to their first hearing of "Cotton Babes," traditional Kake Walking theme. Refreshments of hot dogs et al. were served. A planned bonfire, true pep-rally style, was rained out, but the frosh were entertained inside the cage with a skit by upperclass women, kake walkers, and were introduced to the members of the football squad.

Thursday morning, at seven-thirty, the frosh men were given their first taste of military as regular classes began. President and Mrs. Millis held a reception for all members of the class of 1946 in the Waterman cafeteria at eight o'clock Thursday evening to end the day.

Convocation

Friday evening, after another day of abbreviated classes and an opening Convocation for the entire student body addressed by President Millis, the annual fountain fight between the sophomore and freshman classes took place. The frosh, turning out in an overwhelming majority, were nevertheless sufficiently ducked by the sophs to lose that classic. Immediately following their ignominious defeat, the freshmen promptly formed for the traditional snake-dance, touring both the campus section and downtown en route.

The events of a rather busy preliminary week were culminated by a tea for women at Southwick on Saturday at 4.00, and the annual freshman mixer Saturday evening. The mixer, largely attended, was held for the first time in the Waterman Building, in the cafeteria, at eight o'clock, Saturday evening.

The Rev. Hugh Vernon White, D.D. was the preacher at the first vesper service of the year in the Ira Allen Chapel on Sunday at four.

The only event scheduled on the freshman program which has not as yet taken place is the English placement test, which is scheduled for Thursday, September 24, at four, under the direction of Professor Carleton in the gymnasium.

NOTICE

Glee Club rehearsal will be held in the Music Building, Wednesday, September 23, according to the following schedule:

The Men's Glee Club, 7.00 p.m.

The Mixed Glee Club (Men's Glee Club and Choir Women), 7.30 p.m.

The Women's Glee Club, 8.00 p.m.

No try-outs are necessary. Watch bulletin board for further notice.

Try-outs for the Choir will be held Tuesday, September 22, 4.00 p.m., at the Music Building, 70 Williams St. Watch bulletin board for further notice.

There will be a meeting of the treasurers of all organzations, Thursday, September 24, at 7.30 p.m. Attendance is required. Meeting will be held in North Conference Room No. 115, Waterman Building.

JULIA FLETCHER,
Treas., U. V. M. Students.

There will be a meeting of all News Editors, Reporters and Scrubs of the CYNIC, Friday, at 3.30 p.m., in the Student Lounge. All freshmen interested in scrubbing the edtorial side of the CYNIC are asked to be present at this meeting.

Meeting of the Ariel Staff, Wednesday, 8.00 p.m., South Conference Room, Waterman Building.

Storm of Colors Greets Students as Frosh and Societies Sport Chic Caps

The fall season at Vermont brings with it a dearth of new headgear for the men of all classes. The freshman millinery remains the same and the more dapper members of the class of '46 may be caught loitering in front of windows adjusting their bright green caps to a jaunty angle. This will go on for a while at least until the frosh have proved their prowess on the field of battle.

Those upperclassmen who have proven themselves and who have been elected to the upperclass honor societies are distinguishing themselves with smart hats of different types which they will continue to wear through the year. The old sophomore cap which was built along the lines of the German University cap gives way to a neat dark green pork-pie with a bright hand-embroidered gold key standing out in front.

The junior Key and Serpent members are not to be outdone by the snappy military millinery which has invaded our previously peaceful campus. The juniors are sticking to their old naval officer type of white cap with the stiff visors and the golden insignia of their estate.

Nothing can change the caps of those illustrious few who are elected to membership in Boulder, the senior men's honorary. Three years of "hard schoolin' and a lot of activities" gives them the privilege of wearing their trim dark green caps.

As for the women . . . after the Dean's tea most of them give up wearing any kind of hats until old man winter makes them resort to their gay and useful kerchiefs—peasant style.

NOTICE

The Business Staff of the CYNIC and all who wish to scrub the Business Staff will meet Wednesday, September 23, at 4.00 p.m., in the Conference Room 140, main floor, south wing, Waterman Building.

The meeting is compulsory for former members of the staff who wish to continue on the staff. New scrubs are needed.

Arts and Sciences College Releases '41-'42 Honor Roll

Four Students Hit Summa Cum Laude As Many Make the List

Following is a list of students in the College of Arts and Sciences who have attained an average of B (85 percent) or better for the first half, second half, and year 1941-42.

The Deans of the three academic colleges agreed to make out their lists by averaging the numerical grades reported to the Registrar and making four groups. The first group (Summa Cum Laude) includes all with an average of 95 percent or better; the second group (Magna Cum Laude), those with an average of 92.5 percent or better but not 95 percent; the third group (Cum Laude), those with an average of 89 percent or better but not 92.5 percent; the fourth group (B average), those with an average of 85 percent or better but not 89 percent.

Several Changes in Faculty Personnel New School Year

U. S. Armed Forces Cause for Wholesale Changes in Faculty

September, 1942, on U. V. M. campus brings many changes, including several new faculty members and members of the administrative staff. These changes affect many departments.

The Zoology Department has two new instructors, Miss Gertrude Cristiansen and H. H. Webber. Mr. Webber is a graduate of the University of Texas. Miss Christiansen is a graduate of Wilson College and received her master's degree from Wellesley this year; she replaces Mrs. Antoinette Loudon.

New instructor in chemistry is John W. Patterson, Ohio State University. The physics department boasts a new laboratory assistant, L. W. Burgess.

Miss Muriel Hughes is a new instructor in the English Department. Mr. David Ellis has been added as instructor in history.

N. N. Allen, University of Minnesota, is in the College of Agriculture as asso-

Frosh Mixer Climaxes Week of Orientation

Frosh men and women were further acquainted among themselves as a result of the freshman mixer, held last Saturday in the Waterman Building. Following by a few days the Frosh picnic, first of its kind, it was the climax of a full week of orientation and general getting-acquainted. Music was by the Catamounts, that scintillating band of college musicians.

Apparently, a larger number than was anticipated turned out for, during the predance entertainment, a number of the class of '46 were sitting in remote corners and even standing, the entertainment featured the teaching and leading of college cheers by Jack Williams and Bob Lockwood. The results were deafening. They were followed by the U. V. M. sextet, who were well received despite a few fluffs. The sextet, lacking its full membership, was comprised of Bob Norton, Bob Goss, John Goss, Ernie Stockwell, Steve Moore, and a high school filler-in, Dave Wheeler. Wendell Harvey was M. C. for this part of the program.

College notables were in the receiving line greeting the freshmen, and among these were Dean Simpson, Prof. and Mrs. Long, Malcolm Eddy, Patricia Pike, and others. Those noted as doing a good share of the work at making the mixer a success were Ruth Jordan, Bibby Deming, Lou Jones and Red Fowler.

Enlisted Reserve Corps Plan Is Explained to Students

The news issued by the press during the last few days has caused much uneasiness among students now in college and those planning to enter college. For the benefit of our student body the more general part of the latest information received (September 14) is herewith quoted.

General Requirements for Selection

1. Candidate must:

a. Be a male citizen of the United States married or single.

b. Be not less than eighteen years of age, and have not reached his forty-fifth birthday at the time of enlistment. Students who have not become eighteen years of age will be included in quotas assigned to colleges provided that they agree in writing to enlist in the Army Enlisted Reserve Corps upon reaching the age of eighteen. The number of such students in each institution will not exceed 20 percent of the total quota for the first-year men.

c. Agree to serve in the Army for the duration of the war and six months thereafter unless sooner terminated by the President.

d. Be educationally, morally, physically, and psychologically qualified for appointment to an officer candidate school in accordance with prescribed standards.

e. Be accepted by and actually in attendance on the campus of an accepted college as a regularly enrolled full-time resident undergraduate student at the time of enlistment. Upon graduation from college a student enlisted in the Enlisted Reserve Corps who is especially qualified for necessary advanced study or research work considered essential to the war effort may be recommended by the institutional authorities to continue his studies.

f. Not have received his notice of induction from a local draft board at the time of his enlistment.

Operation of the Enlisted Reserve Corps Plan

1. In each institution there will be a faculty mmeber specially designed by the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy who will be the official representative of the Army and Navy in all matters pertaining to the Enlisted Reserve Corps programs.

2. Enlistment in the Enlisted Reserve Corps will not alter the regulations in effect covering the operation of the Re-

Open Houses To Present View Of Fraternity Life

Date And Time To Be Announced Soon

On Monday, September 28, the Greek-letter fraternities will commence their annual member drive. Open houses will be held at all fraternities Monday through Friday. Frosh will visit the various houses according to the schedule published below. All freshmen are asked to observe this schedule carefully, and follow its directions.

At a date and time to be announced soon all freshmen are required to report to the gymnasium, at which time they will receive their open house bids. A $1.00 tax will be imposed upon all freshmen and all non-fraternity men accepting invitations to fraternity open houses. This tax will cover the fraternities cost of entertaining the freshmen. These open houses will be held on the following Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, October 5, 6 and 7.

The committee for the control of rushing, which consists of Ralph Kilburn '43, president of the interfraternity meeting; R. E. Hennessy '43, secretary-treasurer; H. C. Vreeland '43; W. J. Benoit '43; and G. E. Little, Jr., '43; with Prof. D. B. Carroll as faculty advisor, will have charge of the execution of the rushing and pledging and will report all infractions of the rules.

Freshmen have been divided into the following groups:

Group 1—Men with last initial A-B
Group 2—Men with last initial C-D
Group 3—Men with last initial E-G
Group 4—Men with last initial H-K
Group 5—Men with last initial L-M
Group 6—Men with last initial N-P
Group 7—Men with last intial R-S
Group 8—Men with last initial T-Z

V. C. A. Delegates To Attend C. V. L. C.

Committees Elected At First Meeting

The members of the V. C. A. Cabinet held their annual Fall Convocation in the Conference Room of the Religious Life Committee, Room 265 Waterman Building. The officers of the Cabinet, and the members of all committees with power to act for the year 1941-42 were present. Prof. R. A. Hall, Executive Secretary for the faculty committee on religious life, was present. Prof. M. D. Powers, the V. C. A. faculty adviser, was unable to attend on account of war work.

Conference Delegates

Plans were made to send three delegates and one delegate at large to the Connecticut Valley Leadership Conference which is to be held September 25, 26, and 27, at the Springfield College Freshman Camp, Springfield, Mass. Two alternates were chosen for the delegation.

One look at most of our local associations and church groups and their inadequate resources for the task which faces them in these times of conflict should, without a shadow of doubt, convince us all of the tremendous importance of doing all we can to make the full impact of our tradition and mission felt through our Commission and Cabinet work this year.

Never has there been a period in history or the history of the Student Christian Movement when a greater challenge has faced us. We can be equal to it only if we lay hold of all the spiritual, mental, and physical resources available.

New Committees

Two new committees were chosen and vested by the President with power to act.

The Membership Committee: Alfred Amee, Chairman, and Wendell Harvey, Wendell Earle, and Malcolm Eddy.

Fall Conference Committee: Reginald White, Chairman, Wendell Earle, and Llewellyn Jones.

The Director of Deputations, Reginald S. White, called a meeting of the Deputations Committee for Thursday night of this week.

It may be added that the V. C. A. Cabinet plans to bring to the campus a speaker of international renown as the keynoter of the Fall Conference which will probably be conducted in conjunction with the Y. W. C. A. and the C. C.

The meeting was adjourned after the next date was set for Wednesday of next week.

Fraternity—Interested Frosh to Meet Sat. A.M.

As a preliminary to the official rushing season there will be a special meeting for freshman men Saturday morning at 8.00 in the cage. Military classes will start at 7.00 on this day to enable President Millis and representatives of the various men's houses to address the freshmen. They will give short talks on the general fraternity question. The regular season which starts on Monday will be the same as in past years as outlined in the official rushing rules in the U. V. M. Fraternity Guide with one exception. The usual final banquets will be eliminated. Ralph Kilburn, president of the Interfraternity Council, announces that this governing body has decided that cider and doughnuts will replace the more sumptuous repasts of the last three days of rushing this year.

Dr. Gerald Windt To Visit Vermont

Dr. Gerald L. Wendt, formerly dean of the School of Chemistry at Pennsylvania State College, later director of science exhibits at the New York World's Fair, and now editor of the science section of Time Magazine, will be on the campus of the University of Vermont September 29, 1942. Arrangements have been made to have Doctor Wendt address students and faculty of the University.

The meeting will be held in the lecture room of the Fleming Museum, Tuesday, September 29 at 4.30 p.m. Doctor Wendt has had broad training in the field of chemistry, and is an able speaker. All interested in scientific work are invited to attend.

The Vermont Cynic

VOL. 61 SEPTEMBER 25, 1942 NO. 2

Throughout the State of Vermont there is a campaign being carried on to gather blood for the Vermont Blood Plasma Bank. Previous to the actual gathering of the blood it is necessary for the Bank to obtain funds to set up the mechanism and to maintain it for the duration of the war. Prof. Paul D. Evans, History Department head at the University of Vermont, is heading the drive and he has suggested the idea of contacting all the colleges in Vermont and to sound out their views and ideas on setting a certain day in the middle of October for the procurement of a small amount from each student for the maintenance of the Bank. Professor Evans and his committees have raised a large sum, but practically all of this is used in the purchase of the equipment used to obtain and process the plasma; thus it has been suggested that a number of funds be set up for maintaining the Bank. Recently, the Vermont American Legion, the Vermont D. A. R., and the Vermont Public Schools, primary as well as secondary, started funds for this purpose. To add to these funds, we believe it the duty of all Vermont College Students to give a small sum to such a fine cause.

Professor Evans wishes to impress upon all students that this is not a purely Burlington or U. V. M. affair. The mechanism of the Bank is located in Burlington merely because there are only three registered pathologists in Vermont, and all three are in Burlington, and because the University of Vermont Medical College has offered the services of their pathologist plus a room, both free of charge. The plasma will be processed in Burlington, and then distributed to all the hospitals of the state.

Maintenance of the Bank totals about $3,000 per year. This money goes to a technician, his aide and miscellaneous expenses. It is part of this $3,000 that we hope can be raised by Vermont colleges.

To Get More Kick Out of Gasoline

Austin, Tex. (ACP).—To cram war-important aviation gasoline with greater power and "kick," elaborate chemical engineering experiments are under way at the University of Texas.

The research has as its ultimate end finding better ways to design gasoline cracking plants, and every day Dr. W. A. Felsing, chemistry department head, and his assistants are literally wedging apart the various components of airplane fuel.

As a result of the research, Felsing and his workers will soon know the behavior of aviation gasoline and its components under all sorts of conditions.

Purpose of the investigation of pressure and volume relationships of the fuels at high temperatures is to get data to correlate the physical properties of the hydrocarbons with their structure. The data may prove helpful in designing new distillation and fractionation plants to turn out better gasoline for Uncle Sam's defense aircraft.

W. A. A. Plans Picnic On Redstone Campus

Tuesday, September 22, the Women's Athletic Association held a meeting to formulate the plans for the coming year. It was decided that a picnic take the place of the W. A. A. Boatride held in past years. This is scheduled for the night of October 6 out in back of Redstone Campus. Hot dogs and the usual fare will be served at a nominal fee. Here is a chance for the upper class girls to really get to know the freshmen and vice versa.

Miss Peggy Palmer '44 is in charge of the preparations for the big affair, and Miss Mary Quinn '44 has the food arrangements under her able guidance.

Enlisted Reserve

serve Officers' Training Corps in those colleges where units are now established.

3. Subject to the possible call to active duty by the Secretary of War as the necessity of war demands, all students are deferred until the completion of the normal four-year college course, provided that they maintain a satisfactory academic standing, maintain normal academic progress, and attain a rating above the prescribed level in the qualifying examination which will be given near the end of the sophomore year.

4. Explanation of the above:

a. The academic standing of each student will be reported at the end of each grading period of the college and those students who fail to pass their courses at the level, as to quality and in the amount of credit hours prescribed as the minimum standard by the individual college, will be subject to immediate call to active duty.

b. No student may remain in college beyond a four-year period of time.

(1) Those pursuing an accelerated program will be called to active duty at the completion of this program. In those colleges where both accelerated and normal programs are offered, either may be elected by Enlisted Reserve Corps enrollees.
(2) Students who are not enrolled as full-time resident students under regular or cooperative programs are not eligible for enlistment in the Enlisted Reserve Corps program.
(3) Students enrolled under a full-time cooperative plan are eligible for enlistment in the Enlisted Reserve Corps.
(4) The amount of time which a student may remain in college shall be the normal time, within the four-year maximum, specified to meet the requirements of graduation for the class in which he is currently registered at the time of his enlistment.

c. A qualifying examination will be given to all students near the end of their sophomore year. This examination may not be taken more than once. Those students who do not meet the standards established by this examination are to be called to active duty as enlisted men at the close of the term or semester in which enrolled. Nevertheless, if they thereafter demonstrate sufficient qualifications, they may be chosen for vacancies in officer candidate schools on the same basis as any other enlisted men.

5. Students who withdraw from college during their course of study will be ordered to active duty in the Army in their enlisted status. Colleges will report to the Commanding General of the service command each student who withdraws or is dropped from the college rolls. It is permissible for Enlisted Reserve Corps enrollees to transfer from one college to another.

Selection of Student for Enlistment in the Enlisted Reserve Corps

1. Where otherwise qualified, the selection of students for the Enlisted Reserve Reserve Corps will be based on scholastic records and demonstration qualities of leadership.

2. If institutions have R. O. T. C. units, the selection will be made by the Professor of Military Science and Tactics in conjunction with the institutional authorities. Students will be selected without regard to enrollment in the R. O. T. C. except that enlistment in the Enlisted Reserve Corps is made a prerequisite to enrollment in the R. O. T. C. advanced course for students who are not already under contract.

3. In institutions not having R. O. T. C. units, selection will be made by the institutional authorities.

4. Appropriate service command quotas will be made for enlistment of college students in the Reserve of the Army. Each commanding general of a service command will allot quotas to each college and junior college on the accepted list of the Army on the basis of male student enrollment in the accepted colleges and junior colleges within his service command.

The quota referred to above in paragraph 4 of "Selection of students" has been established for the University as follows:

Sophomores	56
Juniors	39
Seniors	35
Total	206

"Parade Magazine" Shoots Scenes in Vt. Sorority House

Parade Magazine chose the U. V. M. campus for a background for a pictorial story on sorority rushing. Wednesday and Thursday, September 9 and 10, the Pi Phi House was the scene of "shooting" for the story.

Peggy Durfee '44 was chosen to play the part of the bewildered freshman being put through the ordeal of rushing and pledging. The script by no means depicted rushing as it actually is carried on here, in fact, to our U. V. M. way of thinking, some of it was exceedingly fantastic.

The story centered about Peggy, and nine other U. V. M. girls served as models, representing other members by the sorority and rushee group.

James Gordan, a Columbia graduate and former Associated Press reporter, prepared the script and chose the models. He had an interesting story to tell about having been in London at the time of the "blitz."

Nita Leena, who "shot" the scenes, is also a photographer for Life magazine. She was young, blonde and rather Bohemian-looking. Actually, she came here from Russia and spoke with a delightful Russian accent.

She had, as her assistant, a young apprentice photographer who had arrived very recently in this country, from France. He too was Russian by birth, but had spent his life, prior to coming to this country, in France.

Parade Magazine is a pictorial magazine similar to Life, Look, Pic and other magazines of that category.

Those modeling other than Peggy were: "Sis" Lynch '43; Janice Preston '45; Phyllis Savage '43; Ita Casey '44; Ruth Jordan '45; Justine Whalen '44; Barbara Fiske '45; Lorraine Guild '45; and Marion Byrnes '43.

U. V. M. Enrollment Decreases Little

The latest poll of regularly enrolled students in the four colleges of medicine, arts and sciences, agriculture and engineering at the University of Vermont shows a count of 1,173. The figures, according to the office of the registrar, are not complete, but it is impossible that late entrants will materially change the numbers and study trends.

Last year the number in the four colleges stood at 1,277, making a total drop this year, despite war casualties, of only 104, or slightly less than ten percent, with late enrollments still coming in. Most of the decrease occurred in agriculture, home economics, education and business.

This year's loss of 104 is entirely accounted for by the two lower classes. The juniors and seniors have returned with a slight increase in numbers over the corresponding classes last year. The sophomore class on the other hand, is smaller by some twenty-five percent than the sophomore class of last year, and the freshman enrollment is down about ten percent. The men, contrary to expectations, still outnumber the women.

The registration in the College of Medicine and the College of Arts and Sciences remains about the same as last year. Because of a regrouping of the courses in arts and sciences, it is difficult to follow the registration shifts, but it is known that the chemistry enrollment exhibits a marked gain.

The engineering courses, another war-emphasized demand, also picked up enough additional freshmen this year to give the College of Engineering a ten percent increase over last fall's figures and the largest freshman registration in twenty years.

All those interested in doing advertising work for the CYNIC, contact Julius Goldberg either at Tau Epsilon Phi House or call 2565.

Experience is not required—Males not subject to immediate draft may apply.

A joint Corps Area Board representing the Army, Navy and Marine Corps will visit the University in September or October for the purpose of presenting the opportunities in the various branches offered to college students.

Faculty Service Adviser.

Sorority Notes

ALPHA CHI OMEGA

The Alpha Chis have various and sundry announcements.

Barbara Hall '44 passed chocolates Monday night to announce her engagement to Mark Howe.

Phyllis Pierce '43 and Faith Prior '43 are spending some time at the Home Management House. Mrs. Prior's husband is caring for their home during her absence.

The following people were involved in matrimony during the summer:

Lillian Aronson '42 and Lt. Donald Sheldon '42.

Miriam Fiske '42 and Lt. Elliot Hawkins '39.

Lucy Pike '43 and Stuart Anderson '39.

ALPHA XI DELTA

Dorothy McCormick '42 and James Roberts, a member af Alpha Tau Omega, were married August 8.

Lorraine Carver '41 and Peter Bliss were married on September 5.

The Alpha Xis expect to attend the football game Saturday.

DELTA DELTA DELTA

Ann Remington Boyden passed chocolates at the meeting Monday night to announce her summer engagement and fall wedding to Lt. Norman J. Boyden, Jr.

Peggy Flint '43 served ice cream and cookies to announce her engagement to Robert Howard ex-'44.

Myrtle Raymond '42 visited at the House last week-end.

The whole Tri-Delt House is in an uproar. Betty Hawkinson has lost a brown billfold with a considerable amount of money and she doesn't know where to find it. Leave it alone and it will come home, dragging her license behind it.

PI BETA PHI

The chapter is sponsoring a tea Sunday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Rutledge, the new house mother.

KAPPA ALPHA THETA

The following were united in marriage during the summer:

Janet Dike '43 and Lt. Gilman Rood '41.

Janet Rust '42 and Lt. Hazen Wood '42.

Lieutenant Rood is a member of the United States Marine Air Corps and Lieutenant Wood is in the United States Army.

A shower will be held at the Theta House Thursday night for Katherine Holden '42 who will be married to Mr. Charles Helfrich on Saturday.

Harriers Train For Union Duel

Schenectady Meet First For Cat Squad

Varsity Coach Archie Post is getting his Green and Gold track team into shape efficiently and quickly for the first match with Union October 3. All the runners are working hard and waiting impatiently for the starting gun of the season. Among the large number of men who have turned out for practice are newly eligible freshmen and quite a group of seniors. The team has a good backbone consisting of Captain Bud Hoyt '43, Merle Crown '43, Johnny Buttles '43, "Erny" St. Mary '43, McLaren '44, Johnny Corliss '44, R. Mershon '45, E. Andrews '45, and H. Goodell '45. The rest of the men who have shown promise in the past, have greatly improved their running ability although they have still far to go.

Coach Post remarked that cross-country running is one of the phases for conditioning men in Army, Navy and Marine Corps. He knows that such exercise among civilians not only keep them fit but also builds stamina and quality of being able to take it. This as we all know is essential to the war effort. Coach Post also pointed out that he welcomes anyone for the cross-country team because it is the best way to condition oneself for other sports. The men out for the team are as follows:

Captain Bud Hoyt, '43, Duncan Corliss '43, Merle Crown '43, "Butch" Earley '43, Len Harrington '43, E. St. Mary '43, Daan Zwick '43, Dick Clark '43, Mart McLaren '44, Johnny Corliss '44, Curt Webster '44, Ronny Mershon '45, "Hoty" Pearl '45, D. Divine '45, E. Andrews '45, H. Goodell '45, Bobby Ker '45, Howdy Bryden '45.

Among the freshmen are many men of varsity caliber. The list of freshmen are as follows:

Dick Lepper, Paul Zamzok, Paul Pascal, Howard Lyon, Al Plante, John Fitzsimonds, Bob Arms, Charlie Orr, Art Clifford, Morris Wilcox, Earl Norem, Deane Milligan, Dick Keefe.

Kadzis and Soph Trio In Starting Backfield

Martin Eligible to Team With Beaulieu, La Pointe

By PHIL ROBINSON

Tomorrow afternoon the curtain rolls back on another U. V. M. football season, and around these hours tomorrow afternoon, there will be a story to tell, either one of victory or one of defeat, depending on how much leather Fuzzy Evans' lads are able to pass around between 2 o'clock and the shades of late afternoon.

Reputedly, Rhode Island State is one of the strongest, if not the strongest club that the Cats will face this fall. And it is also no new story that the Rams have plenty of power in the air and on land as well.

The big point, and possibly the deciding factor in the whole setup will be the performance that Evans' running backfield will unfold. With Chick LaPointe, Norm Beaulieu, Pete Kadzis, and Monk Martin due to start for the Green and Gold flock, the paying gentry may well watch for some fancy stepping from the home forces.

All the same, the Rams will not be standing by if pre-game dope holds true to form. The Rhode Island State club has a lad by the name of Toby Coates that will bear watching well. Coates is the ace backfield man for the Rams, and if his injured back is healed sufficiently, he'll be one of the main cogs in the invader's machine.

According to all advance predictions, the gate should be appreciatively bigger than the formerly signed Hofstra crew would have drawn. The little Long Island College hashed its complete gridiron schedule due to wartime conditions.

In case Barry is still troubled with the cold he contracted earlier in the week, freshman Don Murphy from Bellows Falls will get the call at the end spot.

In the backfield it will be LaPointe and Beaulieu at halves; Kadzis, another freshman at full, and Martin at the quarter slot.

In addition to these men, diminutive but speedy Johnny Reed, Mickey Cochran Ed O'Connell, Bob Bloomer aid freshman Ernie Bushway are scheduled for replacements.

Vermont Campus Undergoes Changes; Dorms Remodeled

Northeast Airlines, Inc. Takes Over Converse For Pilot Trainees

The summer has brought many changes to the Vermont campus, especially to the women's dormitories. The largest and perhaps most important change is the opening of Elmwood Hall at 203 South Willard Street, the former residence of President Bailey. The building has been remodeled and redecorated to house nineteen girls in single and double rooms. The dormitory has been leased to Mrs. Ann Underwood, who has in the past successfully operated Gates House.

New Dining Service

At Grassmount the dining service has been discontinued, and the space formerly occupied by the kitchen and dining hall has been redecorated and remodeled to provide single and double rooms for eleven girls. The girls of Roberts House and Grassmount are now provided with dining facilities in the Waterman Building.

Under a special appropriation from the Building and Grounds Committee of the Board of Trustees, Allen House, on the corner of Prospect and Main Streets, is being painted. When the painters, who are now at work, are finished Allen House will be colonial yellow with brown trimmings. The other women's dormitories have had their share of new paper and paint too.

Twenty students enrolled in the Air Glider Training course are housed in North Converse, and, according to an agreement with Northeast Airlines, Inc., room and board wil be provided to approximately 150 Airlines students in North and Middle Converse early in the fall. This leaves only South Converse open to Vermont students.

A central storeroom for apparatus and chemicals has been established on the second floor of Williams Science Hall. Formerly there was a stock room located in each laboratory but now all apparatus must be obtained from the one room. The space in Science Hall which has been vacated by the Engineering Department has been converted into offices for the Chemistry Department.

Library Moved

The library of the Experiment Station has been removed from Morrill Hall to the Waterman Library and to the Billings Library. The former library is to be used as locker and rest rooms for the women students in the College of Agriculture, particulary those taking Home Economics. A Dietetics Laboratory has been set aside on the first floor of Morrill Hall, but, because of priorities, there has been a delay in securing equipment and it is not expected to be in operation before second semester. On the third floor a laboratory has been provided for clothing and related arts.

In the "Old Mill" the Secretarial Department has more space, and the fourth floor rooms have been assigned to the band and orchestra as practice rooms.

The routine summer paint and clean-up jobs have been completed such as the white trimmings on the Science Hall and the "Old Mill," but have you noticed perhaps the greatest improvement of all? The doors on the "Old Mill" have been painted dark green. No longer must we enter the portals of knowledge through sick looking pea soup green doors. All in all the summer has brought many pleasant changes to U. V. M.

Vt. Students Invited To Methodist Group

Welcome! All freshmen and upperclassmen. Come to the Methodist Manse Sunday night for the opening meeting of the Methodist College Group at 7.30.

The new officers for the year:

President—Reginald White.

Vice-President—Duncan Corliss.

Secretary-Treasurer—Wendell Earle.

Various committees will be there to greet you and make you at home.

You will find interesting speakers, inspiring devotions, music and refreshments.

Collegium to Meet

A reorganized Collegium is to meet at the College Street Church next Sunday at 7.30, under the leadership of Prof. Robert E. Long. Latest reports are that Freshman Night is to be observed, and a cordial invitation is extended to all freshmen to attend.

Vt. Security Drive Ends Successfully

Total Sum of $260,000 Is Matched by State

The day of September 16, 1941, will long remain a memorable day in the minds of those whose interest in the University of Vermont caused them great concern over her financial status. This was a little over a year ago. Six days prior to that date, on Wednesday, September 10, the State Legislature met to wrestle with the problems of the University's financial conditions. On Tuesday, September 16, as if to encourage a feeling of renewed confidence for the opening day of the new scholastic year, the Legislature passed an act destined to arouse the alumni and friends of the University to help in the financial rehabilitation of the institution, and at the same time, promised the University considerable financial aid from the State itself.

All that was one full year ago. The spontaneous mass celebration of students and faculty alike upon the announcement of the enactment of the bill, the enthusiasm shown at the Security Fund Campaign "kick-off" banquet, and the plans, purposes, and hard work of Lowell H. Brammer and Orville Dahl, co-directors of the Security Fund Campaign, have not been unanswered. In an examination of the program prescribed by the Legislature, thus far total success is indicated. The grant of $260,000 to the University for the fiscal year 1942-43, promised under the condition that the University's friends and alumni contribute an equal amount, has been realized. The University Security Fund Campaign raised the required $150,000 in cash for operating expenses, which the state matched; in addition, another $110,000, also in gifts and pledges to the Security Fund will be matched by the State.

This total of $260,000, raised by the University from the generous gifts of those interested in her, has been matched dollar for dollar by the State. It is not, however, the total of the amounts received or pledged to the Security Fund drive. Including the $150,000 for operating expenses and the $110,000 further match-money from the State the grand total to date for the Security Fund drive is $313,000. Of this amount $27,000 was raised on the campus from faculty, administration, workers, students, and $83,000 in Burlington and Chittenden County. This represents the intensive portion of the campaign, which began this spring, reached its climax at the first deadline of June 30, 1942, and is still continuing. The goal of the entire drive, which ends on June 30, 1943, is $400,000, as set by President Millis in his initial plans for the campaign.

The remainder of the program, which is under the direction of Proctor H. Page, a member of the steering committee, and Professor Kidder, in charge of its administration, will have the task of collecting the outstanding pledges and receiving the periodic reports of the nation-wide committees which are still working in their localities.

Aggie Club Chooses Merle Cronin President

The Aggie Club held a successful meeting at the student lounge, Tuesday evening. Nearly forty members, both students and faculty, attended.

The following newly elected officers performed their duties: President, Merle Crown; vice-president, Robert Fitzsimmons; secretary, Wendell Earle, and treasurer, Wilson Beebe. Interesting features of the meeting were discussions by Dean Carrigan concerning changes being made in Morrill Hall for the benefit of Home Ec students, and Mr. Slack's discussion of plans for the agricultural students' new reading room.

After the business meeting, refreshments of chocolate milk and cookies were served.

VOL. 61 BURLINGTON, VERMONT, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 29, 1942 NUMBER 3

Student Gov't Hold Dance for Univ. Service Men

Cafeteria Scene of Event Held to Send Cynic to Men in Forces

A successful dance was given in the cafeteria Saturday evening with the unusual purpose of raising money to send the CYNIC to those Vermont men who left school to enter the service. Thirty-seven dollars was taken in. The cosmopolitan crowd featured the bird-men, of course, with additional attractions in the form of men from Rhode Island State, Norwich, Middlebury and St. Michael's. All you who missed the event have no doubt heard by now the number of shake-ups observed. But of course a fraternity pin loses its luster if worn in the cold.

Professor and Mrs. Witham were the chaperones and the dance was under the direction of June Hoffman '43.

Religious Leaders Go to Springfield

Conference to Open Late Friday Afternoon

Saturday Night Festivities

Accompanists for Glee Club Needed

Rehearsals Take Place Three Days Each Week

All persons interested in accompanying the College Glee Club, violin and vocal lessons should report to the Music Building, 70 Williams Street, October 2, at 4 p.m. If the candidates have music they should bring it with them. People unable to come at this time should inform the Music Department by telephone 2810.

Rehearsals—Week of September 28

Tuesday—
7.00-8.00 p.m.—Choir, Chapel.

Wednesday—
10.00 a.m.—Choir, Chapel.
7.00 p.m.—Men's Glee Club, Music Building.
7.30 p.m.—Mixed Glee Club, Music Building.
8.00 p.m.—Women's Glee Club, Music Building.

Thursday—
7.00-8.00 p.m.—Choir, Chapel.

There will be an important meeting of all CYNIC scrubs tonight, at 7.30 p.m., in Room 259, Waterman Building.

All those people wanting to scrub the CYNIC are expected to attend. Assignments will be made at that time.

Schedule of October Dances Shifts a Bit

There's been some changes made in the schedule of the Saturday night dances for the next few weeks. First because fraternity rushing does not end until the week of October 5, Interfraternity Dance has been postponed until October 10, the original date for Mortar Board. Mortar Board will be the following week, on October 17. Key and Serpent dance has been brought up to October 3. As yet the plans for the Key and Serpent dance are a secret but a novelty setting is expected.

The revised schedule is as follows:

Key and Serpent October 3, Interfraternity October 10, and Mortar Board October 17.

Cynic Staff Promotes Reporters and Scrubs

By way of encouragement to all those hardworking CYNIC reporters and scrubs of last year, the following promotions are announced by George Little, editor:

Reporter to news editor, Jean Sprague and Rose Woodard '43; Pat Crowley, Sylvia Runnals, Elinor Nolan, Florence Levin, Alison Carr, Marilyn Eimer, Phyllis Fein, Margaret Fake, Ruth True, Ita Casey, Margaret Lillie, Ester Gustafson all '44; Stephen Moore, Katharine Perry, Rose Eisman, Bernice Lieberman, David Frank all '45.

The following scrubs are promoted to reporter: Edna Gates, Cleone Riggie, Trude Sherman all '44; Judy Marquis, Glendeen Samuelson, Joyce Byington, Mary Ashe and Frances Donahue all '45.

Present Day Students Carry On as did those of 1917-18

I've been reading an account of the University's part in the Great War of 1914-18 as published by the War Service Committee of the University of Vermont. It seemed to me a rather timely topic and I thought some of the information I picked up would interest you.

One of the first moves toward preparedness was the Students' Instruction Camp held on our campus in the summer of 1914. Three hundred and fifty young men from institutions located in over 20 states besides Vermont were enrolled when the war was precipitated by the murder of Archduke Ferinand.

Company C

In the spring of 1916 Company C of the University battalion answered President Wilson's call for National Guard units to be sent for active duty on the Mexican border. Commencement exercises were interrupted to give the company a hearty send-off. The fine record turned in by Company C earned for the University a place in the "distinguished" class announced by the War Department as a college excelling in military drill and the study of military science. In 1916 the University battalion was organized as a branch of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps.

January, 1917, saw an agreement of the country's medical schools, including Vermont's Medical College, which put into existing curricula a course especially adapted to medical, sanitary and surgical training for the army and navy.

An enthusiastic meeting of virtually every man in college was called on April 5, 1917. Resolutions were unanimously adopted which included military drill for Juniors and Seniors; continued athletic and social activities until such time as they might interfere with University military preparations; and a resolution to refrain from volunteering for any service individually or collectively until after consultation with President Benton and Capt. S. A. Howard, Commandant.

Pres. Benton

President Benton was the great leader of U. V. M. from 1911 to 1919. He met with the women of the University in the chapel on April 5 and appointed a committee under Prof. Bertha M. Terrill to work with a committee of women students to direct the efforts of the college women toward preparedness. Seventy percent of the women enrolled in classes arranged by Captain Howard.

Practically all the student body of the Carnegie Room Opens; Program for Friday

The University Carnegie Room will be open Monday through Thursday afternoons from 2 to 5 p.m.; Saturday morning from 9 to 12 a.m.; Monday and Friday evenings from 7 to 9 p.m.

On Friday afternoons at 4 p.m. the Music Department plans to have a planned program of recorded music. This Friday, October 2, the program will consist of Beethoven's Fifth Symphony and Act 2 from Prince Igor by Borodin.

Engineers' Honor List Made Known

Summer Quarter Results In High Marks for Some

Heading the summer quarter's first honor list in the College of Engineering at the University of Vermont, with average grades of 95 or better, are D. L. Clark, a junior, from Waitsfield, and H. E. Crossley, another junior from Burlington. Both of these men have been consistent placers on the list during their college course.

Attaining an average of 92.5 or higher are F. R. Marshall of North Adams, Mass., another consistent performer, and H. W. Jones of Burlington. Marshall is a senior and Jones a junior.

Four men attained average grades of 89 or better. Two of them, M. C. Blodgett, a sophomore from St. Johnsbury, and M. L. Riggs, a senior from Richmond, have made former lists. The others are R. W. Bennett of Orleans and R. F. O'Grady of Essex Junction, both juniors.

In the 85 to 89 group are 11 seniors, five juniors and two sophomores. The seniors are: W. T. Chapin, Essex Junction; O. R. Clark, Barre; R. C. Darling, Campello, Mass.; A. B. Delano, Shoreham; R. W. Earley, Burlington; J. P. Hoyt, Milton; R. B. Newton, Hyde Park; W. J. Stetson, Colchester; M. F. Stevens, Island Pond; R. S. Stockwell, Hartford, and J. H. Tennien, Pittsford. The juniors are: B. D. Barry, Methuen, Mass.; C. E. Carver, Jr., South Hero; M. L. McLean, Jamaica; W. H. Page, Hyde Park; and J. W. Reed, Oakfield, N. J., while the two sophomores who complete the list are M. L. Eddy, Burlington, and M. J. O'Grady, Essex Junction.

Is Your Snapshot Worth $5 to You?

How many students at U. V. M. are interested in winning $5.00? For the best picture or snapshot, judged on photographic merit and campus interest, the sum of $5.00 and even more, according to the number of students who participate, will be given. The pictures are to be candid, group shots illustrating typical Vermont students in some interesting college activity. All pictures with their negatives (both signed by owner on margin) are to be given to George Jean Holden or Barbara Lane before November 1. The judges, who will be chosen from members of the faculty, will be announced next week. All pictures will automatically become the property of the CYNIC and the Ariel.

Student Union Will Hold Mass Meeting

The first Mass Meeting of the year will be held Wednesday evening at 7.30 at Southwick. Attendance is compulsory for all college women living under Student Union Rules. It is through these four mass meetings a year that the women students at Vermont may come directly in contact with their own government. Installation of House Committees on the campus will take place Wednesday night.

Y. W. Mass Meeting To Follow Supper Held at Southwick

300 Members Enrolled in Drive Last Friday; Three-fold Plan Formed

On Tuesday night, September 29, there will be a supper at Southwick at 6 o'clock for all the members of the college Y. W. C. A. The supper will be followed by the annual Y. W. mass meeting. Even though they may not be able to attend the supper, it is an urgent request that all Y. W. C. A. members attend the Mass Meeting, which is at 7.30 o'clock in Southwick.

The membership drive of the organization was held in the Waterman Building on Friday, September 25, and resulted in the enrollment of more than 300 members. The Y. W. C. A. has always been the largest campus organization, except for Student Government, which was instituted last year. The supper, which culminates the drive this year, is in charge of Ruth Burnell '43 and Penelope Easton '44. All members who eat in college dining halls will not be taxed for the meal, but members from outside the University dining rooms will be asked for a small charge.

The mass meeting after the supper will be held in order to acquaint the new Y. W. C. A. members with the aims of the organization and its program for the coming year. The 1942-43 activity plan is three-fold, including work with the Girls' Service Organization, war relief knitting, and Religious Life activities. There is no other campus organization devoted entirely to assistance in these fields, and there is a great need for the accomplishment of the work the Y. W. C. A. is fitted to do, especially at this time. Each member is seriously urged to attend the supper and mass meeting, particularly the mass meeting on Tuesday night in Southwick.

Outing Club Joins With Local Hikers

Dauntless Swimmers Brave the Downpour

In spite of Heil and high water, the Outing Club is off to a successfull start this year. War has knocked the tires from under transportation plans for mountain hikes, and Sunday's rain gave many would-be hikers cold feet, but fools still rush in where angels fear to tread.

The scheduled hike to Butler Lodge for which eighty-three persons signed up was changed, after Hiking Chairman Bob Waldo ran into too many obstacles put up by OPC, ODT, WPB and the rest of the Washington alphabet. Special transportation is now impossible to get for pleasure purposes. So a new outing was cooked up by Daan Zwick and Cleveland Denton, with the cooperation of the Burlington Section of the Green Mountain Club. Seventeen foolhardy drips slipped and swam their way through all sorts of water to Colchester Point where they found shelter in the camp of Miss Persis Holden. A fire, food, songs, and a nameless brew prepared by Frances Donahue made life worth living. Thus fortified, four people went swimming—and swore that they enjoyed it—and a square dance was perpetrated. The freshmen obligingly cleaned up the camp, and the group sloshed home. The outing was a success. Mother Nature poured, and everyone was simply diluted.

VOL. 61 SEPTEMBER 29, 1942 NO. 3

Things Are Looking Up

During the past two years there was talk, and some attempts at action to solve a problem which was surely felt by all of us. We called it a lack of school spirit—rather vaguely. The source of trouble was variously placed. A few loudly blamed athletic teams—from a safe distance. Many blamed themselves, the student body—or corpse as it was then. Some bowed faculty heads still further by placing blame there. But we all noticed that "something smelled around here."

We were attending what the Catalog said was a University, yet we felt around us an atmosphere either of a correspondence school, or a country club. The physical plant of the University was expanded greatly, but educational and spiritual aspects were woefully neglected. A few solitary voices and isolated hands worked for a while for a real University—and died a futile death. For active leadership was missing.

In last spring's Kake Walk skits, the Delts portrayed us as an unhappy, dispirited lot. They put the cause on finance—or a lack of it. And they solved the trouble through the arrival of Abou ben Millis and a Good Angel who soared (well, slid) down to shower shekels into our coffers. Simple as that.

However, money is neither the cause of nor the solution to this problem. Oh, it helps. But the problem of school spirit is one of unifying and integrating us into a University. Of inspiring in us the sense that we are a part of a whole greater than ourselves. Of supplying intangible abstractions: faith, ideas, and ideals concrete enough to survive wars and time.

With the arrival of Abou (pardon) President Millis we have a man who sees the problem, and a leader capable of solving it. In instituting frequent and forceful convocations of the whole University, President Millis is going a long way towards our goal. Getting us together—all of us—in one assembly is in itself an aid to unity. We see professors and students whom we never saw before. Which is nice. (Even if we could see only the back of her head.)

More important, we are exposed to words and ideas which should start us thinking together. Thoughts different from our routine studies and petty problems. We are beginning to feel and act as a University. We are beginning even more to feel the leadership we have. It may not be so obvious to underclassmen, but to us of '43 (pre-acceleration) who attended almost three years of college without seeing or hearing our President, a real leader is not that "something new which has been added," but something which should have been there all along.

To Cap It Off

Boulder men wear caps. Key and Serpent men wear caps. Gold Key has blossomed forth with what they call a hat. But what about the freshmen? At first the green caps were where they should be—on every Frosh head. Then they began appearing in back pockets. Now the only way you can tell some Frosh is by the dumb look on their faces.

There is purpose and tradition behind those green caps. There should be Frosh under them.

Fraternity Notes

PHI DELTA THETA

Professor and Mrs. Briggs chaperoned the tea dance Saturday from 5 until 8 o'clock.

Last Sunday the following men were initiated into the fraternity: Larry Lyerly, Mickey Cochran, Lewis Codding, Whit Switzer, and Dick Flynn.

Hal Mayforth spent the week-end of the 19th at the House.

PHI SIGMA DELTA

Professor and Mrs. Long chaperoned the successful tea dance last Saturday afternoon. Members on the committee were: Stanley Feldman, Stanley Fieber, Paul Schonberg, and Hermon Thomas.

Bernard Glass ex-'43 passed chocolates to announce his engagement to Faye Lippman '43.

Curley Glass passed out.

A fraternity secret prevented another item from being told.

DELTA PSI

The Delts have been slowly adjusting themselves to the grind of college and house life and in the midst of it all they pledged Charles Preston '44 who has been away at the East Point Military School in the West.

Everything from formals to slacks were milling around at the tea dance Saturday afternoon. A seven-piece orchestra was engaged via the Philco dial. Roy Danyow and Ron Mershon were in charge of the affair.

George Little has been greatly worried and troubled with his CYNIC duties and other various activities. To ease his mind. he spent a very sedate evening last Saturday. Contact George himself for further deals. Tel. 741. Wicker and Twitchell were reported in on it also.

The Delt scrap collection amounted to two tons, or thereabouts. It consisted of an old car formerly run by a '23 man, three ice cream signs, and one parking sign with no destination.

KAPPA SIGMA

Professor and Mrs. Witham chaperoned the tea dance Saturday afternoon. The committe consisted of Fred Miller, Warner Black, and Bob Stevenson.

Fred Miller has been elected social chairman for this year.

TAU EPSILON PHI

Tau Epsilon Phi wishes to announce the marriage of Lt. Sumner Firestone '41 to Miss Anita Berman '44.

It is still a deep mystery about the house how Commodore Catastrophe Comen and Roundman Magnus landed on the scrap heap in City Hall Park. Fifth Column activity no doubt.

The house wishes to report that Felsie is bearing up nobly under the strain of seeing the Dodgers slip from the National League lead. He is nightly accorded a rendition of the popular tune "Somebody Else Has Taken First Place" by Herb "Carrot Juice" Robinson and "Sweetie" Ziskind, and promises to wear a black tie for a week if the Cards win the pennant.

Murray Fisher is pleased to report that he has been accepted in the Navy V-7 program.

SIGMA GAMMA

Dorothy Noble '45, Poultney, was married to Gordon McGann of Granville, N. Y,. August 1. They are living in Schenectady, N. Y.

Jessie Swann '41, Danvers, Mass., was married to Groton Chapin of Essex Junction in July.

Laura Douglass '41, Dorset, was married to John Stannard June 25.

Francis Scott Key's Poignant Versus Timely

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

"War, the supreme crisis in the life of a nation, inevitably highlights the expression of patriotism which otherwise is often taken more or less for granted in the easier days of peace. Thus from the present emergency, Francis Scott Key's words of the national anthem derive a new poignancy for Americans. Under such circumstances it is far easier to appreciate the emotion under which Key composed his verses during the siege of Fort McHenry, Baltimore, in 1814. It was upon the success of its defense that the fate of Baltimore depended. When 'by the dawn's early light' Key found confirmation for his hopes, he was inspired to write the verses that have come down to us as the highest expression of American patriotism. Most significant today, however. is the final stanza with its words which Key set down, in his feeling of relief after his night of tension, for the inspiration of future generations of his countrymen. 'Praise the power that hath made and preserved us a nation!' he wrote, and Americans under stress now echo that praise with more fervor, perhaps, than they have for some decades. In the final couplet, moreover, they find themselves at one with the author in his conviction of 100 years ago that, fighting for a just cause and trusting in Divine Providence, 'the star spangled banner in triumph shall wave o'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.'" Dr. C. William Vogel, University of Cincinnati historian, urges restudy of "The Star Spangled Banner" in the light of America's current conflict with the Axis.

Rams Run-up 49 Points In Second Half Debacle

LaPointe, Soph Back, Scores Cat Touchdowns

By PHIL ROBINSON

Completely outpassed, outrushed, and generally outplayed in their initial gridiron battle, Vermont's pigskin toters went to work with a vengeance this afternoon in preparation for the looming Rutgers battle.

Of the 2,500 paying gentry who were on hand for the smashing 70-13 victory by the Rhode Island State stalwarts Saturday, there was not one who would not have been content with the first half score as the final decision. But the Rams were of a different opinion.

At half time the score read 21-13, and loyal Green and Gold fans were inclined to be optimistic about the performance that Fuzzy Evants' lads might uncork following the intermission period, but their hopes were short lived when the downstaters took possession of the ball after Vermont had rolled up two successive first downs.

The Cats' two lone touchdowns were exhibitions of some beautiful broken field running by Chick LaPointe. The first one, engineered soon after Rhode Island had chalked up seven points came by virtue of a 66-yard run by LaPointe. Taking the flip from center on his own 34, the sophomore sensation executed some fancy broken field running to score.

The second Vermont touchdown came in the second quarter. The Vermont club took to the air in this period with Beaulieu tossing 'em up. In all, he tossed four passes for short gains before LaPointe snagged a 15-yard heave with one hand, and stepped over from the five-yard line. Norm booted the extra point; the score read 21-13, and so until half-time.

Vermont was down on the Rhode Island 36-yard line when the Blue warriors took things into their own hands. Dwyer took the leather to the 37-yard stripe, but was stopped virtually for no gain. However, the story of the second play read like this: Cure received the pass from center on his own 37, and skirted the end for a 63-yard run, and six points. McCabe, one of the flashiest point-after kickers that Centennial has witnessed in some seasons came in to convert and the score read 28-13.

From that point, the R. I. gridsters scored almost at will. Rhode Island's second and third touchdowns in the second half came on intercepted Vermont passes. Equello snagged the first one on Vermont's 25-yard line, and in five plays the Blue racked up another six points. The point after was good and the score read, 35-13.

In the early half of the third period, the Cats started a march from their own nine-yard line, and in three plays had garnered a first down. On the second play Kadzis flipped a long one intended for LaPointe, but everyone was there except a Vermont receiver and Topazio hauled it in—roaring across for another tally.

Touchdowns: Vermont, LaPointe (2). [Point after touchdown, Beaulieu.] Rhode Island: Dwyer (3), Cure (2) Grupposo (2); Shannon (1), Topazio (1), Dahl (1). [Point after touchdown, McCabe (8).]

Safety: Miller.

Frat Sports Point to War

Intramurals to Stress Strength, Stamina, Skill

The University of Vermont's Intramural Sports Program has been cut down and streamlined this year to meet the demands of a nation at war. Some sports have been dropped and others perhaps will be if lack of interest warrants it. Athletics which will best strengthen, condition, and harden the men of the University are to be stressed, according to Director of Intramural Sports, Archie Post. These are' touch football in the fall, basketball, indoor track, and handball in the winter, and softball and track in the spring. Sports such as these require strength, stamina, skill and are most adaptable to a program designed to further the physical prowess of its participants. Others such as tennis are dependent upon the interest shown by the student body. Golf, horseshoes, and badminton have been definitely dropped for the duration.

The inter-fraternity football loop will swing into its fall schedule in the near future with some of the houses already getting into shape for the first games. Although there is no tackling, of course, in this sport there is plenty of contact and it is deemed by Director Post a fine conditioner besides affording many boys who do not play varsity ball an opportunity for the fun and thrills which football offers. He looks forward to another red hot season such as last year's "round-robin" in which the TEP's emerged victorious with the Kappa Sigs in second place.

No tennis is at present being planned by the intramural directors. However, a tournament may be arranged if enough court enthusiasts show sufficient interest in the near future, although fall weather is not ideal for tennis.

Managers will also be needed to scrub intramural sports. This offers a good opportunity to gain proficiency in managership and would be well worth the time and effort of scrubbing.

This year intramural sports will, more than ever, offer the opportunity to every man in school to improve his physical prowess and condition. It is hoped by Director Post and his staff that the program will be popular and worthwhile to all.

Mott Scores In Nationals

His name is Elias Bertram Mott, Jr. But don't let that fool you. Bert, otherwise known as the Galloping Ghost, is just about the most phenomenal man Vermont has ever placed on a cinder path.

In the E. I. A. A. meet at Worcester, Bert defeated Ed Duggar of Tufts in the 220-yard dash. He starred again at Schenectady by placing five times in the Union meet, and went on to take 21 points in the Trinity contest held at Centennial Field.

Mott won the New England A. A. U. 220-yard low hurdle event in the meet run at Boston College Field June 6 and took second in the 100-yard dash finals, scoring eight points for U. V. M.

His showing here encouraged the New England A. A. U. to enter him in the Nationals held at Randalls Islnad, N. Y. This is how Bert stacked up against the country's top runners:

Junior Championships—100-meter dash —fifth, 200-meter low hurdles—fifth.

Senior Championships—200-meter low hurdles—sixth.

Mott's showing netted five points for the Green and Gold, truly amazing for a man who never engaged in competition before entering college.

Track Coach Archie Post, solely responsible for developing Bert's running abilities, now hopes to enter Mott in cross-country this fall. The Cat harriers, weakened by the loss of the Webster boys, face a stiff schedule, so don't say we didn't tell you, when Bert pulls down some firsts among the hill and dalers.

Campus Sing Friday Evening at 7:30

Professor Long to Lead Campus Sing Friday; New Song on Program

Large green and gold posters displayed in various campus spots are announcing the first campus sing of this college year. It will take place this coming Friday evening at 7.30 on the front steps of the Waterman building.

Alfred Amee '43, who has been instrumental in organizing these sings to their present high status, is in charge. Assisting him is Professor Ladd as advisor, and Professor Long will lead the singing.

The University of Vermont Fire Eaters will sing several selections of their own and introduce for the first time the "Old Mill Song," an old Vermont college song. Lights for the front of the Waterman steps are being installed, and there will be plenty of good eating apples for everyone.

Plans for the sings which are to follow this fall and winter include the printing of 500 new song sheets through the courtesy of the Amsco Publishing Company of New York. New posters are being printed, and plans are under way for an extensive Christmas caroling program.

These campus sings have done more than any other activity on the campus to promote college spirit, and they are one of the most popular. Credit goes to those in charge for their interest and work in promoting this activity.

Professor Chapman Named to State Board

The appointment of Robert C. Chapman, associate professor of mechanical engineering at the University of Vermont, to the State Board of Registration for Professional Engineers, was announced today. Professor Chapman, who came to Vermont this year from Duke University, is chairman of his department.

Some 500 students of Louisiana State University have droppped their studies to enter the nation's armed services.

Trenches, barbed wire, rock piles, high walls, ploughed ground and a dozen other obstacles will be put in the path of the University of Vermont's sophomore R. O. T. C. students as they are drilled this fall for future war service.

Wearing regulation blue fatigue suits, the second-year men will harden their muscles and accustom their minds to the work of tummy crawling, fingernail climbing, military toe dancing and downright wiggling during their out-of-door maneuvers around campus this year. Nothing can stop them.

Under the direction of Lt. E. S. Irwin, the class will have more field work than in the past. The obstacle course has been installed during the summer.

The military department this year has several programs under its supervision. The pre-induction training program of the army reserve corps, the regular R. O. T. C. training, and the basic training of the enlisted men in the glider pilot group are part of a day's work.

Prof. A. D. Butterfield, army-faculty advisor, is in charge of the enlisted men in the reserve corps. Under this program, students enlist in the reserve corps and continue in classes in an inactive status. During the school year they take an examination, the results of which determine deferment. Those passing with grades above a certain mark are allowed to remain in school and prepare for entrance to an officers' candidate training school. Those whose rating falls below the standard may be called to active service at any time. They, however, have a chance to choose the branch of service they will enter.

The military department states that there is a shortage of uniform trousers, caps and belts. They are asking all U. V. M. graduates who still own uniforms to donate them to the cause of the war-time R. O. T. C. boys who find the active army using up the uniform cloth before the R. O. T. C. gets officially clothed.

Two new members have been recently added to the military staff. They are Lt. Donald Thayer, a graduate of the University of Vermont in 1941, and First Sgt. Chas. F. Parker.

Pres. Roosevelt Addresses Colleges

Declaring that winning the war will be futile unless the American people are kept prepared to make a lasting and worthy peace," President Roosevelt asserted in a message read here today that "the challenge of the new day for American colleges is very great."

The message was addressed to Everett Case, Colgate University's new president, who was inaugurated today as more than 1,000 persons representing 34 states and the District of Columbia and three Canadian provinces looked on.

"May I take this occasion to extend felicitations to you and to Colgate University," President Roosevelt wrote. "You will no doubt wish to build upon the achievements of Colgate's distinguished past but you will also find problems facing you quite unprecedented in the history of the institution. In a sense, therefore, you will be writing finis to one chapter and starting another.

"The challenge of the new day for American colleges is very great. All our energies at the present must be devoted to winning the war. Yet winning the war will be futile if we do not throughout the period of its winning keep our people prepared to make a lasting and worthy peace.

"This time the peace must be global the same as the war has become global. Around the peace table the voice of the United States will have great weight. It is of tremendous importance that that voice shall represent the aspirations of a people determined that mankind everywhere shall go forward to its destiny. The soul of that destiny is maximum freedom of the human spirit.

"I congratulate you on the great opportunity that is yours and hope that you will find the keenest satisfaction in undertaking the difficult task."

Harlan Fiske Stone, chief justice of the United States, and Joseph Clark Grew, former ambassador to Japan, were among the four men who received honorary degrees at the inaugural program. Both received an honorary doctor of laws degree. Rufus M. Jones, president of the American Friends Service Committee, author of 48 books and professor emeritus of philosophy at Haverford College, received a doctor of humane letters degree, and George D. Stoddard, new commissioner of education and president of the University of the State of New York, received a doctor of letters degree.

Dr. Harold W. Dodds, president of Princeton University; Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, pastor of Riverside Church, New York City; Dr. W. H. Cowley, president of Hamilton College, Clinton, and Mr. Case were among the speakers of the day.

ATTENTION PRESS CLUB MEMBERS—There will be a meeting of the Press Club, Wednesday afternoon, at 4.00 p.m. New members from the freshman and sophomore classes are cordially invited to attend. The meeting will be held in Room 140, Waterman Building.

MARGARET CASSIDY,
President.

Rev. C. S. Jones To Speak Briefly

The Rev. Charles Stanley Jones of the First Congregational Church of Burlington will be the speaker for our second Chapel Service next Wednesday, September 30. The Religious Committee of Student Government wishes to assure all students that the Chapel services will last only twenty minutes, so that Chapel-goers will have plenty of time to reach their fourth hour classes.

University Choir Can Use More Men

Candidates to Report At Music Building

Although the University Choir is no longer paid this year, due to necessary economics, all undergraduate members of last year's choir who are in college are members of this year's choir. Few freshman men have applied, however, and there is a shortage of men in the choir, especially tenors. Additional tryouts for men (freshmen or upper classmen) will be held in the Music Building, 70 Williams Street, Wednesday, September 30, at 4 p.m. Candidates unable to come should notify the Music Department by telephone 2810. The tryouts are simple: candidates sing a familiar hymn and a few scales. The choir sings at the weekly Wednesday morning services, at Sunday afternoon services about once a month, and at the Christmas concert, Lenten-Easter concert (usually an oratorio or other large choral work) and on Founder's Day and on Baccalaureate Sunday. Rehearsals are held on Tuesdays and Thursdays, 7 to 8 p.m.

Stevens Institute of Technology has started the "first emergency course in engineering at the college level" for women.

Present Day Students Carry On

Signal Corps

That summer the University was selected as one of the few institutions for training Signal Corps men for the U. S. Army. The North and South wings of Converse Hall were turned over for the use of the Signal Corps men. A school for radio and buzzer operators was established and a regular telegraph station was set up in the old Medical College building, now the Experiment Station.

President Benton was appointed a member of the permanent committee on Education in May, 1917. In September he sailed for Europe to take charge of Y. M. C. A. work in Paris and to establish canteens at points of embarkation. He had been granted a year's leave of absence by the Board of Trustees. Administration of affairs was placed under the direction of the Board of Deans and Dean Perkins became Acting President

The opening of college was postponed until October 10 and the University Senate voted to discontinue intercollegiate athletic contests. At a meeting held in December, 1917, the Senate voted to omit mid-year and final examinations. They recommended to the Board of Trustees that spring vacation be omitted, closing college on May 6, so that men might be released for service.

Home Economics

The girls of the Home Economics Department volunteered to make a Service flag for the University. This flag which was 10 by 18 feet in size, was dedicated in the Gymnasium. An address was delivered by Congressman Porter H. Dale, recently returned from a visit to European battle fronts.

Following Commencement in 1918 a school for mechanics was established for carpenters, blacksmiths, machinists, and automobile mechanics. The baseball cage became one big garage. Facilities of the Engineering Shops were used for other mechanical work. Many of the men for the new schools were quartered in Middle Converse Hall. Others occupied cots set up in the Gym. Y. M. C. A. rooms were fitted up in the Old Mill and a large room on the first floor of Morrill Hall served as Hostess House. Almost 600 men were enrolled at once in the war schools and several successive classes received these courses of instruction.

Colonel Leonhaeuser, University commandant, assumed command. The campus and buildings became a military post for the time being, with sentries posted and strict military discipline observed. Large barracks, a drill hall a large dining-hall extension on Commons Hall and various other temporary buildings were constructed on the back campus for the use of the men attending the war schools.

Mrs. Hovey Jordan told me about how excited the students were when, shortly after commencement in 1918, the tower of the Old Mill was struck by lightning. The south wing was badly damaged by the fire which broke out. Reconstruction of the building was directed by Comptroller Guy W. Bailey, whom we remember as our beloved late president.

Summer Session

A special summer session was held for Medical seniors making it possible for them to graduate earlier and enter the service.

In late summer and early fall, the terror of influenza spread over the whole country. Physicians and nurses literally worked themselves to death in many instances. The thousands of cases of "flu" in Vermont made it necessary for students of the College of Medicine to be sent out to many stricken communities. College did not open until October 23 due to the epidemic.

In the fall of 1918 the S. A. T. C. or Students' Army Training Corps was instituted. College students became recruits in the army and navy at the same time continuing their academic instruction. Women and disqualified men were also enrolled in courses. The S. A. T. C. members were formally inducted on the front campus in the presence of the Signal School and the Mechanical School. The men were divided into companies and assigned to barracks. The University of Vermont was once again an armed camp, the previous time being during the War of 1812. New barracks had to be built and the fraternity houses were taken over to house the men. When the flu broke out among them, the Sigma Nu and Sigma Phi houses were turned into hospitals.

Lieutenant Disliked

It is told that one of the lieutenants quartered in the Owl house was cordially disliked by all his men. One night, they arranged to put out all the lights just before he came in. When he entered, they grabbed him and mussed him up pretty thoroughly. When he'd had a good beating, they turned on the lights again and "discovered" to their amazement that the victim was none other than their superior.

Mrs. Jordan recalls that a rope was stretched from Morrill Hall past the gym to the Old Mill during the flu quarantine. The men of the S. A. T. C., the Signal Corps and Mechanical School had to remain on their side of the rope. while their families and friends stood a suitable distance back to talk with them.

Forty of the S. A. T. C. men were ordered to an Officers' Training School in Kentucky and several engineering students were sent to the Coast Artillery Officers' Training School. However, in November the S. A. T. C. was discontinued when the Armistice was signed without ever having had a real chance to prove themselves.

A recess was granted from December 13 to January 2 following which college work began as usual—only more so. A full year's work was covered in slightly more than five months.

Many of the S. A. T. C. men and those who had entered the service returned to college. The temporary buildings were razed and after three years of military activity, a civilian atmosphere returned to the campus.

Newman Club Meets Wednesday Morning

A mass meeting of the new Newman Club was held Wednesday morning in the student lounge of the Waterman Building. One hundred and twenty-five Catholic students attended.

Helena Anderson '43 spoke outlining the aims and purposes of the organization. Marjorie Witham '43 as chairman of the religious life committee outlined the plans for promoting religious life on campus as authorized by the President.

Then a brief talk by Joe Corbett '43 was given urging all the men students to do their share in maknig the Newman Club an active participant in the new program.

Another meeting will be held next Wednesday at the same time and place. All are urged and cordially invited to attend again.

Old Stars of University Players to Coach Plays

At a recent meeting of the University Players, honorary dramatic society, the plays and coaches were chosen for the three one-act plays which that society will present on October 23.

"The 12 Pound Look" will be coached by Janet Hackwell, '43, with Wendell Harvey, '43, as her assistant. "Moonshine" will be coached by Helaine Goldberg, '43, with Sylvia Wellwood assisting. And Patty Page, '43, assisted by Patty Pike, '43, will coach "The Last Straw."

On Pilot Training At Vermont in '42

Inside Story Given On Cafeteria Casdnouds

September, 1942, brings many changes to the U. V. M. campus, among them we find the establishment of the Northeast Airlines Pilot Training School in the Waterman Building. By this time the freshmen are all well acquainted with the Waterman Building, but are probably still "in the dark" about the Pilot Training School.

In the spring of this year the training school moved to the University, where a ground school and link training division are now housed. The N. E. A. is now doing war work and consequently cannot publicize the details of its duties, so we will give you a general idea of the nature of its work.

Staffed and equipped to graduate a class of eight controlled flight officers weekly, the Northeast School is a model pilot training center. At present there are about eighty students enrolled, some of whom are commercial students taking cross-country and instructor courses for private reasons. Thus a system of mass training on a staggered plan is each week preparing classes of CFO's who will eventually take their place in the United Nation's non-combatant services.

No women are permitted to take the training in the Northeast School. The N. E. A. student body is composed of men from twenty-one states in the Union, most of them being college graduates. The cost in cash for the training is almost nothing. Each student receives a "wage" during the training period and upon completion of the course he enters into contract with the U. S. government for non-combatant service for one year.

Prospects for expansion of this flying course far beyond anything heretofore contemplated are in the offing—expansion that may create a regional training center with Burlington on the focal point of several airports and subsidiary ground school units!

Thus it is hoped that with the introduction of the Pilot Training School to the University, new horizons for both aviation and institutions of higher education will be born.

Group Talks on Chapel Attendance

The members of Pilgrim Fellowship, the young people's group of the First Congregational Church, enjoyed an informal evening, Sunday, September 27, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jones, 16 S. Winooski Ave. After singing and refreshments had loosened the group a bit, we, with Prof. George Dykhuizen's help, attacked the question concerning student attendance at chapel hour. Professor Dykhuizen put us students in our place by telling us the only reason we didn't attend was because we were too lazy, a fact which is absolutely true. As is true with most discussions, no real decision was reached.

This week Pres. John S. Millis will help to straighten this question out further. Please come, everybody who is interested!

Would You Donate A Quarter to Help Save Human Life?

Prof. Evans Exerts Energy to Establish Blood Plasma Bank

Would you be willing to contribute a quarter to help save a human life? That is the question which Prof. Paul Evans, chairman of the drive for the Vermont Blood Plasma Bank, is asking every college student in the state of Vermont. Professor Evans, dynamic head of the University of Vermont History Department, is exerting his energy and enthusiasm toward establishing the Blood Plasma Bank. After chasing him back and forth across the campus, I finally caught up with him at his home where he was kind enough to spend an hour of his valuable time in explaining this plan to insure Vermont against catastrophe should one of Mr. Hitler's bombers pay us a call.

The Development

"The development of plasma," began Professor Evans, "is one of the greatest medical discoveries in the past decade, comparable to the development of the sulfa drugs." Formerly when a blood transfusion was necessary a donor had to be found with the correct type of blood and the tranfusion given almost immediately because blood cannot be preserved more than a few days. Wholesale blood transfusion, as would be necessary after a bombing or similar catastrophe, would be virtually impossible under these old conditions. Plasma, on the other hand, does not have to be typed, is speedy to administer, and above all, an endless supply can be stored.

What It Is

"What is this miracle called 'Plasma'" I asked. "It is," he continued with as much speed and gusto as he has in history class, "the whole blood with the blood cells removed."

Blood is drawn from the donors and is then processed in such a manner that the plasma can be drawn off. The plasma can be preserved in two ways, by refrigeration or by drying. Vermont had hoped to use a drying process but will not be able to obtain one as the army and navy

Judges Announced For Ariel Contest

Photography Contest Added to Ariel of '43

Professors L. B. Puffer and B. F. Ladd will judge the entries in the Ariel's snapshot contest. In case of a tie in the judge's decision, a third faculty member will be called in to settle the dispute.

The rules of the contest are easy, and the Ariel board hopes that everyone will enter the contest.

1. Submit as many prints and negatives as you wish to George Holden or Barbara Lane before November 1.
2. Confine the subject matter of your snaps to unposed groups on campus, in the lab, on field trips, at the dorm, in fact, anywhere on campus.
3. Size of prints submitted will not influence the judges.
4. All prints and negatives become the property of the Ariel, but marked negatives will receive careful treatment and the Ariel staff will endeavor to return them to their owners by December 15.
5. Prints will be judged on (a) adaptation to the snapshot pages of the Junior Yearbook and (b) photographic technique. The first topic counts heaviest in the minds of the judges.

Sorority Rushing Gets Under Way; Parties Begin

Subtle Approach Again on Campus As Sorority Women Start Rushing

On your toes—women of Vermont! Wednesday, September 30, Sorority Rushing gets its start. The next three weeks will be devoted to the informal phase of Rushing. Each house will hold open house sessions on Tuesdays from 7.30-8.30 p.m., and on Friday afternoons from 4.00-5.30. This is the best chance for upperclass women to get to know the freshmen and for freshman to become acquainted with each sorority group—so all out freshmen, this much is up to you! On Saturdays, open rushing will be observed. On the following three Saturdays from 1.00 p.m. to 7.30 p.m., freshmen can accompany sorority groups to games, teas, parties, etc., provided every girl goes "Dutch." The last week of October will be devoted to formal rushing when the final banquets are staged by the sororities. The neutral period is to be November 1, when the only contact of freshmen and upperclassmen will be a courteous greeting. November 2 is the day of signing up and pledging. Freshmen are advised to go to every possible open house in order to get to know each sorority group. Tuesday evening open house will not be considered a social evening for freshmen.

Informal Garb to Be Worn at Picnic

Perhaps Idea for Coed Fatigue Suit Released

Next Tuesday night, October 6, at six o'clock will mark the opening party of W. A. A. In years past, this event has taken the form of the famous "Boatride" across Champlain. Here the upperclass girls mingle with the freshmen in an easy, friendly manner. Old clothes, and that means slacks, good humor and a big appetite were in order. Some of the more ambitious even climbed mountains (or should we say thickly wooded hills). Pleasantly weary as the day drew to a close, the girls revelled in the new found friendship as the ferry made its last trip back. And then, who of us upperclassmen will ever forget how "Champlain" was sung as the boat docked, once again. Tired eyes looked back to watch a sun setting over a flaming lake. Purple majestic mountains sprawled where we had climbed hills. Silently each pledged to return the following year, while seniors just looked back and wondered.

Another year has rolled around. No gas, no rubber; the ferry doesn't run any more. What to do? Suggestions came from all sides, but at last one struck the fancy of all. It isn't a new idea, but as we might say, "Something new has been added." The council decided upon a hot dog roast out behind Redstone. Big bonfires will be around, and you can have all you want to eat. But you want to know what's new? The freshmen, of course! Sure, we've seen them around, but do we really know them? Let's get acquainted. Everybody is going to be there. We are all going to sing, and though we may not be able to see the lake, at least we can see the circling hills. Yes, get out your old clothes, put on your good humor, and roll out a huge appetite. That's all you need so come along!

For those living in town and those eating outside college dining rooms, the cost will be twenty-five cents. You don't have to be a member of W. A. A. to join the fun so follow the crowd along to Redstone if you don't already know the way.

New Officers Plan Press Club Year

The first meeting of the U. V. M. Press Club was held Wednesday in Room 140, Waterman. Margaret Cassidy '43, newly-elected president, presided. The other officers are: Ruth Burnell '44, vice-president; Mary Williams '44, secretary; Dorothy Wimett '44, treasurer; and Rose Eisman '45, social chairman.

Miss Cassidy outlined the work and purpose of the Press Club to the new members. Each member is to spend at least an hour a week in the Press Office, writing about U. V. M. students and their activities to hometown local and school newspapers.

There is still plenty of room for new members. So, come on all you freshmen, and upperclassmen too. Get in touch with Margaret Cassidy or leave your name and schedule in the Press Office. Work starts Monday.

Attention all freshman women! Read notices on Bulletin Board about meeting Miss Simpson, Dean of Women.

Discussion Topic Of I. R. C. Unknown

What's Your Guess? $64 Question Follows

The first International Relations Club meeting of this year will be October 7 at 7.30 p.m. in the South Lounge at Southwick.

Wendell Willkie's statement on the situation has stirred anew comment on this vitally interesting subject. So it is particularly timely that Doctor Long and Professor Evans should take their stand and present their views to the I. R. C. and all others interested. It is interesting to note that these men are not merely taking a stand for the exchange of opinions for one evening, but are presenting their own conflicting and opposing views on this topic, with their best arguments for their beliefs.

At this time, especially, it is increasingly important that we should take an interest in America's part as a nation, in the world today. To do this we should enter into such an organization as the I. R. C., whose main purpose is to provide an opportunity to express or hear the expressions of others concerning vital issues of international affairs at stake today.

The I. R. C.'s purpose is to deal with such matters in an impartial and impersonal manner. Such a discussion is an open challenge to all students at this University. Club membership is open to all students enrolled in good standing in the University.

Speakers during the year will include many state and national notables. This club therefore is particularly valuable to Political Science students. However it is the concern of all students.

For further enlightenment on the subject attend meetings.

Key and Serpent "Vic" Dance on Saturday

Key and Serpent, the junior men's honor society, will hold a "vic" dance in the Waterman cafeteria Saturday night at 8.30. The admission will be 25c a couple.

Cafeteria

Recently there have been a number of complaints about the way things are being run in the Waterman Cafeteria. Students, faculty, and administration all have been numbered among those who dislike the new set-up. Students find the waiter system much slower than the self-service system, especially if one wishes to obtain a snack between classes. During crowded hours (breakfast and lunch) the service behind counter is very slow; a student must figure on a half hour or longer per meal if he wishes to obtain the full meal during these hours. Persons desiring only coffee or toast break into line and hold up people getting the whole works. (Perhaps these small often-asked-for-items could be isolated so as to keep things running smoothly.) The doors closed in middle are an obstruction to good ventilation and are generally unpopular with the students. Of course the closed doors create two rooms, one for those eating regular meals and one for those merely down for a coke or milk-shake, but in spite of the advantages of having these two rooms the students like the one room set-up much better and after all the students are the ones who use it.

Other faults could be enumerated but too much repetition is useless. We realize that the Cafeteria is a great addition in the life of U. V. M. and also that the staff is doing its utmost to maintain it at a high standard. We figure that if those in charge are made aware of the faults observed and experienced by the students that they will seek to rectify these errors, a rectification which will go toward much better cooperation with the student body and even to greater efficiency because if students like any arrangement they will go far in helping to make it function smoothly.

The faults listed and improvements suggested above are only those observed by this corner and are to be viewed arbitrarily and with several grains of salt. Students and faculty in general seem dissatisfied with present set-up, therefore we suggest minor changes.

Registration

A new system of registration was tried this year to register classes for the fall term. The new system worked well with one exception, which was obvious to all. This one fault was the last step to be taken in the procedure, that being the handing in of all cards to a booth in the corridor just outside the entrance to the cafeteria. This booth was inadequate to handle the reception of these cards, students were forced to wait in a line which stretched half way around the cafeteria and sometimes necessitating a two-hour wait. Any new arrangement is apt to have a few faults, no doubt Director of Admissions Riggs is aware of this wrong and will right it. The rest of the system is a great improvement, with the rectifying of this last step the system will be perfect.

Fraternity Notes

Look Who's Here

Robert Harrington, ex'44, was a visitor from Springfield, where he is connected with the Indo-Chinese Intelligence Service. Incidentally, he visited the S. A. E. House.

Brother Fenno from Hanover, N. H., visited at the Phi Delt House recently.

Notice

A coffee hour will be held at the Alpha Xi House Sunday from 3 o'clock until 5, in honor of the new house mother, Mrs. Eva Sanderson.

Sad but True

Lawrence Killick, a brother of Kappa Sigma, has been ill with the grippe.

Fun!

The Tri-Delts had an informal weenie roast in front of the living room fireplace last Sunday night. Peggy Flint, who had bought her sugar on the rationing card, used it up by making fudge.

Are You Listening?

Knocker Neal at the S. A. E. House is studying hard in preparation for a coming police exam. He doesn't expect it to be too difficult because his father has been sole publisher and editor of the Police Gazette for the last twenty years. Neal's visiting hours at headquarters will be from 9 to 12 a.m., on week days.

Fred Bundy, ex'44, is spending the week-end at the Phi Delt House, said week-end lasting from last Thursday, 24th, until next Sunday.

The big log which was left in front of the Delta Delta Delta House, after the fountain fight, was finally carried off.

Music Lovers, Attention

William Goeller at the Sigma Alpha Epsilon House will be asked to lead another September morn serenade from the Theta garage roof. What a long while in which to practice!

Outdoor Lovers, Notice

Three Tri-Delt girls of the outdoor type are still sleeping on their 28° F. porch.

Get a Load of This

The S. A. E.'s have a new maid. The only item of interest which turned up after three days cleaning was George West, found under Izzy Noble's desk.

Society Note

Delta Delta Delta Sorority gave a tea Wednesday afternoon in honor of their new housemother, Mrs. D. F. Wells. In the receiving line were Mrs. D. F. Wells, Mrs. George Saunders of the Alliance, Mrs. Newcombe of the Mothers' Club, and Dee Delano, '44, president of the local chapter.

About seventy-five people including housemothers, representatives from other sororities, members of the Delta Delta Delta Alliance and the Mothers' Club attended. Myra Gray, '44, was in charge.

No Skipping, Please

Sumner Ziegra was initiated into the Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity last Sunday evening.

Another Superman

The Kappa Sig touch football team is training in shape with Vincent Manjoney as coach, captain, trainer, and water boy.

Don't Forget

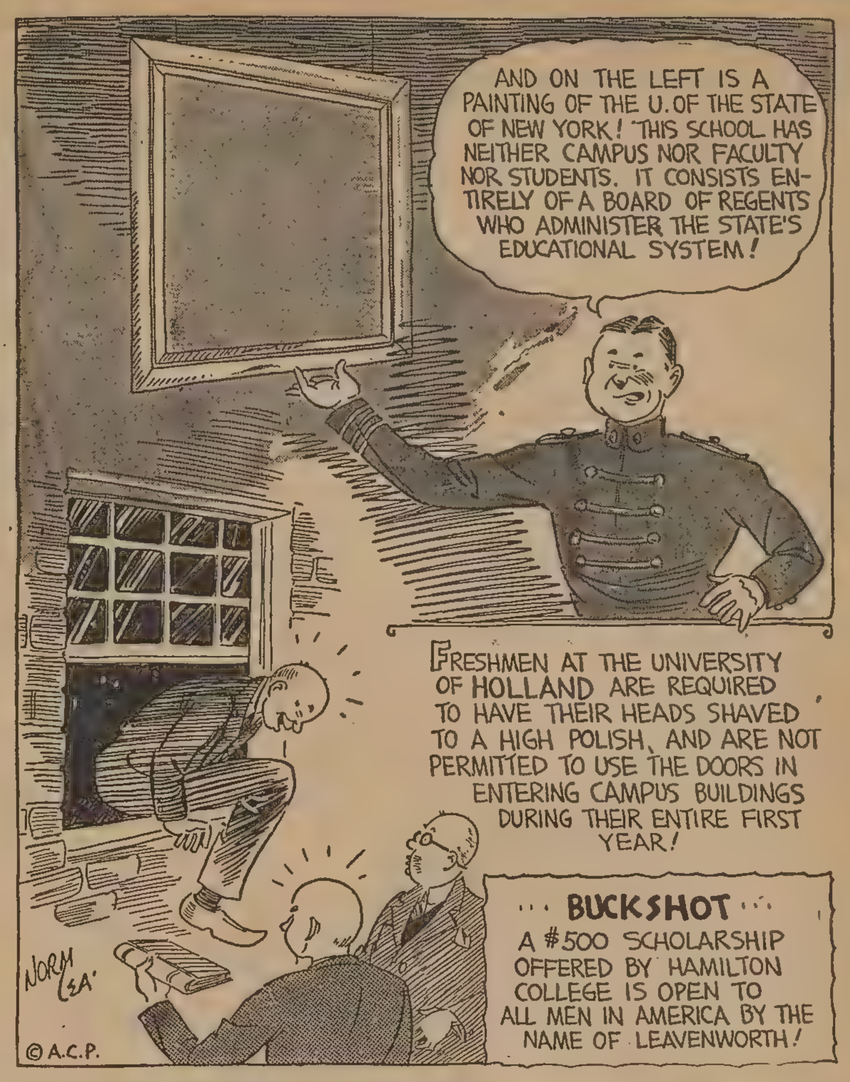

The Tri-Delts are sponsoring a fashion show October 8 at 4 p.m.

SIGMA PHI

Sigma Phi wishes to announce that contrary to Tuesday's CYNIC report, they do not board spooks, and furthermore that they had a truly sumptuous tea dance last Saturday. Just ask any of the brothers or their dates, they say.

Assisting in making the dance the success it was were the chaperones, Professor and Mrs. Carpenter, Mrs. C. S. Curz, and Dr. A. M. K. Blume. A bounteous repast was offered at intermission.

Myers J. Reynolds, III, was around the house last week as was also Dick Pope, ex'44. Chum and Dick, along with Ed. Blakely, ex'43 and Dick Page, ex'44, are all still waiting their call to the air corps.

Plasma Bank

require all the available drying machines for their supplies of plasma which cannot be refrigerated.

The bank is taking advantage of the enthusiasm engendered by the war to build up a large stock of from three to six thousand units of plasma that will be a perpetual protection for the state. There will be no charge for a unit of plasma, only the assurance that a relative or friend will give a pint of blood back to the bank. At present practically all the money required to provide for the laboratory has been obtained, but there is not enough for the working expenses of the bank. It is to raise this money that the college fund has been instituted. Every college student in the state of Vermont is being asked to give at least a quarter.

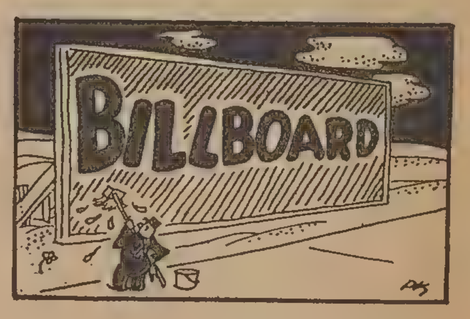

This bank is a cooperative enterprise in which all the people of the state are taking part. The Vermont Blood Plasma Bank is the only state organization of its kind and is an investment in the future of Vermont.

Alpha Zeta Holds First Meeting Sept. 30

Green Mountain Chapter of Alpha Zeta, honorary agricultural fraternity, held its first meeting of the year Wednesday evening, September 30, at the Waterman Building, with thirteen members present.

Routine business was transacted, and Reg White, '43, was named chairman of the program committee, with Bob Sinclair, '44, chairman of the publicity committee.

Chancellor Pierce, '43, gave a short talk on the history of A.Z., followed by remarks on what Alpha Zeta should mean to a student at Vermont.

State appropriations provide 23.1 percent of the income of the University of Pittsburgh.

Home Economics Students Practice What They Preach

In an overstuffed room on the third floor of the home economics practice house at the University of Vermont were some decrepit dining room chairs, window shades, an old iron bedstead, lamps, a new enamel top for the kitchen aid table, wicker furniture and a feather puff. The walls were dirty, the floor unwaxed, the painted woodwork grimy.

Seven home ec girls and $4.12 made a difference.

The seven girls, deciding to practice what they had been learning, threw out the junk. One of them cajoled the painter into painting the woodwork and tinting the walls. The problem now was the furnishings. Something was needed in the way of a bed, chairs, table, dressing table, lamps, curtains, pictures. The girls with little to spend went at the job.

They cut down an old bed, adding a spring and mattress, instead of buying a new bedstead. This, covered with a fitted spread made of unbleached muslin and trimmed with blue bias tape, provided the center of attraction in the room. A board top was shaped and nailed to an orange crate, the whole thing was painted and draped with muslin for the dressing table. An old-fashioned shaving mirror of the 1900 vintage was painted pink to go over it. During the holidays, one of the girls had her brother help with a stool which was later finished with the muslin and trimmed like the table and bed. The curtains were also made to match.

A large wicker chair, a small rocking chair and a round two-decker table were varnished and added to the room. A new fluted shade was bought for an old, stubby lamp. A pin-up lamp was put next to the dressing table and a floor lamp by the large chair. Then with two small rugs, some framed prints and two dishes for the dressing table, the room was complete—for only $4.12.

"When it comes to rehabilitating the University," declared the girls, "we know it can be done if we all make up our minds to do it as we did that room."

Inklings

We are living in a time when barbarism is camped at the door of humanity. All over the world the press is one of the great weapons of this sweeping horde. In one country after another the mind of man is being turned into a single-track unit. The mind, senses, and desires of men are being drilled into one ideology. Man's news is being chewed and masticated for him in words by those in power before being handed out. Everything possible is done to prevent him from seeing humanity beyond the nation. The individual is being destroyed and it is the absolute destruction of the individual that the substance of barbarism reign.

Cross-Country Squad Travels to Schenectady

By Monty Kelly

Tomorrow Coach Archie Post's as yet untried cross-country squad travels to Schenectady, N. Y., to open the current season against Union College. Led by J. Prescott Hoyt '43, the Green and Gold harriers have completed approximately three weeks of conditioning and practice and are in tiptop shape for tomorrow's meet.

Gone are last year's great brother duo, the Webster brothers, Fred and Charlie, but the Cats will have a number of experienced cross-country men at the starting line.

In addition to Captain Hoyt, they are: Merle Crown, Dick Clark, and Daan Zwick. All of these lads are seniors and will be running their last year for U. V. M.

Martin McLaren and Ev Andrews have shown good form according to Post, and in addition to Len Harrington and Johnny Buttles, will be the bulwark of the Cats' scoring punch.

Post has been putting his charges through their paces on the local course which stretches three and six-tenths miles over gruelling terrain, and will undoubtedly be in top shape against the Unionites.

The Vermonters will take eight men on the New York junket for the clash with the Maroon and White. Although Manager Ray Pestle would not release a final list of entrants last night, he stated that time trials would be the deciding factor in picking the definite starters.

Series Rivals All Even; 1-1

Musial's Hit Scores For Rookie Beazley

The New York Yankees and the St. Louis Cardinals headed east today all squared at one game each. The World Series opponents resume competition in New York tomorrow.

Stan Musial, the highly-touted rookie outfielder who failed the Cards in their last inning rally Wednesday, redeemed himself before St. Louis fans yesterday by singling through the box to send Country Slaughter home with a run and clinch victory for his team, 4 to 3.

Johnny Beazley, twenty-one game winner in his freshman year, pitched all the way for the winners. Beazley stood the New Yorkers on their ears for seven innings while the Cardinals were erecting a 3 to 0 lead. But the Yankees nullified this margin with two out in the eighth inning, when Roy Cullenbine singled, stole second, and scored on a hit by Joe Di Maggio. Charlie Keller tied the score with a long home run.

After Musial's hit had regained the Redbirds' lead, the Cardinals were forced to stave off another Yank threat in the ninth. Key factor here was a long throw from the outfield by Slaughter, which cut down pinch-runner Tucker Stainback at third base.

The teams play three games in the Yankee stadium, returning to St. Louis if sixth and seventh games become necessary. Manager Joe McCarthy of the defending world champions may be saving his spectacular recruit, Hank Borowy, for the starting pitcher's role in tomorrow's game. Spud Chandler, who worked a little relief in the opener, is still the choice, however. Billy Southworth has two southpaws ready to go in, Max Lanier and young Howard Pollett. Lanier is expected to go.

On campus, general sentiment leans toward the underdog Cardinals, who won over many fans in the magnificent drive to overhaul Brooklyn last month. Odds at the New York offices of betting promoter Jack Doyle, however, still gave the Yanks a 9 to 5 edge. This may be attributed to the rough manner with which the New Yorkers treated Morton Cooper, ace St. Louis righthander, on whom the Cardinals were pinning hopes for two victories. Cooper, whom the Yankees rocked from the hill in St. Louis Wednesday, is expected to take the mound at the Stadium in Sunday's fourth game.

The Yankees are hopeful of clinching victory in their three-game home-stand. They are confident of winning at least two of the three, which potentiality would carry them back to the Mound City with only one win needed and probably both Tiny Bonham and Red Ruffing ready to pitch.

Touch Football Tourney Nears

Columbus Day Contest Opens Interfrat Schedule

Archie Post, director of intramural sports, released the interfraternity league touch football program yesterday. Ten fraternities and the Independents are represented in the tourney, which opens on Columbus Day with a game between Sigma Nu and ATO. All games are to be played on the back campus gridiron.

Phi Sigma Delta tangles with Delta Psi October 14 and the Independents meet Phi Delta Theta October 16 in other opening round games. Lambda Iota and S. A. E., who drew byes past this round, clash on October 19. Other byes went to Kappa Sigma, Sigma Phi, and Tau Epsilon Phi, all of which play winners of first-round games.

The tournament regulations follow:

1. Eligibility List of names from each organization. (See rules of eligibility in Intramural Handbook. Copy of same in Physical Education Office.)

2. Rubber-soled shoes must be worn.

3. Colored playing shirts shall be drawn from and returned to the Physical Education Equipment room by team managers.

4. Games shall start at 4.10 p.m.—shall be played on back campus. Any team not ready to play on time shall forfeit the game.

5. Trophy. (See Intramural Handbook.)

6. Entrance Fee. None required this year.

7. Decisions of officials shall be respected. Protests on rules interpretation only will be allowed.

8. Teams entered must be willing to furnish at least one official for work in the league.

Eleven Set For Rutgers

Eddy at Guard—Prior, Parker New Starters

By Phil Robinson

With a week of intensive blocking, tackling, running, and passing drill under their belts, 27 Vermont footballers were in New Jersey today ready to hand Rutgers plenty of trouble, and likewise to avenge last week's crushing defeat at the hands of Rhode Island State.

Rutgers is an unknown quantity as far as the Green and Gold is concerned, although their last week-end's performance against Manhattan might lead some loyal fans to feel very optimistic indeed over the Cat's chances of racking up their first victory.

The Jaspers took the Rutgers crew for a ride in a warm-up scrimmage Saturday, and the Manhattan school hasn't been particularly strong during the past few seasons.

The Green and Gold pigskin toters pulled out of Burlington on the noon train Thursday for Elizabeth, N. J., where they will be quartered.

The latest bright prospect for Coach Fuzzy Evans is the addition of 190-pound Frank Sugrue to the club's roster.

Only a freshman, Frank, who hails from Waterbury, Conn., has shown such promise that he was seriously considered to start at right tackle, but Rog Prior's experience gave him the nod for the starting assignment. According to Evans, Frank will see plenty of action against the Jerseyites.

Bud Lippman, disabled guard who fractured a bone in his left hand last week-end, will make the trip and serve as spotter for the press box gentry.

The lads were scheduled to workout in the Elizabeth high school stadium this afternoon, brushing up on a few points before tomorrow's game. Following the game, the Vermonters will embark for New York City, and bunk in the Hotel Biltmore, more recently known as headquarters for the Security Fund in that area.

Evans' starting eleven will be virtually the same as took the field against the Rams a week ago. The only changes will be Dwight Eddy's appearance at left guard, and Harry Parker in for Kunken at right end.

Ralph (Chick) LaPointe, the lad who did some fancy broken field running against the Rams, and scored Vermont's only two six pointers, will be calling the signals offensively against the New Jersey gridiron club.

Evans feels after this week's tough session on the field that a backfield man should be the ticket to replace Bill Benoit who has been calling the numbers since the opening of the season early in September.

Those who witnessed this week's drill on Centennial were of the opinion that the Cats should look vastly improved over last week-end. Even Fuzzy and Sherm Fogg felt hopeful that the club would turn in a better performance, especially the line. Pictures of the Rhode Island game proved beyond a doubt that the lads were barely flagging the tearing Blue-clad backs as they went crashing through time after time.

Rutgers, which has evidently been in the doldrums at more than one period during the season if Coach Harry Rockafeller's "we'll snap out of it, or I'll know the reason why" attitude is any indication, has been working hard in preparation for their opener against Vermont.

According to Rockafeller, veterans Nick Dennis and Don Jones had virtually clinched two of the backfield assignments, but the fight was on for the other two berths as the club went into the final week of drill.

Eighth Year of Concert Association Promises Many Celebrated Musicians

President Millis by his endorsement of the Burlington Community Concert Association has shown a definite cooperation between the University and the local association. Students are urged to take advantage of the opportunity of hearing great music by celebrated musicians in person when they appear in Burlington this winter.

This will be the eighth season of Community Concerts, and the many excellent artists who have appeared here in the past speaks well for the caliber of attractions that will come this winter.

Only students holding membership cards may be admitted to the concerts, because no single admissions will be sold for any performance. Subscription cards are transferable, therefore it is quite possible for two or three students to go together on a sharing basis. At least three concerts are assured, and more if the final membership will permit. The concerts to appear in the Burlington City Hall will be chosen at the conclusion of the campaign this Saturday night, when the amount of funds on hand has been determined. In this way there is no financial risk, underwriting or guaranteeing.

Some of the artists who have appeared here in the past are such names and attractions as: Harold Bauer, Mario Kurenko, Nelson Eddy, English Singers of London, Hart House String Quartet, Wilbur Evans, Bartlett and Robertson (famous two piano team), Russian Imperial Singers, Vienna Choir Boys, Richard Crooks, Carola Goya (Spanish Dancer), Gregor Piatigorsky, 'cellist; Igor Gorin, baritone, and many others.

All students and faculty members desiring memberships to the Community Concerts must act promptly, because no one may join after Saturday night. The campus headquarters, where applications are being received are either in Dean Harris' office, or at the Book Store. Many students are also soliciting. The price is $3.00 for the entire series, plus tax. This is indeed a minimum cost for such outstanding musical entertainment, and it is sincerely hoped that a large number of students will take advantage of this.

Regular adult membership dues are $5.00 plus the tax and this includes the faculty members.

U. of Cal. Makes Discovery

Berkeley, Calif. (ACP)—An unstable form of element No. 61, only missing item in the list of known chemicals of the material universe, has been produced in the University of California cyclotron and by experimenters at Ohio State University.

Announcement of the experiment here said a radioactive form of No. 61 was produced by bombarding some rare earths with atomic bullets. The raw materials used were sent to Berkeley more than a year ago from Italy by Dr. Luigi Rolla, Italian chemist.

The work was done by Dr. Emilio Segre, one of the discoverers of elements No. 43 and 85, and Dr. Chien Shiung-wu, a young Chinese woman researcher in nuclear physics.

Although element 61 has a definite place in the table of the elements, it never has been found in nature. It is one of the rare earth metals, being in the same general category of aluminum.

Night Watchman Future Held Black

After 26 years of tramping the University of Vermont campus from 7.00 p.m. to 5.00 a.m., Edmond H. Shepard decided he'd had enough of it and would spend the rest of his nights at his home in South Burlington.

"Old Shep," as he was known to everyone, was the night watchman and campus policeman. Now 70 years old, he resigned the other day.

"I got along fine with the students," related "Old Shep." He carried a club, a gun and timeclock on his lonely rounds on the campus. He used the timeclock most of all, the gun never and the club only a few times.

Whaled His Pants

No bigger now than he ever was, "Old Shep" made up in aggressiveness what he lacked in size. Several years ago, he came upon some students climbing into the Old Mill through a window. He whacked the student across the seat of the pants who was being hoisted up to the window and frankly admitted as he told the story he was surprised as well as relieved when they did not turn on him, but quickly dispersed.

"Old Shep" used to be on duty every night year in and year out, visiting the buildings, checking the boilers, punching the clocks and walking through the silent rooms. During the last 10 years, he had two nights off a month.

Averaging about four rounds a night, "Old Shep" allows how the the long walks and climbing the long flights of stairs in the Old Mill, Williams Science Hall and Medical Building kept his waistline down.

Hired by President Buckham

"Old Shep" began his association with the University long before he became the night watchman, however. He worked at odd jobs first for President Buckham and then for President Benton. His total years at U. V. M. amount to 38.

Of his associate workers on the campus at the time he went to work, "the only one left is Bill Tully, the head janitor," said "Old Shep."

Inklings

Experience is of no moral value. It is the name we give to our mistakes. Moralists regard it as a mode of warning and praise it as something that teaches us what to follow and what to avoid. But there is no motive power in experience. It is as little of an active cause as conscience itself. All that it is really demonstrated is that our future is to be the same as our past and that the sin we have done once, and with disgust, we could do many times, and with joy.

Health Council Tag Dag For Tooth and Eye Care

The Health Council sponsored its tag day yesterday to earn money whereby girls who require medical attention, principally teeth and eyes, will be able to borrow from the fund of the Health Council.

There are many ways by which the council raises these funds and this year it is hoped that as much can be raised as was last year.

Barbara Dunbar, president, called the first meeting of the council, September 24. The members of the organization are representatives from each of the dormitories and private houses. It is their duty to make suggestions for better living conditions and to report to the Health Council those details which need correction.

Those who supported and contributed to the tag day may be assured that the proceeds will go to a worthy and beneficial cause.

Freshmen Needed To Bolster Skiers

It may be a bit early for skiing but with the weather growing colder and the fall heading into winter, it won't be long before there is snow on Mansfield.

About the only thing we can count on this year as far as skiing goes is that there will be snow. A team has not yet been organized but with men like "Brud" Sutton, Art Paterson, Bob Goss and a grand bunch of freshmen, U. V. M. should be tops.

The station wagon has been hired so that it can be used to take the skiers to their field of glory at least once a week. It will also be used for trips, if other teams can be found for competition. Government regulations have even reached this top winter sport.

But regardless of the outcome of competition, trips, etc., U. V. M. will see many skiers at Mansfield braving the Nose Dive and other trails—and for beginners there is always the practice slope at Underhill. So all let's ski this winter.

Fraternity Rushing Nears Half-way Mark

Fraternity Rushing is proceeding as well as usual. Fine spirit shown among fraternities. In few instances one fraternity has sent good men from its house over to a rival organization.

Rushing reaches the half-way mark Saturday when Frosh journey up to the gymnasium at 7.00 a.m. to receive their open-house bids. Since there are no banquets this year these open houses will be held at which cider and doughnuts will be served. These open houses will be on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, October 5, 6 and 7. Pledging takes place Thursday, October 8, in Political Science office with Professor Carroll in charge.

On Saturday, October 10, the Interfraternity Council will hold its annual dance for the newly-pledged freshmen.

50 Vermont Girls Serve as Partners And Hostesses at U. S. O. Gatherings

Fifty girls from the Vermont campus who have served as dancing partners and hostesses at U. S. O. dances and parties have been invited to become charter members of the Girls' Service Organization on the campus.

Under the leadership of Dean Mary Jean Simpson and the members of Mortar Board, senior women's honorary society, the University G. S. O. will cooperate with the Women's Hospitality Committee of the U. S. O.

The invitations to the girls have been accompanied by forms asking for information about each girl's dancing and bridge-playing, whether she can make a piano stand up and dance, or can sing in a fairly good voice.

The committee is asking for such abilities as swimming, tennis, golf, bowling and roller-skating. "Have you," they ask, "the knack of throwing a good Sunday night supper, or a beach party; can you bear up under a hike?"

The invitations also ask for church and sorority memberships, age and telephone numbers.

Any girl accepting an invitation to become a member of the G. S. O. has to agree to follow certain regulations set up by the Women's Hospitality Committee and representatives from their own group. The purpose of the rules is to keep both the U. S. O. and the girls participating free from criticism.

The G. S. O. girls must be cinderellas and leave the party at midnight. If their boy friends from out of town arrive on the night they have U. S. O. dates, they must be true to the U. S. O.

At parties they can't refuse to dance with anyone unless he is obviously under the influence. They can't sit in a corner and pout, either. They must fall in with the spirit of the occasion.

SIGMA GAMMA

Laura Ann Douglass '41 became the bride of Joseph Giblien at Shoreham in August.

Sigma Gamma announces that open house will be held Tuesdays at 7.30-8.30 p.m. and Fridays at 4-5.30 p.m. at the home of Miss Margaret Whiting, 322 South Prospect st.

Correction to item in Tuesday's CYNIC: Emma Abbott '43, Dorset, not Laura Douglass was married to John Stannard June 25.

ALPHA XI DELTA

Initiation was held at the chapter house on Monday, September 28, at which time Dorothy Cargill '43 of Island Pond; Lois Colton '43, Granby, Conn.; Marion Nelson '43 of Montpelier; and Mary Lou Strauch '44 of St. Johnsbury became active members.

A supper followed with Mildred Anderson and Virginia Hunt in charge.

Ann Crocker '44 of Foxboro, Mass., was recently pledged to Alpha Xi Delta.

Dr. E. H. Sellards, director of the University of Texas bureau of economic geology, has been elected president of the Paleontological Society of America.

Blood Plasma Day Coming

VOL. 61 BURLINGTON, VERMONT, TUESDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1942 NO. 5

Fraternity Rushing Closes With Open House Not Banquets

A. T. O. Pledges One with Other Societies Reporting Cooperation and Success

Fraternity rushing is pulling into the home stretch in fine shape. Open houses took the place of the more formal banquets of other years in keeping with the general saving being practiced on campus. Outside of this change rushing has been and will continue as usual. Open houses, for the most part, were held Thursday and Friday nights and by bid. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The Phi Delts offered cider and donuts. . . . A. T. O. reports rushing for them has been very fine and has brought out many more frosh. They also announced the formal initiation last Sunday, of Sumner Ziegra '44. . . . From S. A. E. comes news of a banner year with a much larger number out. Pat Harrington ex-'44 and Rog Hunting of the '42 crop, are around to help the proceedings along and Gander McLeod is a visitor from the California Beta chapter. . . . The Phi Sigs mention a smoker held early in the week and a good turn generally. . . . Sigma Phi says "a fine crowd of boys" visited them last week. . . . Sigma Nu had nothing new to add to the general news merely affirming the successful run of things.

All in all the prospects of a very good year are evident and the boys have done a swell job of cooperating with the new scheme.

Rushing Season Winds Up With Dance Saturday

The annual Interfraternity Dance, held each year immediately after pledging by the fraternities on the hill, will take place this Saturday evening, October 10, and will be held for the first time in the Waterman cafeteria. Co-chairmen for the affair, sponsored by the Interfraternity Council, are Harris Thurber '43 and Paul Sutton '43.

As usual, admission will be by ticket, and only fraternity men and their pledges will be allowed. Although no details as to the final arrangements were available, the minimum of decorations will probably be used. Around the walls and ceiling of the cafeteria will be the various banners of the Greek-letter fraternities represented on the Interfraternity Council.

The affair promises to be a better-than-ordinary one, with the music being furnished by the Catamounts, and Professor and Mrs. Carroll as chaperones.

Sis Lynch to Be Married To C. Shortle Thursday

Frances Lynch, ex'43, passed chocolates at the meeting on September 28 to announce her engagement to Charles Shortle, '41. They will be married October 8.

U. V. M. Sponsors Eight-Week Glider Pilot Course

The University of Vermont is sponsoring an eight-week course for glider pilots as part of the Army Air Corps Enlisted Reserve Corps, with Dean George F. Eckhard acting as coordinator and Prof. Howard G. Millington as assistant coordinator. This school is not connected with Northeastern Air Lines. The quota is twenty pilots and classes are held at the Waterman Building while the flying is done at the airport.

Latin-American Art In Fleming Museum

The Fleming Museum of the University of Vermont has received from the New York Museum of Modern Art a notable collection of paintings by contemporary artists from the Latin-American countries, which will remain at the museum until October 15. These are being unpacked, and will be hung as soon as the present exhibit of salon photographs has been removed.

Dr. H. F. Perkins, director of the museum, states that the paintings may be seen at any time, although the regular showing will not be ready until Sunday. For those who are unable to come in the daytime, at least one evening showing will be arranged, the time to be announced later.

This collection has been exhibited in a number of important art galleries of the country. It came here from a gallery in Newport, R. I., and will continue its tour after art lovers in Vermont have had an opportunity to enjoy it.

Vermont Will Have Girl Cheerleaders

Possibly you may remember or you've at least heard that during the year '39-'40 there were girl cheerleaders at U. V. M. But the Athletic Council didn't like them I guess for they made a rule that there be no more.

However, with the appearance of Sis Warden at the Pep Rally last week, the old flame was rekindled, for when girl cheerleaders were suggested fifteen girls signed up. These young ladies were very enthusiastic about the whole thing—filled with the proverbial vim, vigor and vitality. In fact ten of them have loads of new cheers, stunts, tumbling acts and so forth all planned.

Surely we cannot let the "3 V's" of these co-eds go to waste. With a little support of the student body the Athletic Council might be persuaded to at least give them a trial performance!

There will be a second meeting of Newman Club in the Student Lounge of the Waterman Building, at 10 o'clock, Wednesday morning, October 7. This meeting is very important since election of new officers will be held, and it is imperative that everyone be there. Father Cassidy, chaplain at the Bishop DeGoesbriand Hospital, will be present.

Salvage Program Under Way at U.V.M.

There will be a general salvage program on this campus for waste metal and rubber. The fraternities and sororities are asked to cooperate in every way. There will be containers in which the metal and rubber may be left or if the amount is great, call 5180 and it will be collected.

Key and Serpent Dance Helps Football Team

200 People On Hand with Stag Line Well Satisfied

About 200 people who attended the Key and Serpent Vic Dance in the cafeteria Saturday night will help buy the football blankets which will be awarded at the end of the season. Everyone appeared to be having a grand time without that distracting howling in the stag line, so noticeable last week. The many spots of red throughout the crowd cheered the aspect of the floor and raised the morale of all, including Professor and Mrs. B. F. Ladd, the chaperons. A 1942 alumna, Joene Agard, our well-known member of Mortar Board, was seen among the dancers. Sam Otis, Tom Keighley and Larry Killick, from his sick bed, were in charge of the affair.

G. S. O. Enlists 200; All Y. W. Members

Emphasis to Be On Actual Service Plus Dances, Sings

The exhausted, overworked women of this city, headed by Mrs. Pease, who keep the wheels spinning at the U. S. O. seven days and nights a week, have turned to the college girls for aid. The Y. W. C. A., the only organization on the campus in a position to help, has responded. Already there are 200 girls in the Girls' Service Organization and many more are expected to join. Those girls who could not join before because of shortage of blanks, may obtain them the middle of this week from Alison Carr or at the Dean's office. The girls fill in on these blanks their religious preference, their sorority and their interests and abilities. All blanks should be returned as soon as possible to the Dean's office.

This year the girls will have an opportunity to serve at more than merely the Saturday night dances. There will be an opportunity to entertain and to enter into group sings. Emphasis will be placed on the actual work side such as service in the kitchen for suppers, etc. As of last year there will be dances, roller skating and splash parties. All girls who go should be members of G. S. O. In the "Y" room there will be an opportunity to sign up for these parties.

All girls who, over a period of time, serve twenty-five hours become permanent members of G. S. O., receiving a pin and membership card. This membership card is her pass to any U. S. O. Building in America.

The Y. W. C. A. also sponsors knitting this year and bandage rolling will be added if enough desire it. Wednesday night at 7.15 there will be a meeting of the Y. W. C. A. council in the Religious Life office of the Waterman.

There will be a meeting of the Independent Women, Thursday night, at 7.30, at Southwick. All Independent Women are invited.

Bluestockings To Drive For Members

Speaker to Be Selected For Coming Open Meet

The Bluestockings membership drive for the month of October starts Monday, Oct. 5. Members will be admitted on a competitive basis according to literary ability. Prospective members are asked to write two manuscripts which may be deposited in a box left in the "Y" room. The manuscripts will be judged by members of the Bluestockings. The authors will be kept anonymous during judging.

The rules for the manuscripts are as follows:

1. Each candidate must submit two manuscripts showing her ability to write two kinds of material, i.e., a poem and an essay, a short story and a poem, or a story and an essay, etc.
2. Typewritten manuscripts would be preferred but legible handwriting done in ink on one side of the paper will be accepted.
3. Any girl not under warning may submit her work, freshmen or upperclassmen. No one should hesitate to try out for there is no fee involved.
4. Each manuscript should be signed with a pen name, and the writer's real name enclosed in a sealed envelope bearing the pen name on the outside.
5. A box will be placed in the "Y" room of the Old Mill for the manuscripts. They will be collected and discussed at the next meeting of Bluestockings.
6. Membership is by invitation only.

The Bluestockings strongly urge people to try out for membership. Later on in October an "open meeting," that is for all interested in Bluestockings, will be held. A speaker, unselected at this writing, will address the group. The final date will depend on the engagement of the speaker. Watch the CYNIC for further notice regarding this meeting.

Evans and Long To Discuss 2nd Front

Professor Evans and Professor Long will present their own personal and opposing views on the topic "2nd Front Now or '43?" at the first International Relations Club meeting of the year.

The discussion will take place at Southwick—South Lounge, Wednesday evening. The meeting will be open and everyone is welcome. Especially at a time like this every student should take an intelligent interest in such an organization as the I. R. C.

Prominent speakers throughout the year will carry out lecture and discussion programs on subjects of vital interest to us all. So all out for I. R. C.—2nd Front Now or '43?

Debaters To Meet R. P. I. On Ec. Control Question

D. Zwick '43 and J. Felopulos '44 Will Uphold Affirmative

The U. V. M. debating season of 1942-43 will be formally initiated this Saturday, October 10, at 7.30 p.m. when Vermont meets Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in the Waterman Building for a non-decision debate. The topic chosen is "Resolved: That the Allied nations should take complete economical control of the enemy powers at the close of this war (assuming an Allied victory)." Daan Zwick '43 and John Felopulos '44 will take the affirmative.

Coach Powers

The debating team guided by the highly successful coach, M. D. Powers, charter member of the T K A at this University, can look back at a wonderful record over the past years. More than 130 colleges were engaged in about 700 debates since 1927. The debating team is the only team on this campus which has represented this University in almost all of the forty-eight states and has done so successfully. From Bates College in Maine to Florida southern college U. V. M. men and women have travelled to show Vermont at its best. Harvard, Princeton, Yale, N. Y. U., Tufts and Cornell are only a few of the many colleges engaged in debates.

A big schedule is in the making for this year and only the final word of the budget committee of the Student Government is necessary to start things moving. Campus debating activities will be reorganized completely. Intercollegiate debating will again find our debaters all over the East. A debate with Bates College, one of the outstanding debating colleges in this country, is planned for November. U. V. M. was also invited to take part in the Dartmouth College tournament in which many colleges will participate. The tournament will also be in November. Harvard, N. Y. U., and

Chapel, University Orchestras Merge

Pappoutsakis to Direct; First Rehearsal Thursday

A forty-piece University Orchestra will hold its first rehearsal of the season this Thursday evening at the Chapel, inaugurating some changes in policy which will ultimately result in an organization of practically full symphonic proportions on the campus.

The new orchestra is a combination of the former Chapel and University orchestras, augmented by prominent instrumentalists from among the residents of Burlington. It will assume the duties of both the former organizations, which have included Christmas and Lenten-Easter programs with the University Choir, a midyear symphonic concert shared with the Glee Clubs, an opera, occasional Chapel services, and appearances at Class Day and Commencement. The orchestra will be conducted by Mr. Ippocrates Pappoutsakis except when accompanying the choral organizations, on which occasions Prof. Howard G. Bennett will assume direction of the combined vocal and instrumental resources. Mr. Michael Anselmo will be concert-master.

Applications for membership are still being received, and will continue to be considered until October 15. Players of orchestral instruments are requested to communicate with the Department of Music.

Students Blood Plasma Drive Oct. 6

Thursday, October 15, has been designated Blood Plasma Bank Day at the University of Vermont. During that entire day students will be able to contribute a quarter to the Bank Fund. Boulder Society will have charge of the drive with help from the other honorary societies. During the week of October 11, similar campaigns will be carried on in all the other colleges in Vermont.

In order to arouse interest of all students so that they will donate their blood to the bank later and to help raise funds to maintain the project, blood plasma heads decided, at the suggestion of a number of college students, to carry on this campaign. They employed the psychological strategy that if a student pays a small sum for the inauguration of the Bank he will be more interested and anxious to give his blood when Bank gets under early way in November.

What is Purpose of the Vermont Blood Plasma Bank?

It is intended to fill immediately a gap in our civil defense program. Vermont now has its specially trained air and fire wardens, its special police, ambulance and nursing services, ready in case of enemy air raids. But not one hospital in the state has an adequate provision of plasma for treating the casualties that would result from such raids.

After the war is over it is intended to go on, without scrapping a bit of its equipment, serving the ordinary peacetime needs of our people. As doctors are making increasing use of plasma in their daily practice these needs will continue to grow.

Plasma was discovered a number of years ago but it has never been in universal use in Vermont. The Green Mountain State now has a chance to procure the services of one of the greatest advances in medical science in the twentieth century. Every contribution will be a step towards welfare of the state during the war as well as after the war.

To the Editor of the CYNIC:

In spite of the fact that the readers of the CYNIC were told to take the recent editorial entitled, "Cafeteria" with a grain of salt—and that faults and improvements therein suggested are purely arbitrarily viewed, I should like to point out a few minor details to the writer of said editorial.

In the first place from the standpoint of health and cleanliness alone the new waiter system more than justifies itself. It must be acknowledged that the old fountain service was bad—anywhere from ten to one hundred hungry students lined up—breathing, coughing, sneezing—within three feet of the food you were to eat. Out of curiosity the writer has timed the length of service. The average was 12 minutes. Now certainly student and faculty have wilted longer than this in the throng around the fountain. Health is admittedly the most important consideration, but convenience also enters in. Isn't it more pleasant to sit and wait than to stand and wait for one's food? Every good idea has its drawbacks. The closed door seems to be the drawback in this case. This door makes the waiter service more efficient; and why, may I ask, does the door make so much difference? Do you suffer from claustrophobic in closed rooms? Or does it disturb you because you can't see who is sitting down by the kitchen door with your girl? (Maybe ignorance is bliss in this case.)

Even while we complain of our lot here at U. V. M., we can look to other campuses and consider ourselves fortunate. Take, for example, the fate of the guy on the end of the cafeteria line at Mass. State College, where every single student must eat at the college cafeteria. The line often extends twice around the dining room.

It is my opinion (and it can be taken with a grain of salt and viewed arbitrarily) that we should take our hats off to Miss Underwood and her assistants, who are making the food service here at our university, clean and efficient as it is. Incidentally they've been working against tremendous odds, too. In closing may I remind you that the time wasted while standing in the cafeteria line is negligible when compared to the time wasted "dawdling" over a coke and a cigarette. Take it from me, I know.

JEAN M. SPRAGUE, '43

To the Editor of the CYNIC:

In regard to the editorial concerning the cafeteria and the new waiter system in the soda fountain, there are a few points which should be made clear.

The new system which has been instituted is giving a number of students a chance to earn part of their way through college. Last year at this time there were three students working in the cafeteria; now there are nearly thirty.

The new waiter system has not been given a thorough enough tryout as yet and in the long run the service will be better than under the old system mainly because the fountain is too small to accomodate all the people that it must serve. Even the erstwhile writer of last week's editorial will agree that it is better to sit at a table and be served than it is to stand in a crowd four deep at the counter and wait to be served.

All the changes that have been wrought in the cafeteria system are for the benefit of the students and as such will probably prove their worth in time.

Freshman Women to Take Rules Examination

All freshman women are required to take the Student Union examination which will be given Wednesday, October 7, at 8 p.m. in the Williams Science Hall. It is necessary to know all the rules found in the Freshman Handbook as well as the Vermont Pledge and all of "Champlain". Room 27, the big lecture hall, is the place and only a sick excuse can be accepted as reason for non-attendance.

LOST—One pair brown woolen mittens with green embroidery. Also one pair of pigskin gloves. Please return because they won't fit you anyway. Sentimental value attached.

ALPHA TAU OMEGA

A. W. Martin '45 and Chesarone '43 have gone to Rutgers with the football team.

KAPPA SIGMA

Captain-elect Vinnie Manjoney is lining up his boys for another successful fall season of football. He expects to have boys out there for a practice game Wednesday afternoon against the Slippy Rock team from the Medical College.

Larry Killick '44, rushing chairman, expects this year to be a better and more prosperous year than any before.

"Misty" Rice '42, last year's football captain, visited the house last Sunday night on his return from New Haven, Conn., bringing his "to-be fiance" Harriet Woods '42 back to Alpha Chi Omega sorority house after a short stay at his home.

Anthony Lewkowicz '44 returned from a-Broad. The Broad's name is unknown.

"Slick-man" Conti has been limbering up in the parlor.

PHI DELTA THETA

There is a possibility in the near future of the engagement of Donald Joseph Nutter '43 and Anne Wills '43. He was seen last week in Woolworth's purchasing a pound of chocolate-covered cherries.

Ensign Charles Shortle ex-'42 and Frances Joan Lynch '42 are planning on their marriage in the next ten days.

LAMBDA IOTA

Bob Doherty '43 has been spending practically every night at home since coming back from summer vacation. It seems that at last he has found the true light of his life.

Ray Darling '43 spent the weekend in Bellows Falls at the home of his betrothed.

Harris Thurber '43 denies all rumors concerning a return engagement at the Black Cat.

Bob Templeton '44 is wasting away to a shadow of his former self.

Outing Club To Hold Open Meeting

The Outing Club will hold an open meeting for all members on Thursday evening at 7.30 in the Student Lounge in the Waterman Building. The plans and hopes of future operations will be presented, and the club set-up in general explained.

Highlight of the evening will be Prof. Roy Buchanan, the man who keeps the Long Trail long, who will show pictures and comments thereon. Singing, cider, and donuts are also to be on the program. And it's free!

W. A. A. Notes

There is still plenty of time to obtain membership in W. A. A. by attending three-fourths of the meetings of one of the three fall clubs: tennis, hockey or archery.

Nancy Fawcett is this year's manager of hockey, and the first meeting found thirty girls on the field. Hockey meets on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons. The beginners' class in hockey has invited the Burlington High girls to come up some time for a practice.

Tennis Club is under the managership of Janet Pike every Monday and Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock. A tennis tournament is being planned.

Because of large attendance, Archery Club has been divided into three periods on Friday afternoons: 4.00, 4.30, and 5.00. Joyce Byington is manager.

Those interested in horseback riding will have an opportunity to sign up for a ride next Sunday.

Sorority Notes

La Pointe Shines in Loss to Rutgers

Evans Readies Catamounts For Massachusetts State

Bay Staters Beaten In Opening Tilt, 26-0

Coach Fuzzy Evans has started his fast improving gridiron warriors on another week of grueling practice in preparation for this week's tussle with Massachusetts State. The Catamounts were just nosed out by Rutgers in last Saturday's fracas at New Brunswick, and exhibited a brand of ball far superior to that which they displayed against Rhode Island State. Upsetting all predictions, they played an inspired game, and had the New Jerseyites on the ropes until an unlucky break turned the tide. If the Green and Gold continue their rapid improvement, they should be in top form for the second home game of the season against the Red and White invaders from Amherst, Mass.

While Vermont was giving Rutgers plenty of pigskin punishment last Saturday, Mass. State was losing to the University of Connecticut, by the topheavy score of 26-0. The Bay-Staters were completely outclassed by the fast Connecticut eleven, and at no time threatened their opponent's lead. If this is any indication, Vermont's rip-roaring backfield and much improved line, should stand to win a ball game at Centennial Field this week.

"The Statesmen" come to town with a green line, made up for the most part of freshmen, and a backfield which could hardly be called experienced. Although the team packs a considerable amount of weight, the Connecticut reserves were responsible for three of the touchdowns scored against them last Saturday, which does not point to much defensive power. Neither did the Red and White backfield of Masi, Keough, Salwak, and Fedeli show much in the way of scoring wallop, although Campbell, a substitute back, looked impressive despite poor support from the forward wall.

The Catamounts sustained no injuries in the Rutgers clash, and returned from the gridiron battle with no gaps in the varsity ranks. Lineman Harry Parker sustained a twisted ankle during the fray, but it was fortunately of a minor nature. Bud Lippman, injured against Rhode Island, is still nursing a broken hand, and will be kept on the sidelines until the injured member heals sufficiently.

Although they soaked up plenty of punishment in the contest, the Vermont backs, fleet-footed Ralph LaPointe, hard-running Norm Beaulieu, blocker Monk Martin, and triple-threat Pete Kadzis, came through unscathed. The line, led by Co-Captains Chesarone and Benoit, bore up well under the pounding Rutgers attack, and after the week-end rest are raring to go in anticipation of the Massachusetts invasion.

More than $700,000,000 has been appropriated or allocated by the federal government for expenditures related to education during the year ending June 30, 1942.

Soph Halfback Continues At Two-Touchdown Rate

Kadzis Also Counters As Cats Bow, 27-20

By PHIL ROBINSON

One thing was very evident today as Vermont dug in, preparing to meet Mass. State this week-end, and that was that the Cat's claws were growing stronger, leading more than a few typewriter poets to make some neat predictions about the outcome of next Saturday's tussle with the Bay State lads.

The second conclusion that was drawn from the Rutgers battle was the fact that Vermont has some scoring power to exhibit when playing a club of its own calibre.

It was a surprised Scarlet eleven that faced the Green and Gold. Although thoroughly trounced by Manhattan a week earlier in a practice session, the Jersey boys were expecting an easy time of it, but Beaulieu's passes, LaPointe and Kadzis' running were factors that the red-clad gridsters hadn't reckoned with.

Vermont opened up on the eventual 27-20 score in the second quarter with Norm Beaulieu heaving a 35-yard pass to Ralph LaPointe who took it in the air. In five plays LaPointe had scored, and Norm booted the extra counter.

Rutgers retaliated with an aerial attack on which Zukaukus scored. The conversion was no good and the score read, 7-6, Vermont.

It was LaPointe again in the opening minutes of the third canto. On a double reverse from Kadzis, he romped 46 yards for the second tally to put Vermont in the van 13-6, Beaulieu having missed the point after.

Here again Rutgers tied things up when Kadzis' punt was blocked and fell into the hands of Conners, Rutgers end, who roared across from the 16-yard stripe. Heritage kicked the point, and the score was 13 all.

From this point it was Rutgers' game. Dennis scored on a 46-yard run, Heritage kicked the point. Minutes later Zukaukus plunged across on a fourth down from the 3-yard line, and the educated toe of Heritage produced the extra point to make it 27 for Rutgers.

Running and passing, Vermont marched up the field in the fourth period in a drive that the Jerseyites couldn't stop. Pete Kadzis climaxed the drive, going over from eight yards out for the Cats' final touchdown.

Summary:

Vermont		Rutgers

Vermont—Kunken, Sugrue, Cochrane, Reed, Murphy, Bushway, Kehoe.

Cadets Win, 14-0, As Panthers Lose

Vermont's state rivals, Norwich and Middlebury, maintained status quo over the weekend. The vaunted Horsemen cooled off highly regarded Colby, 14 to 0, at Northfield, for their second straight win. Middlebury, meanwhile, traveled to Medford, Mass., to absorb a 12-0 defeat from Tufts.

Norwich had trimmed Springfield easily in its first game, while the Middlebury Panthers were losing to Williams.

Norwich's seasoned Cadets are rated among the East's best small college elevens. The Horsemen, who routed Vermont, 59 to 0, a year ago, gave Dartmouth a rousing battle in a recent scrimmage.

Union Upsets Cat Harriers

Hoyt Approaches Record, But Garnet Wins, 24-31

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Saturday—In spite of Capt. J. P. Hoyt's near record running, the Union College harriers edged the Green and Gold here today, for the first time in three years, 24-31.

On a better than five-mile course, Captain Hoyt outdistanced the entire field with a time of 26:53.6, to take first place in the meet. This is easily the best Vermont time on the course, and nearly equals the Union record. According to Coach Post, it was the best race Hoyt had ever run for Vermont.

The Maroon and White sported a better team than they have had for three or four years. Quinlan of Union captured second place, far behind Hoyt, and McLaren of Vermont ran very well to end up in the third place slot. Union runners captured fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh places, to provide the winning margin over the Cats.

The team now has a two-week stretch to get in shape to meet Bowdoin. Many of the men still need more conditioning before they will be really ready, but by the time October 17 rolls around they should be able to show the Bowdoinites plenty of dust.

The men in the money finished as follows:

1. Hoyt (V) 26:53.6
2. Quinlan (U)
3. McLaren (V)
4. Snell (U)
5. MacMillan (U) } Tie
   Long (U) }
7. Highland (U)
8. Crown (V)
9. Clark (V) } Tie
   St. Mary (V) }

Military News

The freshmen are being drilled by Sgt. Pickett every morning and under his expert direction are beginning to show good military development. They will begin marksmanship firing on the range Monday.

Rifle team activities will start soon. Many expert shots are back and a good team is expected.

Uniform trousers, belts and hats are still needed and the military department will pay for all that are available and brought to the armory.

Child Care Training Course To Graduate

First Class in Country Signs 20 Certificates

What is believed to be the first class in the country to receive certificates for completing the Child Care Training Course, sponsored by the national Community War Services Division, and held under the auspices of the Vermont Council of Safety, was graduated at the University of Vermont this week. The twenty certificates were signed by Gov. William H. Wills and Miss Sara M. Holbrook, assistant professor of the education department of the University, who is director of the course.

The University turned over one of its smaller dormitories to the group, made up of candidates from all parts of Vermont, each one sponsored by some Woman's Club, Parent Teacher Association, Grange or health association in the state.

This specialized course fits its graduates to assist in schools or agencies, or with children whose mothers are working for defense. In case of children who may have to be evacuated, their care also would fall to the share of these trained young women, who must be at least high school gradautes in order to qualify.

Besides Professor Holbrook, the instructors included: Miss Frances Bates of the State Department of Welfare; Miss Persis Holden of the Vermont Children's Aid Society; Miss Emily Dinnegan of the Burlington Visiting Nurse Association; Dr. Elizabeth Kundert of the University's Medical College; Rev. William J. Cain and Mrs. Zita Taylor of the Vermont Catholic Charities; Mrs. Elizabeth Morrill, director of the Peter Pan Nursery School; Dr. Emelie Perkins and Miss Helen LeBaron of the home economics department of the University; Miss Catharine Cartier, principal of Taft School; and four members of the demonstration staff of the same school, Miss Florence Fisher, Miss Eleanor Sutcliffe, Miss Lois King and Miss Verna Parker.

Field trips, a required part of the thirty-hour course, were taken to St. Joseph's Orphanage, under the guidance of Father Cain, and to the Home For Destitute Children, in Burlington. The Taft School was also visited.

According to Professor Holbrook, there is great and increasing need for trained young women in this field, and a meeting of the committee was held at the University last Friday to consider plans for further courses.

Goodrich Classical Club

The Goodrich Classical Club will hold its first meeting of the year, Thursday, October 8, at the home of Professor Prindle. At this time initiation of members will be held. Officers for the year are: president, W. Maurer, '43; vice-president, June Hoffman, '43; secretary, Rosemary Warren, '44; treasurer, Gertrude Sherman, '44; and program chairman, Margaret Fake, '44.

Professor Long Talks At Collegium, Sunday

An interesting talk by Professor Long, followed by a spirited discussion on the part of members present, on the "Christian Attitude Toward War," filled the main portion of the program of Collegium Sunday night. Hymn singing, devotional, refreshments, and a novelty called "Filling the Fish Bowl," completed the evening.

Collegium meets in the basement of the College St. Church every Sunday at 7.30 p.m. All college students are welcome, whether they have received special invitations or not. Next week's meeting is to concern itself with the problem of the "Man in Uniform," and it is hoped to have Mr. Osborne of the local U. S. O. present. Do try to come.

Debating Starts

others will be on the schedule as usual, money permitting.

Twelve Debaters

Twelve debaters with past experience have reported to Mr. Powers and at the first debating meeting, to be announced in the next CYNIC, many more are expected, especially freshmen.

Daan Zwick '43, manager of debating, John Felopulos '44, and Bob Norton '44 are the mainstays of the men's debating team. All three are members of T K A, honorary debating society, and participated in last year's spring trip. Jacob Katz '44 and David Wheeler '45 will probably see more action this year; both are managers of branches of this season's debating program. In the women's debating team we find Faye Lipman '43, former manager of the women's team, Carolyn Brown '44, present manager, and Harriet Nelson '43. All three had a lot of experience in debating and are members of T K A. Promising material from last year's freshman class is represeted by Frances Donahue, Ruth Jordan, and Doris Rindler who were very active in freshman debating. Lilla Blumberg '44, a veteran in debating administration, is also out to make the team.

For the first time in U. V. M. debating history we shall find this year mixed varsity teams, and in this respect Vermont is only following the trend of other colleges.

One of the main problems of the people in charge of debating is to arouse the interest of the student body in this activity. The past record should make the students support its team. The day is October 10, the time 7.30 p.m. It will be the beginning of a very busy season.

Phi Sigma Delta and Irvin Lee Harris take great pride in announcing Irv's acceptance into Long Island Medical College. The drinks are on Irv, and the sky's the limit.

Phi Sigma Delta is anticipating an even more successful athletic season than last year according to Coach Stan Fieber. The turnout for football is exceedingly encouraging with emphasis on the number of experienced veterans returning. Opposition beware!!

FASHION SHOW

"Time and Design" will be the theme of the Delta Delta Delta fashion show ushering in the new fall season. Tri Delt girls will model the latest styles in harmony and color. Tea will be served at 4.00 by a representative from each sorority on campus. The price of admission is only fifteen cents.

Joan Eldredge, '43, is chairman of the committee for the show, and June Hoffman, '43, will announce. The clothes are being given by the Fashion Shop and the hats by the Old Bee Hive.

Many New Books in Library; New Lamps for "Light Readers"

Each week brings many new and interesting books to your library. They are your books. They are designed to satisfy your tastes. If you want "light reading" you will find it in your library. If you prefer books on the current conflict you have but to come to your library. Whether you read for fun or entertainment or for a more serious purpose the library will satisfy your requirements. Why not make the most of your opportunity?

Here are three books which are certain to interest you. There are many more waiting for you at your library. Why not come in and browse around?

Old Wolf

LEON W. DEAN

This is the story of Israel Putnam, one of the most colorful and important figures in early America. Putnam began his career as a prosperous landowner in New England. But such a tame existence was not suited to his ideas of life. From a farmer, he proceeded to become a member of the famous Rangers of the French and Indian Wars.

The tale of "Old Wolf" ranges from Fort Ticonderoga to the swamps of the Mississippi, from the Great Lakes to Cuba. The story is rich in narrative and description. The accounts of Indian capture, shipwreck, and fighting are especially colorful.

For a thoroughly enjoyable tale read the action-packed "Old Wolf."

Victory Through Air Power

MAJ. A. D. DE SEVERSKY

This is one of the most brilliant books to appear on this war. It comprises one of the most comprehensive analyses of this aspect of the conflict. The book reveals how America can win the war. It explains how air power has won all the crucial battles to date, and why America is ideally equipped to use this weapon in offensive action against the Axis.

The book is essential to a clearer understanding of the role which America can and must play in this world conflict.

Sherwood Anderson's Memoirs

Here is an unconventional autobiography which gives us the closest look we have had in our time into the artist's life and thought. It reveals his genius at its highest development. This, Anderson's last work, is a tale of great names, a tale of countless personalities who have added to the fabric of his natural creative talents. The whole book is a true expression of Anderson's belief that "Life, not death, is the great adventure."

Sis Warden Twirls; R. O. T. C. Training

The R. O. T. C. Band is featuring this year a coed drum majorette in the person of "Sis" Warden, a transfer student from West Virginia. Miss Warden has appeared in many big cities throughout the country and made her début on this campus at the Rhode Island game on September 26, leading the band in formations on the field and delighting the fans with an all too short exhibition of twirling.

Activity in the military department goes on in earnest as the sophomores under Lieutenant Erwin and the Juniors under Lieutenant Thayer are training in an assault course in the woods in back of the campus. This course features trenches, barbed wire, surprise targets and shell holes; all in the policy of practical work to prepare the men who may be called to active duty for the same basic training as is carried on in a camp replacement center.

Mortar Board Will Give Patriotic Dance Saturday

War Stamped Girls to Displace the Flowery Type at Big Affair

In keeping with the patriotic motive of the Mortar Board Dance in the cafeteria, Saturday night, Mortar Board wishes to ask all men attending the dance to cooperate by not sending flowers to their dates. Flowers are beautiful but there must be life to enjoy them. In order to preserve life, please make your contribution to the Blood Plasma Bank..

Mortar Board says, however, that defense stamp corsages would be in keeping with the motive.

Dancing will be from nine to midnight to the syncopated rhythm of the 178th regiment band of Fort Ethan Allen. Buy your tickets early, girls, and cast your vote for the A-1 man on campus.

Miss Gennette Davis, new Mortar Board advisor, Capt. W. R. Adams and Mrs. Adams, and Professor and Mrs. Robert Chapman of the engineering college will chaperone the affair.

With Alice Needham as general chairman, Janet Hackwell in charge of decorations, Helena Anderson, chaperones, Margery Witham, tickets, and June Hoffman, publicity, everyone is assured of a memorable evening.

Newman Club Has New Chaplain

Rev. R. F. Joyce is Well-known on Campus

Rev. Robert F. Joyce, pastor of St. John's Church in Northfield, who has recently been announced as the new Chaplain for Newman Club, is a loyal Vermont alumnus. To members of the faculty and to the University of Vermont in general, Father Joyce is a familiar figure and an old friend.

Graduating from the University in 1917, his leadership in campus activities and popularity among fellow students made him an outstanding man in his class, and a campus favorite. His University activities and honors included President of the Newman Club, Manager of Football, member of the Athletic Council and Ariel Board, Editor-in-Chief of the Cynic, President of the Press Club, Treasurer of Student Union, member of Boulder and Phi Beta Kappa.

The Newman Club is indeed fortunate to have a man like Father Joyce to be Chaplain, since his experience in dealing with young people has given him an understanding of their interests and problems.

Father Joyce will meet the students of the Newman Club for the first time at the meeting with the Bishop on Wednesday evening, October 14.

Vermont Meets R. P. I. In Varsity Debate

Saturday night, at 7:30 p.m. the Waterman Building, the U.V.M. debating team met R.P.I. in the first debate of the year. The topic discussed was: "Resolved: That the Allied nations should take complete economical control of the enemy powers at the close of this war (assuming an Allied victory)."

Mr. Zwick, '43, and Mr. Katz, '44, of the U.V.M. team, took the affirmative, while Mr. Berderich, and Mr. Daly, took the negative. The debate was a non-decision, with each speaker being allowed six minutes for rebuttal and nine minutes for debate.

The Locker Room

By Bill Roeder

The first duty of a newspaper man, by the soundly established tenets of his profession, is to report facts. His concern is the who, what, when, where, why, and sometimes how. The sphere of his assignment does not include his own sentiments. He has merely to operate a literary mechanism. The printed page, in the hands of its reporter, is not to suffer, to rejoice, to argue, to plead, to crusade. Emotion makes a barren ink.

But occasion to slip the pencil's bonds does arise, and will continue to arise, so long as names make news. And this is the document of a reporter who is faced with such an occasion, but who finds himself incompetent, verbally inadequate, and far too immature to cope with it.

We are striving to be compassionate without being maudlin, to be sincere without being flowery. So we feel that simplicity is, after all, perhaps best in taste.

Paths of Glory

A word for Bert: We've lost a fine personality and a simply amazing athlete. It was obvious from the start that he was to become the greatest runner Vermont has ever known, and before he had completed his first varsity season Bert Mott was a legend. This boy who had never run a footrace in his life before coming here blossomed overnight into a wonder runner, a fabled one-man team. The best competition he could get—Middlebury, Union, Colby, the vaunted Duggar of Tufts—Bert took 'em all on and ran 'em into the ground. He retired undefeated.

And a word for the campus: They say there isn't much spirit here at U.V.M. Don't you believe it. You're not rah-rah and you're not joe college because you are Vermont. But you're loyal and fast and gritty, and you're well bred. This way material spirit lies, rather than being boisterous ad nauseam.

You were troupers in this crisis. The show had to go on, and it did go on, with just the proper shade of deference and restraint. It was the sort of performance that whispered way down deep: coepi parte carere mei.

Which is exactly the case, Bert.

Thetas Help Blood Plasma Drive

The Thetas are giving a bang-up corny supper to end the campus Blood Plasma Drive with a song. Everyone wear his jeans, or corniest clothes, bring his corn cob pipe, and 35c for an all campus good time.

Thursday evening, any time from 5:00 until 8:00, drop by the Theta House in your horse and buggy to see what it's all about. Come to see how your favorite prof looks in jeans and rags. But don't forget to let him see how you look in yours.

Funeral of Bert Mott Held Yesterday In Morristown, N. J.; Many Fraternity Brothers Join Family In Final Tribute

The late E. Bertrand Mott

Mysterious Death Ended Outstanding Career As Athlete and Leader

Morristown, N. J. (Monday)—Funeral services of E. Bertrand Mott, Jr., University of Vermont athlete and senior campus leader, were held at the R. A. Lanperman and Son Funeral Home at 2.30 this afternoon.

Burial was in the Evergreen Cemetery in Morristown.

Six of Bert's fraternity brothers served as the bearers. They were: House president, William J. Benoit, Warden S. R. Pulleyn, W. J. Murray, J. W. Williams, D. J. Nutter, and P. R. Pulleyn. In addition, a large body of Phi Delta Theta brothers attended the rites.

In addition to his parents, Beatrice Lippman and Elias Bertrand Mott, Bert leaves a younger brother, John. Bert was born on October 2, 1921.

The sudden death which shocked students and faculty alike into a stunned silence cut short what all who knew him claimed to be a probable career in the field of track. Mott was the University's outstanding figure in this department, and held the honor of being the only man ever to hold the captaincy of the track team in his junior year. Had he lived, he would have carried the honor next spring.

In addition to his honors in the sports field, Bert was recognized as a leading figure in campus life. His mysterious death brought a sorrowful climax to a week of rushing and pledging, of which he was Phi Delta Theta chairman. But he was not alone a fraternity man. His other honors included membership in Key and Serpent, junior honorary society and Boulder, senior men's honor society, business manager of his yearbook, member of Champlain Sabres, military honor society.

Faculty Unanimous in Praise of Scholar, Leader, Athlete and Friend

There was still gloom on Vermont's campus today—and rightly so. Students went about their tasks in silence, still unable to believe that so perfect a specimen of life as Bert Mott would no longer be there to greet them.

Words alone cannot express what everyone felt deep inside today, for the deeds of man spoke for themselves without clarification.

Administrative and athletic heads made the following statements upon hearing of the tragic death Friday morning:

President Millis

I am sure that I speak for the entire faculty and student body when I express my sorrow occasioned by the death of Bert Mott. His cheerful disposition, energy and loyalty were an example to all of us. He will be missed from the college community, and I know that he will be long remembered.

Dean Swift

"Bert" Mott was one of those men whom a college cites as an example of the well-rounded student. His scholarship was good, he was an outstanding athlete and he took part in other extra-curricular activities. Pleasant, friendly, not spoiled by success, he was liked by all and as a member of Boulder and an outstanding senior he would have played an important part on the campus this coming year in molding student opinion in the present crisis.

We shall all miss Bert for he was a fine man who gave every promise of becoming a useful citizen and a graduate of whom the University of Vermont would be proud.

Graduate Manager Gardner

Words are so inadequate to express the degree of loss of fine young men typified by Bert Mott.

Men of his unusual characteristics with whom we are fortunate enough to work are a source of great pleasure and make the duties of this office increasingly enjoyable.

He made a tremendous contribution to this department and to the University.

We are deeply grateful for his presence among us.

Coach Archie Post

In the fall of 1939, there appeared with the entering freshmen on the Vermont campus a tall, long-legged kid, answering to the name of E. Bertram Mott, Jr., and hailing from Jersey. No fanfare of trumpet hailed his arrival among us, even as none sounded his leave taking from us. Like all freshmen, his qualifications, his characteristics, his abilities were unknown and untested.

Unbeknown to him or to us, he had but three years of life in which to live and work and play with us. In that short time, he proved to us and to all who knew him that he was a man, a student, a leader, an athlete par excellence, and a gentleman.

In our work together, I came to know him as few others on the campus knew him. During my span of work here, it has been my pleasure and privilege to know and work with many grand boys. But for none have I felt greater interest, respect, and affection. Bert was a lad whom I would have been proud to call my son.

Bert has left us. And that which he embodied of mental and physical attainment is no more. But the example of his courageous, fighting spirit cannot be taken from us. In words so similar to those of our cousins across the sea, may we say, "Bert Mott is dead! Long live Bert Mott!"

Home Ecers Hold First Meeting

The Home Economics Club held its first meeting of the fall semester last Thursday evening, in the club room at the "Brick Barn." Norma Charest entertained at the piano with popular music as the members were assembling.

The business meeting was called to order by Florence Bevins, '43, President. The secretary's report of the last meeting was read by the secretary, Kathleen Easton, '43. Catherine Walker, '43, treasurer, gave the treasurer's report. The roll was called. The president then outlined the program for the year and it was agreed that meetings would be held on the first Thursday of each month.

Shirley Needham, '45, gave an interesting account of the National Home Economic Association Meeting which she attended last summer in Boston. Virginia Mitchell, '45, then spoke briefly on Omicron Nu, Home Economics honorary society.

A short party followed at which the freshman members were further acquainted with their fellow "home ec'ers," and light refreshments were served.

Engineers to Meet

There will be a joint meeting of the three engineering societies — A.I.E.E., A.S.M.E. and A.S.C.E., Tuesday evening, Oct. 13, 7:00 p.m. in the Fleming Museum Auditorium. The speaker will be Prof. R. G. Chapman. Also movies on Arc Welding.

Cider and doughnuts will be served.

All engineers are invited.

To An Athlete Dying Young

The time you won your town the race
We chaired you through the market-place;
Man and boy stood cheering by,
And home we brought you shoulder-high.

Today, the road all runners come,
Shoulder-high we bring you home,
And set you at your threshold down,
Townsman of a stiller town.

Smart lad, to slip betimes away
From fields where glory does not stay
And early though the laurel grows
It withers quicker than the rose.

Eyes the shady night has shut
Cannot see the record cut,
And silence sounds no worse than cheers
And earth has stopped the ears:

Now you will not swell the rout
Of lads that wore their honours out,
Runners whom renoun outran
And the name died before the man.

So set, before its echoes fade,
The fleet foot on the sill of shade,
And bold to the low lintel up
The still-defended challenge-cup.

And round that early-laurelled head
Will flock to gaze the strengthless dead,
And find unwithered on its curls
The garland briefer than a girl's.

Fraternity Notes

ALPHA TAU OMEGA

Len Savignana, All-American from Brown in the class of '44, is spending the week at the house.

Christopher Bicoulas, '45 and George Stanley, Jr., '45, are to coach the touch football team of which Walter I. Dorion —Red to you—is captain.

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON

Paul Sundberg has been laid up with a misery all this week.

Hal Pulling was recently appointed custodian engineer of the chapter house.

Several members visited their respective homes last week-end. These included Franklin K. Pierce, '44, whose interest in Montpelier is not purely parental.

DELTA PSI

The Delts had a tea last Saturday afternoon in honor of the alumni. Dudley Davis poured (in). William Sisson, '43 and Milton Kaufman were guests. Elmer Nicholson, '38, was a visitor from Montpelier.

KAPPA SIGMA

Fidlay Killick and Tony Lewkwitz announce that they are the proud owners of a motorized scrap iron heap that runs—downhill. Larry is, at present, diligently working in his laboratory trying to utilize the great power of H_2O as fuel. Right now the contraption is rusting peacefully in the Sigs back yard.

Coach Vinnie Manjoni's football charges are in grand shape and promise their followers something to follow them for.

Roy Alberghini had his Petty pictures stolen and wants it known that he considers this "Petty" larceny.

Lieutenant J. G. Maxwell makes his debut Saturday night.

SIGMA NU

Complete list of Sigma Nu Pledges:

Dick Debus, Joseph Mele, Al Sawyer, John Wriston, Rob Roy, Bob O'Grady, '44; Norm O'Grady, '45; Mark McLean, '44; Hilton Jones, '44; Jim Aseltine, '44.

Dick Clark, '42, has returned to school this year. Porter Dale, a transfer from Wesleyan, will be an active affiliate with the Beta Sigma boys this year.

SIGMA PHI

Pat Moore, '42 and Helaine Fuller of Burlington, will be married in the Episcopal Church Saturday afternoon at four o'clock. Pat is expected from Georgia late Friday afternoon and the brothers expect to celebrate the last evening of his bachelorhood in fine style.

Bob Pond decided on a two weeks' vacation in Florida starting immediately.

Now that the brothers have finished settling their World Series bets, it seems that many of them came out even. Luke Hamlin was in New York last week-end to check up on the ball clubs. Must be he didn't believe the radio and the papers!

Sigma Phi announces the pledging of Robert Walker Ker, Jr., '45, and William Dana Flanders, Jr. '46.

A banquet was held in honor of the pledges Thursday night at the Star Restaurant. Andy Gallup, '46, was so enthralled by the Soundies that he nearly forgot to eat.

Ace Moore, '42 and Helene Fuller of Charlotte were married in a simple but beautiful wedding on Saturday afternoon at St. Paul's church. Ace is now in the ground force of the air corps and will be stationed in Detroit.

Punch Pyle '46 and Chuck Warner '46 are moving into the house.

TAU EPSILON PHI

Billy Lederman wishes to announce his engagement to Helen White of Everett, Mass. To prove it he is busy growing a moustache.

Sam Ziskind has returned from Springfield where he was accepted into the Navy V-7 program, while Jack Rabbit Robinson still hopes that carrot juice will do the trick.

Sadly disillusioned Felsie returned from Yankee Stadium where he wore out his lungs on behalf of McCarthy's boys.

Reginald Magnus, the Tep successor to Galento has been appointed house detective. Already he is tracking down the abductor of Dazzling Stroyman's fountain pen.

Girls Needed to Spot Pilots, Also Planes

All during the summer months the young married women of Burlington have "spotted" airplanes in the Old Mill tower. Next Monday the job, under the leadership of Mrs. Bosworth, house director at Sanders Hall, will be returned to the women on the hill.

At the first student union mass meeting, Miss Simpson urged girls to sign up for this vital war service.

To date only about twenty girls have answered the call. Miss Simpson needs from 100 to 150 volunteers. Although all these girls will not work during the same week, that many are needed to arrange a schedule. Any girl who can possibly spare the time is urged to turn her name and hour plan into the Dean's office as soon as possible. It is planned that the girls will work two hours at a time. The important thing to remember when you spot airplanes is to wear warm, protective clothing.

Something New Has Been Added

BARBARA TENNIEN

Each week finds many interesting books appearing in the Billings Library. These books are varied in character and comprehensive in the fields they cover. Among them there are books which either entertain or instruct. Anyone who inspects these books will be repaid in dividends of pleasure. The college students should take advantage of this opportunity.

Here are just a few samples of the many fascinating books to be found among the new purchases of the library:

Writers in Crisis

By MAXWELL GEISMAR

This interesting book shows how Lardner, Hemingway, Dos Passos, Wolfe, Faulkner and Steinbeck have influenced and have been influenced by American life. To read this account is to view, through the creative eye, the period of the golden twenties and the frightened thirties. The difference between these two decades illustrates the wide range of experience through which we have passed during this period of turmoil.

Napoleon in Review

By GEORGE GORDON ANDREWS

This is a series of ten studies designed to review certain aspects and characteristics of Napoleon and his work. The book is a revaluation of the subject in the light of the most recent research and modern critical analysis. Here we find new light on Napoleon's character, achievements and his place in history.

The Pre-Raphaelite Tragedy

By WILLIAM GAUNT

"The high light of the picture is of course Rossetti, that brilliant, wayward, neurotic humbug." The book is a portrait of a genius who maddens his friends by his slovenly inertia and moody selfishness and at the same time slowly weakens his creative spirit by morbid dreams, hatreds, drugs and remorse. Other interesting characters who appear are the prosperous Millais, the turbulent Morris, Ruskin, the gentle Burne-Jones and the charlatan adventurer Howell. The whole work is informing and extremely readable.

Norway and the War

Edited by MONICA CURTIS

Here we have a documentary record of one of the most flagrant instances of international trickery—the invasion and subjugation of Norway. The work provides most of the printed evidence available and will appeal to readers of all types.

The Vampire Economy

By GUENTER REIMANN

In this book, an authoritative study of business under Fascism, the reader will discover a clear-cut picture of business life under Hitler which is most revealing. The phenomenon of a stock exchange in a totalitarian state, the manipulation of State and private investments, the effects on world trade, and the working of the Four-Year Plan are all thoroughly examined.

Sorority Notes

ALPHA XI DELTA

Alpha Xi Delta reports the loss of an important item by an esteemed member. The lady in question is Marion Nelson, '43, and she has lost the shine on her nose. 'Nuf said!

The Alpha Xi's held a coffee hour Sunday afternoon in honor of their new housemother, Mrs. Sanderson. Guests included Dean Mary Jean Simpson, Miss Harris, and several alumnae. Mrs. Guy Nicholls, Miss Anna Smith, Lois Cotton, '43, and Jean Norris, '43, poured. Rita Shea, '44 and Polly Parker, '44, were in charge. (P.S. Mrs. Sanderson reciprocated by taking the girls to the movies.)

PI BETA PHI

The Pi Phi's are holding a breakfast October 18, but plans are not definite yet.

A recent visitor at the house was a dog of uncertain origin and species who spent the night and then went his merry way.

Another item of interest—"Little Confucius," the precious child next door has a twins complex. Any two Pi Phi's whom he sees together he calls twins.

A large group of Pi Phi's and others attended the wedding of Sis Lynch and Charlie Shortle, Thursday morning.

A cause of great consternation is that Mortar Board comes when the athletic heroes are out of town. It is fervently hoped that the boys who wear the wings will help out.

Jeanne Woolley, class of '42, came up for the weekend.

Nancy Goodwin, '42, spent the weekend at the Pi Phis and attended the wedding of Helene Fuller and Lt. A. C. Moore '42.

The Pi Phis cordially invite everyone to attend their annual breakfast at the house from 9 to 11 on Sunday, Oct. 18. Bring your friends and socialize.

SIGMA GAMMA

The Sigma Gamma's went a-hunting last Saturday with great success. Straws autographed by best-looking soda jerker, last year's football helmets, etc., were among the treasures hunted and found.

A very succesful rummage sale was conducted by Sigma Gamma last Friday and Saturday in charge of Kay Doane, '44.

Monday night Florence Smith, '43, passed marshmallows, but just what the happy occasion was cannot be ascertained.

DELTA DELTA DELTA

"Line and Design" was the theme of the Tri Delt fashion show held yesterday of which Joan Eldredge, '43, was in charge. Representatives from each sorority poured, under the guiding eye of Peggy Flint, '43. Among lovely models noted were Florence Cudworth, '45, Barbara Webb, '44, Bonny Nolan, '44, Shirley Wedge, '44, Alice Edwards, '45, and Dot Collins, '44.

Joené Agard, '42 and Jean Brehmer, '40, were week-end guests at the house.

We heard that Peggy Flint had a bad fall and broke her leg, but she seems to be hobbling about pretty well.

The Tri Delt lawn has undergone a severe raking at the hands of Dee Delano, '44 and little Peggy. They are still picking out prickers.

Myra Gray, '44, Ita Casey, '44, Bonny Nolan, '44, and Barbie Webb, '44, entertained four bee-yoo-tee-full Canadian sailors the other night; friends of Joan Eldredge.

ALPHA CHI OMEGA

Harriet Woods, '42 and Madeleine Greaves, '41, visited the Alpha Chi house over the week-end.

Betty Myers, '40, was married to Ernest Chilton, October 4.

Mary Perry, '44, was noticed looking longingly across the fence west of the Alpha Chi house. We thought you learned your lesson last year, Mary.

NOTICE

There will be a debating meeting this Wednesday, October 14, at 7.30 p.m., in the Waterman Building, Room 140. Everybody is welcome.

By PHIL ROBINSON

Monday morning quarterbacks had virtually nothing to wrangle about on Vermont's style of play Saturday, and Tuesday afternoon reporters were predicting a bangup battle with Union next week as a result of the Green and Gold's 13-6 win over Mass. State.

It was the fancy aerial duo of Norm Beaulieu and Ralph LaPointe that did the trick, for they accounted for both of Vermont's touchdowns by the airlanes.

Big Norm engineered the first Catamount touchdown midway through the second period. The Cats were on the Statesmen 44 yard line when their scoring march opened. In two plays Kadzis and Beaulieu gained about six yards on the ground, and then Norm started flipping the long ones. Standing on his own 40 yard marker, Norm heaved one to Red Murphy on the 29, but there was a five yard penalty against the Vermont lads at this point and the ball was returned to the Mass. State 34.

And this was where the fireworks began. Beaulieu took the ball from center and began to fade. Before he had stopped he was back on his own 45 yard line. He let go with a beautiful pass that settled into the arms of LaPointe on the Mass. State five yard line, and the latter stepped over the initial Vermont touchdown. Not satisfied with a six point lead, Norm confidently stepped in to boot the extra point, and it was 7-0, Vermont.

The Red and White's lone touchdown came in the early minutes of the fourth quarter. LaPointe carried the ball and was downed for a five yard loss on Vermont's 47. The Cats took to the air again on the next play with Beaulieu tossing 'em. Storozuk intercepted Norm's heave on the locals' 40, and ran it back to the 36 before he was tackled. In two plays the Bay Staters had scored. Don Campbell let fly with a long one that Frank Keough lugged over from the three yard line. Monk Martin blocked Masi's try for the extra point, and the Green and Gold never relinquished the lead.

The invaders' threat brought the Vermont contingent to its feet in a hurry, and they traveled overground from their own 44 to Mass. State's 17 where Beaulieu again tossed one to LaPointe on the three yard line for the terminating score of the game.

In addition to LaPointe and Beaulieu, Pete Kadzis with occasional fine support from the line showed what he could really do with that power-house drive of his. Co-Capts. Phil Chesarone and Bill Benoit played 60-minute ball for the Cats with Paul Walgren going in time after time to break up threatening Mass. State plays.

Don Campbell, ex-Dartmouth man, was easily the bright light of the Bay State club.

Along The Sidelines: There were few injuries for either club with the exception of the usual skin bruises...Warren Anderson suffered about the worst injury of the afternoon, having to be carried off the field, but hospital examination proved nothing serious, so he was released . . .

Easily the most impressive feature of the entire afternoon was the minute of silence at half time, a tribute to a great athlete and fine student, Bert Mott.

The Line-Up

Starting lineups:

Cat Harriers Meet Bowdoin Friday

With two weeks practice time since their last meet, the Green and Gold harriers are getting into fine shape for their only home encounter of the season, on Friday, October 16, with Bowdoin.

Hoping to rack up their first win of the season for the home fans, the hill and dalers will meet with some tough competition from the Bowdoinites. To help offset this threat from the North, Coach Archie Post hopes to have the services of Harvey Goodell, Freshman star of two years ago, who has been nursing a bad case of shin-splints for the first part of the season, but who should be ready to go Friday. He is also looking to two Freshmen, Lepper and Morrison, to increase the power of the varsity. Lettermen Hoyt, Crown, St. Mary, and McLaren, stars of the Union meet, are expected to show good form again Friday.

Randolph Aggies Eke Out 29-30 Win Over Frosh Runners

Taking first and fourth places, the Farnsworth brothers of the Randolph Aggies sparked their team to a close 29-30 win over the U.V.M. Kitten harriers, in an informal meet here last Saturday. Fred Webster's newly formed Hinesburg club fell far behind into third place with 72 points.

In second and third place were Lepper and Morrison, Archie Post's freshman stars. These two clocked times of 11.08 and 11.16 respectively, over a better than two mile course, which would lead some to believe that they will see action next Saturday against Bowdoin in varsity competition.

The first ten men lined up as follows:

1. S. Farnsworth (R)
2. Lepper (V)
3. Morrison (V)
4. Farnsworth (R)
5. Shortsleeve (R)
6. Sullivan (V)
7. Russell (H) } Tie
8. Milligan (V) }
9. Goff (R)
10. Small (R)

Two new curricula, one to prepare physical therapists and one for occupational therapists, will be instituted at the New York University school of education next fall.

Evansmen Prepare for Union Trip Middlebury Nearly Upsets Dutchmen

Improved Vermont Squad Seeks Second Triumph

Vermont's victorious Catamounts, tasting blood from their first kill of the season last Saturday, will hit the trail again this week in quest of more big game. Union College is the potential victim, and the Dutchmen had better beware when the Cats invade Schenectady on the 17th for they have well-proved the sharpness of their fangs and claws.

That the Green and Gold was a much better team than had appeared on Centennial Field against Rhode Island State was very obvious to the fans who witnessed last week's clash with the Massachusetts invaders. The tackling and blocking was better, the running was harder, but the most outstanding factor was that the Cats had developed a passing attack which was going to give their forthcoming opponents plenty of headaches. Norm Beaulieau pitched strikes all afternoon to the delight of the touchdown hungry customers, and both counters were direct results of his educated arm. The other backs also showed plenty of stuff during the fracas. Pete Kadzis revealed himself as a plunging, powerful runner. Chick Lapointe was his usual scintillating self and Monk Martin played an excellent defensive game. The line too, deserves its share of the credit as time after time it piled up the Mass. State offense and stopped it cold. The Catamounts have shown great improvement in every game so far, and with the state series looming up next month, will be ready to try their claws on their Green Mountain rivals.

Vermont will have to be in top shape though, to take care of Union next Saturday when they invade the Schenectady campus. The Maroon and White boasts a veteran eleven, with a hipper-dipper aerial attack equal to that of the Cats. The Dutchmen pulled a Hollywood finish against Middlebury last week, nosing out the Panthers 14-13, with a thrilling 80 yard drive down the field with minutes left to play. Union has two dead-eye leather slingers in fullback Hal Enstice, and left-half Bartlett, both of whom led the assault all afternoon. The man to watch on the receiving end of this combination is Siegal, the right-half, whose glue-fingered catches featured the contest, as he romped across the goal for one of the deciding touchdowns. These lads are not exclusively razzle-dazzle artists however. They all can buck the line, especially Freshman Enstice who sparked the Union attack against the Blue and White.

The forward wall of the NY upstaters is also strong. Although weak in the opening stanza of the Middlebury fracas, the Union line held well during the remaining quarters and came through with several last-ditch, goal-line stands when it made the difference between victory and defeat. Sharpe, heavy pivot man, came to the fore when he recovered a fumble, to set up the 2nd tally.

Coach Fuzzy Evans' gridders have thus far sustained no serious injuries, with the exception of Bud Lippman who is still out with an injured hand. Lennie Kunken suffered a twisted knee against the Massachusettes Staters, but it is evidently nothing of a serious nature and he will be back in the line-up for the practice sessions this week.

This Is Where You Came In

Walt Domina, East's highest scoring back last year, swung into stride Saturday with three touchdowns as his Norwich Horsemen swamped Worcester Tech., 44 to 6, for their third straight win. The Cadets are undefeated.

Middlebury came close to winning its first of the year, but a last-ditch Union rally gave the Dutchmen a 14 to 13 triumph. Union plays host to Vermont in Schenectady Saturday.

U. V. M. Band Has Girl Leader

By MARY ASHE

Our U. V. M. band has a new and exciting leader this year, and I am sure everyone has seen her, smartly twirling her baton, and putting the boys through intricate drilling. Her name is "Sis" Warden, and she hails from Bluefield, West Virginia. When asked why she selected Vermont as her college, she told me that her mother and father are natives of Vermont, and that she herself was born in St. Johnsbury. "Sis" is 18 years old, and has spent 17 of those years in the South.

As girl twirlers are more or less a rarity and an object of awe and admiration in the eyes of the public, I asked "Sis" how she first happened to become interested in twirling and how long she had been at it. She told me her father had charge of the Legion Drum Corps, and eight years ago when girls were first admitted to the corps, she became interested in the art of twirling. With the constant aid and assistance of her father, she has indeed become an outstanding figure, as a girl twirler.

At present "Sis" is taking the Liberal Arts course, and her main interests are physical education and aeronautics. Her chief aim and ambition is to be able to get the required number of hours to ferry planes.

"Sis" Warden is a girl whom we will all be hearing a lot about this year, both because of her charming and pleasing personality, and her outstanding ability.

T.E.P. Gridders Given Tough Pre-Season Drill

War has struck the Tep House. Under the supervision of "Scientist" Joseph a gasless, motorless, horseless movement is underway. The "Scientist" calls his wartime chariot a bicycle. It even moves.

The football team is being put through a tough pre-season training with "Windy" Stroyman calling signals. "Butch" Glazin, the intramural terror, is living up to expectations. In order to keep his weight down, he is being subjected to a very strict diet.

Sey Comen believes in closer American-Canadian relationship and with this purpose in mind is making periodic good-will visits.

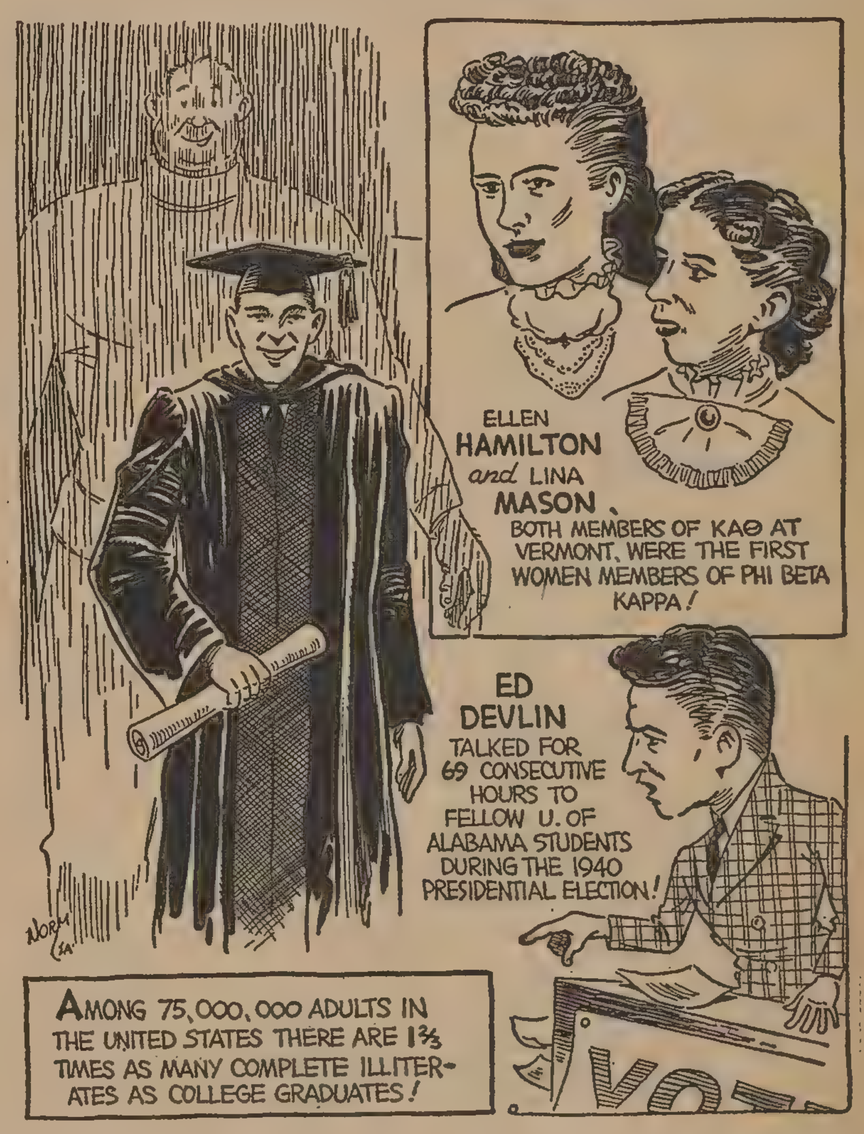

Tep was pleasantly surprised in seeing Major David London, U.V.M. '27, of the Air Corps back at the chapter house.

We wish to take this opportunity to re-express our condolences with the late Bert Mott's fraternity brothers at the Phi Delt House. His memory shall linger for years with all of us.

Ruth Jordan Elected President of Collegium

Doctor Osborne, director of the Burlington U.S.O. introduced members of Collegium to the problems of U.S.O. and their solution, in his talk Sunday evening. This was one in a series of discussions of problems brought about by the war.

Our own Professor Evans is to be present next Sunday to discuss the peace after the war, and the meeting is anticipated with pleasure.

Newly elected officers for the year are: President, Ruth Jordan '45; Vice-President, Ruth Ann Holmes '45; Treasurer, K. Stokes '45. The duties of the secretary are to be shared by R. Goss '44, D. Wheeler '45, and D. Milligan '46.

Watch the CYNIC for more about next Sunday's meeting. It's going to be extra-special.

Agriculture Club Hears Doctor Burns Tuesday

Last Tuesday evening, twenty members turned out for the gathering and in the absence of Pres. Crown, Malcolm Dana presided over the meeting.

The meeting was highlighted by a speech from Dr. Burns on the history of the University since his arrival as a professor in 1910. Burns spoke of the growth and development of the different colleges and the various changes and uses of the buildings on campus. It was of interest how the Old Mill served both for a dormitory and classrooms. The second floor was used by students for sleeping quarters and also for preparing meals.

Doctor Burns received much enjoyment from recalling past incidents as did his audience.

After the meeting refreshments of chocolate milk and cookies were served.

Classical Club Holds Meeting

Seven Candidates Were Initiated After Exam

The first meeting of the Goodrich Classical Club was held at Southwick, Thursday evening, October 8, with June Hoffman, vice-president, officiating. First, a business meeting was held by the old members. The secretary's and treasurer's reports were read by Rosemary Warren and Gertrude Sherman and two sections of the constitution were discussed for revision.

During a very solemn ceremony, the seven candidates seeking admission were brought in one by one and questioned. Such identifications as Plato, Mycene, Cleopatra, Virgil, Homer, and Horace constituted the examination. The new members are Elaine Anderson, '44, Helene Levesque, '44, Robert Pratt, '44, Ruby Sanderson, '45, Vesta Stevens, '45, Beatrice Thompson, '45, and Elizabeth White, '44.

The president, Walter Maurer, was able to return in time to welcome the new members into the club.

Margaret Fake, chairman of the program committee introduced a Latin version of the stagecoach game. After everyone was dizzy, the members played the scissor game, each one saying in turn, "accipio transversis, do non transversis."

Feeling the need of resuscitation, everyone adjourned to the upstairs dining room where Mrs. Prindle had in readiness delicious refreshments of several varieties of cake and punch.

Religious Groups Renew Efforts for Spiritual Program

Jewish Meeting

There was a meeting of the Jewish students of U.V.M. last Friday at 4.00 P.M. in the Students' lounge, Waterman. The purpose of this meeting was to launch The Hillel Movement on the campus. Dr. Isaac Rabinowitz, director of the Hillel Foundation at Brooklyn College, addressed the students in a short talk. Dr. Millis and Prof. Hall participated in the program.

Y. W. C. A. and Chapel News

On Wednesday morning at 10:00 the chapel service will be conducted by the religious department of Y.W.C.A., with Penelope Easton '44 in charge. The theme of service is to be silence.

Each year the Y.W.C.A. conducts such a service.

V. C. A. News

Sunday, October 11, the V.C.A. was represented in sending a deputation to South Hero. Reginald White was in charge of arrangements assisted by Alfred Amee and Llewelyn Jones, who are both members of Vermont Christian Association Cabinet.

This deputation is necessitated by the lack of ministers in that region, and the V.C.A. assists the clergy by conducting the religious service with the help of Prof. Hall.

U. V. M. Guernsey Cow Breaks Milk Record

Peterborough, N. H.—A two-year-old registered Guernsey cow, U.V.M. Raider Rosemarie owned by the Vermont Agricultural Experiment Station, Burlington, Vt., has just completed an official record of 10,253.8 pounds of milk and 502.3 pounds of butterfat in class G. This is above the average of the Guernsey breed for this age and class. Full information on the breeding and performance of this cow is now published in the Performance Register of Guernsey cattle.

Train or No Train Co-Eds Get Dates

Romeos Carried to Hill In Special Squad Cars

The coeds who were waiting for their dates in the ROTC Band Sat. evening, Oct. 3, have Mayor Burns of Burlington to thank for the fact that they arrived as soon as they did. Through the cooperation of President Millis and the military department under Major F. P. Simpson, P.M.S. & T., the band had formed an escort for the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts from their arrival at the Union Station to the Hotel Vermont.

But the train had been late and the dance at the Waterman Building was due to begin. When the band was playing selections as the distinguished society filed into the hotel, the mayor noticed the impatience of the boys. Soon a disturbance in the form of the Black Maria and squad cars broke up the crowd and carried the members of the band away to the girls waiting on the hill. The mayor had saved the evening.

D. M. Bashaw '27 Dies in Crash

Other Graduates Take Over Where He Left Off

Sad news arrives from Puerto Rico of the death of First Lieutenant Donald M. Bashaw of Burlington. He is the victim of an army transport plane crash in the Greater Antilles. Lieutenant Bashaw was graduated from U.V.M. in 1927 with a B.S. degree in agriculture. His survivors are his bride of four months, Priscilla Stearns Bashaw, and his mother, Mrs. Frank Bashaw.

Dr. William H. Heininger has accepted a first lieutenancy in the United States army. Dr. Heininger graduated in 1939 from the college of medicine of U.V.M.

David C. London, 1927 graduate of U.V.M. and a member of Tau Epsilon Phi fraternity has been promoted from the rank of captain to major.

Wallace M. Greene, of the marine corps has been promoted to the rank of lieutenant-colonel. Lieut.-Col. Greene attended U.V.M. for one year and then accepted an Annapolis appointment.

Expenditures for 1940 and 1941 at the University of Pittsburgh total $2,773,335.

Newman Club Host To Large Number of Alumni at Meeting

Matthew F. Brady, Bishop of Burlington, Guest Speaker

At eight o'clock on last Wednesday evening in the Student Lounge of the Waterman Building, the Newman Club was host to a large number of Alumni, parents, and friends at an informal gathering in honor of Most Rev. Bishop Matthew F. Brady.

The meeting was called to order by Helena Anderson, President, who introduced the following speakers: Rev. Robert F. Joyce, Chaplain of the Newman Club, Rev. William Cassidy, Chaplain of the Bishop DeGoesbriand Hospital, Prof. Catherine F. Nulty of the Secretarial Department, Dean Carrigan of the Agricultural College, and Most Rev. Bishop Matthew F. Brady, of Burlington. Each of the speakers urged the Newman Club to assist the administration in promoting a more religious spirit among the students of the University, and expressed the hope that the Catholic students would have a successful and happy year as active members of the Newman Club.

Brief Address

In a brief address, the Most Reverend Matthew F. Brady, Bishop of Burlington, expressed his pleasure upon learning of the revival of interest in religious life at the University of Vermont. He said that it represented a swinging back of the pendulum in education. The forefathers of New England were deeply religious men. Most of them came to this country on account of religious persecution. Among these early settlers were such men as John Harvard and Eli Yale, who founded the Universities of New England, where religious education was a part of the curriculum. Later, it was decided to eliminate religion from education, with the result that the Universities of this country for the most part became utterly devoid of any religious influence upon the lives of their student body.

Religion Necessary

He pointed out that today educationists are beginning to recognize that something

Learn How Faculty Governs Graduate Work

On Wednesday evening, October 14, at Southwick, the Graduate Club held its first meeting of the year. The election of officers was held and the results were as follows:

President—Paul Fenton of the Physiological Chemistry Department.

Vice-President—Jack Hinman of the Chemistry Department.

Secretary—Arnold Lohman of the Dairy Department.

Treasurer—Edward Irwin of the Military Department.

Following elections, Professor Moody, new director of graduate study, gave a short description of the newly formed faculty organization which governs graduate work. He also spoke on what improvements seemed possible in graduate requirements.

Professor Dykhuizen, faculty advisor, briefly discussed the activities of the Club.

Eighteen members, same as last year, were present, but the membership is much smaller than previous years because of war conditions and many previous members being in the armed services.

V. C. A. To Hold Open House Wed.

Clyde Hess of Y. M. C. A. To Be Guest Speaker

The Vermont Christian Association will hold an Open House Night Wednesday evening, October 21, in the Student Lounge of the Waterman Building starting at 7.30 p.m. All students of the University and others interested in the work of the V.C.A. and who would like to receive active membership in the association are cordially invited to attend.

Clyde Hess, Director of the Community Y.M.C.A., will be the guest speaker. His message will concern the importance of the work of the Student Christian Movement in the present world crisis. It is certain that Mr. Hess' speech will be very interesting, and will stimulate much thought in the minds of his hearers. Anyone who comes will find his time well spent.

Especially now in the troubled times we find ourselves in today, college students should make an effort to take an active part in the college religious life.

The program will be in charge of Llewellyn Jones, the V.C.A. president, Wendell Earle, and Reginald White. Refreshments will be served.

It is hoped that all those invited will make it a point to attend.

Student Union to Give Make-up Exam on Rules

The Student Union makeup examination will be given October 22, at 4.30 in the Y room in the Old Mill. All girls whose names are listed in the Y room on the bulletin board are required to take this test. Be sure that you know all the rules, as well as the Vermont Pledge and "Champlain."

Dick Otis Killed In Plane Accident In South Pacific

Left U. V. M. Last Year To Enter Air Service; Memorial Service Wed.

Mr. and Mrs. James C. Otis of Burlington received notice by telegraph of the death of their son, 1st Lieut. Richard Tabor Otis, in an airplane accident somewhere in the southwest Pacific, October 13. No details were available from the telegram which announced that a letter was to follow.

Richard Otis

Richard was a member of the class of 1942, University of Vermont, and left college the middle of his junior year to enter the air service. He received his basic training at Albany, Ga., and took advanced flying at Gunther Field, finally being graduated a second lieutenant from Maxwell Field, Montgomery, Ala.

Last June, he was promoted to a first lieutenancy and left San Francisco, Cal., for a tour of duty at Oahu, Hawaii, following which he received the assignment which took him to the southwest Pacific. He was the pilot of a bomber plane.

Lieutenant Otis' engagement to Miss Mary Tenerani of Proctor had only recently been announced.

He was a member of the Delta Psi fraternity at the university, and prepared for college at Lowville Academy, Lowville, N. Y.

Collegium Group Plans Supper Meeting Sunday

An interesting discussion of the problems of a just and durable peace brought to a close the meetings of Collegium dealing with the war.

The next three meetings will be devoted to a study of the problems of College life, with talks given by outstanding campus leaders.

This coming Sunday, October 18, there will be a supper preceding the meeting at 6.00. Everyone is cordially invited to it and to the meeting which follows at 7.00. (Please notice change of time.)

Watch the Cynic for a notice of the topic and speaker for this coming Sunday.

Sunday Supplement Shows U V M Girls

Sorority Pledging and Bristol, Vt., Pictured

"Sorority Pledge," is the subject of a pictorial story in the October 11 issue of Parade, pictorial supplement to Sunday newspapers in 15 large cities throughout the country. The scene is the University of Vermont and the subject matter is the rushing season among the sororities on the hill.

The frontispiece is a picture of Miss Peggy Durfee of this city, as an accepted sorority pledge. The illustrated story portrays the trials and tribulations of rushing and its problem for the freshman.

The freshman is depicted as she goes through the rushing, acceptance as a pledge, some of the stunts the prospective initiate is subjected to, initiation and life as a full-fledged member.

Bristol Spotlighted Too

The town of Bristol also comes in for some publicity in a picture story in the same issue, as that village is presented as one in which there has been but little great change over the years, but a village aware and awake to its responsibilities in the war effort and discharging them, too.

Fall Mortar Board Largest in Years Beaulieu A-1 Man

Hallowe'en Dance Is Planned for Saturday By Staff and Sandal

The members of Mortar Board, girls' Senior Honorary Society, were hostesses at a semi-formal dance last Saturday evening at the Waterman Cafeteria. A large group of the members of the student body was present.

The cafeteria was attractively decorated with a patriotic red, white and blue color scheme. Music was furnished by the Serenaders.

Norm Beaulieu was selected by popular vote of the co-eds as Vermont's A-1 man. This was the first election of its kind in the history of U. V. M.

Alice Needham was chairman of the dance. Janet Hackwell supervised decorations; Marjorie Witham, tickets; Helena Anderson, chaperones.

Staff and Sandal

Staff and Sandal will sponsor a dance Saturday evening, October 24 in Waterman Cafeteria. Alma Gaylord and Priscilla Perkins say that Hallowe'en decorations will be in order for the dances. Kay Brown is lining up the chaperones and the Catamounts, with Tom Keighley in charge, will provide the swing. Dancing from 8.30 to 12.00 and admission is 55 cents.

There will be a Staff and Sandal meeting at 7.30 Thursday evening at Southwick.

New Home Nursing Course Offered at The Mary Fletcher

There is an opportunity for all the women in the junior and senior classes to take the Home Nursery course given by Miss Sullivan from the Mary Fletcher Hospital. These are unusual times and we can do our part by being ready to serve in any emergency.

As vital to the future of our nation as the output of planes per month is the health of its people. We, who aren't at the war fronts or working in defense factories, can do our part here on this campus by taking advantage of every course which will help us to serve in some way. Sign up today, girls—in the Y room—be among the first to join the Home Nursing Group.

I want to thank all those who supported the Health Council on Tag Day. Through your cooperation we have been able to increase the fund about sixty dollars available to all women students on campus.

Barbara Dunbar,
Health Council President.

New Art Hobby Group To Meet in Art Center

Is drawing "just for the fun of it," one of your hobbies? Would you like to learn linoleum block printing, wood cutting, or how to paint with oils? To give all those interested a place in which to work with free tools and instruction, an art hobby group is being formed. The first meeting is this Wednesday at 4.30 in the Art Center, in back of the Chapel. Those present will discuss what they'd like best to do in the group during the coming year. All the members of the Art department are very anxious to have everyone who likes art turn out. You don't have to be talented, it isn't a course for credit, it's just going to be a kind of club at which you can learn and have fun.

U. V. M. Military Staff Trains 50 Rifle And Pistol Coaches; First in Country

The group of 50 rifle and pistol coaches who completed their training under the R.O.T.C. staff of U.V.M. several weeks ago and who returned to their civilian life without much note have become a very special group of men. According to communications from the Washington headquarters of the National Rifle Association, this group of men are the first products of collaboration between the N.R.A. and the Department of War and are the first completely drilled and fully certified group of coaches to be trained by any R.O.T.C. staff in the country.

The class of 50 civilians which trained early in the summer was started by the University as a contribution of its facilities to the war cause. At the time of its origin, it was thought to be an exceptional move. According to Sgt. A. J. Landa, who coached the men, the civilian group was processed by the same formula of safety precautions, sighting and aiming, and practice in firing from the various positions that has been used with R.O.T.C. students at U. V. M. for many years. Of the training program, Sergeant Landa said, "The credit for the system belongs to Master Sgt. R. T. Conner, who has turned out more marksmanship teams and individual champions than probably any other Coach. Sergeant Conner has been associated with the Vermont R.O.T.C. for over 20 years." Each member of the class received an N.R.A. certificate with 50 hours credit as a rifle and pistol coach.

This system of training was so successful that the N.R.A. and the War Department want to know what the system was that it may be used for training civilians in all colleges having R.O.T.C. battalions.

The R.O.T.C. staff has been coaching classes all summer. Their largest class was the Women's Volunteer Drivers Corps with 60 women earning attendance certificates for 24 hours of prone shooting. They are planning to return to the U. V. M. range to learn to use pistols.

Twenty members of the University faculty and students of the summer session were also granted certificates for 24 hours of practice in marksmanship from prone, kneeling and sitting positions. The summer camp of the Barnard school for girls provided 14 girls for rifle practice, seven of whom received N.R.A. certification as rifle and pistol coaches. All of the group received 32 hour attendance certificates.

According to Major F. P. Simpson, head of the Military Science Department, plans are being made to expand the service of the Department. It is now in charge of the basic military training of the enlisted men in the glider-pilot training classes sponsored by the CAA and the Engineering College of the University. Arrangements are being made to train 160 auxiliary policemen in rifle and pistol during the fall.

The Vermont Cynic

The Official Student Newspaper of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College

VOL. 61 OCTOBER 20, 1942 NO. 9

The College Front

When you see a fellow about your own age in a uniform, or see young men and women in working clothes, do you as a college student ever wonder just what such people—and people in general—think about your being in college now?

Kids you knew in high school, neighbors in the home town, the fellow who sat in front of you in Psych I; they went in the army or navy or into the graveyard shift at the machine shop, while you followed a more normal and certainly a more placid course—going to college. Oh, we've been accelerated a bit, and restrictions touch here and there, but we are still leading a sheltered normal life. When the newspaper headlines hit you hard, do you ever wonder why you should be reading books and pushing pencils?

The New York Times expresses what people think of us as students, in a recent editorial:

"It is a responsibility for any boy—or girl, either to be going to college in these days. Not one of them can truthfully say that it is no one's concern what he does with his time. He must justify himself for being at his studies while others of the same age or a little older are in the fighting services or in war factories."

Read that over again. It is what a thinking person thinks of our position, and it is certainly the most favorable appraisal we can expect.

We used to hear a lot about accelerating college schedules so a fellow could get his diploma before entering the army. With the draft age now down to 18 years, it would take plenty of acceleration even to graduate a genius. No, it isn't college as usual just a little faster than usual. If there is going to be college today, it must be that students are working towards the end of making themselves best prepared to serve where their country's war effort calls for them.

Some people will kindly and glibly make you feel good by telling how the world will need trained and educated people after the war. Others will get their feet nearer the ground and say that your training is needed to help win the war. We are finding out that winning the war is just a little bit harder than we thought it would be. And it is certainly harder than going our placid pre-war ways.

To be equal to the task means just that much more effort while we have the chance. We shall all be called. We should not be found wanting.

D. M. Z.

Killed in Action

The war is hitting closer to home as American men are fighting the war overseas. Announcement of the death of Lieut. Richard Otis in the southwest Pacific battle area hits particularly close, for the memory of that sincere young man is still fresh with us. Knowing how to live his life, he was an earnest student, an active Delta Psi, and an athlete. Dick died as he lived—in action—giving his best to what meant most to him.

Attention! Men of Vermont

To The Men At The University of Vermont:

Within a very few days Congress will enact the legislation to lower the draft age to 18. I think all of us have been expecting this change and hence its actual enactment should not cause any particular upset to our plans. The machinery of the selective service is of necessity somewhat slow in its operation. Hence, no one now becoming liable to induction will be called during the current semester. Yesterday's paper carries a statement that an amendment has been adopted by the House which would defer automatically students in high school or college until the end of the semester in which they are called. All 18 or 19 year old men can plan with reasonable certainty to complete the current academic year.

For the past few days I have seen some evidence that the certainty of the change in the draft age has affected some of the students at the University of Vermont in an unfortunate way. I have learned that some feel that there is now no particular point to serious college work in view of the certainty of military service. My own reaction is just the opposite of that since it appears that because the time is so short, it is more necessary than ever to get the most from the present educational opportunities. The things which you are doing in college are significant in themselves and will be significant as preparation for progress in military services. I urge that every Vermont man make full use of his opportunities and thereby be sure that he profits by the time which he spends in the University.

Kappa Phi Kappa Hears H. D. Pearl

A large number of members and guests was present at the meeting of Kappa Phi Kappa, Educational Society, last Wednesday evening. Mr. D. Pearl, Principal of Burlington High School, spoke on Professional Educational Organizations including Vermont State Teachers Association, National Education Association and other outstanding organizations of teachers and supervisors and outlined the education program of the country. Professor Douglass, faculty advisor of the society and a member of the National Council of Kappa Phi Kappa, spoke on the aims and purposes of that society and what it has accomplished on the Vermont campus. A general discussion followed. Plans for the next meeting include initiation of the new members.

KAPPA ALPHA THETA

After the bang-up success of their Blood Plasma Supper, the Theta's all slept overtime in preparation for further service. Added impetus was given to the drive when Jean Hall '42, and John J. Spasyk '42, donated $5 to the fund as announcement of their engagement.

Janet Rust Wood '42 and Hazen F. Wood '42, passed chocolates last Monday night.

Recent visitors at the house include Carol Bell Taylor '41.

SIGMA GAMMA

A buffet supper for Burlington alumnae, patronesses and mothers of Sigma Gamma was held Sunday, October 11. Decorations, in charge of Florence Smith '43 and Kathryn Marcott '45, were in the fall motif. Hazel Osgood '43, was general chairman of the event, ably assisted in culinary capacities by Hazel Butterfield '43, Hilda Ebare '43, Beverly Carr '43 and Cathryn Doane '44.

Charlotte Hyde '42 and Verna Allen '42, were in town last week-end.

On the hike last Saturday to Mayfair Park, many curious beasties were noticed, chiefly by means of the olfactory sense.

DELTA DELTA DELTA

Betty Hawkinson '44, was out of town over the weekend.

A tea dance was held at the house last Saturday, attended by 50 couples and chaperoned by Prof. and Mrs. R. E. Long and Prof. and Mrs. F. D. Carpenter.

ALPHA CHI OMEGA

A supper for alumnae was held Sunday night. Among those present were noted Harriet Kieslich Taggart '40 and Elizabeth Doton '41, Med. '44.

DELTA PHI EPSILON

Jean Saul '41, was married to Lieut. Howard Miller of Fitchburg, Mass., Thursday, October 8.

Marjorie Rubin '45, went home over the week-end.

ALPHA XI DELTA

Jane Badger '42, was a week-end visitor at the House.

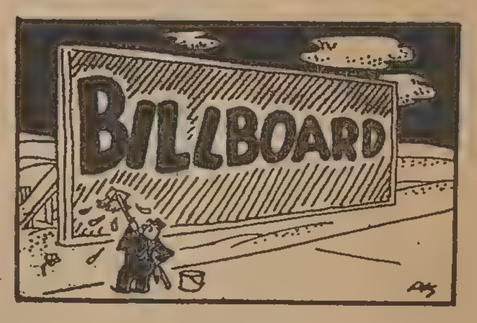

Alpha Xi wishes to announce for the edification of all that the back door of their house is in the front and the front door in the back. However there is some question as to whether the side door is front or back. If you are habitual back-door caller you must come to the front of the house to go in the back door.

First-Half Drive Wins for Dutchmen, 26-12

Mr. Four by Twelve

Chick Holds Scoring Lead

Chick La Pointe, Catamount halfback star, held his position as leader in Eastern scoring circles Saturday, the Associated Press discloses. La Pointe's two touchdowns against Union hiked his four-game total to 48.

La Pointe has made two scores in each Vermont game—Rhode Island State, Rutgers, Mass. State, and Union. A scorer's error had credited him with a third goal in the Rutgers contest, but this was made by Pete Kadzis, frosh fullback, and the six points were subtracted from La Pointe's total last week.

La Pointe has scored all but ten of Vermont's 58 points. Kadzis' touchdown and four extra points by Norm Beaulieu make up the remaining ten.

Big Walt Domina, of Norwich, trails Chick by five points. He has tallied six touchdowns and seven extra points. Third in the East is Bill Hart, Delaware fullback, with 42. Domina may well forge ahead this week-end. His Cadets oppose a Middlebury eleven which has yet to win, while Vermont remains idle.

Cadets Triumph Over Coast Guard

Norwich and Middlebury preserved their respective streaks Saturday. The Cadets humbled previously unbeaten Coast Guard Academy, 13 to 6, while Middlebury was losing, 26 to 6, to Colby. Walt Domina scored one Norwich touchdown to remain on the heels of Vermont's Ralph La Pointe in the national scoring race.

The Horsemen and the Panthers collide Saturday, when Vermont has no game scheduled.

Harriers Nip Bowdoin, 25-36

Cats Sweep Scoring Behind Visiting Duo

Coach Archie Post's University of Vermont harriers upset Johnny Magee's Bowdoin team, 25-36, on the home course last Friday, to rack up their first win of the season.

Acting Capt. Allen Hillman and Joe Carey of Bowdoin clocked identical times of 19:08, on a course a little better than three and one-half miles long, to tie for first place in the meet. But that was all for Bowdoin as ten second later, Captain Bud Hoyt of Vermont, leading six other golden jerseyed Vermonters, swept across the finish line to take third place. Marty McLaren ran a good race to land fourth place and Ernie St. Mary was not far behind with a fifth. John Corliss and Butch Earley finished sixth and seventh, and Freshmen Bob Brisbe and Dick Lepper were eighth and ninth.

Coach Post was very well pleased with the team work that bunched these seven men together, thus clinching the meet, and with the running of Captain Hoyt, only ten seconds behind Allen Hillman and Joe Carey, who turned in outstanding performances. Hillman floated over the course with that easy distance-eating stride that scored so many points for Bowdoin in a track meet here last Spring, and Carey matched him all the way, finishing in identical time.

Bowdoin, usually a formidable opponent, lacked the depth necessary to bunch its runners into scoring positions, for other than Allen Hillman and Joe Carey the team was composed of green and inexperienced Freshmen. This plus the loss of Capt. Curt Jones to the air service, resulted in what is nearly the worst race Bowdoin has run for some time.

The Clemson College mess hall contains 278 tables and seats for 2,224 students. Four tables are available for guests.

Phi Delt, Owl Gridders Win

Down TEP's, SAE's In Interfraternity Plan

Thus far the touch football league has seen the pre-season favorites gain decisive wins, while several underdogs have come up with some major upsets.

In the opening encounter, the SN's were trounced handily by the powerful ATO aggregation. Scoring in every period, the ATO's rang up 40 points, while displaying plenty of ability and scoring punch.

The Phi Sigs, using their vaunted aerial attack showered the Delta Psis 34-12. A fast-breaking offensive with lots of aerial strength clinched the game for the highly-touted outfit.

In a fast-moving game, the Phi Delts, drubbed the Independents, 27-12. The boys from the marble house looked good in winning and are a real contender for top flight honors.

In a Saturday game the Owls defeated the SAE's to the tune of 30-18. Boasting a strong outfit, the "Owls" simply carried too much power for the boys from Summit Street.

In this week's games the Kappa Sigma and ATO's meet in a tussle, which promises to be a great battle. Both teams have won their initial encounter and each will be out seeking higher laurels.

The Sigma Phis and the strong "Phi Sigs" meet in a Friday game. The Sigma Phis are yet untried, and they must be considered the underdog, going into their first game. The Phi Sigs, on the other hand, have proclaimed themselves real threats by virtue of their decisive win last week.

The lower bracket of the league which consists of those teams which have lost one game, begins this week with the SN's and Delta Psis meeting in the first game on Tuesday. The Independents and SAE's tangle on Thursday in the second game of the loser's bracket.

LaPointe Gets Two

Mud Bogs Air Attack—Enstice, Bartlett Star

By PHIL ROBINSON

A bedraggled and battered Green and Gold gridiron crew returned to the campus Saturday evening, bringing with them a sad tale of defeat.

The Cats, who had one week previous outpassed and outplayed a Mass. State eleven, succumbed to the attack of Union College, 26-12.

Old Jupiter Pluvius showered everything but good luck on the Cats, stalling them from the opening gun until half time on the ground and in the air.

The hipper-dipper passing combination of Norm Beaulieu and Ralph La Pointe failed to click as the heavens opened up to make the Schenectady school's playing field a veritable quagmire.

Time and time again Norm would fade for one of those famous touchdown flips, but the slippery footing caused the sensational halfback to fall more than once in the attempt. Out of a total of ten passes, the Cats were able to complete but two compared to Union's seven completed aerials in fifteen tries.

It was all Union during the first half as the Dutchmen, paced by Hal Enstice and Bob Bartlett, ran and passed to a nineteen-point lead at half-time.

Scores on Kick-off

Thoroughly brought to life at half time, the Cats continually threatened in the final two chapters. Vermont's scoring spree opened however, in the second quarter, with Ralph La Pointe doing the damage. Regarded as one of the East's best runners, and the leading scorer in this section, La Pointe took Union's kick-off and chalked up six points.

Easily the highlight of the damp afternoon, it was this broken field running presentation of eighty-five yards that sparked the Cats. La Pointe took the ball on his own fifteen-yard marker and sprinted the distance for the initial counter. Beaulieu came in to boot the point after, but the attempt failed, and the score read Union, 19-Vermont, 6.

Although Vermont was offensively on its toes in the third and fourth periods, the Garnet managed to crash over for another tally in the third canto. Hal Enstice, Union's tossing hero, and Bob Bartlett combined to chalk this one up, the former heaving the leather to Bartlett, who stepped over for the goal. Bartlett calmly stepped in to kick the extra point, and to hang up Union's scoring power for the rest of the afternoon.

Tally After March

In the final quarter the Evansmen came to the fore again as La Pointe climaxed a drive from mid-field which the Red and White were unable to cope with. Ralph ran this one over to keep his average of two touchdowns per game in tact.

To say that a first-half jinx hit the lads hard would be far from misstating the case, for the Cats couldn't seem to click in the initial periods. Some observers even went so far as to dub them the "gutless wonders," but the last half wiped away any doubt that the Green and Gold would be a pushover for Trinity in two weeks, that is, if Beaulieu and La Pointe are able to get their passing attack into working order.

Fuzzy Evans' proteges escaped Saturday's New York junket without serious injury. Scotty Ingram who played some scintillating fifty-nine minute ball for Vermont received a smash in the mouth that cost him a broken tooth and a cut lip, but the former Spaulding High School player will be ready to go against Trinity.

A fitting and well-deserved climax to Saturday's defeat was the awarding of A-1 honors to Norm Beaulieu. The feminine numbers among the students combined to elect Norm as their choice for A-1 man on campus.

Cats Win One, Lose Two In Autumn Tennis Play

Netters Whip St. Mike's, Bow to Middlebury

By MONTY KELLEY

Tennis is essentially a spring and summer sport, but many schools and colleges have a short fall schedule in the way of preparation for the next season's matches. In keeping with this trend, the University of Vermont has arranged a brief round of contests for the enthusiastic netmen who are rugged enough to brave the autumnal winds.

The Middlebury Panthers invaded Burlington for the first match of the season, and succeeded in turning the Catamounts back to the tune of a 6-3 defeat. Captain Billy West and Wendall Harvey were the only Vermont men to come through in the singles, both winning their duels with ease. In the doubles, Harvey and his partner, Warner Black, were the lone U. V. M. victors.

Next on the schedule was St. Michael's College. The Mikeman didn't even press the Cats who won handily as West, Wicker, Harvey, and Black won their singles and the duos of West and Wicker, and Harvey and Black emerged victorious in the doubles. All of the Green and Gold netmen played hard, slashing ball. Their shots were flat and speedy and they were really clipping the white lines all afternoon.

On Saturday, October 17, the Vermont team journeyed to Middlebury for a return match with the Blue and White. Because of transportation difficulties only half of the combine arrived in Panther-Town, and the result was a Middlebury victory. The depleted Vermonters put up a valiant fight however. Black tied his match 7-7, Wicker was outclassed 6-0, 6-2, and Harvey won his third singles of the year 6-4, 6-4.

Cat-Union Line-Up

UNION (26)—Le, Platt; lt, Hill; lg, Kayne; c, Charpe; rg, Hoffman; rt, Howard; re, Newton; qb, Carroll; lh, Bartlett; rh, Siegel; fb, Enstice.

VERMONT (12)—Le, Barry; lt, Walgren; lg, Ingram; c, Chesarone; rg, Benoit; rt, Sugrue; re, Parker, qb, Martin; lh, Beaulieu; rh, La Pointe; fb, Kadzis.

Periods	1	2	3	4	T
Union	6	13	7	0	26
Vermont	0	6	0	6	12

Touchdowns: Union—Bartlett 2, Enstice 2; Vermont—La Pointe 2. Points after touchdown: Union—Bartlett 2. Subs: Union—Ford, Klarman, Slee, Marvin, Quigley, McKennis, Green, H. Fox. Mendelson, Leroy, Bates, May, Smith, Carstens, Lapann. Vermont—Pulleyn, Bushway, Cochran, Goldman, Paterson, Nutter, Reed, Prior.

Referee—E. J. Kearney, Syracuse. Umpire—J. F. Farrell, Michigan. Head linesman—E. W. Dunn, Adams, Mass.

Time of periods, 15 minutes.

Wendall Harvey is so far the only undefeated man on the squad. Harvey got his early training at Camp Abnaki, under the guidance of Guy Chang, erstwhile Davis Cup contender. He plays a smashing game in both singles and doubles, serves well, and is at his best during a fast volley. Wendall played for Burlington High School, in his prep school days, and was at the Lake Placid Club this summer.

Another standout of the team is Capt. Billy West. West is an experienced tournament player and a seasoned veteran of the courts. He has participated in many tournaments in this district and is well-known to all fans in the locality.

One picture is reminiscent of Thornton Wilder's "Our Town," showing John C. Brownell, formerly of this city, actor and author, now of Starksboro, who, in Frank Craven style, tells the story of Bristol. A number of well-known Bristol citizens are shown in the series of pictures.

The two features reached several millions of readers, as the combined papers have a total circulation of nearly 2,000,000. Some of the larger cities' Sunday papers carrying it included Chicago, Detroit, Washington, Syracuse, Akron, Denver, Jacksonville, Nashville, Newark and Chattanooga.

At a recent meeting the University Council voted that starting November 2 and continuing up to the Christmas recess, the following schedule of classes be adopted as an experiment. If this works out well and Burlington does not change from War Time to Eastern Standard Time this program may be continued by vote of the Council.

Weekdays except Wednesdays

Military Science	8.00- 8.50
First hour	9.00- 9.50
Second hour	10.00-10.50
Third hour	11.00-11.50
Fourth hour	12.00-12.50
Fifth hour	2.15- 3.05
Sixth hour	3.15- 4.05

Laboratory sections which at present meet for three hours, from 1.30-4.30, will meet from 1.45-4.45.

Wednesdays

Military Science	7.30- 8.20
First hour	8.30- 9.20
Second hour	9.30-10.20
Chapel	10.30-11.00
Third hour	11.00-11.50
Fourth hour	12.00-12.50
Fifth hour	2.15- 3.05
Sixth hour	3.15- 4.05

The Council hopes in this way to save some electricity during the early morning hours and also some fuel.

Dramatic Club to Present First Play

At 8.00 on Friday, October 23, the curtain will rise on the first of two one-act plays to be presented that evening by the Dramatic Club in the auditorium at Southwick. These plays boast the direction of stars in the University Players, honorary dramatic society, and feature many freshmen in the casts.

"Moonshine," which has been directed by Helaine Goldberg and Silvia Wellwood, stars by Guy Nichols and Mervyn Morgan. Patty Page and Patty Pike have coached "The Step Mother" and the cast for this action is: Margaret Miller, Phyllis Taylor. Jack Williams and Maurice Kelley.

Prof. G. F. Kidder Holds New Position

George V. Kidder, associate professor of classical languages at the University of Vermont, has been appointed to the newly-created position of administrative secretary of the university on a part-time basis, according to information released today from the offices of Pres. John S. Millis.

Mr. Kidder's duties in the new position, it is explained, will be that of coordinating the various phases of the university's public relations program. This includes alumni activities, fund-raising efforts, publications, placement of graduates, and a program to interest prospective students.

J. Hervey Macomber, Jr., of Burlington, trustee of the university, who recently accepted the position of secretary to Sen. George D. Aiken in Washington, D. C., has resigned as secretary of the University of Vermont corporation, it is announced, and as a member of the executive committee of the board of trustees. He will, however, retain his position as a member of the board.

The board of trustees has elected Frederick W. Shepardson of Burlington to succeed Mr. Macomber as secretary of the corporation, and S. Seeley Reynolds of Middlebury to succeed him on the executive committee.

Many thanks to the Phi Delts for finally returning our full keg of cider which some of them accidentally took home with them Thursday.

Committees Report At First Meeting Of Student Govt.

The president opened the first formal meeting of the new semester. After the roll call was read and the minutes read and accepted old business tabled from the last meeting was continued.

A report was read on the freshman picnic sponsored by Student Government and the honorary societies during the first week of the year.

The Religious Life Committee reported that it had met with the faculty, Religious Life Committee on Sunday and that plans were underway for chapel programs for the year.

The Social Committee reported that the complete social program for the year will be printed in the Cynic for the benefit of the upperclassmen who have not as yet received a copy.

Tentative plans were outlined for a Bean Supper and football rally to precede one of the coming games. The Pep Committee will be in charge.

Letters were read from the Student Assembly Committee of Plattsburgh State Teachers College and the Burlington Community Concert Association concerning the appearances of musical artists in the city and on the campus.

The motion was made and passed that Robert White '44, as chairman of the Finance Committee, be authorized to sign requisitions as well as Julia Fletcher, Treasurer of Student Government.

Nominations are to be made from the senior class for an Executive Committee member to replace Wayne Dudley who went into the armed services. Election for this office will be held soon.

The meeting was adjourned after it was announced that the officers and executive committee members will meet with the Student Conference Committee on Tuesday, October 13, at 4.15 in the South Conference Room at Waterman.

Respectfully submitted,
Marilyn L. Eimer,
Secretary U. V. M. Student Gov't.

Killed

Besides his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James C. Otis, he is survived by three brothers and a sister. James C. Otis, Jr., is with a weather detachment in South Carolina; Robert Samuel Otis, a junior at the University of Vermont; David Otis, a sophomore at Middlebury College and Miss Janet, who is employed at Fort Ethan Allen.

A memorial service for Lieutenant Otis will be held Thursday afternoon at 2 in the First Methodist church.

Gold Key to Give a Smoker for Freshmen

Plans are being completed by the Gold Key for a Smoker for Freshmen in the Student Lounge of Waterman Building at 7.30 Wednesday evening. Program will consist of speakers chosen from leaders on campus and one or two representatives from the faculty. These speakers will be followed by singing, refreshments and "smokes." There is a possibility of an Industrial Movie.

Thirty or forty of the Freshmen chosen alphabetically will be invited to line up material for next year's Gold Key and give one an dall an equal chance.

Red Cross Course in Home Nursing Of Value to Both Men and Women

Symptoms of mumps will be studied along with Spanish verbs, and the technique of the bed bath will come in for a lot of scholarly discussion in many colleges and universities this year. The American Red Cross is embarking on a campaign to make its Home Nursing course available to everyone of college age. Classes are being organized, either as part of the regular curriculum, or as an extra-curricular activity.

"It is most important that college graduates know their health fundamentals when they go out to do their war jobs," said Miss Mary Beard, director of Red Cross Nursing, discussing the campaign. "One of the duties of our colleges today is to turn out healthy men and women who will be readily acceptable to the armed forces or who can speed up the production lines in war plants.

"Girls today should not consider themselves ready for marriage unless they can take care of the sick in their own homes. They should realize that doctors and nurses will not be available for minor illness. They will have to know a great deal more about taking care of themselves and their families than the peacetime mothers who could seek professional advice whenever they wanted it. Furthermore, both men and women should be equipped to fight possible wartime epidemics."

Arrangements have been made to facilitate instruction in home nursing in schools and colleges. The first unit, dealing with mental and emotional health, home environment and protection against disease may be taught by a home economics instructor. Community health projects may be taught by public health officers or nurses. A registered nurse is required to teach the last part of the course, which covers the care of mother and baby, and bedside and convalescent nursing. It also includes how to carry out the doctor's orders, keep the patient comfortable, to recognize signs of illness, and how to deal with communicable diseases.

Those who take the Red Cross Home Nursing course will no longer be baffled by a thermometer. They will know how to give a bed bath, how to make a bed with the patient in it, and how to improvise back rests out of suit cases. They will also learn about diets for the sick.

"With women doing men's work, men should know something about women's work, especially in wartime when tasks can't always be delegated to the customary persons," Miss Beard said. "At the same time men entering the service may be of great value to their fellow soldiers in emergencies if they know something about this vital subject."

Red Cross Home Nursing classes may be organized on any campus or by any group of college students by applying to the local Red Cross chapter. It will assist in securing an instructor approved by the Red Cross. The instruction takes a minimum of 30 hours and is usually spread over one-quarter or a semester.

Other Red Cross activities to be stressed on American campuses this year include nutrition, first aid, life saving and water safety.

important has been left out of education. They have come to realize that religion is necessary in the life of every man and woman.

Moreover, this war has made thinking people realize more than ever the need of God in education. The Most Reverend Bishop expressed the hope that this war, cruel and terrible as it is, may teach the world that it cannot toss God out of life, that it cannot toss God out of education, that it cannot toss religion out of the lives of men and women and expect them to find peace and happiness.

Youth's Battle

It is the youth of this generation who are going forth to battle with the world to uphold the heritage and the ideals of their faith. If they haven't religious faith, then their generation and the world about them will be the losers for it.

Rev. Stanley Jones To Speak on Campus And at Churches

Internationally Known Missionary Is Here For the Duration

The Rev. E. Stanley Jones, internationally known missionary to India, who will speak at the University of Vermont convocation, as well as in two local churches, on Friday, October 30, under the auspices of the University Committee on Religious Life, the Vermont Church Council and the East and West Association, is in America for the duration.

Lecture Tour

Unable to return to India under present conditions, Doctor Jones is addressing churches, conventions and campus convocations, and is conducting Christian Missions sponsored by the Department of Evangelism of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America. During the summer he has assisted at four American Christian Ashrams, an adaptation of the Hindu form of religious retreat, in California, North Carolina, Wisconsin and New Hampshire.

Doctor Jones, who was born in Clarksville, Md., and received his education at City College, Baltimore, and at Asbury College, began his career as a missionary in 1907, when the Methodist Episcopal church commissioned him as pastor of the English Church in Lucknow, India. He has three times refused election to the position of bishop, preferring to continue his work in the Far East.

Author

He is a prolific writer on religious subjects, and some ten of his books, beginning with "The Christ Of The Indian Road," have not only reached the best seller list, but have been translated into some 20 foreign languages.

Doctor Jones comes to the University and Burlington from Albany, N. Y., where he will take part in a five day coaching conference on Evangelism. En route, he will stop in Rutland and Middlebury, where he will hold conferences with county pastors, and will speak at the State Youth Conference in Middlebury.

Open Competition For the Carlson And Bailey Cups

With intramural debating activities finally under way, the managers of debating have decided to put the Bailey Cup and Carlson Cup into open competition again.

The Bailey Cup is awarded to that sophomore or freshman team of two which defeats the other in the finale debate. Preliminary debates among freshmen and sophomores will be held separately until the best team of each class has been selected to meet in the finals.

While the Bailey cup is in competition for boys, the Carlson cup can be won by girls of the freshman and sophomore classes. The same rules apply as stated for the boys. The best freshman girl team of two will meet the best sophomore team in the final debate and the trophy will be awarded to the winning girls.

All freshmen and sophomores interested in the competition should sign up by November 1, with the debating coach M. D. Powers in the Waterman Building, room 151. Persons can sign up singly or in teams of two. Shortly after November 1 the debating topic will be selected and dates for the preliminary debates will be set.

TO ALL TREASURERS

Will you please do the following by October 28. In my box in the CYNIC office will be a sheet of paper. On that sheet will you please put LEGIBLY the name of the organization, the faculty adviser's name, your name as treasurer and the numbers of your requisition book. An example follows:

Mortar Board — Miss Simpson — Helena Anderson — Book Nos. 251-275.

This is extremely important, for unless this information is in by October 28, your organization will not be able to get either credit at the Bookstore or funds from your account.

If you haven't a requisition book, and the Accounting Office handles your funds, will you please get one immediately from the Accounting Office.

JULIA FLETCHER,
Treasurer, U. V. M. Students.

Information on Enlisted Reserve

Procurement Board Will Come Here Nov. 3

The joint Army-Navy-Marine Corps-Coast Guard College Procurement Board of the First Service Command will be at the University of Vermont on November 3. At that time, a mass meeting of the students will be held, probably in the evening, at which time representatives of the Army and Army Air Corps; Navy and Naval Aviation; and Marine Corps will speak relative to the aim and needs of their respective branches. Following the mass meeting open house will be held later in the evening or on the next day where students, who so desire, may meet to ask general questions.

At this time, no actual recruiting will be carried out, and no commitment to recruit specific individuals will then be made.

Later (probably within two or three weeks) a Joint Recruiting Board will visit the University for the purpose of interviewing, selecting, and actually recruiting the individual applicants.

Requirement for Enlistment

Students enlisting must meet the respective physical requirements of the various branches. For enlistment in the Enlisted Reserve Corps, the physical requirements are those for admission to the Advanced R. O. T. C. Course. The physical requirements for Army Aviation or Naval Aviation are more severe in that one must have perfect vision.

The age limits for students are Army, 18-26 inclusive; and Navy, 17-25 inclusive.

All applicants for enlistment should have an authenticated birth certificate, parent's or guardian's consent if under 21, three letters of recommendation from responsible persons who are in a position to testify as to the applicant's character, etc., and if the applicant is seeking enlistment on a deferred basis, he must have a statement from the Dean of his college

Miss Hoffmann New Dance Instructor

All you girls interested in the Modern Dance Workshop Group, probably already know that we have a new dancing teacher this year, Miss Hoffmann. Her home is Washington, D. C., but she doesn't mind the cold weather—so far.

She attended the George Washington University, where she majored in Physical Education, and she received her Master's Degree from Wellesley. She told me that she has been interested in dancing ever since she was eleven years old. and she has had teaching experience during the summer months of her college life.

Definite plans for the coming winter dance program have not been made so far, but Miss Hoffman promises modern, square, and social dancing as a part of it.

Final Sorority Rushing Parties Begin on Friday

Entertainment For Freshmen Continues Until Following Friday

On Friday begins the "closed period" of rushing for freshmen, transfers and sorority women on the Vermont campus. Beginning Friday and continuing for a week each sorority will give its final party. These parties are veiled in deepest mystery but we do know they will be formal.

Alpha Chi Omega has the first party Friday at the house. Of course Mary Perry is in charge ably supported by Sylvia Runnals, Barbara Hall and Harriet Nelson.

The home of Mrs. Hoyt on South Prospect Street will be the scene of the Sigma Gamma party Monday night. Florence Smith is in charge.

Co-chairmen Jean Sprague and Pat Crowley promise a grand party at the Pi Beta Phi house on Tuesday night.

Kappa Alpha Theta's final party will be at their house Wednesday with Elizabeth Deming and Allison Carr dividing the chairmanship.

Thursday night will see two parties in full swing. Delta Phi Epsilon will hold forth at Southwick under the managership of Florence Sevin, rushing chairman, and Marjorie Rubin, social chairman. Sylvia Wellwood will lead her Alpha Xi Delta sisters in a party at the house.

The last final party, a week from Friday night will be at the Delta Delta Delta house. Peggy Flint, the chairman, will have as her aides Ita Casey, Barbara Webb and Danny Geer. Mary Butler will be found later heading the clean-up committee.

Students Coach Two One-Act Plays

Morgan and Nichols Portray Mountaineers

Two one-act plays are to be presented Friday evening, October 23, at 8.00 p.m. in the auditorium at Southwick. Both casts have been carefully chosen and promise good sound entertainment.

The first play, "The Step Mother," under the direction of Patty Pike and Patty Page, concerns a lady novelist, ably played by Phyllis Taylor, whose step-son, Maurice Kelley, falls in love with her secretary, Margaret Miller. She disowns him but a reconciliation occurs in the course of clever amusing scenes. Jack Williams plays the role of the doctor who is deeply attached to the lady-novelist. Be sure to see how the step-son brings his mother to his way of thinking.

The second play, "Moonshine," directed by H. Goldberg and S. Wellwood, has a cast of two characters. The revenue officer, or Mervyn Morgan, is captured by a moonshiner, Guy Nichols. The revenue officer, talkative and clever, tries to trick the not-too-intelligent mountaineer out of shooting him. Then comes a surprise ending. The dialogue is strictly from "back-in-the-hills" and you'll believe it when you hear Morgan and Nichols.

Both of these plays have been well directed and promise to be well worth the effort.

Alpha Chi Dessert Hour

The Alpha Chis held a very successful dessert party at the house on Wednesday evening. Apple pie à la mode, chocolate cake and ice cream were served to over 200 people. In charge were Shirley Hall '43, Faith Prior '43 and Cynthia Bailey '43.

Open Meeting of Debating Club Wed.

Round Table Discussion On India Situation

The debating club will hold its second meeting next Wednesday, October 28, at 7.30 p.m. in the Waterman Building, Room 140.

The meeting will take the form of a round table discussion on the topic; "Resolved: That India should receive the right of self-government immediately." The topic will be introduced by Bob Norton '44, and Phil Robinson '45, (affirmative) and Dave Wheeler '45, and an unknown quantity (negative). The constructive speeches will be followed by an open discussion of all present. Jake Katz '44 will be chairman.

Everybody interested is cordially invited. The topic is of special interest because it will be debated with some slight modifications at the tournament in Dartmouth on November 21 and 22, to which Vermont will send two teams of two. Vermont will meet very tough opposition at that time as almost all the larger New England colleges will send their teams there. So if you want your school to win bring your suggestions to the meeting next Wednesday.

U. V. M. Suggested As Naval Air Site

Lieut. (J. G.) George Markham of the first naval district of Boston has just spent the greater part of two days in a thorough inspection of the facilities of Naval aviation training here. While on his tour of U. V. M. he met all of the instructors, visited all classrooms, observed the aviation students in their class room work, and studied the time schedule.

Next he visited the airport where he examined the method of keeping records, inspected the aircraft, and made a one hour flight over the territory used by the trainees for practice flights.

Although the assignment of Naval training men is not in the hands of the Navy but under the CAA, Lieutenant Markham was willing to state the recommendation that Naval men be sent here for flight training. It is planned that the first quota will start training about the fifteenth of November, and that the men will receive eighty weeks of intensive training before the arrival of the next contingency.

Reverend Hall Will Speak Sunday at Collegium

The guest speaker at Collegium this Sunday will be Rev. Raymond Hall, Secretary of the Committee on Religious Life. He will speak at the meeting at 7.00, which follows the supper starting at 6.00. Don't forget, everyone is cordially invited to both. Come ready for good food, good discussion, and good fun.

W. A. A. Membership Drive Next Week; Sign at Cafeteria

Girls Plan For Cabin For Active Members

Attention, Girls! Do you enjoy hikes, skiing, skating parties and week-ends in the mountains? Do you like singing parties and gab fests around crackling fires? Doesn't a hot dog, a roasted marshmallow, or an onion covered hamburg make your mouth water? Yes, that's what we thought, and we agree. But we're not just sitting around and dreaming. Your W. A. A. Council has been working behind the lines saving money in every possible way. What for? To buy or build a cabin some place for all our active members of course. It does sound far fetched, but it isn't really. We even have a door and a window now, but that isn't all there is to a cabin, you know. So we're on the rampage again.

This next week we are beginning a membership drive, one of the biggest yet. As you already know, to join W. A. A. you have to be a member of some club, and next week Thursday will be your chance to sign up.

Members of the cabinet will be outside the cafeteria every hour with complete information and advice as to these various clubs which will begin their activities the week of November 1. For freshmen the charge is ten cents and for upper classmen twenty five cents.

W. A. A.

Phil Savage, '43, President of W. A. A., Women's Athletic Association, announces that the various sports clubs of the indoor season will begin the week of November 1. All who are interested are requested to sign up next week in the Cafeteria.

The newly announced names of the sports clubs' managers are as follows:

Skiing, Harriet Pearl; riding, Elaine Fuller; golf, Mary Lib Metcalf; rifle, Silvia Hendershot, Margo Benoit; tennis, Pete Hart, Clare Coe; volleyball, Danny Geer; and the assistant basketball manager, Barbara Burnham.

U. V. M. Student Committees Meet

On Sunday afternoon, October 4th, a joint meeting was held at Southwick by the Student Government Committee on Religious Life and the Senate Committee on Religious Life at which certain statements were drawn up concerning the relations of each committee to each other and to such campus organizations as the Y. W. C. A. and the V. C. A. The more immediate problem discussed was that of putting before the college community an outline of the plans of the committees for this year and the years ahead, as well as making suitable preparations and announcement of the first campus-wide event sponsored by these committees: the University Convocation on Friday, October 30th, at 11.40 when E. Stanley Jones, world-famous missionary to India, author, and Christian leader, will speak. It was decided that these matters should be presented at a convocation on Wednesday, October 28, at 10 a.m., in the Chapel, two days before the University Convocation for Doctor Jones. This presentation will be made by members of both student and faculty committees.

Southwick Doings

On Friday evening at Southwick at 8 o'clock, a group of one act plays will be presented.

The ladies of the faculty will hold a business meeting at Southwick on Monday, October 26, at 3.00 p.m.

The Vermont Cynic

The Official Student Newspaper of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College

VOL. 61 OCTOBER 23, 1942 NO. 10

At a meeting of the Senate a few days ago the members of that body voted to reinforce a resolution passed by that same body November 11, 1912 to the effect that any instructor who receives a theme or exam paper which shows a deficiency in English be requested to send the paper to the English Department which will take necessary steps to remedy the fault, even going so far as to require the student to take additional work in English.

A resumption of such a policy is a great step in furthering the abilities of the student body at Vermont. In past years many of the graduates passing out of the University have been greatly lacking in their ability to express themselves effectively and clearly in written English. Many of them have admitted this deficiency and wish they might acquire such a knack but find it is too late and that they must learn by bitter experience.

The basis for this laxity or inability may be laid both to the student and to the faculty. The student has developed the attitude that his manner of writing does not matter, that only the idea is important, while the faculty has failed to rectify this development and drifted along the way with the students. However, the faculty has finally awakened and has resurrected this old resolution which was discarded for an unknown but probably unwarranted reason and hopes to build up the student usage of English.

Students are going to be made aware of the importance of such a step. No person approaches any educational standards unless he has a speaking and written knowledge of his language. The students' excuse that the ideas of a subject are of first importance and not the way they are written has no solid foundation. What good are the ideas unless they are clearly expressed? And they will not be clearly expressed unless the student has a proper knowledge of English. Science is no excuse either for carelessness or vagueness, science is an exact subject and must be written exactly.

Graduates testify to the vitalness of a proficiency in English in the business world, the scientific world and even in the armed forces. Students here today will be made aware of this point and will go out of U. V. M. much better prepared than otherwise. The Senate asks for and expects the cooperation of the entire student group.

Presenting

We give you the "bewildered freshman." His name is For T. Six. Everywhere, somewhat like Superman, is young Fortie to be found. Astounding as this may seem, by today he had succeeded in joining every group on the hill.

First he went to the Aquarium Club, located best in his Freshman Handbook. It turned out to be a rather fishy subject, even the Zoo department being unaware of its exact nature.

A talented actor, he glibly read his trial lines, and was welcomed warmly thus (quote the CYNIC): "Group Plays Star Freshmen in Roles."

Next attempt was to join the John Dewey Club. Great was his chagrin when he could not meet the entrance requirements; his consolation, one free night a year—when the club meets.

The CYNIC received him with open arms. He found that the public telephone was located in its offices, and that they were a fine place to get a bit of homework done. On his way to editorship, he is mastering quite well the intricacies of journalism.

A blueblood himself among literaries, Fortie decided to apply for membership in Bluestockings. Of the wrong sex, he was saved the task of writing his masterpiece for entrance.

Not to be discouraged thus easily, he was informed of the name of another literary group, the Scribes. All attempts to locate them were in vain and his interest proved to no avail.

Following instructions from his Freshman Handbook again, he searched through many dark rooms for a Photography Club; only to discover that the Freshman Handbook seems to specialize in extinct organizations.

With skinned shins, a weary back, but quite happy, he returned from his first adventure as a member of the Outing Club. Frequent and varied activity he found to be the order of the day in this group.

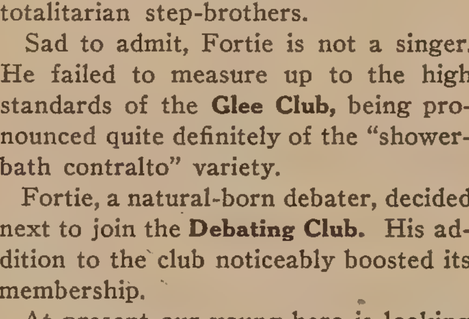

Furthermore, Fortie found no lack of interesting discussions at the International Relations Club meeting. He thinks that the club should get rid of a few of its international relations, namely its totalitarian step-brothers.

Sad to admit, Fortie is not a singer. He failed to measure up to the high standards of the Glee Club, being pronounced quite definitely of the "shower-bath contralto" variety.

Fortie, a natural-born debater, decided next to join the Debating Club. His addition to the club noticeably boosted its membership.

At present our young hero is looking forward hopefully to the first meeting of the newly established Art Hobby Club.

Here ends the first saga of For T. Six. His explorations of our campus organizations revealed both bright and dark spots. He, and others like him, are trying to improve the situation where such improvement is most desirable. You ask how I know all this..... because I am For T. Six.

NOTICE TO TREASURERS—Henceforth I will sign requisitions in my office, No. 244 Waterman Building. The hours are the same: Tuesday afternoon, 2.00-5.00 p.m..; Wednesday morning, 8.00-9.00 and 10.30-11.30 a.m.
JULIA FLETCHER,
Treasurer, U. V. M. Students.

JUNIORS—Ariel proofs must be returned either Monday, October 26, or Tuesday, October 27. The representative will be in the Billiard Room all day on those dates. Please make appointments to return proofs at that time.

Freshmen, Sophomores—boys and girls—sign up for the debating competition in Room 151, Waterman Building, by November 1. Win a trophy!

LOST—A full-length brown tweed winter coat. If found, return to V. Benedict, 31 Latham Court.

FREE ADMISSION

Don't forget the one-act plays to be held at Southwick, Friday, October 23, at 8.00 p.m. Girls bring the boys—boys bring the girls. Enjoy yourself as a guest of the University Players.

Staff and Sandal

Staff and Sandal, Junior Women's Honor Society, will sponsor a dance this Saturday in the Waterman Building. Although it is being put on by the girls, this is not contrary to rumor, a "Woman's invite." Dancing will begin at 8.30 to the music of the Catamounts. Professor and Mrs. Carpenter and Professor Long will chaperone. "Pussy" Perkins, "Kay" Brown and Alma Gaylord are in charge.

News Notes

Lieut. and Mrs. Hazen Wood, both of '42, passed chocolates at meeting last week.

Lieut. John Spasyk '42, and Miss Jean Hall '42, gave $5 to the Blood Plasma supper as announcement of their engagement.

Baton Rouge, La.—(ACP)—The student at Louisiana State University can live cheaper than he could at home, according to President C. B. Hodges.

He pointed to bureau of labor statistics that said living costs had increased 16 per cent in three years, and asserted the rise at the university had been only eight-tenths of one per cent.

LOST—One green Eversharp fountain pen. Will finder please return. Thank you.—Natalie Spear, Sanders Hall, Tel. 2913.

Charles Bailey to Represent U. V. M.

Charles T. Bailey, alumnus of the University of Vermont in the class of 1908, will represent the university at the inauguration on October 21, of Gregg M. Sinclair as president of the University of Hawaii, according to word received from that institution.

Mr. Bailey, who was born in Greensboro and received his early education at Craftsbury Academy, has been for many years in Honolulu where he is department manager of American Factors.

One hundred American universities and colleges have named alumni residents as delegates, and civil and military authorities will join alumni and students in the campus' tropical outdoor theater for the inauguration ceremony which, because of Hawaii's situation in a war zone, will be simple and brief.

The new president, the fourth in the history of the institution, has been professor of English and a former director of the University's Oriental Institute.

Timothy Alden, founder and first president of Allegheny College, was the founder of six other schools.

Before you call Long Distance, please ask yourself:
1. Is it really necessary?
2. Will it interfere with war calls?

TELEPHONE lines—especially Long Distance circuits—are crowded as never before, these war days. Materials to build new lines—copper, rubber, nickel—are needed for the shooting war. So we must get the most out of present facilities.

You can help us keep the wires clear for vital war calls if you will do these two things: (1) Don't call Long Distance unless it's urgent; (2) Call by number if possible and please be brief. Thank you!

The Locker Room

By Bill Roeder

There is something about Norwich that brings a bad taste to most U. V. M. mouths. The student - athletic personnel here tolerates Middlebury and is indifferent toward St. Michael's. But Norwich, no.

This unpleasant flavor lingers most strongly about the Cadets during the football season. Its source dates to the years not beyond our recall when Vermont teams warmed up for the Middlebury game by playing Norwich. The little military academy somehow resented this, and longed for the time when its elevens would rise up and smite this haughty antagonist.

The Norwich day is at hand. It dawned on a cold Northfield afternoon three years ago, when the Horsemen battled a Taylor-made Catamount team to a scoreless tie. And it broke into full sunny splendor over Burlington in 1940. That was when the Cadets marched over here and unleashed on Centennial field a terrifying sophomore, Walt Domina, who bullied the cowering host into 38 to 7 defeat.

Norwich came on even stronger last year, again defeating Vermont; if memory serves correct. And with four victories already executed, the 1942 eleven appears to be at some sort of peak. The team is in full stride, dispatching formidable opponents as fast as they bob up. Even now the Maroon prepares for Middlebury, and around the corner is powerful New Hampshire, a mighty threat to anybody's unbeaten record. But, busy as they are in kicking over rivals, winning the war, etc., the Cadets still find time to rub a little salt in the Vermont wound. Listen:

(We quote cadet Rog Noden, sports writer for the Guidon, the Horsemen's official feedbag — beg pardon, mouthpiece.)

"Well, maybe La Pointe of Vermont is the leading scorer in this sector of our country, while Capt. Walt is only third. But when it comes to real football, I'll take good old N. U. For its team play that makes a championship team — not an individual star. And when the boys take on U. V. M., here is one fellow that will not be surprised, that when La Pointe is stopped—U. V. M. is stopped. But the same is not so of our gang. There is talent in the entire squad, and Stan (ed. note—Coach Stan Keck) is giving it every possible chance to show itself, by not playing one man."

No Lone Wolf

Now, Chick La Pointe is nobody's all-American, but he's a good, in fact an outstanding, small college player. And though the team he plays with has been quagmired in defeat most of the season, Chick is the first to admit that he hasn't been crossing that goal alone all these times. The team is doing its part.

Nor is Vermont a hopeless team, though it is green and running in hard luck. Its record shows three losses, true. But the team has been impressive, at least spasmodically so, even in defeat. It has a kind of potential strength, a wistful sort of strength that appears and vanishes all in one fleeting play, flashing just long enough for you to say:

"There! That was it! Why don't they play that way the whole game!"

Not that we're expecting victory over Norwich. Far from it. But we would like the Cadets to refrain from insulting the Vermont dignity and intelligence. We called you little before, Norwich. We take it back. We meant small.

Catamount Hill and Dalers Trek To Williamstown - Purple Strong

By Bill Styles

After racking up their first win a week ago against Bowdoin, Coach Archie Post's Vermont harriers leave early tomorrow morning for Williamstown, Mass., to take on the Williams College team.

Coach Post is carrying a ten man squad, which will leave Burlington at 7.30 tomorrow morning, arriving at Williamstown in time for a twelve o'clock meet. The squad roster is still wide open for the ninth and tenth places, with the seventh and eighth places somewhat doubtful. Sure starters are Captain Bud Hoyt, Len Harrington, Johnny Corliss, Merle Crown, Marty McLaren, and Dick Lepper. The seventh and eighth men will probably be Ernie St. Mary and Morrison, a freshman. Zwick, Andrews, Arms, and Milligan are fighting for the last two berths and will be ready to step into the entire last four places in case St. Mary and Morrison don't go.

Time trials were held Wednesday, over the varsity course, and in the final practice, Thursday, each man was put through a light workout. Wednesday's times were not very good, Hoyt, the winner, doing the three-and-one-half mile course in 19.35. However Coach Post was well satisfied with the workout, in which he may have discovered a new freshman, Moran. Moran running the course for the second time this fall, completed the journey in 21:03, just one second behind the veteran Arms.

Goodell Still Out

Harvey Goodell, although he is now well on the road to recovery from his shin-splints, won't be able to run tomorrow. The soreness is gone from his legs, but it will take some time for him to get back into running shape again. Coach Post hopes to have him ready for Middlebury, at least.

Coach Plansky of Williams will field a thirteen man squad to race against the visiting Green and Gold. Williams has had only one previous meet this season which resulted in a 24-31 win for Middlebury. The loss of last year's stars, Chapman, Griggs, and Moore, has made itself felt, but Captain Dave Brown and Maurice Goodbody, who placed first and third respectively in the Middlebury meet, are constant threats. Coach Plansky is hopeful that his boys have profited by the experience gained against Middlebury, and will realize their potentialities tomorrow.

Gardner Releases Basketball Schedule

Providence, Coast Guard Among New Opponents

War may have curtailed many things on Vermont's campus this fall, but Fuzzy Evans' basketball proteges will be playing a fifteen-game schedule it was announced yesterday by Larry Gardner.

The Cat basketeers will face four new schools this winter, among them Providence College, rated as one of the East's leading court squads and a tough nut to crack for any ball club. In addition to the Rhode Island school, Coast Guard, St. Lawrence University, Trinity, and St. Anselm's have been added to the ticket.

The schedule:

December
4	Hartwick	at Burlington
12	Williams	at Williamstown
16	St. Lawrence	at Burlington
18	Tufts	at Medford
19	Providence	at Providence
January
9	Norwich	at Burlington
12	St. Michael's	at Winooski Park
23	Middlebury	at Middlebury
29	Trinity	at Hartford
30	Springfield	at Springfield
February
5	St. Michael's	at Burlington
9	Norwich	at Northfield
12	Coast Guard	at Burlington (tentative)
16	Middlebury	at Burlington
24	St. Anselm's	at Burlington
27	Home Game	Pending

La Pointe Was 6-Man Ace

Sophomore High Scorer Starred at Winooski

By Phil Robinson

If Vermont had depended on its thus far mediocre season to bring it any mention in the East, there would be more than one person in these parts doomed to disappointment.

But the Cats have received their share of publicity by the gallant members of the newspaper profession these fall afternoons thanks to the sensational play of one Ralph LaPointe.

While the Green and Gold has been forced into submission in three out of four gridiron tilts, "Little Zum" as he has been monicred by various members of the local sporting elite, has managed to rack up enough touchdowns to set him off as the East's leading scorer.

Ralph is not, suffice it to say, one of these overnight sensations, the type that comes to college without the least knowledge of the ancient game, and turns into a rip-roaring, hipper-dipper ball player in a season.

LaPointe hails from an athletic minded family. An older brother, once a member of the now extinct Northern League, played with Burlington's own Cardinals, and carved himself quite a nitch in the sports annals of the Queen City before going up to the farm system of the Washington Senators.

Ralph took his first crack at football while matriculating at Winooski High School. Although the school across the river has not played the regulation game for some years now, while a freshman, LaPointe starred with the Green and White eleven.

In his sophomore year, "Chick" gained some of his shifty playing habits as a member of the six-man football team that the school introduced.

In addition to football, Ralph compiled a neat record on the basketball court, and in the spring stepped in where his brother left off on the diamond.

Not satisfied with sticking strictly to high school ball, especially after the innovation of the six-man style, Ralph donned the uniform of a Burlington semi-pro club in the fall of 1939, and added more glory to his already mounting record.

After graduation, LaPointe entered Vermont Junior College, winning four letters in football, basketball, baseball, and track. At V. J. C. he was rated as the state's leading junior college athlete.

It was at Vermont, however, that LaPointe really began to be considered as a leading gridiron specialist. Last year's undefeated Frosh eleven carried the name of LaPointe in every lineup, and the lad trimmed everything that he encountered. As far as other sports were concerned, it was the same old routine, basketball and baseball.

Working in Portland during the summer, Ralph batted it out for one of the shipyard clubs, and ended up considered one of the best players in the circuit.

Principally it has been this fall's performance, and the pitching arm of Norm Beaulieu that has helped the Winooski product to hang up the impressive record. With Vermont idle this week-end, it looks as though his record may be shattered by Walt Domina, Norwich's bright star who has compiled the enviable record of 43 points. The Cadets meet Middlebury who has yet to win a game.

But anyone who is interested in placing the lucre on the line may well find plenty who will bet that LaPointe will be considered for Little All-American.

Kappa Sigs Advance In Interfrat Tourney

The strong Kappa Sigma outfit toppled the highly touted A. T. O. team into the ranks of the defeated by virtue of a 44-27 win.

The Kappa "Sigs," scoring in every period, finished strong to win by a wide margin. Opening their bag of tricks, the boys from Main Street, showed plenty of aerial sharp shooting and a strong running attack, which was featured by some fancy sidestepping by dimnutive Reno Conte, and the ever-present Larry Killick. Killick, on numerous occasions, scored via the air lanes, passing to fleet-footed and glue fingered ends.

The A. T. O.'s defenses proved to be their downfall. Their defenses, were inadequate to halt the passing attack, that eventually proved to be the winning factor. The A. T. O.'s getting off to a slow start, showed power in the late periods, but the gap was too wide and they fell short by several touchdowns. Outstanding for the losers were Spylois, Becoulis and Powers. The A. T. O.'s played heads up ball, but were simply overwhelmed by a superior all around team.

In Friday's game the Sigma Phi's are out to halt the Phi Sigs' winning ways. Although inexperienced, the Sigma Phi boys have shown plenty of promise and talent, and they hope to upset the much favored "Phi Sigs."

The Kappa Sigs by winning Wednesday have earned the right to play in the semifinals. They will play the winner of the encounter between Sigma Phi and Phi Sigs.

The Phi Delts' and last year's champions, the T. E. P.'s, meet in a game, which promises to be a thriller, the winner of that contest will meet the "Owls" in a semi-final tussle.

In the losers league, the Delta Psi redeemed themselves by winning handily over the Sigma Nu team.

Evansmen in 2-Week Rest

Few Disabled as Squad Points to Trinity Clash

By Monty Kelly

The University of Vermont's battered but unbowed football warriors are in the midst of a two week respite from the gridiron campaign. Beaten by Union last week in a sea of mud, the Cats returned to their lair to lick their wounds and get back in shape for the clash with Trinity College, a week hence. Tomorrow is an open date for the Green and Gold, and the football focus of the whole state will be on Sabine Field in Northfield where mighty Norwich and the Middlebury Panthers clash in the first battle for the coveted state title. This contest should afford the Vermont staff a good chance to get a look at what the other state elevens will have to offer when they tangle with the Cats later on in the season.

U. V. M.'s dipsy-doodle aerial attack was grounded by the weather conditions at Schenectady last Saturday, but Coach Fuzzy Evans will probably continue to work on the Catamounts' passing attack in hope of better visibility against the Trinity aggregation. Movies of the Mass. State fracas were shown to the squad on Monday.

Strain Hampers LaPointe

No really serious injuries were incurred in the Union game but the whole club took a severe pounding from the heavier Dutchmen. Norm Beaulieau, pass-slinging back, came out with a badly swollen eye. Wingman Bart Barry's ribs were painfully bruised, and nimble-footed Ralph LaPointe, highest scoring back in the East, had a recurrence of the muscle strain which has been giving him trouble all fall. Scotty Ingram, lineman who played a whale of a ball-game against the Garnet eleven, had several teeth knocked out early in the first quarter. Despite this he continued to play almost the entire sixty minutes, stopping Union runners time after time with vicious tackles.

On the whole it was a pretty tired and bruised football team that returned from the New York junket, but with two weeks of rest and good stiff practice the Cats should be ready to go again.

The Vermont Jayvees hit the road this week-end for their second game of the season, with Green Mountain Junior College. Defeated by Bob White's St. Albans eleven in the first encounter of the season, the Catamounts will really be out for blood when they clash with the Greenies in Poultney tomorrow.

Under the guidance of Serg. Andrew J. Landa of the Military Department, the Jayvee combine has been working out daily at Centenniel Field, seeing action against the Varsity several times. Despite the disappointing opener with the upstaters, the club has shown considerable promise in the last two weeks and should give the Junior College youths plenty of trouble.

Jayvee Eleven to Use O'Connell and Goldman

Halfback Charlie Bianco, who made some spectacular gains in the previous contest, will probably see plenty of action in tomorrow's clash. Another standout is pivot-man Fred Laird, erstwhile Montpelier High School captain. He is a teeth-jolting blocker and dishes out plenty of pigskin punishment from his backer-up spot on the defense. Fred Boardman, freshman end of two seasons ago, and Varsity reserves O'Connell and Goldman will also make the trip. Lineman Krupp packs plenty of weight and should bolster up the forward wall considerably, against the assaults of the G. M. J. C. backs. Leo Spear, showed up well in the St. Albans ball game and is expected to repeat his performance against the Green Mountain boys.

The Vermont men who will make the trek to Poultney are: Laird, Carpenter, Stanley, Spear, Neiburg, Kinne, Flanders, Benson, Andrews, Krupp, Bianco, Boardman, O'Connell, Beebe, Goldman, Grace, Wright S., Wright W., Kaufman and Sigrest.

A recent tabulation reveals there are seven osteopathic fraternities in the United States.

W. A. A. Important In College Life

There has been a lot of talk about W. A. A. What is its purpose seems to be a favorite question among the Freshmen. The Women's Athletic Association is one of the outstanding organizations on campus. The council members are elected at the end of every year by the majority of the women in the student body—and you'll find that a majority are W. A. A. members.

Every girl comes to college with the idea of getting an education. An ideal education is one which develops the body as well as the mind. The functions of W. A. A. serve to promote this physical training so essential for a well-rounded college education. This aim is accomplished through the work of the various sports clubs.

The sports clubs and this year's managers are as follows: Archery, Joyce Byington '45; Badminton, Edna Gates '44 and Barbara Hall '44, co-managers; Basketball, Phyllis Taylor '44, ass't, Barbara Burnham '45; Bowling, Mary Quinn '44; Dance Workshop, Abbie Fritche '44; Golf, Mary E. Metcalf '44; Ping Pong, Elaine Oling '45; Riding, Elaine Fuller '46; Rifle, Sylvia Hendershot '45, ass't, Margaret Benoit '43; Skiing, Harriet Pearl '45; Swimming, Ruth Buttles '44; Softball, Dorothy Thornton '43; Tennis, Mary Louise Hart '43, ass't, Claire Coe '46; Volleyball, Diantha Geer '44.

Every dormitory has a council-at-large member who is a representative for W. A. A. Anything you want to know about W. A. A. and its functions these council-at-large members will tell you. Their main purpose is to spread the word around about W. A. A.

Don't forget that Thursday is the day for the W. A. A. Club membership drive. Here's your chance to become one of us. We offer every sport for every season, so come join with us and look forward to some real fun. You need some diversion from those books—make it exercise, in a good game of sportsmanship with W. A. A.

The indoor sports clubs start the week of November 2.

University V. C. A. Sends Many Deputations Out

An active committee of the V. C. A. this year has been that one which has charge of the deputations, Reginald White chairman. Four deputations, including this week-end, will have been sent out and the prospects for many more this year are bright. E. Berkshire, South Hero, Waitsfield are the towns to which students have gone so far this year. It seems very possible that in the near future there may be opportunity for two or more teams to go out the same week-end; men and women students who desire to assist on these deputations should leave their names at 265 Waterman, the office of the Committee on Religious Life.

U. V. M. To Be Represented At State P. T. A. Meeting

The fall meeting of the State Board of Managers of the Parent Teachers' Association will meet in Rutland on Friday, October 23. Miss Sara M. Holbrook will discuss the topic: How can the P. T. A. help improve the public opinion of the teacher shortage in Vermont?

Miss Sara M. Holbrook is the state chairman of mental hygiene.

Mrs. Wallace Faye is the president of State Board of Managers whcih is composed of twenty-five members.

Nu Sigma Nu

Record broken.—Conclusive evidence is in the hands of the social chairman in the form of a time exposure film showing "Horizontal" Kennedy in the vertical position for as long as 1.5 minutes.

George Brooks passed "out" at the last meeting. The auspicious occasion signified the recent announcement of his engagement to Miss Jean Duncan.

Nu Sigma Nu continued to support the war effort by presenting hot water only on two unannounced days of the week. The responsible house managers recommended that all shaving and bathing be scheduled accordingly to avoid any undue hardships.

Stan Pekala, social chairman, has completed arrangements for the Post Examination Dance. He announces that Bill Rubin and his All Gall Orchestra have been engaged to furnish the music. This young maestro has just completed an extended engagement at the Vernix Caseosa over-looking the Magenstrasse. The orchestra features Ansa Hypoglossae on the vocal cords, Pes Anserinus on the Eustachian tubes and "InKey" Malleus on the drum. Wharton's Jelly sandwiches and Liquor Amnii will be served between peristalic movements in the Pyloric Antrum.

Miss Holbrook Speaks At Rutland Meeting

Miss Sara Holbrook, assistant Professor of Education at the University of Vermont, will go on Saturday to Rutland to attend the state meeting of the Vermont Parent-Teacher Association. As Chairman of the State Committee on Mental Hygiene, Professor Holbrook will present a report on the work being done by that committee.

Dean Simpson Speaks At A. A. U. W. Fall Meeting

The first fall meeting of the American Association of University Women was held Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. H. G. Bennett. The meeting was opened by Mrs. H. W. Abraham and after the routine business, she introduced the officers and committee chairmen for the coming year.

Following the business, Mrs. Abraham introduced the speaker Dean Mary Jean Simpson, of the University of Vermont, who spoke on "Women After College."

In addition, for enlistment in the Navy the applicant must present a resume of not less than fifty words in his own handwriting concerning all occupational and military service and training, two photographs (head and shoulders only), one full face, one profile, and size 2½ x 2½.

In due time after enlistment, it is expected that a qualifying examination will be held, and those not passing may be called for active duty at once.

It is suggested that those who desire to become applicants provide themselves with the above required documents.

All students are urged to be present at the open meeting of the College Procurement Board on November 3. The time and place will be announced later.

Students Reminded Of Senate Ruling

Better Brush Up On English and Spelling

Perhaps we U. V. M. students are not fully aware of the requirements demanded of us in regard to our theme and examination papers in any subject. You will read the full details below, in the exact words of the resolutions passed by the Senate of the University in 1912. According to these resolutions, any student who hands in a paper with poor English usage and construction or continued errors in spelling, will be required to take extra English courses in order to remedy said student's mis-use of the English language. By the time we are sophomores, there is no reason or excuse for grammatical mistakes, and we should, therefore, be compelled to improve our faults in this way. From now on, all students should be especially careful in their written work, because all professors are going to enforce this law more strongly in the future.

University of Vermont State Records, Sept. 1911-June 1919

At the meeting of the Senate, Nov. 11, 1912, "Doctor Burns presented to the Senate the resolution that any instructor who receives from an undergraduate student a thesis or examination paper which shows a marked deficiency in the English language be requested to send such paper to the Professor of English who shall have power to compel said student to take such additional work in English as he deems best. This work must be completed in addition to the work now required for a degree before graduation.

"It was voted that the recommendation be referred to the Committee on Curricula."

Senate Records

At the meeting of the Senate, Dec. 9, 1912, "The Committee on Curricula recommended for adoption the resolution that students showing marked deficiency in the use of the English language in thesis or examination papers, be required to take such additional work as was deemed best by the Professor of English. To further the same end the two following resolutions were recommended:

"Resolved, that it is the sense of the Senate that all papers, exercises, etc., submitted to an instructor by an undergraduate student be written in ink and that neatness, orthography and the use of the English language be taken into consideration in estimating the quality of the student's work. . .

"It was voted that the report of the Committee be adopted as read."

W. A. A. Notes

The winter sport schedule for the women's gym classes will begin Monday, October 26. Everyone must be present at the first meeting of the classes. The gym clothes will be checked, and every item of clothing must be marked with owner's name.

Sophomores are to sign up for their classes on the sheets of paper posted in the "Y" room. Freshman classes are also posted in the "Y" room.

All absences from fall class must be made up by October 24th.

Professor Miller to Speak To Methodist Group

Prof. Paul Miller of the University will be the guest speaker at the meeting of the Methodist College Group, Sunday night at 7.30 at the Methodist manse (on Buell Street next to the Methodist church). Freshmen, upperclassmen, everybody come, hear a worthwhile speaker, meet new people and have a grand time.

Notice

At a recent meeting the University Council voted that starting November 2 and continuing up to the Christmas recess, the following schedule of classes be adopted as an experiment. If this works out well and Burlington does not change from War Time to Eastern Standard Time this program may be continued by vote of the Council.

Weekdays except Wednesdays

Military Science	8.00- 8.50
First hour	9.00- 9.50
Second hour	10.00-10.50
Third hour	11.00-11.50
Fourth hour	12.00-12.50
Fifth hour	2.15- 3.05
Sixth hour	3.15- 4.05

Laboratory sections which at present meet for three hours, from 1.30-4.30, will meet from 1.45-4.45.

Wednesdays

Military Science	7.30- 8.20
First hour	8.30- 9.20
Second hour	9.30-10.20
Chapel	10.30-11.00
Third hour	11.00-11.50
Fourth hour	12.00-12.50
Fifth hour	2.15- 3.05
Sixth hour	3.15- 4.05

The Council hopes in this way to save some electricity during the early morning hours and also some fuel.

Pi Phi Breakfast Is Well Attended

The droves of people who attended the Pi Beta Phi breakfast last Sunday, the 18th, attested to the success of the affair. Everyone was amply as well as deliciously served. All U. V. M. seemed to be there as any of the Pi Phi's who served as hostesses, waitresses, cooks, and even dishwashers will tell you. Yes, the affair was a howling success.

Since Monday evening, the twelfth, four more Pi Beta Phi girls are full-fledged members of their sorority. Those initiated were Rayelen Prouty of West Hartford, Conn., Lorraine Guild of Burlington, Barbara Fiske also of Burlington, and Eleanor Jenkins of Maplewood, New Jersey.

Away, having a bang-up time over the week-end, were Patricia Page who attended the Army-Columbia game and stayed in New York, and Jeanne Forssell '42 who spent the week-end in Burlington.

Outing Club Hiked to Rock Point on Sunday

The U. V. M. Outing Club held its third hike of the season Sunday, October 18, at Rock Point. Twenty people left Burlington at 10 o'clock in the morning and returned about 5.30 in the afternoon. Robert Waldo was in charge of the hike, and Frances Donahue, refreshments, which consisted of hotdogs and marshmallows.

Dr. G. E. Baldwin '92 Dies; Oldest Vermont Graduate

Annual Winner of McCullough Cup Trophy Has Won It For Last Time

Funeral services were held for Dr. Gilman E. Baldwin, '92, oldest living graduate of the University of Vermont last Tuesday. With Dr. W. Scott Nay, Doctor Baldwin has attended U. V. M. commencements for many years, to receive the McCullough cup awarded for 100 per cent attendance of living members of a class at alumni reunions. Doctor Baldwin's sentiments can best be expressed through these, his words:

"I remember with gratitude the kind and knowing professors here who met me when I entered with a warm handclasp and encouraging words; who led me through my medical course with patience and wisdom, and wished me Godspeed when the college doors closed behind me that last day, and I went out into the wide and untried world to make my way—to sink, or swim, to go on or go under.

Now time, with his snuffers, is on my trail, he finds me low in the tallow and long in the wick, and will likely snuff me out when he gets a good chance. Let my mantle fall on the young men in whose brains new ideas are born. May they prove wise leaders in our land of heroes."

Community Concert Artists Announced

Series of Excellent Programs Assured

Because sufficient funds were raised from the sale of membership tickets, Burlington is assured of Community Concerts for the ensuing year. The artists' committee has decided on four instead of three concerts.

Bruna Castaga, a leading contralto of the Metropolitan Opera, who was also a soloist with Toscanini on the radio will be one of the artists.

Arthur LeBlanc, who toured Canada with a symphony orchestra and is known as Canada's national violinist will perform.

Witold Malcuzynski, a Polish artist was chosen. He was Paderewski's last pupil. A native of Warsaw, he was winner of the international Chopin competition and toured Europe and South America.

The fourth program has the marriage of Figaro Opera Company. It will present a streamlined version of Mozart's comic opera of the same name. It is under the direction of Albert Stoessel.

The dates are not established nor the sequence bookings. These are subject to change.

The Artist Committee is composed of Prof. H. G. Bennett, Dr. William Baab, Mrs. Joseph P. Stearns, Miss Miriam N. Marston and officers of the local association.

Freshmen, Sophomores—boys and girls—sign up for the debating competition in Room 151, Waterman Building, by November 1. Win a trophy!

Hallowe'en Dance Declared Success

Saturday night saw the Waterman cafeteria the scene of a gay and lively Hallowe'en dance sponsored by Staff and Sandal. The cafeteria was brightly decorated in the traditional Halloween fashion with pumpkins, skeletons, and colorful autumn leaves. The Catamounts furnished the music which was above their usual par. Mr. and Mrs. Long and Professor and Mrs. Carpenter were in the receiving line. The large attendance and the good time had by all made the annual Staff and Sandal dance a great success.

There will be a meeting of Staff and Sandal Thursday evening at 7.30 p.m. at Southwick.

House Directors Discuss Health

Join Miss Cummings And Health Council

A joint meeting of the Executive Council of Health Council and the House Directors of girls' dormitories and private houses was held on Thursday, October 22.

It was the desire of the Health Council to obtain the viewpoint of the House Directors in regard to health problems in the houses on this campus. It was a very successful meeting and was attended by many of the House Directors. The following were present at the meeting: Mrs. Willard, Grassmount; Mrs. Pilcher, Redstone; Mrs. Underwood, Elmwood; Mrs. Towne, Robinson; Mrs. Bosworth, Saunders; Mrs. Loudon, Slade; Mrs. Johnson, Allen House; Mrs. Graves, Prospect; Mrs. Richmond, Roberts; Mrs. Moody, Claggert House; Mrs. Sanderson, Alpha Xi Delta; Mrs. Wells, Tri Delta Delta; Mrs. Dodge, Kappa Alpha Theta; Mrs. France, Alphi Chi Omega; Mrs. Rutledge, Pi Beta Phi; Mrs. McCormick; Mrs. Griffin, and Mrs. Dresser.

During war time, the Health Problem is of even greater importance. To call it to the attention of the college students, posters will be placed in the college buildings and in the college houses. Penelope Easton and Marion Finn will distribute posters on nutrition which point out the necessary foods on a well-balanced diet. There was great emphasis placed on colds, eating habits, lighting, and mental hygiene. The House Directors were able to discuss which of the health habits need the most attention. Dean Simpson and Assistant Dean Harris were able to learn from the House Directors what measures should be considered in regard to the health conditions which exists.

Miss Cummings has made plans to give

U. V. M. Instructor Doing Important Research in Vision

Dr. Lorrin A. Riggs At Brown University In Laboratory

One of the most original pieces of war work being done by faculty members on leave from the University of Vermont is the research in the field of vision being carried on by Dr. Lorrin A. Riggs, instructor in the psychology department, who is now working in the psychology laboratory at Brown University and at Fortress Monroe, Va.

Doctor Riggs' services were requested by the National Defense Research Council, as he is one of the few men in the country qualified for work in this field.

For some years Doctor Riggs has been working on the electric currents given off by the retina of the eye when affected by light, a form of research which in the past has been done almost exclusively with animals as subjects.

In the psychology laboratories at the University of Vermont Doctor Riggs perfected the first method of measuring the action currents of the retina of the human eye. So delicate is the work and so small the currents to be measured that he found it necessary to work in an enclosure like a telephone booth and screen out the free electricity in the air. Even an X-ray treatment in the neighborhood or a powerful radio broadcast could interfere with the experiments.

Doctor Riggs is the son of Pres. Ernest Riggs of Anatolia College in Saloniki, and his boyhood was spent in the orient as a member of a prominent missionary family.

When his father was made secretary of the American Board of Missions, Doctor Riggs came to this country, his education being carried on in Melrose, Mass. and at Dartmouth College.

He received his Ph.D., at Clark University in Worcester and before coming to the University of Vermont was for a year a post-doctoral fellow of the National Research Council, working at the Johnson Foundation of the University of Pennsylvania Medical School.

TO ALL TREASURERS

Will you please do the following by October 28. In my box in the CYNIC office will be a sheet of paper. On that sheet will you please put LEGIBLY the name of the organization, the faculty adviser's name, your name as treasurer and the numbers of your requisition book. An example follows:

Mortar Board — Miss Simpson — Helena Anderson — Book Nos. 251-275.

This is extremely important, for unless this information is in by October 28, your organization will not be able to get either credit at the Bookstore or funds from your account.

If you haven't a requisition book, and the Accounting Office handles your funds, will you please get one immediately from the Accounting Office.

Dean Swift Replies to Interfraternity Council

Believed Initiation Ruling Had Support of Fraternity Conference

October 23, 1942

To the Editor of the CYNIC

Dear Sir:

There appeared yesterday in a local paper an article stating that the University fraternities were "up in arms over delayed initiation ruling." I was very much surprised to read this since the University Council vote followed the recommendation of the Interfraternity Conference as stated in a letter to me last spring. Under date of March 30, 1942, I wrote to Professor Carroll, Advisor to Men's Fraternities, the following letter:

"The President has instructed me to draw up regulations governing the status of men to be initiated in our men's fraternities. These will be presented to him and to the University Council for approval and adoption if the Council deems it wise.

"I should appreciate it if at the next meeting of the Interfraternity Conference you ask the Conference to consider this matter and send suggestions to me. I cannot, of course, guarantee that their recommendations will be adopted but they will at least serve as a working basis. Presumably such regulations would include a stipulation that all initiates be regularly enrolled full time students of the University, that they have completed one semester at the University with credit of at least eleven hours or such amount as may be specified by the Council. A further stipulation might well be that such initiates be not under warning or that their scholastic average be above a certain standard. Very tentatively indeed I suggest out of five grades in academic subjects at least three of C or better and not over one failure.

"Such a regulation would automatically put off initiation until the first semester grades had been received."

Some time later this letter was returned to me with the following statement written at the foot:

"This is to be accepted as a standard as a requirement for new initiates. (Signed) Robert E. Hennessy, Secretary."

The Council judged by this reply that the letter had been considered by the Interfraternity Conference, that the Conference had accepted the suggestions made, which were later followed by Council action and had no suggestions to make. Certainly the Council did not wish to make any drastic ruling without consulting the Interfraternity Conference and believed that it had done so and obtained approval from the Conference.

Yours very truly,
ELIJAH SWIFT,
Secretary, University Council.

Sororities Hold Final Parties

Freshmen to Enjoy Full Week of Fun

The last week of formal rushing is well on its way now. Of course the final parties are the mainstay of this time. One party has already been placed on the "record" but six others are still to come.

Mrs. Hoyt of South Prospect Street will play hostess to the Sigma Gammas and their guests Monday night. Florence Smith is in charge and plans indicate a bang-up party.

The Pi Beta Phi house will be the scene of festivities Tuesday night with co-chairmen Jean Sprague and Pat Crowley pulling the strings to make the show go on.

Kappa Alpha Theta will be having their party at the house on Wednesday with the plans now in the able hands of Bibby Deming and Allison Carr.

Both Delta Phi Epsilon and Alpha Xi will hold their parties Thursday night, at Southwick and the chapter house respectively. The D. Phi E's party is under the direction of Flo Levin, rushing chairman and Marjorie Rubin, social chairman. Sylvia Wellwood is the head engineer's seat for Alpha Xi.

The Delta Delta Delta bandwagon will swing out Friday night to finish up. The reins are held in the able hands of Peggy Flint with assistants Ita Casey, Barbara Welsh and Danny Geer. The necessary clean-up committee is headed by Mary Butler.

Alpha Chi Omega Has First Party

Final Party Season Starts With a Bang

The Alpha Chis set a pretty high standard for this year's parties by having the first one a five star masterpiece. There were forty rushees in attendance and they were given the best in background, food, and entertainment.

The room was candle-lit and on the head table there was the lyre, familiar symbol of the sorority, worked out in evergreen boughs and carnations. Each rushee was given a carnation on a clip for their hair, to further enhance their appearance. The party was formal and need we say each girl looked her loveliest.

The food was wonderful and the meal was culminated by the traditional dream cake ceremony. There was table singing all during the meal.

The group was then entertained by the singing of Margie Southworth with two solos. Next came Bob Goss to sing and then the famous double quartet which is entertainment in any man's language.

Thanks and congratulations are due to Mary Perry, chairman of the party, and to her very able assistants Sylvia Runnals, Barbara Hall and Harriet Nelson.

All juniors must have their proofs returned to the receptionist in the Billiard Room of the Waterman Building by Wednesday, October 28.

Collegium to Hear Dean M. J. Simpson

"——and a good time was had by all."

So might say any one of the many who attended Collegium Sunday night, for they were deluged with food prepared by the capable hands of women of the parish. After supper, Dave Wheeler '45, and Dean Milligan '46, led various and sundry games, and the meeting proper was opened by Florence Wade, who introduced Prof. R. A. Hall to speak on the Interfaith Movement. Following discussion of the subject, a miniature basketball game was enjoyed. (We furnish the basket and you furnish the balls.)

Next week's meeting is to be devoted to a discussion of extra-curricular activities, led by Dean Mary Jean Simpson. This being a most important item in school life, all students are urged to attend.

The Laws of Lawlessness

An echo of the timid days of pre-1940 is to be found in the recent surmises and statements upon the probability of abandonment by the Axis of international rules of war. The apprehension and incredulity with traces of surprise and dismay that is the tenor of this commentary would be laughable—if it were not dangerous.

The Axis is abandoning the rules of warfare. We might first ask, "Are there rules of warfare?" Countries resort to war only when they cannot or will not abide by international rules. Chaos and violence—which is war—is the antithesis of law and order—which is international rule. To speak of a code of warfare is a waste of words. Certainly modern war knows no rules, save those of expediency.

Again we might ask, "Is the Axis just beginning to abandon rules?" Was the slaughter of Poles done according to rules? Are there conventions concerning just how such an operation should be carried out? Indiscriminate persecutions of Jews and Catholics, murders of hostages, sacking of countries, bombing of "open" cities and civilians—are there rules which describe such actions?

Yet these are all a part of war as carried on by Germany and Japan. Openly, yes fragrantly, have these countries used these activities as a part of war. The shackling of prisoners and even the use of poison gases seem trivial violations of any rules or conventions—if there be such—of war.

Why don't people stop fooling themselves. This war is probably the dirtiest mess ever perpetrated by that beast called man. It is a fight to the finish, no holds barred. The enemy will hit us whenever, wherever, and however he can—and he is more likely to fight dirty if he has agreements saying he won't.

It seems that someone put his foot into a hornet's nest when the University Council told fraternities they could not initiate new members until second semester and that there must be certain minimum scholastic requirements. Fraternity men are up in words and indignation at such an action. All of which is very interesting.

We will not pass judgment on the case here, although we would be inclined to think that the Council has reasons for this action. We shall open the season on a pet peeve.

It is difficult if not impossible to get the fraternities all working together if it involves any individual sacrifice. Each frat is a little clique, and thinks of itself first—and sometimes only. The trend of the members is inward towards a narrow core, rather than outward toward the University. This exists in varying degrees in various frats, but it's there.

Now comes a time when frats join together for a common purpose. Old line fraternity men come out of their shells to espouse a cause. There is interest and discussion. But it is all for a narrow, rather minor cause. The frats are working together, but for themselves.

Why do we mention this?

Because we were at first surprised, then worried and finally disgusted with the lack of interest shown by Vermont students in issues affecting them as a whole. This is worse among the men on campus. Petty issues, such as coed-soldier dances and now this frat ruling, seem to be the limit of their thinking and interest.

This should not be. As a group, fraternities are a powerful force on campus. An intelligent discussion of problems vital to the whole University is within their power. But it means a change from the self-centered cliques we see in fraternities today.

Presenting

For T. Six had never before realized what a great guy he really was. When he first arrived here at school he left quite unimportant, but not for long .... soon upperclassmen actually began to seek his company. Rushing was in full swing.

Fortie, a man of no mean abilities, was sought by each and every fraternity. Conflicting rumors as to the exact nature of his abilities were, however, widespread on the campus. The Tappa Nu Kegs, for one, were certain that he was a good drinker, and paid their attentions to him accordingly. He was a sure thing for Tappa Nu.

But the Eta Beta Pies were not to be caught napping. Having learned that Fortie was quite a voracious eater, they regaled him with a sumptuous banquet of cider and doughnuts. As a point in his final consideration of the selection of his fraternity, Fortie could not overlook this fine affair.

Each fraternity had their own method of dealing with Fortie. Suffice it to say that Fortie was well-impressed with the importance of drinking, eating, studying, as well as athletics, good fellowship, drama, art, music and other fine pursuits of life.

The great day of pledging arrived and Fortie went fraternity.

It took Fortie only a short while to realize that being a pledge did not give him the full benefits of fraternity. His impatience to become a brother was even greater than that of the pledges of previous years. He knew that he would be given only a year or two before the President's personal greetings would call him into the armed forces.

Because of all this, Fortie was quite pleased to learn that he had not long to wait for his initiation. But his joy was to be short-lived. A University Senate decree, for bidding his initiation until the second semester, gave him great concern for those benefits which he had hoped to derive from an earlier-than-usual initiation. His first thought was to protest to the President. Then the brothers of the fraternity to which Fortie had pledged promised to look into the matter for him.

How things will eventually turn out—no predictions. But Fortie is praying. Who knows, he may even go to Chapel. How he goes about it will be revealed in our next thrilling installment.

Military Notes

Elaborate plans are being made by the military department for an open house day on November 1 in the armory. There will be close order drill in the cage and various displays in the armory itself.

A chief attraction will be the stripping, assembling, and functions of the new M-1 service rifle. There will be quite a bit of the weapons that the infantrymen use and also some captured equipment on display. On the program will be short sound movies on military subjects and various other demonstrations.

The freshman military students are engaged now in rifle marksmanship practice under Sergeant Pickett and Sergeant Landa. The varsity rifle team begins practice this week under Lieutenant Thayer. In connection with the women's physical education program a women's rifle class under Sergeant Landa will meet for the first time this semester on October 26. In all the rifle classes the junior and senior advanced military students are working as assistant instructors.

The R. O. T. C. Band is planning to appear in the city's Navy Day parade October 27.

Book Reviews

. . . and take advantage of your library, which is continually obtaining new books only for you. This week it has three more new books to offer. If poems are preferred to other types of reading, Spender has just the book you have been waiting for. But, don't stop at poems, keep on, and read Mr. Fleisher's and Mr. Ferrero's books of equal interest.

Ruins and Visions
By STEPHEN SPENDER

For eight years Mr. Spender's reputation in America has been kept fresh by his work in the fields of fiction and criticism. At the same time, he is to be identified as one of the most outstanding poets of England. His fame is based upon his verse published in 1934. Since that time, he has written many excellent poems or has withheld them from the American public. But now we find gathered together for the first time in this book a series of poems representing all the poet's efforts during this critical period in English history. The poetry reflects a violent change. The lyrical impulse of these poems is so vital that they allow no hesitation in the mind to interfere with the pleasure and stimulation which they arouse.

Volcanic Isle
By WILFRED FLEISHER

Mr. Fleisher, in this volume, develops the thesis that the United States found herself in the same position in respect to Japan as France was when Hitler invaded the Ruhr. Mr. Fleisher paints for us a picture of how life is lived in a country which Americans have never really understood. He describes the Emperor, Prince and Princess Chichibu, Premier Konoye, and Foreign Minister Matsuoka. Mr. Fleisher also tells of the "little people" of Japan who are suffering more and more from the war with China and who are carrying on simply because there is no "honorable" way out.

The Principles of Power
By GUGLIEMO FERRERO

In this fascinating work, the author deals with the foundations and great forces of government during the last few centuries. At the same time, he offers fresh evidence in support of the theory of legitimacy in government and reveals the revolutionary factors which contributed to the outbreak of this war.

Because of the existing censorship in Switzerland, the author could not publish this book in that country. But we are fortunate to have it here, for it is a document or guide to power which should serve as a handy tool for all those men who will have a hand in making the peace which must come after this war.

Seven members of last fall's University of Texas football squad were married.

The Locker Room

By Bill Roeder

Easily the most interesting aspect of this Vermont football season is the remarkable scoring record of the Catamount halfback, Ralph LaPointe. Here is the extra ordinary case of a cinderella player, of a young man who, despite the poor fortunes of his own team, insists upon fraternizing with the nation's gridiron elite.

Saturday's enforced idleness was probably fatal to his chances for national honors, with such contenders as Bob Steuber of Missouri and Frank Sinkwich of Georgia enjoying field days, but Chick remains in the thick of the Eastern competition. This thanks largely to his state rival, Walt Domina, who stayed under wraps while Norwich scored over Middlebury, 31 to 6. Domina, wheelhorse of the Cadets' offense, was being saved for this week's important Norwich-New Hampshire meeting.

The Vermont-Norwich clash a fortnight hence may provide a tingling personal duel between this high-scoring pair. Less than a touchdown now separates them (LaPointe 48, Domina 43) and their teams each play but one more game before meeting each other.

Wild Cats Dangerous

Norwich, meanwhile, prepares to combat the greatest menace to an undefeated season it has thus far encountered. The Cadets bump into the raging New Hampshire Wildcats, who kept their own streak alive Saturday by shading Rhode Island State, 14 to 13. New Hampshire is ready to give Norwich no quarter in the game which may determine the East's first-ranking small college eleven. With abundant reserves, a strong line, and a back, Theo Fitanides, who can match Domina, the Wildcats may even be favored.

The Vermont coaching staff and a good share of the players traveled to Northfield for the Norwich-Middlebury game. These explorers were impressed, of course, by the Cadets' strength and polish, but they had more to say of Middlebury. Pete Kadzis, for instance, thought the Panther line did a superior job in checking the Norwich ground game. And even the usually taciturn Don Nutter waxed eloquent in praise of the Middlebury spirit, pointing out that the Panthers, without a victory in two years, had small grounds for cheer.

No Weak Sisters

And when Middlebury's 1942 record is studied closely, respect for the team increases. Williams trounced Sam Carraciola's eleven in its opener, but Williams also whipped the same Princeton team that routed Brown Saturday, and the Purple extended its unbeaten string by taking Tufts, 47 to 6. Nor was Middlebury too feeble in its losses to Tufts, Union, and Colby. In fact Union, which won by two touchdowns over Vermont, was lucky to get a last-quarter, one-point win at Middlebury.

Trinity, Vermont's next opponent, ran into misfortune Saturday. The Hilltoppers fell prey to Coast Guard Academy, 35 to 7. Coach Dan Jessee's team is not really that bad, however, having displayed itself to better advantage earlier this season.

By way of checking up on the Hilltoppers, the Catamount squad reviewed films of last year's Trinity game. Trinity won this one, 9 to 7, with speedy halfback Charley Foster, who is back this year, scoring the winning touchdown.

Domina Sidelined as Norwich Takes Panther, 31-6

by Monty Kelley

Norwich University's rampaging Horsemen, undefeated in their current gridiron campaign, ran rough-shod over a game but outweighed Middlebury eleven last Saturday for their fifth win of the season. Playing without the services of triple-threat menace, Walloping Walter Domina, the Kaydets, nevertheless, were not hard pressed to tree the Panthers, 31-6. Led by twinkle-toed, scat-back Chris Zoukis and powerful hard-running Chuck Miller, the Maroon exhibited a driving, power attack which the Middlebury stalwarts were unable to stop.

Fireworks developed after only a few minutes of play. Middlebury quick-kicked. Norwich ran one play and Miller smashed off-tackle, galloping 37 yards before he was hauled down on the Middlebury 10. Zoukis flipped a pass to Miller in the end zone and the Cadets had 6 points. The conversion failed.

Again Stan Kecks' powerhouse gained possession, soon after the second kick-off. Battering the Panther line all the way, they blundgeoned their way from deep in home territory to the Middlebury 20. A penalty put the pigskin on the one foot line and on the first play of the second quarter Zoukis plunged over for the tally. Stone's kick was wide again.

The fans settled back to see Norwich roll up the score, but the Panthers staged a startling uprising, taking to the air with one of the geewhizingist passing attacks seen on Sabine Field for many a moon. Bobo Sheean ran the kick-off back and then passed to glue-fingered Art Pepin, Blue and White end, who sprinted to the Norwich 44 before he was hit down. Another toss to Pepin netted 4 yards. Operating from an eccentric spread formation the visitors picked up ten more yards on a Cooke to Sheean lateral and Middlebury was threatening. The next play, however, was a pass which Miller of the Cadets intercepted. Norwich kicked out but the inspired Panthers came bounding back, this time to the Maroon 27. Miller, a thorne in the Middlebury side all afternoon, intercepted for the second time and the Panthers' hope for a score subsided. The Cadets came back running and passing. Again it was Miller on the receiving end of a long Norwich heave and he was over for another six points. The gun ended the half with the score 19-0.

The Midds returned to the fray out for blood. Art Pepin intercepted a Maroon aerial and lugged the leather through a broken field into enemy territory. Cooke heaved a long lateral to Sheean and as the Middlebury stands went wild, Bobo twisted his way to the Norwich eleven yard line. A Cooke to Buoner lateral also connected for a short gain. Then Sheean faded back to wing a bullet pass to Skip Harris in the end zone for the first and only Middlebury counter of the game.

Stan Kecks' warriors now took up the offensive. Late in the third canto Zipper Zoukis went off tackle, eluded the secondary and scooted 54 yards for a score, the longest run of the day. The two clubs continued to battle it out at midfield for the rest of that period and most of the next. With time running out and reserves poring into the fray, Middlebury was forced back into their own territory. In hopes of one more score, they gambled with a pass, which Norwich pivot-man Blaklin intercepted. Dodging several would-be tacklers he turned on the speed and trotted over for the final tally of the contest.

While these two state rivals battled it out on Sabine Field Vermont's football combine had a holiday from the gridiron wars. Some of the Cats were in the stands getting a look at their future opponents, and from what they saw plenty of trouble is brewing for the Green and Gold. Coach Fuzzy Evans was also present at the game.

Harriers Outpoint Williams, 24-31, Despite Brown's Record Run

Hoyt and McLaren Trail Purple Captain

By Bill Styles

Williamstown, Mass., Saturday.—In spite of the near record running of the Williams' captain, Dave Brown, who streaked across the finish line a full twenty-three seconds ahead of Vermont's Bud Hoyt, the Green and Gold Harriers handily trimmed the Ephmen 24-31 to rack up their second straight victory of the 1942 season.

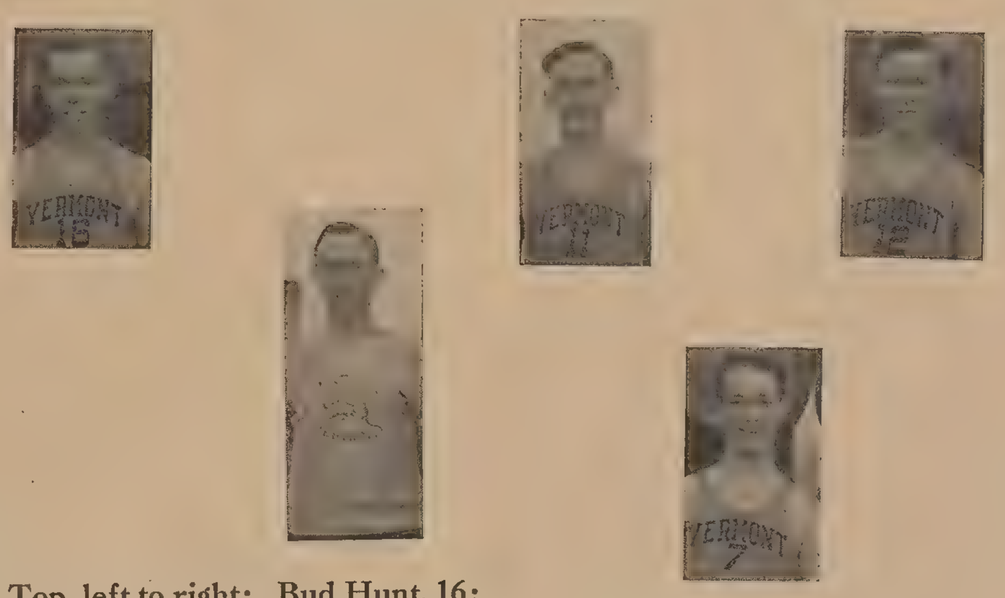

Running on a wet course nearly four miles in length, the Green and Gold placed five runners in low scoring positions to clinch the meet. Hoyt placed a very good second and Marty McLaren was right behind him for a third. Merle Crown and John Corliss were fifth and sixth respectively, and Len Harrington grabbed the number eight position to close the scoring for Vermont. Everyone finished in pretty fair shape, although Roy Lepper was troubled by a stomach cramp which slowed up his running and kept him out of the scoring.

Capt. Brown of Williams, showed himself to be a very much improved runner over last year, when he placed only a poor twelfth at Burlington. This year, shooting for the Williams track record, he missed it by only fifteen or twenty seconds. Maurice Goodbody, another Williams standout, placed fourth for the Ephmen.

A complete list of the runners, as they wound up at the finish line, follows:

1. Brown (W) 21:01
2. Hoyt (V) 21:24
3. McLaren (V)
4. Goodbody (W)
5. Crown (V)
6. Corliss (V)
7. Sheffield (W)
8. Harrington (V)
9. Heppes (W)
10. Lepper (V)
11. Arms (V)
12. St. Mary (V)
13. Lathrop (W)
14. Andrews (V)

BOULDER SOCIETY NOTES

A meeting of Boulder Society was held last Thursday evening at the Kappa Sigma House.

Plans were made to hold the Hose Fight between the Freshmen and Sophomores this coming Thursday, if possible. If the canes came, the annual Cane Rush will be contested at the half of the Norwich-Vermont game. It was also to have a Boulder Dance, November 7 with Milt Kaufman in charge.

Phi Sigs Rout Sig Phis, 39-12

Paul and Mickler Star; SAE's Triumph, 20-18

In a postponed encounter, a mighty Phi Sigma Delta team routed an inexperienced but game, Sigma Phi outfit by a score of 39-12.

The Phi Sig's footballers used a varied attack in steam rolling the Sigma Phis. Mal Mickler, pivot man, they ran the ends and threw terrific passes, throughout the game, scoring almost at will. Their timing and blocking were excellent, the passers had plenty of time to find an open target. Lennie Paul sparked his team mates to several scores by virtue of some very fancy pass snatching and broken field running. By gaining this win the Phi Sigs have announced themselves as real contenders for the final championship game. But first they must defeat the Kappa Sigs in a game which shapes up to be a real thriller.

The Sigma Phis in losing, showed some undeveloped talent. Ronnie Page, Brud Sutton and Bob Pond, sparked this team to score and to wage a good game despite the heavy odds. The Sig Phis were simply outplayed, they showed a definite lack of precision and timing which of course, is essential in any game.

By losing, the Sigma Phis' are now included in the loser's brackets. There they may develop to be a better, more aggressive team.

In a lower league game, the S. A. E.'s bounced back from their first defeat downing the Independents by a score of 20-18. The game was close throughout the lead changing hands several times but the S. A. E.'s finished strong to win by a slim margin.

Green Mountain Tops Jayvees

Cats Bow on Fumbles; Face Panthers Saturday

The Vermont J. V. footballers 20 strong travelled to Poultney, Vt., Saturday to meet the Green Mountain Junior College team, and there they fumbled the game to lose by a score of 13-6.

Both teams were evenly matched, each making nine first downs, however a terrific case of "fumblosis," cost the "Kittens" the game. By fumbling 16 times, recovering five, the J. V.'s virtually gave the game away.

The Green Mountain team scored late in the second quarter and they tallied again in the third. Not long after their second score, Krupp scored the lone touchdown for the boys from Burlington.

Ed O'Connell husky Vermont back, skirted the ends and slashed through tackles for numerous gains, only to have them nullified by fumbling. Big Les Spear, and Newt Goldman shone brilliantly in the line for the J. V.'s.

U. V. M. To Hold Open House Nov. 7

New Facilities of College to Be Shown

The University of Vermont is holding its first "open house" on Saturday, November 7, when events of interest to parents, alumni, and friends are being planned. Classrooms and laboratories will be open to visitors during Saturday forenoon, when the various departments of the University will have special demonstrations of their work. The offices of the administration, the deans, and the alumni council extend a hearty welcome. A reception by Pres. John S. Millis is scheduled for Saturday evening at the Southwick Memorial building.

As an example of the enlarged facilities of the University, the new electrical laboratory of the College of Engineering, located in the new Waterman Building will be open for inspection. Many of the items in this exceptionally well equipped laboratory will be operated for the visitors by students of the electrical engineering department.

The Fleming Museum will also be open to visitors, and an inspection of its many rooms and exhibits will be one of the features of the occasion. On exhibition in the art gallery will be a group of oil paintings by Francis Colburn, resident artist of the University. This exhibit will soon move to New York, where it will have the distinction of being a one-man show in the gallery.

The Alumni Council is encouraging all alumni who may be thinking of returning to the University some time this fall, to take advantage of this opportunity to do so. The Norwich football game will be an attraction of the day, and may be one of the last intercollegiate athletic events of its kind for the duration. The admission for this game, it is announced, has been reduced from the rates of last year and no seats will be reserved at extra cost. Alumni disappointed over the cancellation of home-coming day this year will find the day answering that purpose. Those in charge of the open house program state that preparations are being made for a large number of visitors. The University realizes it is useless to urge travel these days, they say, but those from nearby communities and those who find themselves in Burlington on November 7 are urged to utilize the special opportunity and make an inspection trip of some part of the University or visit some particular department.

Sororities, fraternities, and dormitories will receive visitors Saturday afternoon.

A central information booth will be arranged in the main lobby of the Waterman Building for the benefit of visitors, and student guides will be provided from the members of the honorary societies.

Knocker Noggin Neal Gains High Mark; Closely Followed by Chubby Kaufman

KNOCKER NOGGIN NEAL

At a meeting of the U. V. M. chapter of Y. U. B. V. D. chronic embibers Pres. W. C. Neal '43, announced that he had obtained the highest standing in the club for the school term thus far. Milt Kaufman '43, last year's President was acknowledged a close second. The club meets bi-weekly (every Friday and Saturday evening) at their down town rooms. Membership has been greatly expanded so that the present membership is about 30 with more pouring in each session.

Neal won the Presidentship handily over all comers, because of his great and meritous service in the past few months.

Notice

At a recent meeting the University Council voted that starting November 2 and continuing up to the Christmas recess, the following schedule of classes be adopted as an experiment. If this works out well and Burlington does not change from War Time to Eastern Standard Time this program may be continued by vote of the Council.

Weekdays except Wednesdays

Military Science	8.00- 8.50
First hour	9.00- 9.50
Second hour	10.00-10.50
Third hour	11.00-11.50
Fourth hour	12.00-12.50
Fifth hour	2.15- 3.05
Sixth hour	3.15- 4.05

Laboratory sections which at present meet for three hours, from 1.30-4.30, will meet from 1.45-4.45.

Wednesdays

Military Science	7.30- 8.20

W. A. A. Notes

W. A. A. will hold its annual membership drive Thursday, October 29. The fee, contrary to last week's report, is 10 cents for upper classmen and 25 cents for freshmen. Every girl is asked to join so that she may have the opportunity to participate whole-heartedly in athletics.

Modern dance is beginning this week, October 26. The intermediate and advanced group will meet every Tuesday and Thursday at 4.15. Dance Workshop will start next Tuesday, November 3, at 4.50. It will give a physical education demonstration and start work on the Lilac Day program.

A square dance group will meet every Thursday at 4.50, beginning October 29. If the turn-out is large enough, and if conditions permit, a mixed group will participate in the hill billy and cowboy dances. W. A. A. credit will be given for both modern and square dance.

Recently Appointed Naval Aviation Cadet

Mitchell F. Lambert, son of Mrs. Minnie R. Sealey of 86 Brook Street, Barre, Vermont, was recently appointed a Naval Aviation Cadet and was transferred to the Naval Air Station at Pensacola, Fla., for flight training, according to an announcement from the public relations office of that station.

Lambert, active in varsity athletics, attended the University of Vermont for three years, two years of which he took the course offered by the U. S. Army Reserve Officers Training Corps. He was sent to the Naval Reserve Aviation Base in Squantum, Mass., in July, where he successfully passed the elimination training course late in September.

Upon completion of the intensive course at the "Annapolis of the Air," Lambert will receive the designation of Naval Aviator with a commission as Ensign in the Naval Reserve or as Second Lieutenant in the Marine Corps Reserve, at which time he will be assigned to active duty.

Snapshot Contest Closes November 1

Students of U. V. M., are you interested in winning $5.00? Yes? Well, then hurry and get those prints and negatives into the Ariel's snapshot contest right away, for the contest closes on Sunday, November 1. Candid shots of any phase of campus life are acceptable. All pictures and their negatives (both signed by owner on margin) are to be given to George Holden or Barbara Lane on or before November 1. You may submit as many prints and negatives as you wish. Professors Puffer and Ladd will be the judges of the contest, but in case of a tie in their decisions, a third member of the faculty will be called in to settle the dispute. Prints will be judged on (a) adaptation to the snapshot pages of the Junior Yearbook and (b) photographic technique. The first topic will count heaviest in the minds of the judges.

All Expected to Attend Student Convocation

On Wednesday morning at 10.00 there will be a Student Convocation in the Ira Allen Chapel. This is not a religious service but a convocation at which all students may attend. The theme of the service is to be "Religion on the Campus."

Marjorie Witham, Chairman of the Student Government Committee on Religious Life, will preside assisted by Wendall Harvey and Faye Lipman, both members of the committee, and Professor Hall, executive secretary.

All students and members of the faculty are to be present.

Plays Presented at Southwick Friday

Two one act plays were presented to a large audience at Southwick on last Friday evening. Both "The Step Mother," ably directed by Patty Pike and Patty Page, and "Moonshine" directed by Helaine Goldberg and Sylvia Wellwood scored hits. A fund of talent has been discovered in the class of '46. These freshmen would have stolen the show were it not for two talented juniors. Undoubtedly we shall see many of these faces again in the fall play.

Debating Club to Meet Wednesday at Waterman

The second meeting of the Debating Club will be held Wednesday, October 28 at 7.30 p.m. in the Waterman Building, Room 140.

All present will be able to join in the discussion of the timely topic, "Resolved: That India should receive the right of self-government immediately." To introduce the subject, varsity Debater Bob Norton '44, and "fire-eater" Phil Robinson '45, will uphold the affirmative; while "promising" Dave Wheeler '45, assisted by a still undisclosed ace will take the negative. Jake Katz '44, is chairman and will try to make everybody participate in the discussion.

Everybody is invited and don't forget to sign up for the Bailey and Carlson Cup debate.

Students To Guide Visitors in First Vt. Open House

Engineering Rooms and Labs Open For Public Inspection November 7

The three departments of the Engineering College at the University of Vermont are planning to take an active part in the University's first Open House on Saturday, November 7, when they will open their rooms and laboratories to the inspection of visitors.

The mechanical engineering department has planned an exhibit of their equipment which they hope will demonstrate just what the students in that department are doing. Professor R. G. Chapman, department head, is directly in charge of the mechanical's show. He plans to have the students run tests on the machines in the various laboratories in an attempt to show visitors how the students learn the actual conditions under which the machines operate.

Prof. E. R. McKee of the Electrical Engineering Department states that its laboratories and equipment will stage experiments which should be of interest to everyone. There will be some experiments of the historical type, some bordering on the spectacular, and some that will demonstrate the newer trends in electrical development. Students from all electrical engineering classes will cooperate in conducting the experiments, and the show will be such as to interest both technically and non-technically trained persons alike.

The Civil Engineering Department will open the gates in their hydraulics laboratory with demonstrations of the student's work in this field. Prof. L. B. Puffer, in charge of the civil's demonstrations, says that there will be a model rigid frame bridge which will be subjected to various loads to show their effects. The testing laboratory in which concrete and cast iron speciments will be loaded to their breaking points, will be open.

All of the students in the various departments will have a part in the Open House activities. Some will guide the visitors in their tour of inspection of the well-equipped laboratories, the spacious drawing rooms, and the offices of professors. Others will give explanations of the demonstrations being conducted.

Reserve Officers To Visit Campus

The joint Army-Navy-Marine Corps Coast Guard College Procurement Board will hold a general meeting for the students on Tuesday evening, November 3, in the Student Lounge Room of the Waterman Building.

It is desirable that all students not now enlisted in either the R. O. T. C. or E. R. C. be present. At this meeting, each individual member of the Board will speak briefly relative to his particular branch of the Armed Services.

On Wednesday, November 4, each member of the Board will be assigned a room in the Waterman Building where he may be visited by students interested in special lines of the service.

It is expected that the members of the Board will be here all day Wednesday.

Notification of the various rooms assigned will be posted on the bulletin board, and an announcement will appear in the Cynic of Tuesday, November 3.

Increase in Chapel Attendance is Noted

Attendance at the Wednesday morning chapel services is increasing.

One hundred and ninety-nine people were present October 7, 19 of whom were faculty members. An increase of 12 was noted October 14, bringing the total to 211. There were 230 persons including faculty members, out of a possible 577 at the service Wednesday, October 21. This was an increase of 31 over October 7.

U. V. M. Professor Finds Meteorite

Found in Vermont, Only Iron Ore in N. E.

Do you know where there is a meteorite?

According to Prof. Charles G. Doll of the Geology Department of the University there is no official record of a meteorite having been found in Vermont. Neither the maps nor literature devoted to such learned subjects include Vermont among those favored states in which a little bit of heaven has fallen in the form of incandescent iron.

But Professor Doll found a meteorite in Vermont this summer while on a geological field mapping trip and saved the honor of the state. He found it in a high pasture near South Strafford and thinks there may be more scattered around the high pastures and the low pastures of the state. If there are he wants to know about them in order that Vermont may take its rightful place among those chosen regions on which disintegrating comets have showered their blessings.

The meteorite found by Professor Doll weighs five pounds and two ounces, and is shaped roughly like a flatiron, with triangular top and bottom. When discovered it had the appearance of a small chunk of rusty iron. It was unusually heavy for its size and responded to a magnet. On rubbing a section of it down with a piece of rock it took on the white sheen of a tin can. It was subsequently cut and etched, and microscopic examination showed the unmistakable lines peculiar to meteorites.

Meteorite iron is especially hard, Professor Doll explains, as it contains a certain percent of nickel and other elements. There are iron and stone meteorites. The stone meteorites are usually blackish or dark gray in color and heavier than ordinary stone. Neither iron nor stone meteorites have been reported from Vermont. Such meteorites are of all shapes and sizes, some weighing several tons. The largest recorded weighs in at thirty-five tons. Professor Doll states that if anyone finds a meteorite weighing a ton or two he may as well drop a card before bringing it in for inspection. At present, according to such records as are available, Professor Doll's find ranks as the only one of its kind in New England, although stone meteorites have been discovered.

Hillel Club Will Organize on Vt. Campus This Year

Started Last Year, Will Continue With Rabbi Weine Directing

Last year a branch of the Hillel Club, a Jewish religious organization, was founded on this campus when Rabbi Stearne, the first Rabbi to speak in University Chapel, met the Jewish students and citizens of Burlington after chapel.

This year the local lodge of B'nai B'rith and the local synagogue are financing this foundation and have secured the services of Rabbi Max Weine of Rutland, as director. The organization meeting was held October 4, in the Student Lounge where Doctor Rabinowitz from New York was the speaker. Here, two representatives from each fraternity and from the independent group were elected to form the executive. These eight meet once a week with Rabbi Weine in the Religious Committee room where plans are being made, among other things, for study clubs and a monthly newspaper. Meetings of the entire group will be once a month.

The first Hillel group was founded by Rabbi Benjamin Frankel at the Hebrew Union College, after he was a student there and saw the aimlessness and lack of leadership of growing Jewish student body.

The first year of the new Hillel foundation was a harried one. The funds for salary, administration, rent, and maintenance had to be won by convincing individuals that here was a practical and useful service. After a year of pioneering at Illinois with a totally new student technique, Rabbi Frankel succeeded in convincing B'nai B'rith that in its widening program of service to the Jewish community, the sponsorship of the Foundations had a natural place. From then on, with finances on a comparatively secure and responsible basis, the expansion of Hillel was assured.

The name was to be linked with the best traditions in Jewish life, hence it was concluded that no name would carry greater significance than that of the gentle sage of the first century B.C.E. who was one of the outstanding scholars and teachers in Jewish history.

You Too Can Dance SaySoph Aides

Sophomore Aides will sponsor a beginners' dancing class at Southwick Memorial, beginning Wednesday, November 4. For three weeks the girls will meet from 7.15 to 8.00 o'clock and the boys, from 8.00 to 8.45 o'clock. The time is subject to change on account of the new schedule. The two groups will then meet together. Miss Hoffman of the Women's Physical Education Department will teach the steps—with the aid of Walter Haynes at the piano. Only those students who do not know how to dance and wish to learn are urged to attend. The men will leave their names with Mrs. Loudon in the News Bureau and the women will leave theirs with Mrs. Hodgdon in the office of the Dean of Women.

WAACS Visit Dean Of Women at Vt.

Nov. 12 Is Date Set For City Hall Rally

Lt. Anita Pleuss and Lt. Josephine Springer of the Women's Auxiliary Army Corps, visited the office of the Dean of Women for a short time Wednesday afternoon during their stay in Burlington to make plans for a rally in the City Hall, November 12. Lieutenant Pleuss, Wisconsin, and Lieutenant Springer, Chicago, are stationed at Rutland, during their absence from Fort Des Moines. They explain that the duties of the WAACS are varied. Their goal is 150,000 members to act as laboratory assistants, dental assistants, weather observers and other forms of service in which men fit for combat duty are now employed. The WAACS will serve in non-combat duty but may volunteer to go overseas if they wish. Beginning December 7, 1,000 women will start to train each week and approximately the same number will leave each week. They do not expect to make new jobs but will take over those which men are doing.

The Women's Auxiliary Army Corps is run in the same manner as the regular army camp. With reveille at 5.45, formation at 6 and breakfast at 6.15, the women must be on their toes every minute. Their shirts and skirts are hung in wall lockers. A demerit is received for hanging a shirt on a hanger without buttoning every button. If dust is found on the walls of their barracks, the names of the guilty ones appear on the gig list. Classes are held from nine until twelve and from one until four in the afternoon.

Because the band is the greatest builder of army morale, the Women's Auxiliary Army Corps is anxious to recruit women over 21 and under 45 who have the ability to play brass and tympani. They will be accepted into the organization without the usual delay between application and admittance.

"The women inducted within the next few weeks," said Lieutenant Pleuss, "will stand a very good chance of becoming

What About You? Want To Have Fun? It's Party Night!

Old Fashioned Games And Dancing Planned At Hallowe'en Frolic

The Outing Club is staging a giant Hallowe'en Party at Southwick tonight, October 30. The fun will start with a hay ride which leaves the boys' gym at 6 o'clock and by a devious route arrives at Southwick where food awaits the hungry crowd. Hallowe'en games, old and new, square and social dancing, singing and surprises are the orders for the evening. Entertainment chairman John Gowan will not disclose all of his plans but promises a lot of fun. Everyone is invited. Come and wear your old clothes. Outing Club members 25 cents and non-members 35 cents.

The committee for the party is headed by Marjorie Anthony '45, and includes Julie Fletcher '44, and Jack Williams '44, for decorations, John Gowan '45, for entertainment, Fran Donahue '45, provides the eats, and Polly Clark the publicity.

If you like a lot of fun and are not afraid of witches, ghosts, black cats or Outing Club members be at the gym at 6 o'clock tonight.

Gold Key Sponsors Dance on Saturday

Soule-Holden Combo To Furnish Vic Music

Gold Key Society is sponsoring a "Vic Dance," tomorrow night, with the scintillating music of the Soule-Holden records. The place is the Waterman Cafeteria and the time, 8.30 to 12.00.

The chaperones for the evening are Prof. and Mrs. B. F. Ladd, and Dr. and Mrs. R. H. Long. The Gold Key members who are still here, following the exodus of the football men, will be in charge, and these include Fred Webster on tickets, Jim Whalon, Mike Spylios, Bill Mahar, and Steve Moore.

The cost of admission is but a quarter.

Not Peep, But Pep Rally November 12

Key and Serpent announces that plans for the distribution of football blankets are well under way at this time and hope to be completed soon.

A bean supper and Pep-Rally are planned by the society for the Friday before the Norwich game. Saturday of that week is "open house" and Key and Serpent members will serve as guides about the campus for visiting relatives, friends and alumni.

The Key and Serpent men will sponsor the Pep-Rally Friday, November 3, in preparation for the Middlebury-Vermont game. There will be entertainment, cheers, introduction of players and songs. It gives evidence of being the biggest of the year.

C. A. A. Mental Exam In W. B. November 4

The next CAA mental examination will be held on November 4, at 1.00 p.m., in Room 350 in the Waterman Building. This examination is the first step toward entrance qualification for the C. P. T. training program. All those who are interested in this program are required to take the examination.

The Vermont Cynic

The Official Student Newspaper of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College

VOL. 61 OCTOBER 30, 1942 NO. 12

One of the great faults noticeable in world history of the past hundred years has been the failure of the economists, political scientists, philosophers, psychologists and sociologists to keep pace with the technical advances of science. The machine age, as has been witnessed by the various wars, has proven too strong for any political group or combination of groups. Science has got out of hand and the world is having a tough struggle in calming it down.

As a step toward a world solution of this problem the Allied Nations might do well in studying this history, draw a few conclusions and finally benefit by the experiences of the past years. The United Nations have formed all sorts of bureaus, committees, etc., to investigate every matter under the sun except the problem of reorientating our world after this great war. Sociologists have not been given a chance. The world is all wrapped up in the technical accomplishments, and it should be, but it might also give these other philosophic, economic, etc., groups a chance to solve the problems which will arise at termination of the present conflict. If this is a true war to save democracy and a war to end wars, steps should be taken immediately in such a direction. Of course the present problem is to win, but it must be vitally necessary to at least try to look into the factors of a lasting peace. We must settle this mess of a war if permanent salvation is ever to be attained.

Economists, psychologists, philosophers, sociologists and true statesmen, could be summoned in the various nations to study and to get some ideas along this line. In Germany eighty of the best men get together each year and think "big thoughts." One leader in the above mentioned fields could be appointed to a committee and given a chance to work with England, Russia and China. There have been individual attempts to clarify the Allied aims after the war by Vice-President Wallace and other government leaders. Raymond Clapper, the famous columnist, encourages such attempts but all the other newspapers and political leaders tear them apart and at the same time offering no constructive criticism. Such stabs in the darkness as these by Wallace and Clapper are just what is needed but they are far too sketchy and far too few, and when they do come out, they are drowned in a deluge of unexpert criticism. We must turn to an expert in these fields, they are the only source of intelligence needed for such times and are the only one who could command the public confidence. These men should be given a chance, the government should present them with the opportunity to work. Our intellectual giants are the only means of solving the mess and so far they have been totally ignored.

Campus Comment

To the Students of the University of Vermont:

Last year on our campus as a result of continued cries about lack of school spirit, lack of organization, and unity among the students, and an ever present gripe about too much faculty control of our affairs, there was founded, the U. V. M. Students, a student governing body. This student government, without any more support and active interest than has been shown thus far, will surely collapse before the year is finished. The most harmful termite to the Student Government structure is the person who goes around mouthing the time worn query of the chronic ne'er do well, "What's Student Government done? What good is it?"

Know that many enterprises and plans of Student Government are not yet ready for the critical student's eye; many are being planned and worked over; and all of them will never emerge from the embryonic state unless the students get underneath and push.

This critical state of inertia on the part of the students is especially visible in the Financial Department of Student Government.

Every one of you pays thirty-five dollars for an activity fee, yet how many of you in organizations care enough about where your money goes to give your treasurer the impetus he needs to do his work correctly and efficiently? The descriptive adjectives efficiently and correctly should be struck off the preceding sentence. The treasurers don't even do their work. For two weeks there has been an important notice to all treasurers of organizations on campus in a box on the front page of the CYNIC. It is a request for a single action on the part of the treasurers. The information to be gained therefrom would enable the Student Treasurer to get the actual machinery of the disbursement of funds in action. That information was to have been in on Wednesday, October 28, and that day there were at most only fifteen treasurers out of approximately fifty-five, who had responded.

Last year the faculty administered the student consolidated fund, your activity fee, and other functions on the campus, and unless you as students of the University get off your milk stools and will back the Student Government by action and interest, these duties will go right back to the faculty. You yammer for a democracy but forget that a democracy is a government of the people, by the people, and for the people.

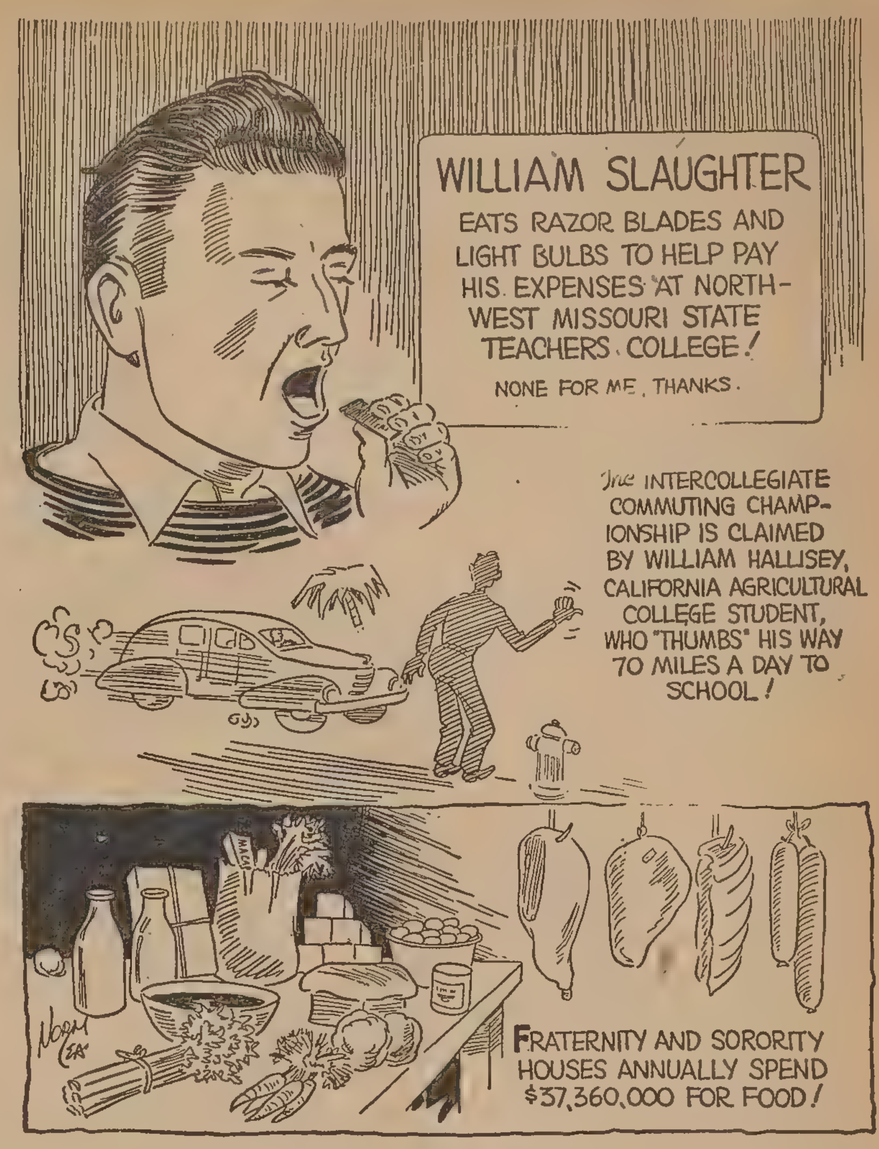

These views are my own and may or may not represent those of the Student Government Council.

Quotable Quotes

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

"Ever since 1931, when Japan invaded Manchuria in defiance of her solemn obligations, we have witnessed a steady deterioration in all international relationships. National honor, which alone can provide the basis of international relationship if the law of the jungle is not to prevail, seems to have lost its moral force. Nothing has stood in the way of those nations which, having built great military establishments, have chosen to disregard the moral law. They have swept on from victory to victory. Nothing will arrest them except superior force. We are confronted with more than the spectacle of a world war. We are confronted with a revolution in human affairs comparable with the extinguishment of the Roman Empire which launched mankind into the Dark Ages. If the aggressor nations win this war new Dark Ages will envelop us and a new scientific slave order will take the place of our present order of free men." Robert C. Clothier, President of Rutgers University, cites the principal reason why peace-loving peoples have been thrown into war.

Parade of Opinion

Speed-Up For Girls?

While the question of acceleration ceased to be an open issue for the men's colleges soon after Pearl Harbor, it is still debatable for women's education, in opinion of Roswell G. Ham, President of Mount Holyoke College.

An immediate and obvious comment, he feels, would be that since women of college age are not concerned with the draft, there should be no necessity for them to advance the year of their graduation.

"But," he continues, "that answer takes for granted certain premises which may not be altogether sound: First, that this is a man's war; and, second, that college women should continue in the leisurely process of liberal education, against the day when the world will need their philosophy and art.

"Such a view would assume that the men's way of acceleration is only concerned with the attainment of skills and sciences to win the war, and that for the duration they are dedicated to an illiberal and unbalanced scheme of education. Of this danger both the men's and women's colleges are well aware, but the latter are equally aware by this time that total war takes no account of sexes.

"The second argument, that women constitute a reserve against the future, is more tenable.

"We are posed with two problems: One, whether the program of acceleration is worth while for the women's colleges during the period of the war, and another, whether it may not be a permanent and justifiable outgrowth of the present emergency. For the first I have very little to add to the argument.

"Leaving aside the argument that acceleration carries with it a whole train of headaches for the administrator, we may examine for a moment the chances of its continuance after the war. The arguments against compressing a four-year college into three years have to do with the maturity of college students and with the standards of their education.

"As to the matter of maturity, there is certainly a point of diminishing returns, but it would hardly seem to be determined by a three as opposed to a four-year course. If only it were a matter of a specified amount of knowledge to be accumulated, doubtless we could pack the four years into two.'

"These arguments concern both men and women. The men's colleges are committed for the duration; if this is to be a long war, the women increasingly will have to bear their part and, unless all predictions are awry, they will not be contented to lag behind.

"It will serve us well to have open minds. For this might also be hazarded, that, when the American public discovers that there is nothing sacrosanct about four years, it will not easily revert to abandoned ways."

Notice

At a recent meeting the University Council voted that starting November 2 and continuing up to the Christmas recess, the following schedule of classes be adopted as an experiment. If this works out well and Burlington does not change from War Time to Eastern Standard Time this program may be continued by vote of the Council.

Weekdays except Wednesdays

Military Science	8.00- 8.50
First hour	9.00- 9.50
Second hour	10.00-10.50
Third hour	11.00-11.50
Fourth hour	12.00-12.50
Fifth hour	2.15- 3.05
Sixth hour	3.15- 4.05

Laboratory sections which at present meet for three hours, from 1.30-4.30, will meet from 1.45-4.45.

Wednesdays

Military Science	7.30- 8.20
First hour	8.30- 9.20
Second hour	9.30-10.20
Chapel	10.30-11.00
Third hour	11.00-11.50
Fourth hour	12.00-12.50
Fifth hour	2.15- 3.05
Sixth hour	3.15- 4.05

The Council hopes in this way to save some electricity during the early morning hours and also some fuel.

E. SWIFT,
Secretary.

Bank Night Out!

Kent, Ohio (ACP).—That university students stay away from the movies when bingo, screeno, and bank night are held is revealed in a survey conducted by students of Dr. Harry D. Wolfe, associate professor of marketing at Kent State University.

The poll shows that instead of boosting attendance, these gift attractions keep 35 percent of university students from attending the movies more often than they do.

Opinion is almost evenly divided concerning double features with 35 percent of the students opposed to twin bills and 26 percent in favor of them. The remaining 29 percent don't care. However, more than three-fourths of the students polled disliked movie programs to last over two and a half hours.

The poll also reveals that men attend movies more often than women and that both sexes attend because of the picture and not the stars in it.

Favorite types of pictures for university students are light comedies and musicals, the poll indicates.

Fifty-eight students have enrolled for study in Portuguese at the University of Texas.

Jayvee Eleven Plays Host To Middlebury Seconds

Reserve Squads Clash At Centennial Field

This Saturday, the Vermont J.V.'s will play host to a strong Middlebury J.V. squad. The Vermont J.V.'s are those unsung football stalwarts, who practice faithfully each day, taking all the force of a larger more combined unit known as the "Varsity." It is the hardened J.V.'s, who learn the opposing team's workings, their offensive plays, their defensive tactics, and it is the J.V.'s who continually make it tough for the first stringers to hold their respective positions. For those "little big men" are fighting unceasingly, in an effort to make the "elite," the Varsity. Hats off to those fellows who have done a masterful job in playing "heads up ball" when the opposition seemed gigantic and the odds were overwhelming!!

The J.V. game with Middlebury this week, is the initial home gridiron classic for these yet unseen footballers.

The squad thus far has not an impressive record. They lost to a superior team at St. Albans a few weeks ago by a "not too bad" score of 21-6. They were green, were under fire for the first time really, and considering all points, they did not fare too badly.

Last week-end, the J.V.'s travelled to Green Mountain College, where they played a sterling game, only to lose 13-6. They showed much better form than in their first appearance and appeared the much more aggressive squad.

In their game this week the team will be up against a J.V. squad that has had a mediocre season. The Middlebury J.V.'s lost similarly to the G. M. J. C. team by one touchdown, a few weeks back.

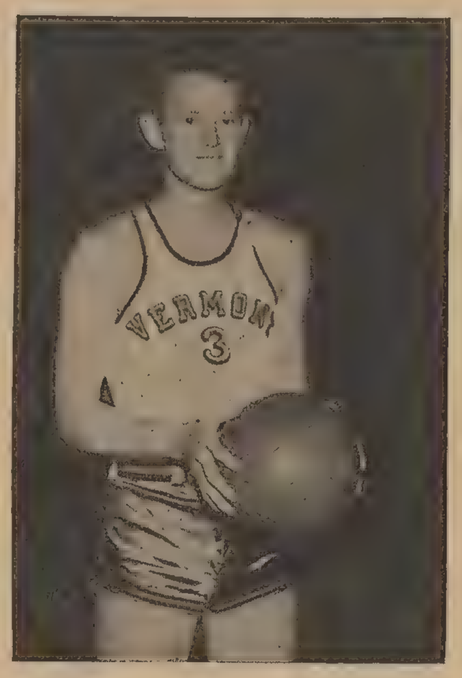

The Vermont squad although not unscathed from last week's game, still has plenty of fight and they expect to trample the men of Middlebury by a good score. In the G. M. J. C. game they lost their regular first string center, Fred Laird and they may lose some other regulars to the Varsity. Goldman and O'Connell are slated to travel with the squad to the all important game with Trinity.

Come what may, the J.V.'s will be out there to win Saturday, as they pry off the lid to give their loyal supporters a chance to see a real team in action.

This will be the last game of the season for the J.V.'s. In the next weeks to follow, Coach Fuzzy Evans plans to use the J.V.'s to run the Norwich and Middlebury plays against the hope laden Varsity.

The following men are probable starters: Kinne, Flanders, Neiburg, Stanley, Spear, Beebe, Grace, Bianco, Krupp, Andrews, Benson.

Cat Ace in Service

Red White, captain of last year's Vermont five. A Marine Corps second lieutenant, Red is expected to visit Burlington this week-end.

Cagers Open Drills Monday

Veterans to Work Out Three Times Weekly

Basketball practice for the Catamounts will begin Monday. Coach Fuzzy Evans announced that a picked squad of ten men will begin the pre-season practice Monday evening at five o'clock on the Memorial Auditorium court. Until the close of the football season, practices will be held three times a week on Monday, Wednesday and Friday. On November 16, a general call for all candidates will be issued.

The boys invited to the first practices are the three returning lettermen, Capt. Bob Doherty, guard, Milt Kaufman and Larry Killick, forwards, and two freshmen, George Henderson, and Albert Johnson. Henderson hails from Pittsfield, Mass., where he had an outstanding season at the forward position for Pittsfield High. Al Johnson played at Newton High of Newton, Mass., last year. Also out for practice will be five returning squad members, Reno Conti, Gil Manheim, Jerry Didinski, Bob Bennett, and Tom Clairmont.

K S Squad Wins, 39-12

Routs Phi Sigs to Gain Finals—TEP's Score

Extra!

Kappa Sigma's powerful touch football squad rolled over Phi Sigma Delta yesterday, 39 to 12, to enter the Interfraternity League finals.

In a game played on a field of churned mud, the hopeful TEP's defeated a fighting Phi Della Theta team 21-18. The game itself was a nip and tuck affair, not really decided until the final gun, as each team forged ahead and slipped back trying desperately to regain or hold its lead. That all important factor, the valuable point after touchdown proved to be a winning margin for the victorious TEP's. Three times the Phi Delts failed to gain their much needed point after touchdown, while the TEP's with each score added a point, by making good every conversion.

The Phi Delts scored quickly in the first, only to have the TEP's put an equalizer over the touchdown stripe. The Phi Delts struck back, as Bill Mahar, intercepted, ran beautifully up field, throwing a bullet pass to Fagan who scored easily.

The second period went scoreless, as each team sought vainly to regain its footing and start a touchdown drive.

In the third period, the Phi Delts made it 18-7, as they again scored. But suddenly the TEP's arose, and with a lightening thrust they scored on a long pass, closing up the score to 18-14. So it went until the last period, when the TEP's scored their last touchdown to win going away—21-18.

By virtue of their win, the TEP's will meet the Owls in a semi-final encounter next week.

The Kappa Sigs, and Phi Sigs squared off in yesterday's headliner. Both teams displayed plenty of talent, with ample reserves. The tussle, a semi-final was all important, as the win for Kappa Sigma means a crack at the championship for the '42 season.

In the loser's league, the once defeated teams, the SAE's and the Sigma Phi's meet today.

Murphy Ready to Go Against Hilltoppers

End's Injuries Healed--25 Players Make Trip

By Phil Robinson

With the sensational passing combo of Norm Beaulieu and Ralph LaPointe set to click, Vermont footballers took to the road this morning, wending their way towards Hartford, Conn., and a potent Trinity eleven.

Fuzzy Evans' charges have two weeks of much needed rest under their belts, and are set to avenge a 9-7 defeat that the Hartford crew pinned on the Cats last fall.

Evans will take a squad of twenty-five men to Connecticut, among them Red Murphy. The carrot-topped individual gained a lot of favor with Vermont fans, and also with the coaching staff in his last appearance against Mass. State. Suffering a painful charley-horse, he was unable to step away against Union, but should be set to show plenty of stuff from his end spot against the Hilltoppers.

Although the Episcopalians took a beating from Coast Guard last week-end in no easy fashion, the game really produced little of Trinity's real power.

Dan Jesse, mentor for the Hilltoppers, will be putting plenty of faith in a couple lads by the name of Charley Foster and Joe Dubovick.

It was Foster who tallied the telling points against the Cats a year ago on Centennial, and he is a tower of strength in Trinity's backfield again this fall. These past few afternoons have uncovered another crashing back in the person of Joe Dubovick. This combination has been running and passing the Episcopalians to a mighty impressive record until they met the stonewall resistance of Coast Guard, a team that succumbed to the dynamic Walt Domina and his company of Norwich gridders.

Undoubtedly Trinity will be covering Vermont's aerial twins. Fuzzy has had LaPointe and Beaulieu doing their aerial tricks for the past week, and simultaneously reviewing the films of last year's tussle with the Hilltoppers.

While the Cats shoot for their second win in five starts, the chance may come for LaPointe to climb back into the lead off position for the east's scoring. Ralph faded to a tie for third last week as a result of Vermont's off week-end.

The itinerary is as follows:

Friday, October 30—

Leave Gymnasium via Taxis	8.00 a. m.
Arrive Greenfield, Mass.	12.25 p. m.
Lunch at Weldon Hotel	12.30 p. m.

Cats Entered In Boston Run

Post Harriers Prepare For Intercollegiates

After trimming Williams last Saturday for their second straight victory, Coach Archie Post's Vermont harriers, now in the midst of a two week rest period, are busy preparing for the New England Intercollegiate Meet at Boston on November 7. Coach Post is putting the hill and dalers through some stiff workouts including speed runs and handicap races, in order to determine the squad members who will fill the coveted six or eight places for the trek to Boston. Depending upon the transportation facilities, Post plans to take either a six or eight man squad and Manager Ray Pestle. Each contender is allowed to enter a seven man team.

Monday afternoon the team picture will be taken for the Ariel, and the handicap race will be run. The men who have shown the slowest times so far, will start first, and then will follow the faster men in order of their times to date. The last man to start will undoubtedly be Capt. Bud Hoyt, who has run some beautiful races this season.

The squad is in good physical shape, with no serious injuries occurring so far this season. Harvey Goodell has started running again, but it is doubtful if he will be ready for the Boston trip. However, Coach Post hopes to have him ready to go against Middlebury two weeks hence.

This afternoon at 4.30, the Burlington and Waterbury High School Cross Country teams will provide the opposition for the Vermont freshman squad members in an informal meet to be held on the regular freshman course, a somewhat shorter course than the varsity runs.

Clinton, N. Y.—(ACP)—An answer to the question of how many books the average liberal arts student draws from the college library during his four-year course is made available by a two-year statistical study just completed by Dr. Lewis F. Steig, Hamilton college librarian.

That answer—for Hamilton—is 78 books, of which 10 are drawn out as a freshman, 16 as a sophomore, 24 as a junior, and 28 as a senior.

Beaulieu's Passes Big Scoring Factor

By Monty Kelly

The University of Vermont's football team has not been particularly impressive to date. Losing three games and winning but one, the Catamounts have shown great potentialities, but not much in the way of victories. There is one factor, however, that has lifted the Green and Gold gridders from the limbo of pigskin mediocracy into the spotlight of New England publicity. One factor that has given Vermont rooters hope, and something to cheer for in a season that has thus far been a pretty lean one for Fuzzy Evans' stalwarts. This is the passing and receiving combination of Norm Beaulieu and Ralph LaPointe. LaPointe, one of the highest scoring backs in the country, and Beaulieu, the best leather-tosser to grace any small college campus this season.

Norm is a product of the Green Mountain State coming to U. V. M. from Barre, the Granite City. It was there he got his first athletic schooling under the tutelage of Bill Wilber, well-known figure in state sporting circles and erstwhile coach at Spaulding High, which Norm attended. Bill, canny old maestro, that he was, knew a good thing when he saw it. Under his sage supervision, Norm developed into a versatile and talented three sports man.

On the gridiron he was a triple threat pack of trouble for school-boy opponents. On the basketball court he proved his mettle as a steady floor man and a keen-eyed shot, playing on the Crimson quintet which fought its way to the state championship and gained entry into the New England tournament. On the baseball diamond he was a good fielder and an exceptional sticker.

At U. V. M. Norm continued to display his exceptional athletic prowess in basketball and football, but it is only this year, his first on the varsity, that he has really come into his own.

As a passer Beaulieu has no parallel in Eastern small college ranks. Tossing short "spot" passes, or long soaring aerials with equal expertness and precision, he's had opposing secondaries "flip-happy" all season. High scoring (48 points to date) Ralph LaPointe, the other half of the airline-express, has Norm to thank for all but two of his tallies. The watchword of all Vermont opponents has been "Stop Beaulieu and LaPointe." They haven't succeeded very well as the scoring record of Chick's attests.

One factor that makes Norm an exceptional passer is his cool-headedness in picking out a receiver. Although linemen pour in to gang up on him, Beaulieu doesn't get rattled, but dodges and fades until he's spotted a free-teammate. Then only does he cock back his arm and fling the pigskin with as much accuracy as if he was sniping with a slingshot. Accuracy, good-timing, and a husky arm are the requisites of a good passer and Norm has them all.

When the board of experts gather to award Little All-American honors at the close of the gridiron campaign, our two Vermont lads Chick LaPointe and limber armed Norm Beaulieu are good bets for two of the backfield berths.

Nor are Norm's talents limited to athletics. Two weeks ago he was elected A-1 man in school by the U. V. M. coeds at the Mortar Board dance. Which is enough said.

Attitudes of 1-A Men

(By Associated Collegiate Press)

What are the boys who face it directly thinking about this war? Men representing government, education, religion, employers and many others have given their statements freely. But what about the young man who is 1-A? Norbert Engels, Professor of English in the University of Notre Dame, has analyzed a survey of 100 of these young men, 95 of whom are immediately eligible for military service. His conclusions appear in the current issue of Columbia, Knights of Columbus magazine.

The survey is outstanding for the solid thinking and the significant expression of boys heading for the front lines. As Professor Engels concludes, "..the war and their place in the war are much more real to them, more concrete and tangible than the subtle values of the poet's mind. It is something they they can get hold of, and whenever they can get hold of something, especially something interesting and intimate to them, they have no trouble at all in expressing themselves well."

Ninety per cent of the boys said "a lot of things matter besides the war. Maybe some of them matter now more than they ever did."

Asked about the ordinary things of life and their relation to preparation for service, one young man said, "We aren't defending a geographical location; we're fighting for apple pies and baseball games and public concerts and library cards and the girl friend."

Spiritually, as one young man put it, they hope to retain "a trust in almighty God that, come what may to our physical beings, we will always be 1-A."

Regarding a sense of humor, the best opinion said, "..rather than dwarfing the gravity of the situation, it enlarges the man to meet it.

Professor Engels' article expresses the confident conviction that America is going to profit from its educational investment in youth.

officers, since the army of 150,000 which must be in training by December 7, will require a much larger officer personnel."

"We wish to shorten the war by taking over positions now occupied by men fit for combat duty," stated Lieutenant Springer.

The slowing of strides and quickened light in the eyes of male undergrads throughout the Waterman corridors, Wednesday p.m., were proof that girls in uniform possess masculine appeal, exactly as feminine hearts have always thrilled to the navy blue or khaki of uniformed males.

U. V. M. Players to Present Mystery Play November 22

"A Murder Has Been Arranged" was Selected By Mrs. W. S. Taggart

At tryouts held in the Old Mill last Thursday and Friday, the cast for the annual fall production of the University Players was chosen. The play, "A Murder Has Been Arranged," by Emlyn Williams is under the direction of Mrs. Wilnetta Sproul Taggart who has directed many dramatic successes on the Vermont stage.

"A Murder Has Been Arranged" is a gripping mystery play. The usual and expected mysterious element regarding the identity of the murderer is absent, because the crime is committed on the stage in full view of the spectators. The play is highly original and one of absorbing interest. A quality of apprehension pervades the atmosphere throughout.

Included in this year's cast are many persons who have already achieved recognition in University presentations as well as several who are making a first appearance. The part of Miss Graze is taken by Bernice Lieberman '45 who first played in "Death Takes a Holiday," and later in "Out of the Frying Pan." Wendall Harvey '43, President of the Dramatic Club, is cast as Cavendish. He is one of the University's veteran actors and has appeared most recently in "Out of the Frying Pan." Olga Schoelles '46, a newcomer takes the role of Mrs. Wragg. Maurice "Monty" Kelly '46, has captured the part of Jimmy North. "Monty" made his first appearance on the local stage two weeks ago in the one act play, "The Step Mother" by Arnold Bennett. Another veteran thespian of the University Players who is cast in the fall play is Janet Hackwell '43. Janet has appeared in the majority of the major college plays. The part of Mrs. Arthur has been given to Sylvia Wellwood '44. She first appeared last year in "Death Takes a Holiday." Sir Chas. Jasper is portrayed by Franklin Fowler '43, who also played in "Death Takes a Holiday." Mervyn Morgan '46, is another comparatively new face on the Vermont stage. He has the part of Maurice Mullins. Mervyn made good two weeks ago in his first play, "Moonshine," by Arthur Hopkins. Jean Vogler '44, is cast in the role of a mysterious beautiful woman.

"A Murder Has Been Arranged," promises to be another of Mrs. Taggart's well deserved successes. It is scheduled to be presented Friday, November 20.

Outing Club Holds Party

Seventy-five fun-seeking Outing Club members found the ideal solution to the gas and rubber shortage when they climbed aboard the hay ride bound for Southwick last Friday night. When the laden wagon arrived at Southwick the hungry crowd found that there was no rationing of sandwiches, cider, apples and doughnuts.

Entertainment was plentiful and varied. "Ali Inbed" (alias Calvin Tooles), a magician of great fame, amazed the gullible audience with his ability to produce silk handkerchiefs by the yard. The imaginations of Julie Fletcher and John Gowen provided many games and races. (The track team had quite a work out.)

Square dancing to the music (?) of Bob Waldo's harmonica followed. The evening was completed by a few songs and some dancing.

Special Meal Served On Homecoming Day

The special open house luncheon at sixty cents will be the only meal served by the cafeteria in the Waterman Building at noon on Saturday, November 7. Students, faculty, alumni and guests are invited to attend this luncheon. The soda fountain will be closed during the luncheon period and there will be no à la carte service during that period. This applies only to the noon meal on that day. Regular service will be available for breakfast and supper and regular cafeteria hours will be observed for all meals.

Girl Debaters to Meet Bates Team

Debate Will Take Place At I. R. C. Meeting

The U. V. M. Women's Debating Team will meet Bates College this Wednesday, November 4, at 7.30 p.m. at Southwick. The debate will be part of the International Relations Club meeting scheduled for the same time.

Lilla Blumberg '44, and Frances Donahue '45, will uphold the affirmative of the topic: "Resolved: That the United Nations should establish a permanent Federal Union with power to tax and regulate international commerce, to maintain a police force, to settle international disputes and to enforce such settlements and to provide for the admission of other nations which accept the principles of the Union."

The debate will be a non-decision contest with the Bates team promising to put up a very good showing. In a few weeks the U. V. M. Men's Debating Team will engage Bates College in a verbal fight and it will be up to Vermont to take the train to New Hampshire. Bates College has always offered tough opposition to Vermont with its teams having won international fame.

At the annual I. R. C. conference the University will be represented by seven students active in the I. R. C. The conference will be held at Colby Junior College, New Hampshire, on Saturday November 7. The delegation consisting of Doctor Long, Patricia Page '43, Cliff Joseph '43, Jean Davison '44, Justine Whalen '44, Priscilla Perkins '44, and Ruth Jordan '45 will attempt to bring the annual conference to this campus next year.

Dean M. J. Simpson Speaks on College Life at Collegium

Dean Mary Jean Simpson gave a most enlightening talk on extra-curricular activities and their part in college life, at the meeting of Collegium Sunday night. Those attending only wished that more might have been there to hear her, as what she had to offer was of vital concern to everyone.

Miss Simpson revealed that there are 87 organizations on this campus alone. Membership in many is restricted, but there is certainly at least one of these activities to interest every student on campus. For a well-developed personality, integration into the college program of well-chosen extra-curricular activities is certainly to be desired. Taken in moderation, such activities will not lower scholastic standing, but will definitely contribute to the well-being both of the individual and of the school. Active participation in some one activity by each and every student is a goal to be attained.

There will be no meeting next Sunday, as members are assisting at a supper being given for the U. S. O.

Final Parties End Headaches Of Sororities

Girls in Charge of Rushing Present Their Groups to Freshmen

One glorious week of food, fun, and frolic has come to an end of the Freshmen of Vermont. Now all that remains of Sorority rushing is the pledging.

It all began last Monday night when Sigma Gamma played host at a formal dinner party at the home of Mrs. Hoyt on South Prospect Street. Those who kept the show running smoothly were Winona Little '45, Marjorie Smith '43, and Florence Smith '43.

Three Ring Circus

The big Pi Phi Three Ring Circus came off Tuesday night under the able showmanship of Pat Crowley '44, and Jean Sprague '43. Little autographed elephants were the favors of the day. Carolyn Provost '44, Betty Farnsworth '45 and Peggy Durfee '46, put on a twirling act with their batons. An acrobatic dance, a Hawaiian dance and a Sophomore class skit kept their guests well entertained.

Kappa Alpha Theta's Dude Ranch Party started at the home of Harriet Pearl where first course was served in the game room. Intricate handmade cowboys were the favors. Then the party retired to the Diamond Horseshoe Night Club, featuring Tommy Keighley's orchestra. Coffee was served later in the reception room. The howling success of the party may be attributed to the co-chairmen, Bibby Deming '43, and Alison Carr '44.

Guy Nichols Butler, ushered thrilled girls into the Alpha Xi Delta House on Thursday night. The high spot of the evening was a magician and his magic tricks.

Ingenuous Girls

The same night at Southwick, the Delta Phi Epsilon put on a bang-up formal party for their rushees. Those ingenious girls presented a shadow play written by themselves in poetry. Thanks go to Flo Levin '44, and Marjorie Rubin '45, for their smooth work.

Friday night the girls were ushered to the Delta Night Club on South Willard Street. First course was in the cocktail lounge and then came the big dinner. During dinner a floor show was given by Joan Eldridge '43, June Hoffman '43, Betty Hawkinson '44, Ita Casey '44, and Dot Johnson '44. Those who pulled the strings and kept the party running in such fine style were Shirley Wedge '44, Myra Gray '44, Barbara Webb '44 and Ita Casey '44.

Military Open House Saturday

Open house in the Military Department will be held Saturday, November 7, and elaborate plans have been made. The first display will be the weapons of the infantry soldier. The assembling, operation, and uses of ten weapons will be shown. An added attraction will be captured German equipment, including a helmet, machine gun and bayonet.

The complete field equipment of the infantry soldier will be laid out with a pup tent set up, and some military student will model a full field uniform.

There will also be five War Department publicity films showing pictures on the manufacture of bombers and tanks and the safeguard of military information.

On Saturday afternoon at the Norwich-Vermont game there will be a flag raising ceremony and the R. O. T. C. Band will drill with a Cadet battalion.

79 Women Pledge Sorority As Fall Rushing Ends

New Pledges Entertained at House Parties After Announcements of Girls' Choice Was Made

STAFF AND SANDAL is going to clean fountain at 4 p.m. Friday to get ready for Norwich week-end.

Since Monday evening there have been many happy girls on campus. Pledging ended about 6.00 p.m. and the girls after signing up with Miss Harris at Southwick went to their chosen sorority house. There they were entertained by each.

Leading the sororities were the Pi Phi's with twenty new pledges. Second in place were the Alpha Chi's with fifteen.

The following girls pledged sorority:

Pi Phi 20—Alice Rogers, of Phillipsburg, N. J.; Marie Tirrell, Philipsburg, N. J.; Carolyn Kenney, Cranston, Rhode Island; Mary Jane Little, Rochester, N. Y.; Louise Shuttler, Northfield, Vt.; Elizabeth Naess, Ludlow, Vt.; Peggy Price, Fairfield, Conn.; Kay Griswold, and Nancy McNamara, Bennington, Vt.; Betty Powers, St. Albans, Vt.; Constance Perkins, Bridgewater Corners, Vt.; Betty Marshfield, Verona, N. Activities for November Released

Registrar's Office to Issue Lists Regularly

Below you will find a copy of the University Calendar for November. It is realized that this is an incomplete list of the activities which will be taking place on the Vermont Campus during the month of November.

Dean Simpson and Mr. Riggs plan to edit a regular monthly calendar. All organizations should, therefore, make it a special point to send to the Registrar's Office, Waterman Building, a list of all events of which they have knowledge on or before the fifteenth of November for the next calendar covering the month of December. If they have your full cooperation the December issue will be much more complete than the November issue which you will find below.

The purpose of this calendar is: (1) to avoid conflicts in so far as possible, and, (2) to give more publicity to the events which have been scheduled.

University Calendar

November—

2 University's new class time schedule in effect.

E. Stanley Jones Talks at Chapel

On Friday morning at 11.40 in the Chapel, Rev. E. Stanley Jones, celebrated missionary and lecturer, addressed the student body and members of the faculty on the topic, "What May a Modern Person Believe?" Rev. Jones expressed his confidence in the young people of today by stating that "with the spirit of religion behind the techniques of science the youth of today can reconstruct a new world. My generation failed in putting the two together—the youth of today can and will succeed."

Rev. Jones has been asked many times what mode of life can the young people of today follow with the world in such turmoil and confusion? Rev. Jones states his theory in these few words:

"If you can find a better way of life than Christ's way, take it! To follow Christ you must surrender yourself entirely in His purpose—to follow him costs you everything, it's not cheap! His way works. I know—and I hope you try it."

Prof. Dykhuizen of the Philosophy department introduced the speaker. The Chapel Choir participated and the convocation closed with the attendance singing the first stanza of "Champlain."

The Vermont Cynic

The Official Student Newspaper of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College

VOL. 61 NOVEMBER 3, 1942 NO. 13

After the mid-term exams a number of male students are going to find it necessary to leave college. The draft boards will be after those 18 and 19 year old students and the Army and Navy Reserves will need their men in these groups at U. V. M. Of course probably not all of the men included in these groups will be called, but all except a few are very uncertain about the matter. All of these men are wondering what their scholastic rating will be when they leave. The seniors who would graduate in May, but who may be called after mid-year exams want to know whether they will be given their diploma or whether they will be required to return after the war and take one semester in order to obtain the coveted "sheepskin." Most senior men believe they should receive their diploma, realizing that they will never return for one semester after the war. (In some colleges diplomas are to be awarded if the student has completed seven-eighths of his required work. This innovation lasts until victory.) These men will have put in three and one-half years work by mid-term, those who leave will enter the fight for the salvation of our civilization of which a great cog is our educational system, the least the latter could do would be to extend to these men their good blessings in form of a college diploma.

The various administrative mechanisms at Vermont have charge of such a problem. We wish they would act on the matter right away, perhaps they have already, but have not let it out. Whatever has happened, the students should be told about it, mid-years is only about 10 weeks off. That is these students should be informed if they are to get their diplomas, but should not if they are not to receive them because it might affect their morale. The actions of the Administration indicate that the latter policy may be the one taken thus far. We hope not.

During the past few weeks many wild rumors concerning the future of U. V. M. for the duration have been floating about the campus. These rumors have ranged all the way from "There will be no Christmas vacation because students can not use the trains" to "The College is going to fold up after mid-term exams except for engineers, medics and chemists.

Such rumors made by irresponsible elements in the student body do much to undermine College morale. The College has finally risen out of its financial rut, but still finds the going pretty tough. This gossip does not build up the student and alumni opinion of the College at a time when it is most needed. This talk also does much to keep the student body on edge.

Nobody knows what will happen in the future. But it certainly would be much better for us to stick to our work and forget all those rumors. Rumor is the scourge of a warring nation, it is being driven out nationally and we would be helping the national cause as well as U. V. M. if we dropped such gossip here and prevented the starting of any more in the future.

Presenting

'Twas a lovely morning, a Wednesday morning to be more exact, when For T. Six decided to attend Chapel for the first time.

Emerging from his second hour class, Fortie joined a crowd of students who looked violently in need of something, which he took to be spiritual guidance. As he followed, the sound of the Chapel bells faded in the distance. When he entered the Waterman Building he was surprised that the CYNIC had not reported the change of Chapel service. A glance at the bulletin board only revealed to him the names of the alumni who had made Dean's list many years ago.

Still following the crowd, he arrived at the Cafeteria. Doubts assailed him when he heard the roar of the "Chapel" silence. That hungry look was, after all, really hungry, and not spiritual.

For T. Six was not to be tricked again. Next Wednesday he took a census to find out what happened to the students during the time devoted to Chapel. Here briefly are his results: Out of almost 700 people whom he checked, 310 attended either regular or Newman Club Chapel, 285 attended Cafeteria, while another 95 were to be found in the library.

"Ha," said For T. Six, "things aren't as bad as I thought last week. Not all roads lead to the Cafeteria."

Last Wednesday Fortie again attended Chapel. The size of the crowd was misleading, because the establishment of religious life on this campus will take ten years. This according to the optimistic utterances in Chapel. Thus Ira Allen's "One Hundred and Sixty-one Year Plan" will finally come to a conclusion.

For T. Six concluded: Chapel attendance is not as bad as some want us to believe. Yet, there is room for improvement. But it is up to the administration also to provide a good Chapel program at all times. That the student body will respond in more than a lukewarm manner was evidenced by the mass attendance last Friday; as For T. Six was quoted in the local press, "The most inspiring speaker I ever heard."

N. Y. A. Carries On Under Stress

The College N. Y. A. program for the current year, up to November first, with the limited funds available has been arranged to cover as nearly as possible all the departments where N. Y. A. workers have been employed in the past. This year's N. Y. A. budget is less than 50 percent of the one for last year. For the current year, earnings per person have been set to average between a minimum of $10.00, and a maximum of $15.000 per month.

The departments served and the number of students working follow:

Campus Comment

To the Editor of the CYNIC:

Don't let Julia fool ya. She may think that the views she so forcibly expressed in last Friday's CYNIC are her own, but they're not. They've been kicking around campus as long as I have, and probably longer.

About half the letters published in CYNIC have dealt with the lack of action and interest on the part of students. And some have been rather pointed. Whenever a student got to thinking about student apathy, he boiled over and wrote a "Letter to the Editor."

And the editors of CYNIC have done their share of boiling, too. Fulvio Bardossi banged his Phi Bete head for a year against the wall of student indifference before he gave up. A whole issue of the CYNIC, the now-forgotten "Wake Up U. V. M." issue, was wasted on the student corpse.

No, Julia Fletcher's indictment of the student body is not new, but it's nice to hear someone else say it.

But, getting in practice for Thanksgiving, I have a bone to pick. Julia deplores the lack of interest in the Student Government, and then she gets mad at the fellow who has enough interest to wonder "What's Student Government done? What's it good for?"

Not everyone is on the inside of Student Government. There is a mess of freshmen around who may never have heard of it. There are probably many upperclassmen who, after attending the birth of Student Government last year, are wondering what kind of a baby it is, and whom it takes after.

I happened to read in a CYNIC last year that I was appointed to a committee of the Student Government. A while later I was told that we were going to have a meeting, but it was called off because someone had a date or something. It must have been a pretty good date, because as far as I know, that committee has not yet met.

I know you can't expect U. V. M. students to be interested in much. But you can't expect anyone to be interested in something he doesn't know about. Perhaps it would be a good idea if the Student Government issued a Report to the People, or if Joe Corbett gave us a Fireside Chat. Some of us have tried doing what Julia suggested—getting underneath and pushing. It was a long way down, and some of us are wondering what's above us.

DAAN ZWICK

The Vermont CYNIC:

This democratic organ has as its duty, the expression of student opinion. Permit this freshman to expostulate his ideas concerning the following:

There are two kinds of evils in connection with student cheering at University sport events. One is the complete absence of both cheering and cheer leaders; the other, even more disgraceful, is the half-hearted cries extracted by some hard-working but naturally despondent leaders.

To the opposing congregation, this feeble attempt seems ridiculous and, I maintain, is ridiculous. When "the other side" has a large-sized following, the spirit of rivalry is tremendous. An attempt is made to out-cheer the other and the student actually feels the impulse to implore his team to fight.

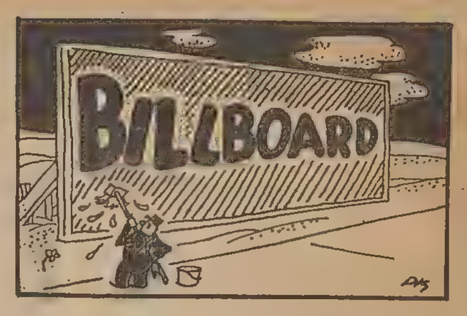

I consider the most heartening and gratifying cheers, those spontaneous cries of "Hold that line!" "Hit them again!" "Bowl 'em over!" "Watch that guard, out there!" "What a bum!" The concerted tongue movement of a group of students to express an oft-repeated and now trite expression is, in itself, the stifling of true emotion.

To sum up these incoherent threads, where it is possible to combat, vocally, the opponent's following, cheer leaders and set verses are well and good. But here at Vermont, the only cheering should be that uttered under the imperative of uncontrollable excitement. Let us abolish this antiquated and inappropriate corset for expression of school devotion. God knows, those poor cheer leaders have earned a rest!

The Locker Room

By Bill Roeder

An athlete to his coach:

"My boys follow Vermont now, and they're the toughest and cleanest looking bunch you ever saw in your life. The only thing they fear is that the war will be over before we get a chance to fight. We have a lot of pride, Fuzz, and I really think we will go when we get the chance."

The writer is second Lieutenant H. E. Rice, U. S. Marine Corps. Misty, who underwent basic training at Quantico, Va., with classmates Fred Logan and Red White, is now stationed at New River, N. C. Watch for his picture in the Norwich game program.

Misty is one of dozens of Vermonters in the services who have written back to the athletic office from all over the world. Through the efforts of Boulder Society, these men are now getting copies of this newspaper. The Cynic hopes soon to publish a complete list of their addresses.

That the men appreciate Cynics (or mail of any sort, for that matter) is evidenced by the warm letters which they send back here. Earl Reed, former Catamount center who now follows his little brother John's gridiron doings from somewhere in England, reports that the merest circular in the post is as welcome over there as a square meal.

The Rev. Frederick G. Hickey and Prof. J. J. Hanley, both of the chemistry department of Providence College, are manufacturing "sniff sets," containing poison gas samples, as an aid to civilian defense.

Harriers Prepare For Boston Meet

Coach Archie Post revealed today that this week's practice runs would mean much in the final determination of the select few who will travel next Monday to Boston for the N. E. I. C. meet.

Post expects to travel to Boston with a seven or eight man squad. Each entering team is allowed seven men, but Coach Post believes that if transportation accomodations will permit he will take an extra man to serve as an alternate.

TEP'S, Owls Meet in Semis

Kappa Sigs to Oppose Victor; SAE's Triumph

In a game of utmost importance, a power laden Kappa Sigma team downed a hopeful Phi Sigma Delta outfit Thursday 39-12.

The game itself proved to be a startling push over for the decidedly stronger Kappa Sigma team. With the "Mighty Reno" Conti, running and passing the Phi Sigs dizzy, the Kappa Sigmas scored almost at will. Killick and Corbett, proved two thorns also in the sides of the Phi Sigs.

Running their plays from the almost universal "T" formation, the Kappa Sigmas simply outran, outpassed and outplayed the losers. Joe Corbett proved to be a bulwark of the forward wall for the Kappa Sigs, as time and again he snared aerials from the fleet backs that showed a superior talent in hitting the bull's eye throughout the whole game.

By virtue of this win, the Kappa Sigmas have earned the right to play in a title contest. They will meet the winner of the T.E.P.-Owl game, which will be played today.

The S.A.E.'s strengthened their grip on the loser's league title, as they downed the Sigma Phis Friday in a lopsided affair, 27-6. The S.A.E.'s proved to be a strong "combo" that took advantage of every break to turn the game into a rout.

Cats Conquer Hilltoppers, 21-14— New Hampshire Trips Norwich

Late Field Goal Wins For Wildcats 16-13

Norwich University's hopes for an undefeated season went glimmering Saturday as the Wildcats of New Hampshire took a thrilling last minute decision from the Kaydets 16-13. Both clubs were deadlocked at 13 all, with one minute remaining in the ballgame, when Roy Goodfellow, substitute tackle came into the fray, dropped back to place-kick, and hoisted the ball between the uprights for a perfect field goal, spoiling the dismayed Cadets' unbeaten record.

The first half was all Norwich. Two lightning drives down the field netted the Horsemen their two tallies of the game. The first was the result of a 45 yard power push that had the stands on their feet all the way. Down to the New Hampshire 17, the Maroon went with Walt Domina flipping a pass to Chuck Miller for 6 points.

The Cadets had no sooner kicked off when they gained possession again as the Wildcats punted. Another blitzkreig was on. With Miller, Stone, and the indomitable Walt lugging the leather, Norwich charged 70 yards and again went over the New Hampshire goal.

New Hampshire came back with fangs bared. Powerless until the last minute of the first half against the Norwich power attack, Theo Fitanides hurled a mighty, long-distance pass to Ralph Pine, who went over standing up. 13-6 at the half.

The second half opened with plenty of fireworks on both sides. Norwich staged a breath-taking offensive, making four first downs in a row. Zipper Zoukis and Chuck Miller led the Horsemen down to the New Hampshire 25 yard marker and it looked like another counter for the home-towners. They were held for downs however and the Wildcats took over. They punted out of danger and another Norwich advance began, to die a disappointing death on the visitors 37 as Zandinowsky intercepted Milt Raville's forward. An exchange of kicks followed which drove the Cadets back for the first time really deep into home territory. Domina fumbled on a line buck and the Granite Staters recovered. Try as they could the Wildcats could not dent the Maroon forward wall and they lost the ball on downs. Domina redeemed himself with a beautiful punt to the opposition's 45, but Seawards ran it back to the Cadet 32. Again the sturdy Norwich line held and again they kicked out.

Jayvee Eleven Blanked, 20-0

By Bill Styles

As a preliminary to the big battle two weeks hence, the Vermont Kittens and the Middlebury Panther's Cubs did battle Saturday on Centenniel Field, with Middlebury victorious by the top-heavy score of 20-0.

The Blue and White showed its power in the opening stanza as backs Ed Kilgallin and Bill Calkins ripped off long runs, but the Vermont line held in the pinches and kept its goal untarnished during the first quarter.

Midway through the second period, Bill Krupp kicked to the Blue and White 45 yard stripe, and on the first play, Kilgallin passed to right end Johnny Maguire who raced 50 yards to the four yard line before he was brought down. From here Phil Dunham crashed through center for the initial six points, and Gil Myrick added the extra point on a run around left end.

Middlebury took the second half kickoff 60 yards in six plays to tally again. Bill Calkins passing to Johnny Maguire, who ran thirty yards for the score. Phil Dunham carried the ball through the line for the conversion. After four Vermont plays Middlebury again received the ball, and on first down, Bill Calkins toted the leather 68 yards to a touchdown, only to have it called back on a clipping penalty. The last six points were finally scored, when midway through the last period, substitute back Cliff Hendrix broke away on a 78 yard jaunt.

For the losing Green and Gold, Duke Reid and Charlie Bianco were standouts all afternoon. Bearing the brunt of the Cat's offensive, they charged, bucked, ran, and passed in an attempt to score for their team, but the forward line leaked like a seive and the blue shirts of Middlebury poured through. Recovering a blocked kick on Middlebury's 41 yard line, in the third quarter, Bianco sparked Vermont's only serious threat for a score; a sustained drive that carried to the six yard line and there petered out when Bianco was injured and forced to retire from the game, temporarily.

Beaulieu and La Pointe Score Against Trinity

By Phil Robinson

If Norwich needed any proof of the fact that Vermont has more than one star in its fold, Saturday's 21-14 victory over Trinity should have afforded them just that.

It was LaPointe and Beaulieu again this week-end, but the Cat's passing ace shone brightly against the Trinity gridders, scoring two of the three six-pointers and proving generally a better running back for the afternoon than his high scoring teammate.

The Episcopalians, a team that had previously held Union to a tie, couldn't avoid the Cat's claws, and the Green and Gold ran and passed itself to victory, the second in five starts.

Saturday's entry into the right side of the ledger boosted her chances of trimming the Cadets when they meet this week-end at Centennial. The Horsemen succumbed to the harsh measures of the University of New Hampshire, thereby taking some of the proverbial wind out of their sails.

The great Domina crashed over but once for the Kadets, and inadvertently set up a Wildcat score by tossing a perfect one in the hands of a waiting New Hampshirite; all going to prove that the great man can be stopped.

Vermont opened her scoring spree in the second period. The Cat's aerial combination did the work. Beaulieu heaved two long ones into the waiting arms of LaPointe, who, minutes later, stepped over from the five yard line to put the Green and Gold in the van.

At this point, Ralph vacated his scoring perch, and Beaulieu went on to chalk up fourteen points on his personal score card.

The second score, likewise a second quarter affair, came with a deluge of passes and runs that brought Vermont down to Trinity's five yard marker in quick order. Beaulieu took the pass from center and weaved through tackle to score.

Trinity likewise fared well in the last portion of the first half. The Hilltoppers initial score came via the air lanes. A Black-to-Kelly pass caught the Cats off guard, and Trinity made it 14-7. Trinity tied it up in the third canto as the celebrated Dubovic came to the fore. In another great passing exhibition that traveled a total of twenty-eight yards, the Hartford giant stepped across to knot the score.

The rough treatment by the Connecticut lads brought Vermont out of its momentary daze. It was a 60-yard kickoff drive that clinched matters. And it was Mr. Beaulieu that made things "all happy like" for everybody concerned when he stepped across from the five yard line for the third touchdown.

Norm booted two of the Cats extra points, and LaPointe took a pass for the third. Trinity's Black accounted for a duo of single pointers by placement kicking.

The Green and Gold played a great offensive game against the Trinitarians. Evans' linemen were blocking viciously all afternoon, opening the big gaps for Beaulieu's meanderings, and paving the way for more than one sensational passing play.

Huskies Rout Middlebury

While U. V. M.'s football warriors were beating Trinity College for the first time in years last Saturday, and the Norwich Cadets were losing their first game of the season to New Hampshire, the Middlebury Panthers were taking a 32-0 drubbing from Connecticut State for their fifth loss of the year. Sadly depleted by injuries and losing more men every week, the Blue and White haven't much of a football team left. Gone is valiant Bob Adsit, this year's co-captain, at least temporarily via the injury list. Gone are many more of the Panther crew, who at the start of the current campaign looked like quite a ball club. It's not the team's fault, nor the coaches. It's just that right now the eleven is so undermanned that it can't win ball games. Maybe when the Panthers meet U. V. M., two weeks from now they'll be in better shape.

The Blue and White didn't have a chance against the assaults of the Connecticut backs last week-end. Holding the visiting power-house to a lone touchdown in the first half, it was the old story of a good team with no reserves to speak of, tiring so greatly in the last half that they had no strength to hold the opposition. In the third quarter, the Huskies opened up with all they had and the Panthers just couldn't stop them.

Openings in Aviation Training at U. V. M. Offers Choice of Army Branch

The Engineering College of the University of Vermont wishes to call attention to the fact that there are at present 20 vacancies in its Civilian Pilot Training classes for young men who wish to enter intensive training as aviators with all expenses paid, and that any young man up to 21 years of age who has his parents' consent, as well as older men up to and including 37, may start this training.

Since draft boards have been ordered by the government to grant no deferments in the 20 year old group, and to allow no choice as to branch of service to the men inducted, large numbers of boys throughout the country are being disappointed in finding themselves inducted into branches of the service distasteful to them.

Exams Given

For this reason, any boy in the neighborhood of Burlington who is expecting to be called up and who is anxious to be in the aviation branch of the service, is urged to write at once to Mrs. Cavanaugh, Headquarters Building, at Fort Ethan Allen, requesting permission to take the examinations for aviation cadet. These examinations are frequent, and are given whenever there are a sufficient number of applicants.

These same men should also call at room 102 in the Waterman Building, or telephone 5000, extension 352, for permission to take the C. A. A. screen tests to be given in room 350 of the Waterman Building, on Wednesday, November 4, from one to five p.m.

These examinations are prepared at government expense by the psychology laboratories at Rochester University and are given at many Universities in the country on the same day. No obligation is attached to taking them, but men passing these tests will be accepted for Civilian Pilot Training anywhere in the United States. Prof. John T. Metcalf, head of the Department of Psychology, will administer the tests at the University of Vermont.

New Course Starting

The next course of training at U. V. M. will not actually start until November 15, but the passing of the examinations must be accomplished several days previous to that date in order to allow time for the physical examinations and actual enlistment.

The Engineering College points out that no one of the 20 year old group knows exactly when he will receive orders to appear, and if he has not taken the precaution to select his branch, he may find himself in a service he would not have chosen to join.

The University is allowed to enlist men as much as 70 days before the date on which active training commences, and meantime the man will be on the reserve status.

Tri Delts Hold Night Club Party For Girls

The Delta Night Club was the theme of the Tri Delt final party held Friday night, October 30, at the Delta Delta Delta House. The predominating color was blue. A quartet sang two numbers, "White Christmas," and "Delta Indigo," and Joene Eldridge '43, sang a solo, "Blue Serenade." Dot Johnson '44, tap danced, doing some very intricate steps.

Shirley Wedge '44, headed the committee in charge of decorations, and Barbara Webb '44, was in charge of the food committee. Ita Casey '44, planned the entertainment, and Myra Grey '44, took the part of the hat check girl and cigarette sales girl.

Barbara Webb, Peggy Palmer and Myra Gray went to St. Albans for the week-end. Danny Geer went to Boston.

There will be a meeting of all News Editors, Reporters and Editorial Scrubs at 8.15, Tuesday evening, in Room 140, South Conference Room, in the Waterman Building. Attendance is required.

Sigma Gammas Throw Big Rushing Party

Friends of Lyn Chaffee '42, will be interested to know that she has completed a twelve weeks training course at the home office of Employer's Liability Insurance Company in Boston and has now accepted a position as Assistant Manager in the branch office in Minneapolis.

Neither rain nor hail nor sleet, yes even snow, dampened the spirits of the Sigma Gammas and their rushees at their Final Party on Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Hoyt on South Prospect Street. Vermont turkey from a Plainfield homestead formed the pièce de résistance which, with the remainder of the meal, was served buffet style. Ione Lacey and Winona Little were in charge of the affair assisted by Marjorie Smith and Jean Murphy.

ARTHUR D. BUTTERFIELD,

University Starts Scientific Study Of Copper Mines

The Geology Department of the University of Vermont is making an active and scientific study of Vermont's long abandoned copper mines at East Corinth, Vershire and South Strafford which are now being reopened.

These mines, according to Prof. Elbridge C. Jacobs, head of the University's Department of Geology, have been worked intermittently for over a century. Before the discovery of the great western deposits the Ely Mine at Copperfield in Vershire was the largest copper producer in the United States, yielding in the 1870's and '80's some 33,000,000 pounds of the red metal. Bad management, miners' strikes and inferior methods of extraction brought copper mining in the state to an end in the 1890's says Professor Jacobs. Since then efforts have been made at various times to reopen the mines, but the drop in the price of copper after the last war and the business collapse of 1929 rendered these attempts unsuccessful.

It has become increasingly evident, Professor Jacobs adds, that vast deposits of copper ore still remain in the mines and await only modern methods of mining and concentration, and proper business management to bring them into successful production.

Last winter the Vermont Copper Company was formed by George A. Ellis of New York and Bennington and his associates in a patriotic effort to increase the vitally important copper production of the country, and federal experts believe that in all probability the enterprise will be successful. The company expects that copper production will begin in a few months and will result not only in war time success but will become a permanent industry, taking its place with the asbestos, granite, marble, slate, talc and lime industries for which Vermont has long been noted.

The Department of Geology at the University, asserts Professor Jacobs, is ready to do all in its power to aid this enterprise and is already helping by a study of the geology of the copper deposits.

"Here is an opportunity rare in the East," he declares, "for young geologists to study mining geology and, it is hoped, to find scientific employment in the mines."

Are You WAACY? Then Answer the Following Ten Questions If You Can

Here's a brief questionnaire on the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps. Answer seven of the following questions correctly and your rating is good; answer eight—you're excellent; answer ten, and you're appointed Director Hobby's aide! (If you answer only four correctly, date that nice young soldier who phoned you last Saturday.)

1. What is retreat?
2. What is a dog tag?
3. What does "police up" signify?
4. What is the purpose of the W. A. A. C.?
5. What brick buildings at Fort Des Moines were converted into barracks for auxiliaries?
6. Why do W. A. A. C.'s Drill?
7. Can you buy an army "gig" at at the P ?
8. Do W. A. A. C.'s wear ruffles and flourishes on their olive drab underclothes?
9. Who can join the W. A. A. C.?
10. What British General recently addressed a W. A. A. C. Officer Candidate class at its graduation ceremony?

1. Retreat, a ceremony held at Army Posts at five o'clock each afternoon, signifies the closing of routine duties for the day. The bugler sounds retreat, the cannon booms, and the band strikes up "The Star Spangled Banner." At the first note of the national anthem, every W. A. A. C. comes to attention, salutes the flag as it is being lowered, and drops her salute when the music ends.

2. A dog tag is a small light, metal oblong, on which is stamped a W. A. A. C.'s name, her serial number, the year she took her tetanus shots, her blood type, the person to notify in case of an emergency, her religion. Dog tags are worn by all military personnel at all times.

3. "Police up" is the army term for housekeeping. It means keeping your barracks so clean that your commanding officer can run his inquisitive finger around the bottom rung of a chair, and find no dust.

4. The Women's Army Auxiliary Corps was organized to make available to the national defense, when needed, the skills, knowledge, and special training of the women of the United States.

5. At Fort Des Moines was once a cavalry post, there was a row of brick stables, behind the row of brick barracks. For conservation purposes these stables were converted into barracks. They are very comfortable—and attractive—spacious red brick buildings with cream interiors, and large brown beams across the ceiling. Individual closets have been spaced all along the large sleeping room of each barracks, which houses 150 women.

6. W. A. A. C.'s drill to enable the Commander to move her command from one place to another in an orderly manner, to provide a means, through ceremonies of enhancing the morale of troops, and giving interesting spectacles to the public, to give junior officers, and non-commissioned officers practice in commanding troops, and to attain habits of precision, and response to the leader's orders. (If you gave one of the above reasons for your answer, count the question correct.)

7. No. An Army "gig" is a demerit.

8. No. Ruffles are rolls on the drum as the bugle plays the flourishes in rendering honors to a designated person.

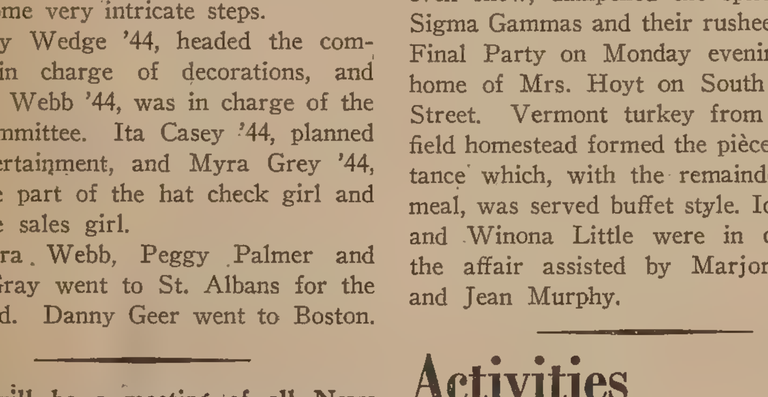

9. Any physically fit woman citizen, between the ages of 21-44 inclusive, who has an excellent character, and can pass an intelligence test, and an interview, is eligible to join the W. A. A. C.

10. Major-General Jean Knox, Chief of the British Auxiliary Territorial Service, spoke to a graduating class at Fort Des Moines, October 14, 1942.

Would you like to meet three W. A. A. C. Lieutenants? At the City Hall, Thursday, November twelfth, 7.30 p.m. There will be a military program, at which Lt. Anita Pleuss and Lt. Josephine Springer, W. A. A. C. Recruiting Officers for the Third Recruiting District, and Lt. Margaret Knox, W. A. A. C. speaker for the First Service Command, will be present. The Fort Ethan Allen Band will play. There will be a technicolored, twenty-minute talkie, entitled "Wings of Steel," and a Special W. A. A. C. Song.

Boys who want to work for room or cash, see Mr. Powers in Room 151, Waterman Building. Many opportunities.

VOL. 61 BURLINGTON, VERMONT, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1942 NUMBER 14

Surprises Await Public At University Open House

Public Invited to View Meterorite, Russian Rubber-Bearing Dandelion

The old and historic, the startling, unique and mysterious, and the new and ultra-modern will all be on display at the University of Vermont on Saturday, November 7, as the four colleges prepare to put on the most interesting campus-wide exhibit ever presented at the University. The public from all over the state are cordially invited to be present and to take part in what marks the University's first Open House Day. Reports from the various department heads show that each department is making plans to welcome visitors, and the displays will be varied and interesting.

A registration booth will be set up near the main door of the Waterman Building where visitors are urged to report, and student guides will be on hand to conduct the guests on tours of buildings, classrooms and laboratories. It is particularly hoped that local people, for whom there is no travel problem involved, will avail themselves of this opportunity to see and study the facilities which the University offers to students.

Among the exhibits will be the Russian Rubber-Bearing Dandelion now being grown experimentally on the University farm; Vermont's only recorded meteorite, found by Prof. C. G. Doll in South Strafford last summer; the Physics Department's huge X-ray apparatus which lives, it is said, in a cage; the Psychology Department's intelligence and aptitude tests; the Beaumont surgical set at the Medical College; the more recent acquisitions at the Fleming Museum; the pre-school laboratory of the Home Economics Department; the experimental apple orchard; the recently installed high temperature, short time, electric pasteurizer unit in Morrill Hall; and an actual German machine gun and service rifle which the Department of Military Science will have on display.

A political science class will conduct a two hour discussion on the timely topic, "Current Violations of International Law," while at the Art Center it will be possible to watch students painting creatively to music. The Department of Mathematics-Mechanics will conduct an optical experiment in the use of polarized light, and in the chemistry laboratories the physical chemical equipment will be in operation.

Musical Open House at Southwick Sat. Night

Open House at Southwick will feature the University Choir and Soloists this Saturday evening at 8.15 p.m. The soloists will be Michael Anselmo—violin and Thomas Malone, Jr., '41, and Robert Goss '44, and Theresa Coderre, 43—voice.

The program for the evening is as follows:

1. Glory of God in Nature....Beethoven
   Hear My Prayer, O God....Arcadelt
   God of Love.....Kalinikoff

Bean Supper and Pep Rally Tonight

Student Government Sponsors Big Affair

Tonight the Pep Committee of the U. V. M. Student Government is adding a big Bean Supper and Pep Rally to the events of this "open house weekend." Last year 1,200 of the U. V. M. family congregated at the first Bean Supper proposed by President Millis to be the "kick-off" for the U. V. M. Security Drive. Preparations for an even greater success are being made this year. The cafeteria will be closed, and board in the women's dormitories and men's fraternities will be shut down so that the entire student body may come to the Bean Supper in the cafeteria. Waterman and Robinson student waitresses will start serving the beans at 6.15.

Members of the Pep Committee and Sophomore Aides have taken over the publicity for the supper, June Hoffman has charge of the decorating. Key and Serpent directed by Larry Killick have planned an hour and a half of entertainment.

The entertainment falls under one heading—Pep Rally for the Norwich game tomorrow. During the day Key and Serpent has chosen the ten best hobos. Master of ceremonies, Phil Robinson will announce the final winners at the supper. The football players will be introduced. Fuzzy Evans, Larry Gardner, Sherry Fogg, and co-captains Bill Benoit and Phil Chesarone will speak. The famed Fire-Eaters will sing. The R. O. T. C. Band will be on hand in the rotunda to assist the cheerleaders in raising vigorous Vermont cheers. A group of twirlers trained in the Burlington High School Band have been organized by Harriet Pearl to give a twirling act. President Millis and Proctor Page will speak to the students. Key and Serpent will toss cigarettes.

The Pep Committee thanks the members of the student body who have made suggestions and assisted with these plans. Hats off to Miss Underwood and her staff upon whom the burden of the supper lies.

Communion Sunday To Be Held Nov. 8

At the meeting Wednesday morning it was announced that the first Communion Sunday of the year will be on November 8. The Newman Club will receive in a body at the Cathedral at the 9:00 o'clock Mass. There will be a section reserved for the Newman Club.

Tuesday evening at 8.00 in the Waterman Student Lounge, the Newman Club will hold its monthly meeting with Rev. Robert F. Joyce, Chaplain. The speaker will be the Reverend P. A. Barry of Ludlow, Vermont, formerly Chaplain of the Newman Club. Father Barry was a classmate of Knute Rockne at Notre Dame.

It has been requested that the meeting begin promptly at 8.00 so that the meeting may adjourn at 9.00.

"Vermont Valley" Author to Be Here

Walter Hard, Poet, To Address Students

Writer of Vermont humor and local color, Walter Hard, will speak at the Student Lounge, Waterman, Tuesday, 8 p.m. Sponsoring him, are the Bluestockings Society and Student Government.

Mr. Hard was born in Manchester, Vermont, and is one of those 5th generation Vermonters. Among his works are "Vermont Valley," "Some Vermonters," "Salt of Vermont," "A Mountain Township" and "Vermont vintage." As a co-author with Margaret Hard he wrote an informal guide to Vermont called "This is Vermont."

Among those who have heard his readings are the New England Federation of Women's Clubs, New Hampshire State Teachers' Convention, Boston Book Fair, University of Middlebury Women, Ethan Allen Club of Burlington, New Jersey College for Women, etc. He often reads to college groups, for example, Williams, Dartmouth, Harvard, Wesleyan, Goddard and numerous other New England Colleges. Said Mr. Hard, "I can read as long as my listeners remain conscious." It is evidently not difficult to remain conscious as shown by this Christian Science Monitor quotation: ". . . With the native idiom he has preserved the wit terseness, the devastating shrewdness and independence of the Vermonter." Carl Rollins of the Saturday Review Literature said of Walter Hard's poetry: ". . . they are redolent of the hard biting humor of the Yankee—they reflect a life that was hard and in many ways unlovely but which had its compensations."

Student Government is Alive to Campus Problems

Officers and Executive Committee Set Up Efficient Organization

Last March the students of U. V. M. elected four officers and an executive board of 10 to act as the nucleus for a democratic governing body at Vermont. This was the first step of its kind toward student participation as a unit in University affairs. This Executive Committee has functioned for about six months. Their duties, responsibilities and powers were not established by precedent, not by a dictator, not by statute law. They were asked to raise Vermont from a doldrums, from a University which entirely lacked student opinion in its affairs. These fourteen students were doubtless green and untried. Every step they made was with conjecture—can we do this? Is it in our power? How far can we go? These and other questions were constantly in their minds. Meetings of this body followed the representatives on the board brought up all the pet gripes of the entire school. They made every effort to dig up things that U. V. M. lacked, things that it could do, ways that would benefit the students and make the University one which they would honor and respect. After every meeting the Secretary published in the CYNIC the minutes of that meeting and every detail which was covered at the session. This action was expressly for the student body to read, to know just what their governing body was doing. Many students evidently failed to try to see what was going on, they expected to be called on the phone and have the minutes read to them. Perhaps the President could explain all that had transpired to each individual student.

Executive Board

Once a month the Executive Board met with a faculty committee and discussed problems which involved both groups. Minutes of these meetings were mimeographed and copies sent to each body and are on file for anyone desiring to read them. President Millis was consulted upon every decision made by Student Government. Upon any occasion when a misunderstanding arose, a member of the organization would discuss the affair with the President and attempt to clarify every detail. As to what specifi-

Maxie Ahrens to Play At Boulder Informal

Max Ahrens and his Clubmen will furnish the music for an informal dance Saturday night, November 7, sponsored by the Boulder Society. It will be held in the cafeteria with the price of admission 55c per couple, and dancing is from 8.30 to 12.00.

The committee in charge of this dance is M. Kaufman, H. Thurber, F. Swift, G. Little, and J. Corbett.

Boulder wishes to remind everyone of the Musical Program at 8.15 at Southwick with President Millis' reception following it. There will be plenty of time to attend these functions and then come to the dance at the Waterman, afterwards.

Rev. Timothy Lew Visits University

Chinese Religious Editor Coming Nov. 8

The Rev. Timothy Tingfang Lew, Ph.D., D.D., S.T.D., of Yenching University, Peiping, will speak at a students' religious meeting at the University of Vermont on Sunday evening, November 8, at 7.30.

Doctor Lew is a prominent figure in the Chinese church, as editor of some of the most progressive religious periodicals of China, and as chairman of the Religious Education Fellowship of China, a national and interdenominational organization.

He has been on the faculties of both Yenching and National Universities, visiting professor and lecturer at more than a dozen American colleges and universities, and has served the Chinese government as a member of the legislative Yuan, the highest legislative body of China.

Mrs. Lew, whose full name is Lew Wu Tsoh-Sang, and who is coming with her husband, has also played an active part in the educational, political and religious life of China. She has been Dean of Women and Professor at the National University at Pekin and professor at Yenching and the Normal University of Peiping; president of many women's political organizations, and Associate Editor of the Education Of Tomorrow Weekly. In 1937 she was China's delegate to the World Educational Conference.

The meeting will be held in the students' lounge, with the Y. W. C. A., the Vermont Christian Association and the students' Committee On Religious Life as hosts. The young people's groups from the local churches have been invited to be present.

Over Two Hundred Coeds Become W.A.A. Members

Two hundred and twenty-nine University of Vermont co-eds are members of W. A. A., as revealed by the final count. All members are requested to see the managers of their respective clubs as soon as possible.

The following girls were elected to the honorary varsity team in tennis:

Margery Anthony, '45, Barbara Burnham, '45, Eleanor Konowitz, '46, Ruth Richards, '46, Betty Rome, '46, Rachel Giddings, '46, Nancy Fleming, '46, and Pete Hart, '43.

Rosemary Thayer '44 and Alma LeVens '43, will be co-managers of square dancing during the winter sports term.

Military Science Department Shows Combat Uniform

A soldier in full combat uniform will be a feature of the display planned by the Department of Military Science and Tactics of the University of Vermont in connection with the University Open House on Saturday, November 7, according to Major Francis P. Simpson, head of the department.

The Military Department, in common with other departments of the University, is working up an elaborate demonstration of its equipment and class work facilities, including an exhibit in the gymnasium of weapons in use by the infantry, machine guns, automatic rifles, service rifles and pistols, and a special showing of samples of German equipment, a machine gun and service rifle in the possession of the department.

A pup tent, ready pitched, with the full equipment issued to a soldier in the field will be another feature. Sound-movie shorts, of military subjects, issued by the War Department as publicity, will be shown.

At the game with Norwich in the afternoon there will be a cadet unit on the field with the band, and a flag raising ceremony will precede the contest.

VOL. 61 NOVEMBER 6, 1942 NO. 14

UNITED WE STAND

Unity has always been difficult to obtain at Vermont. Centralized dormitories or boarding places have never been possible even for the freshmen, to say nothing of the entire student body.

With the advent of the Waterman Building came a new spirit of unity at U. V. M. All the offices could be located there together. It became a central location for meetings and a meeting place for all students. But there was something more than just outward unity. At the time of the Sesquicentennial, the students were brought together in a way that they had not been before, to hear something of the history of their college, to hear inspiring speeches by famous men and women. Then came President Millis with Student Government and convocations, and this spirit gained momentum.

This week-end we are again uniting in work and play. We can see the work of students in other departments. Each college is doing its part to make this week-end a success, and as a result of this cooperation, a greater oneness should ensue.

Some of us have felt that this growing spirit of unity was being disturbed by something which has taken place on our campus this fall. We have felt that this year, of all years, was the wrong time to be separated into blocks of Catholics, Protestants and Jews. When Student Government appointed a Student Committee on Religious Life, we understood that members of the three faiths were represented in this committee so that the Wednesday morning chapel services might be made acceptable to members of all faiths. We looked for a miracle in the form of a full chapel every Wednesday morning. But the miracle was not performed. In fact, with the segregation of the group, it seemed even farther from realization than before. Ever since the Inter-Faith Convocation last Wednesday, we have been trying to understand how greater unity could be effected through greater separation and accordingly sought further information in the office of the Religious Life Committee. A brief explanation enabled us to understand why the chapel service can not be made agreeable to all groups. Probably most students realize that this difficulty exists. Therefore the best that can be done at present seems to be to urge every group to attend its own services. There are at least six hundred students in the University who should have no objections to the chapel service and therefore might be expected to attend occasionally. If you are indifferent to the situation, why not attend? You might like it. Just think how wonderful the chapel would look with six hundred people in it.

Perhaps, like us, you are still a bit skeptical as to how and when this unity through dispersion is to come about. In that case, the analogy, which was pointed out to us, between this situation and a national government which is unified by means of separate state governments, may help to clarify the plan.

We realize the faculty are terribly busy, but it would be nice to see a few more of them in chapel, if they could possibly make it.

Speaking of the faculty brings up another point about a way in which we might accomplish still greater unity. It has been brought to the attention of Student Government that there is a feeling on the part of both students and faculty that they would like to get better acquainted with each other At the last Student Government meeting, various ways of accomplishing this were discussed. Staff and Sandal is going to sponsor a social where faculty and students may mix. It would be fun to get up bowling competitions between the two groups. They could sit together more in the cafeteria. Why not start out by getting together at the Bean Supper and Pep Rally tonight?

"United we stand!"

Faith Prior, President of Bluestockings, stated today that the seven newly-elected members will usher. Their names will be made public Tuesday morning in a surprise announcement. She also said that at this open meeting all students, faculty, and friends are invited to hear Mr. Hard for the organizations feel it is a privilege to have him at the University. Critics say that readers cannot help but "enjoy the wit and grace with which he so faithfully portrays his corner of America."

Methodist Group Meets

The members of the Methodist College Group will meet with members of the other church college groups at a joint meeting in the Waterman Building at 7.30 Sunday night. Dr. Timothy Tingfang Lew, Chinese legislator, professor, scholar, lecturer, member of legislative Yuan in China, and leader in modern educational movements will be the speaker.

Sunday, November 15, Francis Colburn, artist in residence at the University will be guest speaker.

Will the girl who, by mistake, picked up a pair of tan pigskin gloves in the Y Room, Tuesday noon, kindly leave same at the information bureau, Waterman Building.

Fraternity Notes

PHI DELTA THETA

The Phi Delts are having a tea dance Saturday after the Norwich game from 5.30 to 8.00. Dick Flynn and Torrey Carpenter are in charge.

Mickey Cochran has returned from his many week-ends.

DELTA PSI

Monday night, October 26, the following were formally initiated:

H. S. Bryden '45, R. R. Conrad '45, H. E. Goodell '45, S. F. Haven '45, C. F. Preston, Jr. '44, D. C. Ryan '45, E. R. Stockwell '44, and C. L. Workman '45.

Fourteen pledges were informally initiated November 2.

George Little '43, and Dudley Davis '43, left Wednesday for Chicago, where they are attending an Intercollegiate Press Convention.

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON

Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity is holding a tea dance tomorrow, Saturday, afternoon from 5.30 until 8.00. Professor Witham will chaperone.

Lt. Gordon Manson, ex. '45, spent a few days in town this week. He left Tuesday night for Kansas.

Wally De Moose has returned to the S.A.E. house after a brief sojourn with the sisters of Kappa Alpha Theta.

SIGMA PHI

The brothers of Sigma Phi report complete success of their tea dance last Saturday. They wish to add that members of the fair sex were somewhat hesitant about the novel method of gaining entrance—by means of a ladder to a second story window. (P.S. Andy Gallup attended stag.)

Does anyone know who pulled the light switch and blacked out the Sigma Phi house for half the night?

Ronny Page '44, is still looking for his car.

A tea dance will be held at the Sigma Phi house Saturday, from 5.30 until 8.00 with Steve Moore in charge.

ALPHA TAU OMEGA

Open house will be held at the house Saturday afternoon with a tea dance from 5.30 to 8.00. S. R. Ziegra '44, is in charge assisted by John Ellis, pledge. Prof. and Mrs. Andrew Nuquist will chaperone.

Albert William Martin '45, Frederick Powers '45, and George C. Stanley, Jr., '43, were initiated into the active chapter at the meeting last Tuesday evening. George C. Stanley, Sr., an active alumnus and former officer of the chapter, was present at his son's initiation.

SIGMA NU

Neil C. Aiken '45, has finally announced his marriage to Lois Spaulding of his home town on June 8, 1942.

All those interested might ask Harry Parker when he intends to tap his much coveted keg of ???? in his closet.

Concert in Gym

The Open House concert presented by the Music Department will be held in the gymnasium on November 7, at 8.15 p.m.

Following the concert, a reception will be held in the ballroom.

You can help save 29,000 hours a day

ONE second saved in each of the 106 million telephone calls made every day would add up to well over 29,000 hours—would help greatly to keep lines open for vital military and war production calls.

A single second is that important. So answer promptly, giving your location and name, and keep your conversation brief. When making a call, be sure you have the right number—use the directory—call Information only when it's really necessary. And please don't use Long Distance to defense areas unless your call is urgent.

The Bell System has a big job to do. By saving seconds you may make room for a vital war-time call.

Horsemen Coming at a Gallop

By Monty Kelley

For the last few years Norwich University has ruled the roost as far as football in the Green Mountain State is concerned. For four seasons the Kaydets from Northfield have run roughshod over their two state opponents, Vermont and Middlebury. This, as we all well known, has certainly been a change from Maron elevens preceding this period.

Five years back, in the fall of 1937, Norwich had about as poor a football team as a school can have and still compete. Cadet teams had been so consistently bad that the alumni and the student body in general sent up a loud and persistent howl. They asked for a good ball club and they didn't care how they got it. Needless to say the pressure brought to bear was so powerful that steps were taken. The first was to hire Don McCallister, coach at the University of South Carolina. Wily Don came to Norwich with plenty of new ideas and incidentally a number of new football players. Norwich pigskin stock began to go up. In his first year as mentor, Don's team won two and lost four which although not spectacular was an improvement. The next season was better and in 1940 the Kaydets won seven and lost only one. Last year the Horsemen were beaten but once. In this, the year 1942, the military school lads have lost but a single game, a last minute decision to New Hampshire 16-13. Now that McCallister is in the armed forces the reins of the Horsemen have been taken up by Stan Keck, ex-All American at Princeton. Led by fancy-stepping, triple-threat, Walt Domina, hard driving Chuck Miller, speedy scat-back Chris Zoukis, and boasting a solid, fast forward wall, the Maroon has quite a ball-team.

Now what we're getting at is that all this sudden success has made the Cadets pretty self-satisfied, and confident. Their attitude is, "We've got the best football team in the state and we know it." Not the players but the student body, seem to think that they'll roll into Burlington, drop in at Centenniel Field, and saunter out again with the ball-game neatly in their pockets. We're not predicting that U. V. M. will win this one. The Cats will be undermanned and probably out-gunned. But they won't be out-fought. Maybe stalwart Ralph LaPointe and gallant Norm Beaulieu won't be able to perform the aerial feats that have made them the most talked of combination in state circles. (But we doubt it.) Maybe Pete Kadzis, because of his mother's sudden death, won't be playing. Maybe that Green and Gold line led by Co-Captains Phil and Bill will be outweighed and outmaneuvered. But the spirit will still be there.

When those Cadets ride into town tomorrow, they won't be fooling. Neither will Vermont.

Vermont-Norwich Record

To date the score in games stands in favor of the Green and Gold. Since 1897, Vermont has racked up a total of 23 victories against 10 wins for Norwich. The schools have tied three during their rivalry.

TEPS Enter Final Round, Downing Owl Gridders, 20-7

Victors to Oppose Kappa Sigma Squad

In a game played before a chilled crowd, a superior TEP gridiron squad defeated a heralded Owl team 20-7. The game, which shaped up previously as a real tight battle, was in reality almost a rout. The TEPs, once they gained momentum, could not be stopped, as they outpassed and outran a scrappy Owl team at every turn.

This win, gives last year's champions a chance to defend their laurels against a strong Kappa Sig outfit. They will meet in the championship tussle at a later date, which will be decided by the captains of the respective teams.

The game, itself, was highlighted by some very fancy runbacks, savage blocking and some wide open passing that kept the hardy onlookers continually in a state of suspense. The TEPs flashed their renowned aerial attack, that has spelled defeat for so many other hopeful contenders. The TEPs' bag of tricks included everything from "around the end sweeps," to an intricate "basketball pass" that simply amazed the opponents. A fellow by the name of Stroyman, stole the show again for the TEPs. He sparked his mates to several scores, meanwhile, harrassing the Owls, with his peculiar deception, which allowed him to either run or pass. He was outstanding, but much credit must be given to his team mates, who blocked and covered, in order to make his plays effective.

A lanky end, Glazin, and a former freshman standout, Phil Waldman, proved to be valuable assets to the TEPs, as they constantly clicked on passes, that seemed to be destined for failure. Not only did they go great guns offensively, they also showed a superior talent for nabbing the Owls' backs deep in their own territory.

We could go enumerating and singling out individual players who seemed outstanding for the TEPs, but that would prove futile, for it is the team itself that won—because they played as a unit, as a team, with only one objective—to win.

The Owls, directed by basketballer "Nails" Doherty, couldn't seem to get started. They had all the equipment, but they were unable to prime the pump, and they only prevented a shutout by scoring on the last play of the game. The Owls showed the effects of plenty of practice and precision, but something was lacking, they just couldn't function properly.

The Owls employing a 3-2-2 defense, couldn't solve the tricky formations of the TEPs and continually they were caught flatfooted, as a pass snatcher sifted through to gain considerable yardage for the winners.

Post Selects Trip Harriers

Runners Compete for Places in Boston Run

By Bill Styles

The end of a two week rest period for Coach Archie Post's Vermont harriers ends Sunday, when the boys set out for the New England Intercollegiate run at Franklin Park, Boston, on Monday afternoon. The team has been steadily improving its standing in this meet, placing fifth in 1940 and fourth last year in a field of thirteen. Rhode Island was the winner last year, setting a new low scoring total of 23 points. Junior Bob Nichols, in winning for the Rams, set a new track record of 20:38.

Minus the Webster brothers, their scoring aces, of previous years, the Green and Gold is depending upon Captain Bud Hoyt and Marty McLaren to keep them up high in the final standings.

In an informal triangular meet, held last Friday with Burlington and Waterbury High Schools, the U. V. M. Kittens came out on top, due mostly to the efforts of Bob Morrison, promising freshman star. Morrison ran a near record time over the freshman course of 16:27, only seven or eight seconds over the record and well under any times made by last year's frosh leaders. Vermont kept her score down to 25 with B. H. S. easily taking second place over Waterbury who piled up 63 points.

Monday, November 2, saw the team participating in a handicap race, which Capt. Bud Hoyt won, clocking a time of 19:45 over the regular varsity course. As usual he was followed by Marty McLaren in second place.

Thursday afternoon the deciding time trials were held, and each man tried so hard to win, that the first nine men finished within nine seconds of each other. After having Johnny Corliss and Len Harrington flip for the seventh place slot, Coach Post released the following roster for the Boston trip, late last night: Capt. Bud Hoyt '43, Marty McLaren '44, "Mule" Crown '43, Ernie St. Mary '43, Bob Morrison '46, Frank Moran '46, and Johnny Corliss '44. Moran ran a beautiful race to place himself among the select seven. "Dick Lepper '46, also ran well to bring himself up with the first nine, but is being left behind," said Coach Post, "because a layoff right now will get him in better shape for the Middlebury run, where he will be badly needed."

Ten Cagers Report Early

Veteran Players Start Basketball Campaign

A group of ten selected men answered Coach Fuzzy Evans' call for the first preseason basketball practice, held Monday afternoon in the men's gymnasium. Returning lettermen Capt. Bob Doherty, Milt Kaufman, and Larry Killick and five experienced reserves, Reno Conti, Tom Clairmont, Gil Manheim, Jerry Didinski, and Bob Bennett, reported. Also present were two freshmen that Evans is looking over, George Henderson and Albie Johnson. The boys are practicing on their own at present, with no scrimmages scheduled as yet.

After football Ralph LaPointe, Norm Beaulieu, Mickey Cochran and Don Murphy are due to join the squad. Also at this time Coach Evans will be on hand to direct practice. Still more material may turn up when the general call is issued November 16. Evans plans an eventual varsity of fifteen men and a junior varsity squad with an equal number.

Cochran in Backfield Against Favored Cadets

Norwich Heavy Choice In Traditional Game

By Phil Robinson

Vermont will be out for blood tomorrow!

The ancient feud between Norwich and the Cats will crack wide open at 2 o'clock on Centennial before an expected open-house crowd of some 3,500 persons.

In the wake of a week's intensive drilling under the tutelage of Coaches Fuzzy Evans and Sherm Fogg, the Cats will be no easy mark for Stan Keck's riding Horsemen to hit.

Two sharp defeats at the hands of the military school still burn deeply in the hearts of the Green and Gold gridders, and Evans' company will be only too glad to even the score against the Maroon by chalking up their third win in six starts.

When LaPointe-Beaulieu, and Walt Domina tie up in the afternoon's battle, it will be the greatest exhibition of passing and rushing that the Green Mountain State has witnessed so far this season, or in any other for some years, as a matter of fact.

According to our operatives, Stan Keck will let the illustrious Domina run rampant, insofar as the Wildcats of New Hampshire held the magnanimous boy to but one touchdown last week.

The verbal battle waged between the sports editor of this page, and the self-styled expert on the grid game and present incumbent of the sports desk of the Norwich Guidon, has helped little to temper the hostile feelings between the two schools.

According to this reporter's spy ring, Domina is praying to carry the leather across Vermont's goal enough times to better LaPointe's scoring spree, but the Cats will have more than a few odd words and actions to contribute against this cause.

At this point, it looks as though the Vermont ball toters will be deprived the services of their ace fullback, Pete Kadzis. Pete was called home on the sudden death of his mother, and will probably not report for tomorrow's fracas.

Fuzzy has shifted Monk Martin to the fullback slot where the former Rutland athlete should work well, having pulled some excellent quarterbacking out of the bag so far this season. "Mick" Cochran will get the call to replace Monk at quarterback, giving the secondary the semblance of last fall's freshman backfield.

The fact that Norm Beaulieu shone brightly last week in Hartford, proved beyond doubt that Evans has more than one scoring threat in his fold. Heretofore, critics of Vermont looked to the high scoring antics of LaPointe, and pointed out that Ralph was all and everything that Vermont owned. Saturday's 21-14 upset of Trinity put the wet blanket on the predictions of these idle prognosticators.

With the exception of the shift in the backfield, Vermont's starting lineup will be very much as has faced opposition earlier in the season. Rog Prior will replace Frank Sugrue at right guard in the starting lineup with the rest of the crew intact.

In place of Zipper Zoukis, one of Keck's right hand men, will be the dominating Domina at left half back. Otherwise, the Cadet mentor will start the team that vanquished Middlebury two weeks back.

Probable starting lineups:

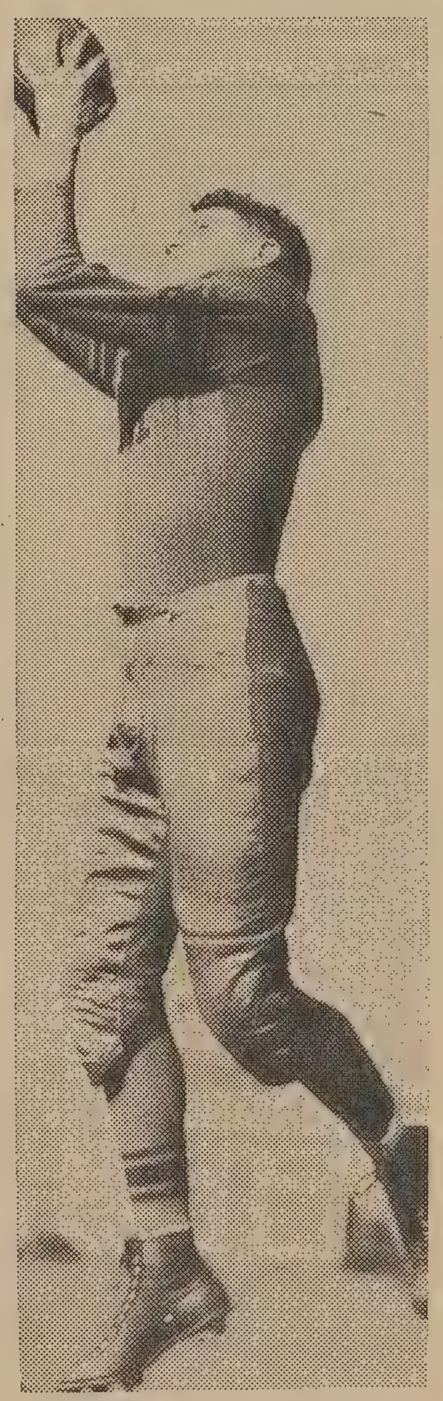

Vermont:

le, Barry; lt, Walgren; lg, Eddy; c, Chesarone; rt, Benoit; rg, Prior; re, Parker; qb, Cochran; rh, Beaulieu; lh, LaPointe; fb, Martin.

Norwich:

le, White; lt, Kiever; lg, Van Stone; c, Blackburn; rg, Robasky; rt, Christoph; re, Rysnik; qb, Raville; lh, Domina; rh, Miller; fb, Stone.

Post Explains Need For Physical Training

During the year 1941-42, war hit our country. At the start of the second semester, 1941-42, the Men's Physical Education Department gave you the opportunity to enroll voluntarily in the physical fitness program. Many of you did, but many others did not.

Now, with the winter program for 1942-43 about to start (Monday, November 16), this Department again offers you the opportunity to enroll in a conditioning program.

We realize that many of you are hard pressed for time, are carrying heavy study schedules; are working perhaps for board, or room, or both. But we realize, too, that very soon a great many of you will be bearing arms for Uncle Sam and undergoing the severest tests, both physical and mental, that ever you have experienced. Some of our recent graduates —some of your own former classmates, can vouch for this statement.

Hence, we cannot emphasize too strongly that, for your own good, present and future, you should grasp every opportunity to condition and toughen yourselves physically, that your physique and your morale may be well above par when you are called to duty.

Items required:

1. A locker-towell slip obtainable at the Cashier's Office, Waterman Building.
2. Sneakers.
3. Anything by way of gym clothes other than "civies" you wear each day.

Place—The Gymnasium.

Hours—Hours available may be fitted to your time schedule.

Where to Sign up—In the Men's Physical Education Office.

Time—NOW!!

LOST—Book—Untermeyer's "British and American Poetry." If found please call 480. Louise Bianchi.

Anselmo Concert Comes Next Week

Accompaniments by Prof. Howard Bennett

The annual violin recital of Mr. Michael Anselmo will be presented at Southwick Memorial Building, Armistice Day evening at 8.15 p.m. The accompaniments will be played by Prof. Howard G. Bennett.

Mr. Anselmo, a member of the University of Vermont faculty, has been studying violin since the age of eight. He made his musical dèbut in Aeolian Hall, New York City, at sixteen. He continued to study during the next few years and gave recitals in Town, Aeolian, and Carnegie Halls, where he played the works of many famous composers.

In 1930, when he was appointed to the staff of radio station WOR as solo-violinist and concertmaster, he played under the direction of Alfred Wallenstein, George Schackley, and Philip James. Mr. Anselmo was first violinist in the Cremona String Quartet for five years. He appeared several times with the Vermont Symphony Orchestra as guest soloist.

Since joining the U. V. M. faculty in 1940, Mr. Anselmo has been concertmaster and soloist in many concerts including the spring concert of the Glee Clubs and University Orchestra.

Professor Bennett, who has honored us with several performances, needs no introduction to Burlington audiences. He is a very skilled pianist and has been associated with the University of Vermont faculty for several years.

The program has not as yet been announced but gives promises of being very entertaining. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Miss Holbrook At Demonstration

Professor Holbrook went to New Haven to attend a demonstration of the newly opened center for the care of the children of women defense workers. The work of the center is carried on under the Lanhan Act, which provides federal funds for the care of such children after school. The plan is that the children attend school, are given a lunch, and are cared for until six o'clock. There is also a nursery unit which is opened from 7 a.m. to 6 a.m. Local agencies are also called upon to help at the center.

Miss Louise King, a member of the summer school faculty of U. V. M., is the director of the project. Students of the New Haven Teachers College who are taking education get practice work at the center.

The New Haven center is the first of these centers to be opened in New England.

Vocational Course Open to Students

The attention of University students is called to the Vocational Classes for adults which began November 2, in the Manual Training Room at the Burlington High School from 6.00-11.00 p.m. The classes are sponsored by the Vocational Division of the State Board of Education. No previous experience is required. Tools and equipment are furnished for beginners.

Wood carving, clay modeling, designing, wood finishing, and tool sharpening will be taught.

The tuition charge is $5.00 for twelve weeks, plus a weekly charge of 25c per person to cover the cost of materials.

Percy A. Sweetser, proprietor of the Pineheart Craft Shop of Morrisville, Vermont, will be the instructor.

Bean Supper and Pep Rally to climax Hobo Day and arouse spirit for Norwich game. Students, faculty and administration and their wives, fliers—Welcome.

A recent letter from the Sub-committee on Physical Therapy of the National Research Council asks the Deans of Women to bring the attention of their students to the extreme need for an additional number of young women to train in physical therapy technics in order to serve as physical therapy aides in government hospitals. There are now 665 vacancies in the training schools.

The requirements for entrance are:

1. Two years or 60 semester hours of work in an approved college, including college courses in physics and biologic science.
2. Four-year course in physical education in a recognized college or
3. Graduation from an accredited school of nursing.

Further information about where one may obtain training as a physical therapy aide is available in the Office of the Dean of Women.

There will be no a la carte service at the Waterman Building on Saturday noon. There will be only one meal served at the cafeteria that noon, and it will cost 60c. Everyone is invited to attend.

There will be a mass meeting of Hillel, Monday, November 9, 4.15 p.m., Student Lounge.

OUTING CLUB—Plans are under way for an overnight hike this week-end. Watch for further details.

Faculty to Enjoy Phys. Ed. Program

The Men's Physical Education Department wishes to announce that starting Monday, November 16, 1942, the regular faculty class will be held on Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 5.00 p.m.

This class will follow a routine similar to that for undergraduates, with an opening period of calisthenics followed by organized games under the direction of a member of the Physical Education staff.

Locker and towel service may be secured by paying the fee ($2.00) at the Cashier's office and presenting the receipt to the staff member in charge of the faculty class.

It is desired that this be accepted as a personal invitation by each member of the faculty.

ARCHIE T. POST,
Chairman, Men's Physical Education Department.

Home Ec.-Aggie Party At Southwick November 13

Plans are under way for a Home Economics-Aggie party to be held on Friday, November 13, at Southwick.

This will be the first Home Economics-Aggie party of the season and is open to all Agricultural and Home Economics students.

The party, which will include group singing, games and dancing from 8.00 until 11.00 p.m., is sponsored by the Aggie and Home-Economics Clubs. It is hoped that all Agricultural and Home Economics students will come to enjoy the fun and refreshments.

Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Marvin will chaperone.

Engineering Show To Be Offered

Demonstration by All Dept's Open to Public

Engineers at the University of Vermont are getting off to an early start in connection with the University's open-house scheduled for this week-end, for their show will start on Friday evening in all three departments of the college.

The demonstration planned by the Department of Electrical Engineering will be from eight to eleven in the Waterman Building, and the public is cordially invited to attend. A special invitation is extended to members of the power industries, as there will be features of the open-house which will be of special interest to them.

Among the exhibits will be three electrical machines built 60 years ago for a mill on the east side of the state. During the last war they were purchased by the University to facilitate teaching signal school. They will be shown on Friday evening, set up and furnishing power for arc lamps, in contrast to a modern power supply system nearby.

This department will also demonstrate a sound analyzer, by means of which sounds are picked up and portrayed by an audio-frequency oscillator, showing what sound appears like when plotted against time. Open-house visitors will have an opportunity to "see" their own voices.

The mechanical engineers' show, which will follow the pep rally, will include the operation by students of the polishing wheels in the metallurgy laboratory, polishing steel, cast iron and wrought iron for examination under the new ultra microscope.

The mechanicals will also display a 1938 six-cylinder Pontiac engine on which students will run a complete performance test to show the developed torque, the brake horse power and fuel consumption. In this test the Pontiac will be run at speeds from 500 to 4,000 r.p.m. and at powers up to 100 H.P. An oscillograph connected to a cylinder will show to visitors the pressure changes in the cylinder and the effects of gas combustion, knocking, and spark and valve timing.

In the civil engineers' laboratories on the third floor of the Waterman Building the University's Geodetic Survey equipment will be on display. This includes the first and probably the only transit magnet meter ever made for a private institution, which is built on the same model as those used by the United States Coast Guard Survey. According to Prof. Arthur D. Butterfield, the University is one of the best equipped colleges in this field in the country, and visitors will have an opportunity to see these instruments as well as Professor Butterfield's own triangulation equipment.

The strength testing laboratories will also be in operation and tests will be made on concrete cylinders, wood blocks and bars of cast iron.

Millis Reception to Feature Songstresses

President Millis' reception will be held at Southwick at 9 p.m. on Saturday. It will be informal. A trio composed of Mollie Herman '44, Jean Hall '42, and Jean Vogler '44, will entertain with varied selections. Mrs. W. R. Adams is in charge of pouring. Other women members of the faculty will assist her.

Student Government

cally has been done by the Student Government at its meetings the following is a summary.

Five Committees

Five committees were organized with students representing every class, fraternity, sorority and the independents with an aim and enable as many as possible to participate in Student Government.

Religious Life Committee

Originally composed of 6 members but now represented by V. C. A., Y. W. C. A., Newman Club and members of the Jewish faith.

This committee has fostered interest of every faith in some sort of activity or organization which would bring students in closer contact with their own beliefs. The newly organized Jewish Club, the Newman Club and the other Christian Association have all recently launched extensive programs for their members.

Financial Committee

This Committee has taken over the allocating of the student activity fee and entirely reallocated the funds in channels which are more beneficial to faculty and students alike. They have established a contingent fund to sponsor such special events as the newly originated freshman picnic or the securing of special artists to appear before the students, etc.

The entire job of budgeting, requisitioning and allocating is being handled by this committee, a great saving for the University and a democratic measure for participation of students in handling these funds.

Pep Committee

This Committee formed for the purpose of fostering more student interest and activity, has sponsored street dances, campus sings, football rallies and is entirely responsible for the Bean Supper and Hobo Day held Friday, November 6, in the cafeteria.

Social Committee

The social calendar for 1942-'43 was made out by this Committee and represents the preferences of the student body in all of its social functions. Each month this committee secures a revised edition of the next month's social schedule and publishes it in the CYNIC for the benefit of all who wish to read it.

Freshman Orientation Committee

The aim of this Committee was to supervise Freshman Week and plan a program to familiarize all freshmen with their University. The functions of this Committee were taken over primarily by the Director of Admissions as ordained by President Millis. A very capable program of conferences, addresses and meetings was held during freshman week and served every purpose intended for this Committee. At one of these conferences the entire organization of Student Government was explained and presented to the freshmen in order that they might understand its function, etc.

Aside from the activities which were inaugurated and supervised by these subcommittees. Student Government has discussed and acted upon the following measures: Last spring a campaign to keep off the grass was held through the CYNIC and was very successful.

A Student Court of men was elected by the students and although it has not acted as a unit as yet representatives of this body have met with the Faculty Committee on dishonesty and aided in settling several cases.

At the present time plans are being made in conjunction with several other colleges to secure artists to appear before the students as special cultural features, the expense of these appearances to be defrayed by the contingent fund set up by the Financial Committee.

Last week the Executive Committee elected the members of the student body to appear in Who's Who in American Colleges. Previous to this year the Deans had selected the students.

Plans are now being formulated for socials and activities which will bring the faculty and students into closer contact and on a more common basis.

Minor problems such as an attempt to synchronize the Waterman Building clocks with those of the Old Mill and Chapel have been dealt with.

This is what Student Government has done. Cooperation in the past has been very good and except for the super critical views of a few soap box orators who have criticized and will continue to criticize its activities, Student Government will overcome its present embryonic stage and perhaps blossom into the democratic unit which its members have sought to establish.

VOL. 61 BURLINGTON, VERMONT, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1942 NUMBER 15

Crowd of 1,000 at Bean Supper in Cafeteria Friday

U. V. M. Students and Faculty Enthusiastic At Hobo Day Pep Rally

Friday night the cafeteria of the Waterman Building was the scene of the annual Bean Supper. About 1,000 people crowded into the room to participate in the Beat-Norwich Pep Rally after the supper.

During the supper lively entertainment was led by the Master of Ceremonies, Phil Robinson '45. One of the features of the evening was a song by the well-known "Fire-Eaters," who were rather weirdly attired but in fine form. Another high point was the twirling of "Sis" Warden '45, to the music of the R. O. T. C. band under the direction of Joseph Lechnyer. The band kept enthusiasm at a high pitch by playing during the entire affair. Group singing, some spontaneous and some led by Phil Robinson was another highlight of the supper.

President Millis made a short speech and he was followed with two more by Proctor Page, who almost escaped but not quite, and Coach Larry Gardner.

The main feature of the evening was a hobo parade. There were quite a few participants who marched—on the floor, on the tables and everywhere. The winners were Jackie McCormick '46 and John Corliss '44. They looked the most like hobos.

The supper ended with Vermont cheers and everyone wanting to beat Norwich.

Hobo Contest

Following the Bean Supper in the Waterman cafeteria last Friday the Beat-Norwich Pep Rally staged a hobo contest. Considering all the confusion of the real date of the affair there was a swell turnout. There were about thirty contestants ranging from Lil Abner and his "shootin' iron," (Bob Goss), to sleepy Erika Heininger with her candle. The second annual Bean Supper was such a success that when it came time for the contest there seemed to be no room between the tables for the hobos to parade. But no real U. V. M.'er can be said to remain stumped, so using the old principle of the shortest distance between two points, each hobo took to the tables and made his way to the center stage.

To insure a fair selection the two judges were President Millis and Professor Dean. Their final choice for the men was "John-O"Corliss '44, winner for two consecutive years, and for the girls, Jackie McCormick '46. The band played for the contest mingling in with the selections a few licks of "We-want-Nelson."

Boulder Dance Climaxes Victory

There was a new spirit present at the Boulder Dance. Perhaps it was brought on by the Norwich victory—perhaps merely by the blacked-out lights, but at any rate the 160 couples present seemed to be in an unusually exhilarant mood. Mahlon Conner in an "honest to Pete Zoot suit" made a big hit with his trumpet solo. Newton Goldman's drumming—and facial grimaces, were also acclaimed. Professor and Mrs. Carpenter, Professor and Mrs. Long, Harris Thurber and Ruth Holmes, and Joe Corbett and Esther Gustafson did the honors on the receiving line gamut.

Students Discuss Culture Program

Question of Clinical Assistance Brought Up

At its regular meeting at 4.30 on Tuesday, November 3, with President Joseph Corbett presiding, the minutes of the last meeting were read and approved and the roll read.

The first new business of the meeting was discussion of arrangements for having Walter Hard, famous Vermont poet, appear on the campus under the joint auspices of Student Government and Blue Stockings, the literary society. Student Government is to pay half the cost of the appearance out of the allocation for such purposes.

The question was brought up of having regular clerical assistance for Student Government financial work, which is large enough to warrant employing part time some person skilled in such work.

Names were suggested for further discussion at the next meeting for nominations to fill the vacancies left by Janet Dike Rood ex-'43, Vice President, and Wayne Dudley ex-'43, Executive Committeeman. At the next meeting the officers and executive committee will draw up a slate of nominations to fill these positions. After it has been posted the regular nominations by petition will be in order before a general election.

The next regular meeting of the officers and executive committee will take place on Tuesday, November 10, at 4.15 in the South Conference Room at Waterman.

Respectfully submitted,
MARILYN L. EIMER,
Secretary.

W. A. A. Announces Honorary Varsities

At the close of the fall sports' season, the following girls were elected to the honorary varsity team in hockey:

G. S. O. Meeting Scheduled Wed. In Student Lounge

Membership Cards To Be Distributed To Charter Members

GIRLS' SERVICE ORGANIZATION TRAINING MEETING WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1942 7.30 P.M. STUDENT LOUNGE, WATERMAN

All girls who have signed up for service of any kind with the Girls' Service Organization, either last spring or more recently, are asked to meet for a brief training period on Wednesday evening in the Student Lounge.

Copies of the G. S. O. Manual have now been received from the national office, also the membership cards. These will be distributed at that time.

Please make an effort to be present, and if unable to do so, please notify either Alison Carr, G. S. O. chairman, or the office of the Dean of Women before 4.00 p.m., November 11.

MARY JEAN SIMPSON,
Dean of Women.

As stated in the announcement from the office of the Dean of Women in this issue, the Girls' Service Organization mass meeting is scheduled for 7.30 tomorrow evening, Wednesday, November 11, in the Student Lounge.

Charter members from last year and all the girls who have signed up for G. S. O. this year are urgently requested to attend. Alison Carr '44, chairman, asks all girls who have not yet handed in their applications to bring them to the meeting.

Dean Simpson, Mrs. C. H. Pease, and members of the Women's Hospitality Committee of Burlington, will be present to distribute membership cards to charter members and those who have completed requirements this year and to explain the requirements and duties of the varied G. S. O. services that these girls have agreed to help in.

About 125 girls registered this fall in the G. S. O., many of whom have already nearly completed the twenty-five required hours of service. The U. S. O. in Burlington offers opportunities for all kinds of services. Among the many and varied activities of the G. S. O. are organizing Sunday night suppers; planning short entertainment programs; visiting at the post hospital; serving as information clerks; answering telephones in the G. S. O. buildings and gathering lists by telephone of girls in the G. S. O. for weekly activities; and acting as social partners for dances, game nights, sport activities and other social events. Alison Carr '44, Chairman of the G. S. O. on this campus states, "there are enough girls who have signed up for the G. S. O. to make it possible for these activities and many others to make the College G. S. O. a concrete aid to the U.S.O. in Burlington without putting any large burden, even of time spent, on any one individual."

Musical Groups Present Open House Program

Scores of visiting alumni, faculty members, students and friends crowded the Southwick Memorial Building last Saturday night for the musical program and president's reception. The U. V. M. choir presented four numbers, and Michael Anselmo gave an encore to two violin solos. Marjorie Southworth '43, Theresa Coderre '44, and Robert Goss '44, gave the "Coffee Cantata." After the concert President and Mrs. Millis received in the ball room. Punch and wafers were served.

We Dood It! Cats 14, Norwich 10

By PHIL ROBINSON

The mighty Horsemen have been horsed!

And it took a hard hitting, inspired University of Vermont eleven to completely upset the dope and ride rough shod over the Norwich state-title bound crew Saturday afternoon, 14-10.

It was a win that even the most loyal followers of the Green and Gold were a bit dubious to concede before game time, but the Cats were unbeatable.

Norm Beaulieu and Ralph LaPointe romped all afternoon to set the Vermonters ahead in virtually every department, completely outclassing the play produced by the magnificent Walt Domina and company.

With this win neatly chalked up on the right side of the ledger, the Cats worked out lightly yesterday afternoon, but were expected to get down to business this afternoon in preparation for the week-end meeting with Middlebury.

Although the Panthers received the savage attack of the Coast Guard to the tune of 52-0, the Middmen will be eager to knock the spirited Green and Gold from its present perch.

NOTICE

Wednesday, November 11, will not be a University holiday. Classes will be held as usual on that day.

This year due to the accelerated program there will be one day's recess only for Thanksgiving, that is Thursday, November 26, will be a University holiday. There will be no change in class hours on Wednesday, November 25, and Friday, November 27.

The attention of students is called to the following extract from Part II, Section 4b of the Regulations of the University of Vermont:

"A student . . . . who absents himself without permission (secured in advance from the Dean of his college), from any University exercise or exercises on the day immediately preceding or following a recess or holiday . . . . may be placed on probation. . . . While on probation the student shall be excluded from beneficiary aid for the current half year, from employment for a remuneration by the University, and debarred from membership in athletic teams, musical, dramatic, debating clubs, publication boards, and other analogous University organizations."

The above regulations will apply to all classes Wednesday, November 25, and Friday November 27.

E. SWIFT,
Secretary.

Walter Hard Comes To U. V. M. Tonite

Walter Hard, writer of Vermont humor and local color, will read from his works tonight at 8 o'clock in the student lounge of the Waterman Building. The occasion is an open meeting of Blue Stockings Society, which sponsors his appearance in coöperation with Student Government.

Mr. Hard has read before college groups, women's clubs and conventions all over New England and nearby states. His style is described in the Christian Science Monitor as combining "the wit, terseness, devastating shrewdness and independence of the Vermonter."

A fifty-generation Vermonter himself, Mr. Hard has published a number of volumes of poetry, among them "Vermont Valley," "A Mountain Township" and "Salt of Vermont."

It is hoped both students and townspeople will take advantage of the opportunity to hear in person this prominent Vermont poet.

Dorms, Sororities Select Candidates

R. O. T. C. Unit Chooses From Them Coed Major

The Military Ball is just around a couple of corners and a short Conga away, and mention of the ball brings to mind loveliness resplendent in the raiment of the Army Major. Yes, girls, it's time for you to select those girls of your choice to be candidates for co-ed Major to preside over the Military Ball November 28, and R. O. T. C. Federal inspection next spring.

In order to facilitate the selection, each sorority and dorm in which there are at least ten girls is to put up one girl from that house to be its candidate. When you have chosen one from your group, you must present to either Richard Grosvenor or Howard Vreeland, who live at the SAE house on Summit Street, before Tuesday November 17, a photograph, at least 8 x 10 in size and a typewritten list of the College activities in which your candidate has participated. These will be made available to the members of the R.O.T.C. unit and they will vote by secret ballot to elect the co-ed Major. The identity of the winner will remain undisclosed until the night of the Ball.

Religious Groups Hear Report on Convention

On Friday evening at 7.30 in the Religious Office of the Waterman Building, the V. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. cabinets and the Student Committee on Religious Life met together to hear a report on the Convention in Springfield, Mass., at which representatives of the religious groups on campus attended.

Penelope Easton, Marjorie Rubin, John Corliss, Llewelyn Jones, and Dwight Eddy submitted reports of the activities of the convention which proved very interesting and beneficial to the Committee on Religious Life.

The Goodrich Cassical Club will meet at Southwick, Tuesday evening, November 17. Professor Kidder is in charge of the program.

Handle With Care

We have at last been permitted a good view of that baby born last March —Student Government. There was published in last Friday's CYNIC a comprehensive report by its president on the activities of our Student Government. It has turned out to be quite some babe, a lot bigger than we had imagined—in fact a real healthy infant.

But it seems that certain people are quite sensitive when anyone talks about their baby. Remarks, suggestions and criticism made in all sincerity are looked at askance and taken as personal insults. A person who has enough interest in his government to think about it, to observe a shortcoming, to suggest a remedy and then to speak up about it is called a "supercritical soap box orator."

A good healthy baby makes its presence known with a good healthy racket. If the baby never cried we would think something was wrong, if we noticed him at all. True we might be able to sleep better, but certain people are kicking that the student body sleeps too much anyway. On their milk-stools, for instance. It was about time someone slapped the baby —if only to start a racket.

The achievements of Student Government thus far are not inconsiderable. There is still plenty to be done—in the cultural and social fields, for instance. The students on the Executive Committee have put in a lot of work. They want and need student interest and cooperation. They will get it a lot quicker if they leave the latch-string out.

D. M. Z.

And Rather Than To

Premise: There is a small University somewhere in the hills around Northfield. They have an efficient Minister of Propaganda, else we would never have known about it. It seems that men attended this University and they had corraled eleven supermen and put them in football uniforms.

A. Thirty stalwart men of Vermont waited up all Friday night guarding the Boulder. They were waiting for some Norwich men to show up.

B. A few thousand people of Vermont waited around all Saturday afternoon at Centennial Field. They were waiting for a Norwich football team to show up.

C. A few women of Vermont waited around Saturday night in party clothes. They were waiting for some Norwich gentlemen to show up.

Conclusion: Oh, well, maybe they will make good soldiers.

Presenting

For T. Six is a great lover. Always popular with the girls, Fortie got around in no time at all. But his popularity occasionally led him into difficulties. For one evening, to be more specific, the first Sunday of the month, he found himself buried under a veritable avalanche of invitations "to dine" at the numerous girls' dorms on the hill.

After-careful consideration, solicitation, investigation, and many anxious moments, the decision fell to Redstone campus; for here he was sure he would receive the best nourishment. No slur, of course, being cast at his other invitations.

The great day arrived. When he awoke late Sunday morning, there ensued a heated debate between his large and small intestines on the subject: "Resolved: That Breakfast and Dinner Be Moderately Partaken to the End That There Be Larger Capacity for the Greater Objective."

Suffice it to say, that Fortie continued hungry well into the afternoon. At the dinner table his immediate neighbors helped him with his portion of turkey, ice cream, et al. He survived the afternoon by living—not on love, but on the delicious expectations of the evening meal.

Promptly at 6.00 p.m. he staggered faintly across Redstone Campus. With his last ounce of energy he pressed the doorbell and fairly fell into the astonished arms of the lucky girl. Under the frigid glance of a not-over-enthused housemother he quickly recovered.

The preliminary introductions and other approved social procedure were not at all appreciated by Fortie. Finally, the procession wended its way into the dining hall. His little tummy was all a-flutter with gastric juices (Zoo dept.—prof. please notice).

It came in a soup plate. It was observed to be eaten with a spoon. It was vicious—beg your pardon—viscous. But Fortie was gifted with foresight, he looked hopefully ahead to the main course . . . .

To the accompanying scrape of chairs being pushed backward, Fortie was led dazedly from the dining room by his consort. The walls of his little tummy, gastric juices notwithstanding, were prevented from complete contraction by the main dish, which to his horror and despair turned out to be despair.

Thanks to University rules, Fortie had only to endure a few more hours. He was somewhat consoled by the fact that his friend of the evening enjoyed the meal. "Practice makes perfect."

Shortly after the zero hour (10 o'clock on Sundays), Fortie could be seen flashing down Main street and into the first restaurant at hand. "Food!" he gasped, as we end our strange saga.

There will be a meeting of the Newman Club, Tuesday evening at 8.00, in the Waterman Student Lounge. Everybody be there at 8.00 sharp, please.

Vermont Alumni in Army Medical Corps Send Dr. Soule $150 Check

The following letter, accompanied by a check for $150. was received today from the University's most distant and most exclusive Alumni Club, consisting of Maj. Murray K. Dunsmore '35, Capt. Howard J. Farmer '37 and Capt. John R. Simonds '38, all members of the U. S. Army Medical Corps. According to Captain Farmer's father, Dr. Frank E. Farmer, U. V. M., 1899, the three medical officers are somewhere in the South Pacific. All three entered active service with the Vermont National Guard and were stationed for nearly a year at Camp Blanding, Fla. In January, 1942, they were assigned to foreign duty.

A. P. O. No. 919, c/o Postmaster,
San Francisco, Cal.

Dr. A. B. Soule, Jr., Assistant Dean,
University of Vermont College of Medicine
Burlington, Vermont.

Dear Brad,

We all realize that the well-known saying "too little and too late" may be applied to us as well as to some more famous people. We haven't a very good excuse for the latter, but we might have done a bit better on the amount of the contribution if any of us had settled down in any one place for more than a short time since graduating. However, we may be able to make another donation at a later date. The enclosed contribution is contributed equally by the three of us.

We are in the cocoanut palm and hula skirt territory, but further than that we are not allowed to give out any details, though perhaps some of our relatives have already learned of our location. We do get the Alumni magazine, and keep informed about some of our friends through that. We also hear from Fred Kent occasionally and he passes along names of the M.D.'s who have gone into service. It seems that some of the Vermont towns are going to be stripped rather bare of physicians before this is over, but presumably that happens in every war.

Please give our regards to Doctor Beecher, Doctor Buttles, Doctor French and any of our other friends. We would appreciate a note, if and when this letter reaches you, as some of our mail has been lost en route to the United States.

Yours sincerely,
MURRAY K. DUNSMORE '35
HOWARD J. FARMER '37
JOHN R. SIMONDS '38

It took the Maroon but a few minutes of the first period to look like the possible winner. It was the celebrated Domina that threw the touchdown pass to Chuck Miller on the six, and the latter stepped over for the only Norwich touchdown.

The touchdown drive was set up with Domina's interception of a Beaulieu pass on his own 41 yard stripe. On the next play, Dom took the ball down to the Vermont 21 yard marker, and subsequently heaved the scoring pass to Miller, and followed it up with the extra point, shoving the Kadets into the lead, 7-0.

The Green and Gold, with two minutes left to play in the second quarter, took over on Norwich's 46. Norm flipped a long one to LaPointe who weaved his way up to the 29 yard line before he was stopped by the Cadet's secondary. Johnny Reed came into the game at this point, took the pass from center, and roared through a gap in the left side of his line to carry the pigskin up to the six yard line, a run of 23 yards.

Here again the Cats were momentarily stalled, but it was the deception of Beaulieu that took the Horsemen off their guard. Calling for a field goal, Norm stepped back into position, but changed his plan, and flipped the leather into the waiting arms of Ralph LaPointe. Norm calmly booted the extra point, and the Vermont stands went wild with the score reading 7-all.

The Norwich crew surged forward again in the third quarter, driving down to the Vermont 11-yard line. Unable to run or pass another six pointer, the military got their heads together and decided to attempt a field goal. Once again it was the senior sensation, Walt Domina that was back. The flip came from center, and Domina arched the ball through the posts to set Norwich ahead, 10-7.

That was the culmination for the Cadets. From here the Catamounts rushed, passed, and generally outplayed their opponents. Beaulieu passed and ran the ball down to the Norwich six, and a first down.

Looking vainly for a pass receiver on third down, Beaulieu started to run and found a big hole which he scampered through for the winning tally.

Again the stellar performer kicked the extra point, and the Green and Gold led, 14-10. The Cats knocked again at the scoring gates late in the fourth. Having barraged the opposition with some explosive running and passing, Vermont finally gave up the ball on the Norwich 15. A bad pass from center slipped by Domina, and substitute end, Bob Pulleyn, roared in to recover on the six. A fifteen yard penalty set the Green and Gold back on its heels, however, and the gun went off with Vermont in possession of the ball.

It was a Vermont team working in close cooperation Saturday afternoon. The line was ripping holes through the Norwich defense time after time, and the secondary ran and passed Norwich dizzy.

Although LaPointe was well covered all afternoon, the former Winooski athlete, called the plays to perfection, and used the rest of the secondary and ends to good advantage.

U. V. M. Spirit Large Item

Crowd Sensed Win Despite Cadets' Airs

by Monty Kelley

Last Saturday afternoon Vermont won the football game which no one thought it could win. U. V. M. fans trooped down to Centennial Field to cheer the boys on with the hope that they could hold the Norwich powerhouse to as few touchdowns as possible. But much as they hoped and prayed for victory over the Maroon, few dreamed that the Cats would take this one. Why, Norwich had three full teams. They had the great, triple-threat Walter Domina, they had big Chuck Miller, they had Cris Zoukis, they outweighed Vermont in practically every department. But the underdog Catamounts just refused to be impressed by this awesome array. The Green and Gold proceeded to outfight, outplay, and what is more, outscore the confident Horsemen. Vermont rooters came away from the game deliriously happy for with that inspired last quarter drive for the winning touchdown, they saw, as did everyone else that Norwich pigskin supremacy in the state was smashed. The Catamounts had for the first time in four long dreary years beaten the big, bad boys from Norwich.

U. V. M. also demonstrated that the team with the most spirit and fight wins the game. Past records mean nothing. Norwich was a good, clean-playing ball club, but last Saturday U. V. M. was undoubtedly the best team on the field. Fuzzy's boys were keyed up to that pitch when nothing could stop them. The people in the stands could sense it as well as the players. Every time Norm Beaulieu faded back to throw a pass, or Chick LaPointe crossed the line of scrimmage lugging the leather on one of his swivel-hipped runs, the Vermont partisans surged to their feet almost as one man. The tension was electric. Everyone could feel that something was up, even in the first quarter when the Cadets led. The way the Cats tackled and blocked. The snap with which they came out of the huddle and shifted. The spirit of the lads as they fought from behind for a good share of the contest, all indicated that the day was to be U. V. M.'s.

Harriers Sixth In Boston Run

Hoyt Places Thirteenth As Rhode Island Wins

Boston, Monday, (Special)—Running at Franklin Park, Boston in the thirteenth annual New England Intercollegiate Cross Country meet, this afternoon, Coach Archie Post's Vermont harriers placed sixth in a field of twelve entries. Capt. Bud Hoyt was the first to cross the finish line for the Cats, placing thirteenth. Following him were Marty McLaren in twenty-sixth place, Ernie St. Mary, thirty-ninth, Len Harrington, forty-second, and freshman Frank Moran, forty-seventh. Up against some stiff competition, the Vermont team ran very well and all finished in good condition.

Rhode Island State, led by Bob Nichols, easily captured first place with the phenomenally low score of twenty-two points. Nichols leading 169 runners, covered the four and one-half mile course in 21:15, somewhat under the record of 20:38 4/5 that he established in the event last year. Two Rhode Island State teammates followed him across the line to assure the Rams, last year's winners, of a successful defense of their team title.

Deflation of Horsemen Wins Universal Favor

By Bill Styles

Never have we seen a team more surprised and completely dumbfounded than was Norwich. It was a beautiful case of absolute over-confidence playing against the inspired underdog's strong determination to win; a combination that spells an upset every time.

If nothing is ever accomplished by this win other than to put a vocal damper on the followers of the Horsemen, it can still be considered a success. We refer in particular to Rog Noden, sports writer for the Norwich Guidon who said, earlier in the season, that although LaPointe was the East's leading scorer, and Domina only third, he (Rog Noden) would still take Norwich because of its team play. He went on further to predict that when Norwich stopped LaPointe, U. V. M. would be stopped. We suggest that Mr. Noden had better retire with his sports column and Walt Domina to some secluded retreat and think up a good excuse and perhaps an apology for the insult on Vermont's dignity and intelligence.

Domina has played his last game for Norwich. He had hoped to be able to pass LaPointe in the high-scoring column, and close a brilliant career with a successful afternoon, but Vermont had other ideas and Domina, perhaps for the first time in his career, became just another halfback.

During the half we heard a remark passed in the Norwich dressing room that Vermont was just a first-half club. The fact that Norwich took the ball from Vermont only twice during the last half, ought to take care of that nasty little rumor.

Although LaPointe scored his usual touchdown, and the initial one, to be sure, his team mate, Norm Beaulieu was doing the really spectacular offensive work. Bucking the line most of the afternoon he plowed through for numerous first downs, and if the ground route wasn't open he took to the air, flinging his accurate passes to LaPointe, Barry and Kunken.

Speaking of passing, lots less of it was attempted by either team than had been expected.

Stan Keck: "I'd like to say that the Vermont boys really deserved to win. Every man on the team played a great game, and the team in general has obviously reached a peak of excellence."

Fuzzy Evans: "I've been waiting three hundred and sixty-five days for this."

When Vermont was knocking on the Norwich goal for the first time in the second quarter, the U. V. M. band rendered taps, a piece which probably summed up the Norwich feelings exactly.

Panthers Crushed By Coast Guard

While Vermont turned the tables and sent a hard-riding Norwich eleven back to Northfield licking its wounds, Middlebury likewise was patching up its ranks after absorbing a 52-0 defeat at the hands of the Coast Guard.

The Seamen could not be stopped as they rolled on their way against the Panther team, comprised mostly of reserves. The Academy scored two touchdowns in eight minutes to set off the powerhouse drive.

To date the Blue and White has not chalked up a win on their record books, although they'll be set to knock off the Cats who are eyeing the state title.

Cagers Stress Fundamentals

Sharpen Ball-Handling In Informal Practices

Basketball isn't here as yet by any means, but with the last football game of the current year coming up this week-end, it won't be long before the Green and Gold courtmen will be going into action. Led by veteran Capt. Bob Doherty, and boasting several veterans of last year's successful squad the Catamount basketeers are looking forward to a big season.

For the last week the lads have been working out at the gym every night in preparation for formal practice which gets under way next week under Coach Fuzzy Evans. No actual scrimmages have taken place as yet, but drills stressing ball-handling and passing have been used. The cagers are also getting their eye on the hoop, and should be really dunking them through the net when Coach Evans starts looking them over on November 16.

Last year's varsity remainders, Larry Killick, Bob Doherty, and Milt Kaufman have been showing their familiar court savvy, as have Tommy Clairmont, Reno Conti, Jerry Didinsky, Gil Manheim, and Bob Bennett, reserves of last season. Two frosh who are showing great promise are Al Johnson former standout at Newton (Mass.) High School, and George Henderson, one of the best hoopsters ever to emerge from Pittsfield High in that same state.

When the gridiron season ends, other candidates will report and Fuzzy should find plenty of talent to fill his varsity squad of 15 men.

Grid Finalists Meet Tomorrow

Kappa Sigs, TEPs Clash In Interfrat Play off

The first half of the championship touch football game will be played tomorrow on the back campus. The second half of the game will be played Friday afternoon. The game is divided into two halves, with each team having 40 plays per half. Intramural Director Archie Post, and the team captains decided that darkness would prevail long before the second half was under way if the game was played on one afternoon. The solution was solved when two dates were set, on which the game would be played.

The encounter, between these two teams promises to be a real battle all the way. Strangely enough, the TEPs and the KSs met last year in the championship game, and the TEPs came out on the long half of the score to defeat the scrappy KSs. This year the KSs are gunning to wipe the slate clean by upsetting the defending champions.

Both teams, this season, have completed an impressive string of victories. Improving with each contest, the TEPs and Kappa Sigs easily bowled over their weaker opponents and now the time has come for these two top flighters to clash in their biggest game of the season.

The Kappa Sigs, have been sparked all season by "Speedy Reno" Conti, and basketballer Larry Killick. Their line has been outstanding in their play all season, affording good offensive and defensive tactics, a necessary element in the ultimate success of any ball club. The KSs have had a varied strategy, employing both an aerial and a ground attack to ring the bell all season. Reno Conti, has been spectacular in some of his side line jaunts, and undoubtedly he will be a key man in the looming championship game.

The TEPs have proven themselves real champions by virtue of their undefeated record, this year, they have flashed a "razzle dazzle" style of football that has paid dividends. Two fellows by the names of Strayman and Abrahams, promise to make it tough for the KSs to upset the champions. The TEPs play a wide open game, plenty of hard running, scores of passes, and all the rest. The TEPs are out to win, they've proven that they are not merely a passing flash, any team that beats them, can consider themselves, a better than average club.

The officials for this contest will be those efficient, judicial gentlemen—Armand Cognetta, "Luke" Hamlin and Mal Micher.

The Independents will hold a dance Saturday evening, November 14, in the Cafeteria. The Catamounts will play fom 8.00 to 12.00. Admission 55c.

Sorority Notes

PI BETA PHI

Julie Fletcher, Betty Farnsworth, and Jean Hotchkiss attended the Middlebury game last Saturday while Alma Gaylord and Mary Beth Davis journeyed to Northfield for the Norwich game.

Janet Hackwell spent the past week-end in Montpelier.

Loraine Guild and Connie Pratt went to Dartmouth for the week-end.

Patty Page and Jean Sprague have formed a new "Frozen Asset Club."

A birthday breakfast was held for Carol Provost on November 1.

ALPHA CHI OMEGA

The new pledges were duly initiated into sorority life Monday evening when they took charge of the removal of the hay rake from the Alpha Chi front porch. They also were willing participants in a serenade of the Kappa Sigs the same evening.

ALPHA XI DELTA

Alpha Xi Delta announces the pledging of Janet Hartung '46.

Natalie Spear is expecting Lieut. Simpson as a week-end guest. Lieutenant Simpson graduated from U. V. M. in 1941.

Rita Shea returned from Nashua, N. H. where she spent last week.

There will be Open House on Saturday for the friends of the sorority and alumni, from 4.00 to 5.00 p.m.

SIGMA GAMMA

Dorothy Franklin and Lucille White returned Monday from a week-end at Dartmouth. Dottie favors having a course in Criminology introduced at U. V. M., à la Dartmouth. Suggestions for same may be dropped into the milk bottle at Baileys.

Sigma Gamma denies the pledging of Dorothy Thornton on Monday evening. Dottie merely came of age.

Lieutenant Lipsky Reported To Be in German Hands

Lt. Clarence Lipsky, graduate of U. V. M. in 1939, is reported to be a prisoner in the hands of the Germans. The ace flying fortress pilot has been missing for more than a month after action over enemy territory. For his brilliant handling of a disabled fortress, he was recently awarded the Distinguished Flying Medal. While at U. V. M. Lieutenant Lipsky was quite active in student affairs, being a member of Gold Key, Key and Serpent, and holding military honors.

Ladies of Faculty Sponsor Thrift Shop Sewing Room

All Clothes On Sale At Reduced Prices; Help on Alterations

A new project opens this week on the University campus in which all University women will be interested.

It is sponsored by the Ladies of the Faculty as their particular service program for 1942-43, and it is called the Thrift Shop.

The Thrift Shop is located in the locker room off the north corridor near the Dean's offices, and it is open regularly on Friday afternoons from 2.30 to 4.30 and at other times by request.

The Thrift Shop is furnished with a sewing machine, cutting table, ironing board, and electric iron, sewing materials and all the essential equipment for simple dressmaking. There are collected the second-hand clothes which each year are donated by faculty women, former students and friends, both in Burlington and elsewhere, who realize the small amount of money many of us have for clothes and are glad to pass on hats, shoes, coats, evening dresses, sweaters, etc., in the hope that some one may be able to make use of them.

Advice from Faculty

Heretofore, these things have been received by house directors, faculty women or by the Dean of Women, and whenever some individual need came to their attention, it was met if possible from these supplies. However, much of what came in required complete renovation and remodeling to be of use, and as no one was available to advise the girls how to do this, much good material was wasted.

The Ladies of the Faculty have now worked out a scheme, modeled on that successfully operated in other colleges, by which a volunteer committee of faculty wives are to be in charge of the Thrift Shop which will be open at stated hours each week. At these times any woman student may come for advice and help with her clothes problems and may have the use of the sewing equipment which is provided.

All the second-hand clothing will be sorted and valued by this committee who will attach tags indicating the price of each garment. The prices are very moderate, such as 25c for a sweater, or a pair of evening shoes, and from 50c to $1.50 or even $3.00 for a good wool coat or an evening dress in very good condition. Girls may bring in clothing which they wish to have sold or may select something which they need from the rack and have advice or help in refitting or remodeling what they have chosen. The funds realized from these sales will be used to buy thread, buttons, and small equipment. A small appropriation from the Ladies of the Faculty, matched by an appropriation by Mortar Board, plus donations from interested friends have provided the furnishings and equipment now in the Shop.

Sewing Machine Available

Any girl who wishes to have the use of the sewing machine to run up a skirt, hem her curtains, or make a costume may get the key to the Thrift Shop at any time between the hours of 9.00 a.m. to 3.00 p.m. from the Office of the Dean of Women.

Mrs. Ernest Braun, Mrs. Fraleigh, and Mrs. Carroll are the Thrift Shop Committee, and one or more of the committee will be on hand each Friday afternoon to receive and distribute clothing, give advice, and provide any needed service in connection with the project.

At present there are evening dresses, wraps, shoes, sweaters, hats, etc., on hand; and it is the hope of the sponsors of the project that, as part of our war effort, the girls will avail themselves of this opportunity to save money. This is not in any sense a charity. It is a service designed to save waste and to make good use of what is available. It is also a chance to learn how to make your clothes more up-to-date and attractive without ruining your budget.

Entire Student Body to Journey To Middlebury for Final Game

Gold Key Making Efforts to Obtain Special Coaches for U. V. M. Rooters

By PHIL ROBINSON

A Vermont cheering section 1,000 strong may be in evidence at Porter's Field tomorrow, with Gold Key Society making efforts to transport every U. V. M. student to Middlebury. With driving heavily curtailed, special trains will carry scores of Catamount rooters downstate to watch Fuzzy Evans' favored eleven go after the state championship.

Vermont will have a two-fold motive when they face off against Middlebury tomorrow.

The first will be to thrash their traditional down-state rival into submission, and the second will be to roll up their first undisputed state championship since 1938.

In 1939, Norwich and Vermont both trounced the Panthers, and ended up in 0-0 tie to divide state honors.

If seasonal averages can be any criterion, the Green and Gold should pound out a decision over the Blue of Middlebury.

The Middmen have looked far from impressive so far this season, having dropped seven games in as many starts, which is another way of running a footrace backwards.

While Middlebury has been chalking up this record, including a 31-6 lacing from Norwich, the Cats are riding on a

Four Debaters Go to Dartmouth For Tournament

Annual Contest of Varsity Debaters to Discuss Indian Problem

The University of Vermont will send four debaters to the annual Dartmouth College Varsity Debate Tournament which will be held November 20 and 21.

Debating manager Daan Zwick '43, John Felopulos '44, Bob Norton '44, and Dave Wheeler '45, will defend U. V. M.'s mastery in debating against Middlebury, Yale, Vassar, Colgate, New Hampshire, Holy Cross, Bates and Dartmouth. Our four debaters will be split up into two teams, one taking the affiirmative and the other the negative of the question; "Resolved: That the following plan, if adopted would provide a substantial improvement in the Indian problem . . . " The statement has to be completed by the affirmative.

Since the position of the affirmative will not be known before the debate, the negative team must have a very thorough knowledge of the Indian problem. The task of the affirmative is not much easier, however. It will face at least four different teams during the tournament and since the matter of surprise is very valuable, it will have to work out more than one plan of attack.

In addition to the regular tournament, every college will have one of its debaters participate in the Extemporaneous Speaking Contest. The topic of the speech will be revealed only a few hours before the actual contest starts.

It can readily be seen that the assignment of our debaters is a very tough one, but with veterans like Zwick, Norton, and Felopulos together with the very promising Wheeler, Vermont should not find it too difficult to maintain its exalted position in the Collegiate world of debating.

Alumni Turn Out For University Open House

The alumni turn-out at the University's open house was surprising considering the fact that invitations were not sent out on account of transportation difficulties. Eighty alumni registered in the Waterman Building alone. The following former Vermont athletes visited the athletic office: John Rogers, Francis Kirley, Edward Jacobson, Allen White, Roger Hunting, Jack T. Prior, Stillman G. Davis, Jr., Frank Pires, Leroy Bingham, Charles Webster, Fredrick Webster, Henry Helberg, Aaron Levine, Donald W. Maley.

Student Gov't Suggestion Box

Will Collect Ideas From Student Body

At the meeting of the officers' and executive board of the Student Government held November 10, it was suggested by the president and agreed upon by all that a Question Box should be set up for the collection of suggestions and ideas from the student body concerning the Student Government. This box will appear in some prominent spot in the Waterman Building within the next few days.

Many students may have suggestions for improvement of the general student movement set-up or criticism (constructive or otherwise!) concerning the management or execution of its programs.

The Question Box—perhaps better termed a Criticism Box or Suggestion Box—will offer all students an excellent opportunity to participate in their student government. The statements or questions may be written or printed on any size paper, on either or both sides, in ink or in pencil—legibility is the sole requirement! The suggestions need not be signed.

Here, then, is an ideal chance for every student to air his personal opinion or to get that pet gripe off his chest. Many responses will be indicative of a growing school spirit.

The Goodrich Cassical Club will meet at Southwick, Tuesday evening, November 17. Professor Kidder is in charge of the program.

Anselmo Recital; Professor Bennett Heard in Southwick

Wednesday evening, November 11 a large crowd gathered at Southwick to hear a recital by Michael Anselmo, violinist and Howard Bennett, pianist. This concert presented by the Department of Music of U. V. M. was the annual violin recital of Michael Anselmo. The program was as follows:

Fall Murder Play Next Friday Night

10 Students to Unfold Detected Crime Plot

On Friday evening, November 20, at Southwick, the local and college communities will see the annual fall production of the University Players, "A Murder Has Been Arranged," under the direction of Mrs. Wilnetta Sproul Taggart, who has directed many other dramatic successes in the past.

"A Murder Has Been Arranged" is an exciting mystery play. The crime is committed right before the eyes of the audience, so that the usual element of mystery which pervades a play of this sort is not present. The play is very original and absorbing.

Emlyn Williams, the author, has instilled into the play an intangible element of mystery and apprehension. Blessed with originality, "Murder Has Been Arranged," is a drama of absorbing interest; a "spooky" feeling surcharges the atmosphere.

President of the newly-organized Dramatic Club is Wendell Harvey, a former member of the University Players which is now the nucleus of the club. It was this new group which directed and presented the two group plays some weeks ago.

The cast includes many students whose reputations as actors and actresses have already been well established on campus. Bernice Lieberman '45, as Miss Graze, Wendell Harvey '43, President of the Dramatic Club, as Cavendish, Janet Hackwell '43, Sylvia Wellwood '44 as Mrs. Arthur, and Franklin Fowler '43, who plays the role of Sir Charles Jasper, have all played in major college plays, and Mervyn Morgan '46, as Maurice Mullins, and Maurice "Monty" Kelly '46, as Jimmy North, both gained recognition for their excellent first performances in the one-act plays produced last month. Two new faces will be seen on the Southwick stage, with Olga Schoelles '46, in the role of Mrs. Wragg, and Jean Vogler '44, as a mysterious beautiful woman.

"A Murder Has Been Arranged" has all the promise of being one of Mrs. Taggart's usual successes. Don't forget Friday, November 20, at Southwick!

Student Elections Coming Nov. 20

Suggestion Box to Be Placed in Cafeteria

At a regular meeting on Tuesday, November 10, at 4.15, the minutes of the last meeting were read and approved and the roll call of officers and executive committeemen read.

There were no individual committee reports beyond that of the success of the Bean Supper which was organized by the Pep Committee.

Nominations were made to fill the vacancy left by Janet Dike Rood, ex-'43 Vice-President.

The following names were proposed:

George Little, Jr. '43
Natalie Spear '43

The following four names compose the slate to replace Wayne Dudley ex-'43, as a senior member of the Executive Committee:

John W. Williams '43
Wendall Harvey '43
Daan Zwick '43
Frank Swift '43

Balloting the Vice-President and Executive Committee member will take place on Friday, November 20, in the Waterman cafeteria from 8.30 to 5.00 o'clock. Any additional nominations for the two offices may be made by petition of 50 or more students, such petition to be presented to any one of the officers of Student Government on or before Wednesday, November 18.

The final business of the meeting was the passing of a motion to establish a suggestion box in the Waterman cafeteria for criticisms and suggestions by the students of the U. V. M. Student Government. The meeting was adjourned after the announcement that the next meeting will take place on Tuesday, November 17 at 4.15 in 115 Waterman.

Respectfully submitted,
MARILYN L. EIMER,
Secretary.

Tel. and Tel. Talk For Engineers

Word has been received by the Engineering College of the University of Vermont that a representative of the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation, with offices at 67 Broad Street, New York City, will be at the University on Tuesday, November 17, for the purpose of interviewing engineering school graduates and upper classmen.

According to Dean Geo. F. Eckhard of the Engineering College, positions will be open for chemists in radio transmitting tube, in rectifier engineering and manufacturing; for chemical engineers in radio frequency cable engineering and manufacturing; and for electrical engineers in export sales, laboratory research, telephone operating engineering (Latin America) radio frequency cable, radio, rectifier, transformer, telephone, carrier, and repeater engineering and manufacturing.

Industrial engineers are wanted for radio, radio frequency cable, telephone carrier and repeater engineering and manufacturing; machenical engineers for radio, rectifier, transformer, carrier, repeater telephone engineering and manufacturing; physicists for general engineering, radio frequency cable, rectifier and transformer engineering.

Some of these positions may be filled by women, says Dean Eckhard, and anyone interested should make an appointment for an interview by calling at the engineering office, room 102 in the Waterman Building, or by telephoning 5,000-ext. 352.

In this connection Dean Eckhard adds

Kappa Sigs See Ration Board To Get Cane to Raise Sat. Nite

Just once every year comes the Bowery Brawl.
That Kappa Sig function, the best of them all;
When History, Ethics and Home Economics;
Math, Psychology, French, Electronics,
Cow Care, Pitchfork, Industrial Geography,
Give way to a night of East Side choreography.
The house dimly lit with candles all flickery,
Bobs with shadows of each pseudo Terpsichore.
No polka, no schottische, no two-step mazurka;
No old fashioned hoofing or Gay Nineties jerker,
But plenty of rumba, not to mention La Conga,
Learned in six easy lessons from Madame La Zonga,
The Can Can and others, even La Cucaracha,
Make one tingle in places not easy to scratch-a.
For hours it goes on with the music's wild surge
As the dancers respond to its rhymthical urge.
The gals, God bless 'em, can get over the hurdles,
Having checked at the door their restraining girdles.
And so, like all things, it must come to an end.
They'll sleep late on Sunday. No class to attend.
There's the usual session of "Good Night" barrages,
Then the Brawlers all flop in their carcass garages,
To dream of the evening with memories so dear,
But thanking the gods there's just one Brawl each year.

In other words, Kappa Sigma will hold its annual Bowery Brawl, Saturday night, as a climax to the Middlebury game. Co-chairmen, "Tampie" Alberghini and "Donna" Manjoney, have plans that border on the extravaganza. They have "Cecil B." Harvey and the veteran "Nickolai" Bottiglieri engaged as bartenders. Entertainment will be furnished by the pledges, featuring Thatch Knight and his Floradora Girls.

Due to restrictions imposed by the Fire Marshals, admission will be by invitation only!

Health Council Open Meeting, Dessert Hour

What's this?—A "Social" Hour next Thursday?

Yes, the Health Council is sponsoring a "Social" with dessert served on November 19, at 8.00 at Southwick. Marjorie Anthony is in charge of the dessert, followed by a business meeting and entertainment by local talent. There is a charge of fifteen cents.

Girls—you are all urged to attend and the women of the faculty are cordially invited.

The Official Student Newspaper of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College

VOL. 61 NOVEMBER 13, 1942 NO. 16

Upon picking up a copy of a recent McGill Daily the other day we were amazed to discover that they were quite unkindly picking on our CYNIC.

Since the Daily seems to hold the heaven-bestowed power of offering gravest criticism of other college papers and since we feel that it is not an old Vermont custom to take things sitting down, we shall attempt a little retaliation.

The Daily's criticism appeared in a column labeled Keynotes which consisted mainly of the columnist's compliments and criticisms of a number of college papers. This anonymous person has the rancor and presumption to comment on several papers then conclude that the McGill Daily is still tops in college journalism.

Quote the Daily: "The Vermont CYNIC intrigues us with its name and then disappoints us by being completely uncynical. Maybe that's because cynicism would necessarily be editorial comment which is strictly taboo in any news story worth the paper it's printed on.

"We'll continue this general review of all college papers we receive next week, but confidentially, we think the McGill Daily is still tops in college journalism."

Evidently the Daily believes that since we of the present CYNIC have inherited this title we must adhere to it very rigidly, this is merely the title of the paper since 1883 and we had nothing whatsoever to do with choosing the title or forming the editorial policy. We did not inherit a cynical policy from any editors within our college memory (3 years) nor even if we did would we necessarily maintain such a policy. The argument given by our caustic Canadian neighbor is equally as foolish as expecting the Detroit Free Press to give away each issue free of charge and for the Baltimore Sun to come out only on sunny days.

To top it off the Daily admits that on rare (?) occasions jokes appear twice in the same issue of their paper. We have also noticed jokes and fairly long stories twice and even more times in the beloved Daily. Certainly in the future a glance at the self picked, so called tops in college journalism will bring forth a little more cynicism from our CYNIC.

Fraternity Notes

TAU EPSILON PHI

Seymour Magnus left school Tuesday with the expectation of joining the Army soon.

Bill Lederman beat Harold Stroyman, defending champ of the house, in ping pong.

The boys would like to know whether anyone might have a buck for Felsie. (That is, if they ever want to see him again.)

ALPHA TAU OMEGA

R. "Scrungy" Darling '43, and Thomas Alvin "Firty" McCormick '43, were unable to attend the Delta Psi-ATO touch football game on account of love affairs. No wonder we lost the game!

"Scat" Ellis was unable to play in the touch football game having gone on a week-end trip to Montreal. Tut, tut!

Michael "Aristotle" Spylios, '45, spent the week-end at Norwich.

Pete Kadzis '46, has been called to his home at North Brighton, Massachusetts, by the sudden death of his mother. It is not certain if he will return to school.

Manager George "Trenchy" Stanley is making plans for future intramural sports.

It seems that Walter "Pinocchio" Dorian is having a wonderful vacation for the short time he will be here, until the draft catches up with him. This week-end he came up with a "slight cold." Odd, isn't it?

Bob Stanley has already auditioned for Harry James as a trumpeter.

Phil Chesarone is spending quite some time in Charlotte. Let us in on it, Phil!

Frank "Sugar" Sugrue spent a wonderful week-end at home in Waterbury, Connecticut, but was disappointed in the long train ride back. However, he expects to be in condition to play in the game Saturday.

Sully Sullavin, Jackie Frazier, and John Early expect to make their debut at the tea dance on Saturday.

Scat Ellis is also expected to be there with his prize package.

PHI SIGMA DELTA

A tea dance chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Haller, was enjoyed by a majority of the fraters and their dates.

Bernie Glass, now at B. U. was up for the week end and visited the house, among other things.

"Bet-A-Million" Feldman paid off a wager Sunday with a pound of flesh, the flesh, in this case, was in the form of a Park Café steak.

Half a keg of sweet cider, now hardening was reported missing after Saturday's dance. Norm Seltzer has been receiving a select group of fraters secretly.

PHI DELTA THETA

Chief Flynn is wearing his own coat again.

Graves' bomber made a forced landing in Ivanhoe Smith's.

Don Nutter was caught studying history but wouldn't admit it.

Bill Murray is busting his buttons with pride over his new "gold brick" sport coat.

Has anyone seen Towhead Lyerly's fraternity pin?

A fashion display of "Doctor Denton's" was seen prior to the parade on November 11.

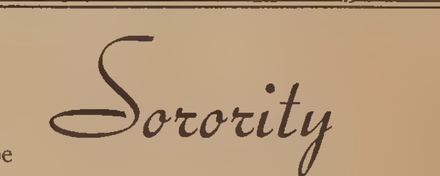

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON

Vermont Beta of Sigma Alpha Epsilon announces the formal pledging of the following men: Atkins King '46, Charles Holt '46, James Crowley '46, Raymond Massucco '46, Leanard Lisai '46, Donald Farrington '46.

Home Ec - Aggie Party November Thirteenth

The Home Ec.-Aggie Party will be held in the ballroom from 8 to 11 p.m. on Friday, November 13.

On Tuesday, November 17, W. A. A. will meet in their own room at 7.30. The Classical Club also convenes on Tuesday. Its meeting will be held in the south lounge at 7.45.

Other events at Southwick next week are: International Relations Club in the north lounge at 7.30 on Wednesday, Health Council Dessert Hour in the ballroom at 8.00 on Thursday, and the Fall Play on Friday.

"We Like Our Beauty Sleep"

What is the opinion of the U. V. M. students concerning the recent change of classes to one-half hour later than the former time? As might be expected, views on this subject vary from strong enthusiasm through indifference to quite antagonistic attitudes. By making a survey of opinion, we have obtained from the students definite information which we shall here present. The following opinions are among those obtained:

Patty Page—"Frankly, I like it. The morning seems longer and the afternoon shorter but it's so much nicer to get up when it's light than when it looks like midnight outside."

Pam Frabotta—"I sure like it. Why? SLEEP!!!"

Jacob Katz—"I'm more or less indifferent with slight inclination against the change. Under the new system I sleep a half hour longer and that's a half hour wasted."

Cliff Joseph—"It's all the same to me except that I have an extra half hour in the mornings now to work in the chemistry laboratory."

June Hoffman—"I'm all for it. I get to sleep a half hour longer and I don't have to go to work so soon in the afternoon."

Monk Martin—"O. K. by me—I have no last hour classes and I get a kick out of seeing the others going until one."

Diana Charles — "I always get hungry before dinner time now, but I do get more sleep. I guess it all depends on which you like to do better—eat or sleep."

Reno Conti—"Wonderful! I don't have to get up so early and can eat a bigger breakfast."

Melvin and Earnie—"We like it. It gives us more time to wash our breakfast dishes."

NOTICE

The Community Concert Association announces the following dates for its Burlington concerts:

Arthur LeBlanc, November 18
Witold Malcuzynski, December 4
Marriage of Figaro, January 14
Bruna Castagna, April 5

All concerts are to be given in City Hall Auditorium at 8.15 p.m.

The Independents will hold a dance Saturday evening, November 14, in the Cafeteria. The Catamounts will play fom 8.00 to 12.00. Admission 55c.

Sunday, November 15, Vesper Service, conducted by students under chairmanship of Penelope Easton of Y. W. C. A., University Choir assisting.

Sorority Notes

KAPPA ALPHA THETA

Dotty Emerson England '41 and Lieut. Bob England passed chocolates at the meeting to announce their marriage. Mrs. England is in Cambridge now, while her husband is on duty in Texas.

June Swanson '42, of Schenectady, New York came up for the week-end to see the big game.

Dee Welsh '43, has gone home to Albany, N. Y., where she will undergo an operation on her foot.

Nancy S. Fawcett was visited by her parents and two dogs who came up for the week-end.

DELTA DELTA DELTA

The Tri Delta House was a busy place this week-end, with its house guests: Lucille Clark '42, Gail Klinger '42, Catherine Peterson '42, and Barbara M. Burns ex-'43. Also in town this week-end, but not staying at the House, were Jean Brehmer '40, and Ann Remington Boyden ex-'44.

Danny Geer '44, went home for the week-end.

Honoring the new pledges, the Tri Delts held a Tea Dance. The house was decorated in keeping with the season, many football pennants were in evidence, and miniature football players. The chaperones were Prof. and Mrs. Leon Dean, and Mrs. B. F. Wells.

With tears in her eyes, Peggy Flint '43, moved to the Home Management House. She evidently regrets having to leave her sleeping quarters on the back porch.

Vespers to Be Given By Y. W. C. A. and V. C. A.

This Sunday afternoon, Nov. 15, there will be a Vespers Service held in the Ira Allen Chapel at 4 p.m. The service will be conducted by the students who are members of the Y. W. C. A. and the V. C. A. and the University choir will take part. The worship service will be built around the hymn "Finlandia" by Sibelius entitled "We Would be Building." There are to be two readers, Barbara Powers of the Y. W. C. A. and Wendell Harvey of the V. C. A., who will read in alternation the meditations on the theme of building the ideal church. Solo voices from the choir will supplement the reading.

DANCING CLASS

Sophomore Aides report that there are 12 vacancies for girls in the dancing class which meets at Southwick every Wednesday from 7.15 to 8.00. It is hoped that next Wednesday these vacancies will be filled so that the girls may soon combine with the boys who are now meeting from 8.00 to 8.45 on the same night.

Kadzis Returns to Backfield for Title Clash

The Locker Room ● ● By Bill Roeder

Hey, whaddaya read?

A Norwich man with a sense of humor sent us a copy of the latest 'Guidon,' the Beat Vermont issue, in which exception was taken to some recent well-meant remarks from this corner. We are reminded of several faults in our mental make-up, deficiencies easily recognized but heretofore unpublicized.

But all is forgiven, Norwich. Who are we to harbor a grudge? After all, you tried hard. You brought your team up here, and, in the face of all but insurmountable odds, you scored on Vermont. You scored twice, or once and a half, anyway. In fact, ridiculously enough, you made a close game of what should have been a complete, unqualified rout.

Why, your athletes played over their heads. They held Vermont to two touchdowns, only one by LaPointe. They caught fire in a first half from which the Catamounts could extract no more than a 7 to 7 deadlock. They staved off repeated scoring thrusts in the late minutes of the last half. They allowed Beaulieu to succeed with only seven forward passes, and they even completed two of their own. And certainly under-confidence didn't beat them.

All in all, Norwich, you proved yourself the second-best ball club in the state, not counting high schools.

Bury Middlebury

On the basis of Middlebury's game with Coast Guard, Vermont figures to win tomorrow by at least sixty-three points. But, as they say, you can throw comparative scores out the window, if there's one handy. This advice applies especially to such games as Army-Navy, Yale-Harvard, Michigan-Minnesota, and Vermont-Middlebury. (Are we kidding?)

The battered Blue and White, roundly cuffed by every opponent it has met, lodges in somewhat the same position as the Catamounts of a week ago. Middlebury can lose nothing in defeat tomorrow. By winning, however, the Panthers would nullify Vermont's thrashing of Norwich, turn the state series into a farce, and complete a successful Middlebury season.

To achieve such a shambles would obviously gratify Coach Sam Guarnaccia. He is building up to Vermont just as Fuzzy Evans built up to Norwich. Just before each of his first five games, Fuzz told the boys that he'd like to see them win: "But remember, we've still got Norwich ahead of us." Last week Guarnaccia conceded his game to the Coast Guard and withheld his regulars from play, storing them up for action tomorrow.

This ought to make things interesting. But, while Vermont is favored, we entertain no fears of overconfidence in the Catamounts. The folly of such a disposition made itself evident on Centennial field last week.

Aside: We can't lose.

Catamounts Choice Over Middlebury

Cat-Panther Grid Record

When the Cats face off against Middlebury tomorrow, they will be out after their 20th victory. Since the opening of gridiron campaigns between the two schools in 1897, Vermont has piled up 19 wins against Midd's 13, and the two have pulled four ties out of the fire.

Here's the record:

Blue Seeks First Win In Year's Closing Tilt

500 percentage wave, having tripped the Horsemen 14-10 last week-end.

Pete Kadzis will be back in at fullback for Vermont, and Monk Martin will shift back to quarterback slot, leaving the team's two greats, Norm Beaulieu and Ralph LaPointe at half back spots.

Vermont will be in top shape when they romp on Porter Field tomorrow afternoon. Harry Parker appears to be the only man that will not get the go ahead signal for the opening kickoff. Parker, who is suffering from an undiagnosed side trouble, will be replaced by Len Kunken.

Red Murphy, a lad who gained his share of favor with the fans and coaches against Mass. State, will be ready to do some heavy relief work if necessary, having fully recovered from a painful leg injury.

Middlebury played most of its reserves against powerful Coast Guard last week, and will produce an array of first string material against the Cats with the exception of Tom Rooney, ace right half back. Bob Zaumseil, a sophomore who started at fullback against Connecticut three weeks ago, will shift into Rooney's position.

The Panthers would like nothing better than to knock the Cats off their stride, and thus send the state gridiron championship into a three-way tie. Coach Sam Guarnaccia has been tutoring his charges through some hard blocking and tackling these past afternoons, and has topped of the sessions with drills under the lights and board talks.

If La Pointe has a field day against Middlebury he'll have a chance to boost his national scoring record, and possibly pull himself up the ladder from his present fifth place position.

Tomorrow will be the farewell appearance for two sets of co-captains. With new leaders selected shortly before game time, Phil Chesarone and Bill Benoit will call it quits. Both Vermont captains have been four-year men, and have really proved their prowess in the line this season, especially in the dramatic upset of Norwich last week-end.

It will also be the final curtain call for Middlebury's two captains, Earl Bishop and Bob Adsit. Both these lads are likewise four-year men, and have been the main cogs in the Panther machine.

Adsit has been watching most of the games from the bench this season because of injuries and will definitely not see action against the Green and Gold. Bishop, who has likewise been put out of action several times in his four year career due to injuries, will start tomorrow.

Last week's sad exhibition against a powerful Coast Guard outfit proved to Coach Andy Guarnaccia that he had some potent reserve material in his ranks. A lot of this second string will see at least limited service in the season's finale on the state grid card.

Fuzzy Evans and crew will depart from the Queen City during mid-morning, and arrive in Middlebury in time for a short session on Porter field before hostilities, slated for 1.45, begin.

Hundreds of students, including band and student pressmen will be making the trip via special train and autos. The game will be broadcast by station WDEV, Waterbury, the second Vermont game to be heard over the air this season.

Probable starting lineup:

Middlebury		Vermont
Pepin	le	Barry
Reuman	lt	Walgren
Vom Orde or Thompson	lg	Eddy

18 Harriers Go To Middlebury

Postmen Rated Even With Panther Runners

By Bill Styles

Winners in two of its three contests and holder of the sixth place spot in the New England Intercollegiate Cross Country Meet, the University of Vermont cross country team, defending Vermont state champions, headed by Capt. Bud Hoyt, left this morning for Middlebury, where it will attempt to hold its title against the Blue and White. Coach Archie Post took with him an 18-man squad and the two managers, Ray Pestle and Bob Bickford.

A long standing precedent is being broken by running the race on Friday afternoon. In the past there have been two races, the varsity race and a preliminary run between the two freshman teams. These were usually run on the morning of the traditional Vermont-Middlebury football game, but to avoid congestion have been changed to Friday afternoon. Also it was Middlebury Coach Brown's intention to continue with two races this year, running seven men in the varsity race and the rest in a jayvee run, but he lacked a sufficient number of men to run in both, so one big race will be held. The entire squad will be the guests of Middlebury College at the game Saturday afternoon.

Panther Strong

Middlebury is boasting a fairly strong team this year, that beat Williams by the same score as Vermont did, but lost to Union by a perfect score, 40-15, which means that against Union, Middlebury couldn't get a man into the first five places, whereas Vermont was able to place men first and third. Even though Vermont seems to have a definite edge, a very close race is expected.

The team seems to be in good shape and ready for the run, with the exception of freshman Bob Morrison, whose feet went bad on him in the Boston race. Johnny Corliss has recovered from the foot trouble that kept him out of the Boston race and is all set to go.

Coach Post was well pleased with the results of Monday's meet at Boston, where the Green and Gold was up against some really stiff competition in Rhode Island, Northeastern and Springfield. The runners bunched themselves fairly well, and Frank Moran '46, running in his first varsity race, did very well in placing forty-seventh. His running will be something for Coach Post to look forward to next season, and possibly this spring on the track team.

Athletic Office Loses Miss Sheeran to Service

Popular Staff Member To Enter Women's Navy

The University of Vermont is losing one of its most familiar and best liked personalities to the armed forces. Tomorrow Miss Margaret Sheeran, for the past 12 years Administrative Secretary of the Athletic Association, leaves to join Uncle Sam's forces. She will be a member of the Women's Reserve of the United States Navy. Sworn in on October 3, Miss Sheeran will journey to Stillwater, Okla., where at the Yeoman's School she will receive her basic training. Her absence will be hard felt by the Athletic Association and the many persons with whom she has been associated on this campus.

The youngest daughter of the late Peter and Ellen Birney Sheeran, of this city, Miss Sheeran came to the University as Ad. Secy. in 1930. A great sports fan her position has always interested her. Although her favorite sports are football and track she has been a loyal and constant supporter of all Catamount teams, sticking with them through victory and defeat. She can list as her intimate acquaintances many U. V. M. greats who have made history on gridiron, diamond, cinder track, and basketball court. Among these are the incomparable Frankie Taylor, greatest athlete in Vermont history, Bud Budzyna, baseball captain, football standout, and hexathlon champion of a few seasons back, Boots Lawrence, gridiron standout now in the South Seas, Maj. Walker Robinson, Johnny Spasyk, last year's football captain, and Harry Noyes, manager of football now in Australia, just to mention a few. She is also a first name acquaintance of numerous college referees and umpires throughout this district and can list among her friends practically every college athletic official in New England.

Miss Sheeran has a large cabinet of curios accumulated during her sojourn here at U. V. M. Swords, cups, a large set of carved elephants, banners, and many other trophies, are reminders of her work with various athletic teams of the University. Each year on their return from the annual Southern trip, the baseball squad has presented her with a souvenir of the trip. These include the insignia of almost every school played on the yearly trip, her most treasured being those of the United States Naval and Military Academies.

Miss Sheeran's favorite hobby, outside the field of University athletics is horseback riding. She is also an experienced track official, the only feminine one to our knowledge in this section of the country.

The gap left by Miss Sheeran's entry into the WAVES, will be filled by Walter Gage of Burlington, formerly a U. V. M. student and manager here at school.

Frat Basketballers In Two Leagues

Intramural director, Archie Post, revealed today that in or around Dec. 1, an interfraternity basketball league would begin. In keeping with the all out effort for physical fitness, each fraternity will field two teams for league play. The top eight or ten men, of each fraternity team will be placed in the A-B league—to compete with teams of equal strength. The remaining men in each fraternity will be classed in the XY league, which is comprised of teams of less experienced men. The purpose of the two-fold league is to permit each and every man to compete in real basketball if he so desires. The basketball league, unlike football, will be a round robin affair with each team having a chance to play every other team in the league.

KS Gridders Lead in Finals

TEPs Trail at Half, 34-7, In Interfrat Playoffs

Rumor has it that the Kappa Sigma footballers are being considered for the "Interceptor Command." In an Armistice Day classic, the first half of the championship football tussle between Kappa Sigma outfit and the defending champions, the TEP's was nothing more than an afternoon of interceptions for the mighty K. S.'s, as they routed the TEP's 34-7 to end the first half of the encounter.

Playing before a chilled group of hardy onlookers, the K. S.'s started the fireworks in the very early moments of the game, as Larry Killick intercepted a TEP pass—eluded several would-be tacklers, and then calmly stopped and rifled a pass to Stefanelli, who merely jogged across the touchdown stripe.

Then "Lefty Roy" Alberghini booted one of his "Kickoff Specials" and the Kappa Sigs held the TEP's on downs—deep in TEP territory. A few plays later—diminutive Reno Conti ran wide around his end, flipped a "basketball" pass to Killick (he's here again) who scored easily.

Again the K. S.'s kicked off. In desperation and in the shadows of the goal posts, the TEP's took to the air lanes, only to have "Joltnig Joe" Corbett intercept and wheel his way across for another tally.

Cagers Await General Call

All Jayvee Candidates To Come Out Monday

The squad of ten Vermont cagers will be substantially increased Monday when Coach Fuzzy Evans issues a general call for all candidates. It will be still further enlarged when, after a week's rest, basketball-minded football players, such as Ralph LaPointe, Norm Beaulieu, Mickey Cochran and Don Murphy, will report. All candidates are to report to jayvee coach, Sherry Fogg, and will be moved up to Evans' varsity squad if they show sufficient improvement and are needed.

This next week, practices will be held in the gym, with the varsity practicing at 5.00 and the jayvees at 7.00. A schedule is being arranged with Burlington and Cathedral high schools for the use of the Memorial Auditorium floor. Evans hopes to begin his practices on the Auditorium floor by Monday, Nov. 23.

Meanwhile, Director of Athletics, Larry Gardner, has announced a change in the schedule. St. Lawrence University cannot play on December 16 because of exams, but will be in Burlington on February 20, the afternoon of the Kake Walk. On February 16, Howard Prentiss, former U. V. M. Athletic Director, will bring his Boston Coast Guard team to Burlington for a game. Also a tentative ten-game jayvee schedule is in the making, with B. H. S., Cathedral, Green Mountain, Vermont Junior College, and the St. Michael's jayvees, listed for two games each.

Chapel Speaker on Student Life Work

Wednesday's Speaker Widely Traveled

The Rev. Ralph Douglas Hyslop who speaks in the Chapel on Wednesday, Nov. 18, is the newly-appointed Minister for Student Life for the Congregational Churches throughout the country. Mr. Hyslop was born in Idaho and is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin and the Chicago Theological Seminary. At Chicago he was awarded a Traveling Fellowship and went to Edinburgh; from there he was a representative at the World Conference of Christian Youth at Amsterdam just before the outbreak of the war.

He attended the Oxford Conference on Life and Work and the Edinburgh Conference on Faith and Order in 1937. He also attended the Conference of the World's Student Christian Federation in Bievres, France, in 1937 and the Theological Students' Conference at St. Andrew's, Scotland, in 1939.

While abroad he had unusual opportunities in Great Britain and on the Continent, to hear and meet great leaders of Christian thought; such as, William Temple, Archbishop of Canterbury and M. Boegner, leader of the French Protestants. Upon returning to America he studied at Union where he was assistant in Theology to Professor Van Duesen.

Mr. Hyslop is at the beginning of a year's work with student groups all over America and will be in Burlington beginning Sunday mornnig when he will preach in the College Street Church. After an evening engagement at Montpelier, he will spend parts of three days in Burlington and at the University. At U. V. M. he will be available for conferences with individuals and groups in addition to speaking at Chapel.

Mr. Hyslop will meet with the cabinets of the Y. W. C. A. and the V. C. A. on Tuesday, November 17, at 7.00 p.m. in Room 265 of the Waterman Building.

Four Vermonters to Attend Annual Dartmouth Varsity Debate Contest

On Friday, November 20, the University of Vermont will send four varsity debate members to the Dartmouth Varsity Debate Tournament. This tournament will begin at 4.30 p.m. on Friday and will last until around noon on Saturday. The Colleges or Universities entered are Middlebury, Yale, Vassar, Colgate, New Hampshire, Holy Cross, Bates, Columbia and Vermont.

Although each group entered will not debate against every other group, each one will have at least four debates. There will be four rounds in the tournament, and in the second round, the winning teams in the first round will probably be paired against each other. Each college will be represented by two, two-man teams; one affirmative and one negative.

The topic is: Resolved, that the following plan, if adopted, would provide a substantial improvement in the Indian problem: . . . It is agreed that the affirmative will complete this statement in the first few minutes of its first speech so that the gist of the affirmative plan is revealed. This topic was chosen because at the present time the topic of India is really an important one.

The plan of the debate is to have two ten minute constructive and two five minute rebuttal speeches for each team. At the end of each debate decisions will be given by a single critic judge, although no decisions will be announced until the end of the tournament. The judges will be visiting debate coaches, members of the Department of Public Speaking at Dartmouth, and, if necessary qualified members of the faculty at Dartmouth.

The Extemporaneous Speaking Contest which is to be held at the close of the Outing Club Luncheon at 1.00 p.m. on Saturday, is one of the highlights of the tournament. The general topic is "The Domestic War Effort of the United States." Each college will submit three topics in this field, and from these the topics to be used will be selected. In this contest there will be one member of the debating team from each college. Each contestant will draw two topics, one of which he will prepare for the five minute speech. The drawing will be held at 6.00 p.m. Friday. The decision will be by a board of qualified judges voting independently.

Dartmouth College will provide lodging for four debaters and a director. It is believed that the visiting men debaters will be lodged in fraternity houses.

The Vermont Debate team will consist of Daan Zwick, Robert Norton, John Felopulos, and Dave Wheeler.

Besides this tournament there is also the Freshman-Sophomore Debate Tournament here at the University.

Informals To Be Held Thanksgiving

On the Wednesday before Thanksgiving, several of the fraternities are going to have informal dances. The co-chairman of the Phi Delta Theta are Lou Codding and Dick Flynn. Plans are under way for the Phi Sigma Delta dance to be held at the Chapter House, with Newt Goldman in charge of the plans. His committee is composed of Malcolm Mickler, Herman Thomas, and Howard Zauder. There is the possibility of an informal dance being given by the Alpha Tau Omegas on the 25th, after their Hell Week. "Squid" Hess is making the plans for the Delta Psi dance. The Tau Epsilon Phi (TEPs) informal is in the hands of Seymour Davidoff and Leonard Kunken. The Owls (Lambda Iota) are also planning an informal for the 25th.

that of the upper class engineers now at the University, the large majority are already pledged to the armed forces or to defense industries. It is hoped that any qualified engineers, chemists or physicists in the state will avail themselves of this opportunity to join the defense services.

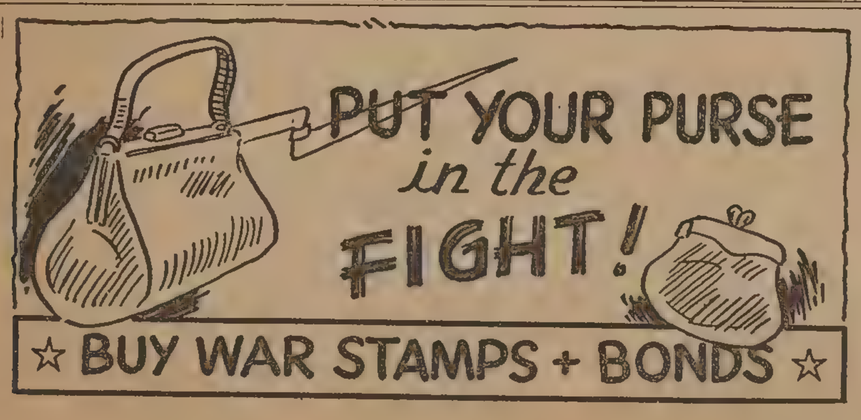

Wednesday Dancing Class

Since more girls are needed for the Wednesday night dancing classes at Southwick, those in charge have decided to admit girls who are not beginners, but would like some instruction in dancing. This invitation is extended on the assumption that the new girls will be willing to proceed at the rate of the beginners and will not come expecting to learn rumbas or congas. Next Wednesday night will be the last chance for newcomers, both boys and girls, to sign up.

Pep Rally this Friday night in preparation for the Middlebury game. It will be at 7.15 p.m. in the cage. We want all the spirit that was shown for the Norwich game.

Directors of Kake Walk Will Be Davis, Benoit and White

To the Editor of the Cynic:

The following men have been appointed by the 1942 Directors of Kake Walk to serve in the capacity of Directors for this next winter's mid-winter carnival—Wilfred Benoit, Dudley Davis and Robert White. Due to the fact Joseph Corbett and Edwin Blakely, who were previously selected, will leave or have left school, very soon, this reappointment is necessary. Both White and Davis served as alternates in the event of the absence of the three directors selected by us last February, and their appointment was brought on by Corbett's graduation in January and Blakely's aspirations for the air corps. I believe that these men will produce a very outstanding Kake Walk next February for the students of U. V. M.

Signed,
John L. Costello, Med. '44,
Director, Kake Walk, 1942.

Names of Vermonters Near Boston Asked

Vermont parents of young men and women, now stationed in or near Boston in any of the branches of military service, are requested to send names and Boston addresses of their children to:

David T. Montague, Esq., Secretary
Vermont Association of Boston
1041 Tremont Building
Boston, Mass.

The Association has voted to invite such young men and women as their guests, absolutely free of charge, to their dancing and card parties to be held at the Hotel Vendome this winter.

NOTICE

From November 16 until further notice, the Dean of Women will not have office hours on Wednesday and Friday afternoons except by special appointment. Students are asked, as far as possible, to come for conferences in the morning rather than the afternoons.

University Player's Fall Play Friday Evening

"A Murder Has Been Arranged" Is Thriller

On Friday evening, November 20, at Southwick, the local and college communities will see the annual fall production of the University Players, "A Murder Has Been Arranged," under the direction of Mrs. Wilnetta Sproul Taggart, who has directed many other dramatic successes in the past.

"A Murder Has Been Arranged" is an exciting mystery play. The crime is committed right before the eyes of the audience, so that the usual element of mystery which pervades a play of this sort is not present. The play is very original and absorbing.

Emlyn Williams, the author, has instilled into the play an intangible element of mystery and apprehension. Blessed with originality, "Murder Has Been Arranged," is a drama of absorbing interest; a "spooky" feeling surcharges the atmosphere.

President of the newly-organized Dramatic Club is Wendell Harvey, a former member of the University Players which is now the nucleus of the club. It was this new group which directed and presented the two group plays some weeks ago.

The cast includes many students whose reputations as actors and actresses have already been well established on campus. Bernice Lieberman '45, as Miss Graze, Wendell Harvey '43, President of the Dramatic Club, as Cavendish, Janet Hackwell '43, Sylvia Wellwood '44 as Mrs. Arthur, and Franklin Fowler '43, who plays the role of Sir Charles Jasper, have all played in major college plays, and Mervyn Morgan '46, as Maurice Mullins, and Maurice "Monty" Kelly '46, as Jimmy North, both gained recognition for their excellent first performances in the one-act plays produced last month. Two new faces will be seen on the Southwick stage, with Olga Schoelles '46, in the role

O. C. Breakfast To Be Held Sun. A.M.

Destination Will Be To Reach Red Rocks

At an informal meeting of the U. V. M. Outing Club held in the cafeteria last Thursday night, it was decided to hold a new and novel early morning spree on Sunday, November 22.

This will be in the form of a breakfast hike, leaving Southwick at 7.00, and heading for Red Rocks down on Shelburne bay (the part nearest to Burlington). Jeanne Hotchkiss and Lane Burns are going to plan the food angle, and are wondering if pancakes and fried eggs will be a good starter. So don't let this frigid weather scare you away, and sign up right away!

The council also put Polly Clarke in charge of making arrangements for an overnight hike to Bolton Mountain in the very near future (Polly took such care of us last year and we do hope she knows the way now).

The subject of the skating rink was considered, and $250 was appropriated for its upkeep for the coming season. Suggestions were made for skating contests to be sponsored by the Outing Club, and also some means of providing music to be broadcasted at night out over the rink.

U. V. M. Graduate Honored in Britian

To Present Scroll to Bookmen of England

To Curtice N. Hitchcock, graduate of the University of Vermont in 1912 and member of the publishing house of Reynal and Hitchcock, has fallen the signal honor of carrying to the bookmen of the British Isles the greetings and good will of the bookmen of America. Mr. Hitchcock's mission is being sponsored by the Publishers' Weekly magazine and the Office of War Information.

The good will symbol, a scroll inscribed with an inspirational message written by Stephen Vincent Benét, was presented by Mr. Hitchcock at a dinner in his honor at the Mansion House in London on November 3. The dinner was given by Sir John Laurie, the Lord Mayor, the Publishers' Association and the Associated Booksellers of Great Britain and Ireland. Among the guests were the Archbishop of Canterbury, Brendon Bracken, Minister of Information, and many prominent authors.

In his speech, Mr. Hitchcock proposed, "an association of British and American book publishers to engage in the publication of a work or series of works which will contribute to the post-war organization of the world."

Curtice Nelson Hitchcock was born in Pittsford, attended school in Pittsford and in Lake Forest, Ill., graduating from the University of Vermont with Phi Beta Kappa rank.

In World War One, he was a corporal in the coast artillery and a member of the publicity committee of the Commission of National defense. Following the war he was for a time a member of the faculty of the University of Chicago.

He was with MacMillan & Co. and Appleton-Century, publishers, and is one of the founders of the firm of Reynal & Hitchcock.

Mr. Hitchcock is a brother of John A. Hitchcock, agricultural economist at the University of Vermont, and is a member of Delta Psi fraternity.

Stop Look Lucian At Classical Club

Lucian, the Greek sophist and satirist, a.d. 125-190, will be the topic of discussion by Professor Kidder at the Classical Club meeting, Tuesday, November 17, at 7.45, at Southwick. New members will be initiated according to the amendments to the constitution. It is hoped that all who can, will attend.

Gold Key Smoker Wednesday Night

The second in a series of Gold Key smokers will be held for freshmen receiving invitations, tomorrow night at 7.30. Freshmen who received invitations are requested to note a change in room, from the South conference room to Room 210 on the second floor.

The members of the sophomore honorary society promise cider and doughnuts, and entertainment with speakers and movies, and, of course, cigarettes.

Freshmen will benefit from these smokers, not only for the enjoyment, but because the smokers give the Gold Key members a chance to look over next year's prospects for Gold Key.

WAAC Rally Held Here On Thursday

Large Crowd Present Seven Women Inducted

Thursday night, at the City Hall, seven Vermont women were enrolled in the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps; this was the first public induction that has been conducted in this state. The inductees were: Mrs. Lillian Alexander, Barre; Miss Elizabeth Burleson, Northfield; Miss Ida Butterfield, Springfield; Miss Audrey Lefrancois, Rutland; Miss Mildred Moore, Burlington; Miss Rose Spargo, Barre; and Miss Natalie Towne, Newport.

Lieut. Margaret Knox spoke to the women on the history of the WAACs, and told some of the every-day happenings which take place, some of which were very amusing; and wittily presented. The Fort Ethan Allen Band furnished the music and six U. V. M. girls sang a new WAAC song which had never been heard in public before. The singers were Therese Coderre, Beryl Cheney, Winifred Wrisley, Doris Squire, Ellen O'Brien, and Carolyn Phelps.

The rally was a great success, with a very large attendance, and it is believed a great deal of interest in the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps was aroused.

4-H Meeting To Be Held at Waterman

Calling all U. V. M. 4-H'ers! There will be a U. V. M. 4-H party for all former 4-H'ers now in college at the Waterman lounge, Wednesday, November 18, from 8.00 to 10.30 p.m. There will be greetings and remarks from President John Millis, J. E. Carrigan, Dean of the Agricultural College and E. I. Ingalls, State Club leader.

The Extension Staff here on the campus would like to meet you and it will give you a chance to meet the staff and other 4-H club members. A recreational period will be conducted by Miss Dorothy Plumb and Miss Frances Staples, County Club Agents in Chittenden and Caledonia Counties respectively.

The committee in charge is Helena Anderson '43, Reginald White '43, Fred Webster '45 and Dorothy Day '46.

From November 16 until further notice, the Dean of Women will not have office hours on Wednesday and Friday afternoons except by special appointment. Students are asked, as far as possible, to come for conferences in the morning rather than the afternoons.

Cats Wallop Middlebury With Second Half Drive

Big U. V. M. Cheering Section Sparked By Presence of Vermont Notables

By Phil Robinson

Vermont threw everything to the wind Saturday, and there was plenty of it.

The Cats completely corked up the theory that Ralph LaPointe was the only scoring ace they possessed, and simultaneously wrote the second-half slump out of the books once and for all.

Two thousand shivering customers watched the Green and Gold surge in the second half to overcome a 7-6 lead held by the Panthers, and forge ahead to score an 18-7 victory, returning to the Queen City with the state championship in tow.

The Middmen were out for all they could get, and that was to beat Vermont, their traditional state rivals, and to boast at least one win out of their eight game schedule.

And it looked as though the Blue and White were headed in the right direction in the first canto. With a frozen field underfoot, and a chilled Middlebury cheering section shouting their lungs out, the Panthers kicked off to the invading Catamounts. Pete Kadzis, the Cats' freshman sensation took the boot on his own 15 yard line, and traversed up to the 32 before a hoard of Middlebury players closed in on him.

Military Ball To Have National Defense Theme

Saturday, November 28, from 8.30 to 12.00 p.m. the Catamounts will play in the Waterman cafeteria for the annual Military Ball. It will be a formal affair (tux or uniform) with a National Defense theme. To create the National Defense atmosphere it is requested that boys give their dates defense stamp corsages and Champlain Sabres will give a $5.00 defense stamp door prize.

This dance, held last year in the second semester, has been set this year, to climax the Thanksgiving week-end. In this way, the seniors graduating in January will be able to attend.

Many Reasons for Students Choosing College Nowadays

As you drive—or in these days, walk—past the campus of the University of Vermont you watch them. Throngs of young people, tall and short, fair haired and dark, eager or blasé. And perhaps you wonder what brought them all together, under the watchful stone eyes of General Lafayette and Ira Allen. Why this college, instead of the myriad others in these United States?

Well, there is always that thing, proximity. In these days of rationed travel it is natural that many freshmen gave as one reason for choosing Vermont the fact that it is near their homes. But there are many other reasons. A man named Clarence Lovejoy wrote a book, Simon & Schuster published it and high school students read it. The book, "So You're Going To College" brought a number of freshmen to Vermont.

Some came because of the deparment of military science and some because of the high ranking medical school. Others because Father or Aunt Emily or The Boy Next Door had come. Several wanted the dramatics and debating, and the choice of others was influenced by athletics.

Courses of study offered counted heavily, as did the proffered scholarships. Still others had been guests of the University for meetings of high school editors, during 4-H Club "state weeks" and at Kake Walk. One happened to pick up a

Y. W. C. A. and V. C. A. Led Chapel

"We Would Be Building" Theme of Vespers

"We Would Be Building" was the theme of the Vesper Service conducted by the Y. W. C. A. and V. C. A. in the chapel Sunday afternoon. Miss Natalie Marston rendered as the prelude, the "Canzonetto" by Blair. A recital given by twenty members of the choir directed by Prof. Howard G. Bennett preceded the service. The recital consisted of the following selections: "The Glory of God in Nature," Beethoven, "Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen," Negro spiritual arrangement by Burleigh, "God of Love," Kalinnikoff, "Benedictus Es, Domine," Healy Willan, "Let Us Now Praise Famous Men," Vaughn Williams, "Ye Watchers and Ye Holy Ones," 17th century German melody arranged by Davison.

Wendell Harvey '43, read the poem, "Build Me A House, said God" by Thomas Curtis Clark. The anthem, "We Would Be Building" was rendered by the choir as a response. Barbara Powers '46, gave readings from the poem "The Servant in the House" by Charles Rand Kennedy.

Organ interludes were played by Miss Marston and solo responses were given by Philip Robinson '45, Doris Squire '43, and Shirley Lampman '45.

The service closed with the third verse of "We Would Be Building" by the choir and the congregation. The postlude was Handel's "Largo," by Miss Marston.

This worship service was arranged by Katherine Kelley Hunt, former Vermont Y. W. C. A. secretary, and directed by Penelope Easton '44.

Debt to France Theme Of French Club Meeting

The French Club met on Wednesday, November 11, Patricia Fowell conducted the meeting. Prof. R. F. Doane is the new faculty advisor, and he spoke briefly about "What We Owe France." Eleanor Brownell told about Ecole Champlain, where she has spent eleven years at camp.

The next meeting will be held on December 5. The club is planning to give a French play some time in February.

The Vermont Cynic

The Official Student Newspaper of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College

VOL. 61 NOVEMBER 17, 1942 NO. 17

The new criticism box which is to be placed in the cafeteria by Student Government should prove to be an aid to that body if proper student co-operation is received. This box has been erected so that any student, whenever he desires may deposit suggestions for student governing in the future, and criticisms of past or present legislation.

With this new system every student will be able to take part in the government. However, if his suggestion pertains to matters out of Student Government jurisdiction the depositor can not always expect his action to be carried out. Suggestions will be considered but of course all can not be acted upon.

In the past few weeks President Corbett of the U. V. M. Student Government has been the butt of much inexpert severe campus criticism. We say inexpert because they have later been proven partially false. This comment has centered about the activities of our government thus far in the semester. Fears were entertained that this newly formed body might become a dead duck. The government was being panned for no better reason than that the person criticising had not heard of any great advances made in the immediate past. However, if he or she had been following the CYNIC they would most certainly have read it and although it may not have been in the headlines, it was clearly in evidence.

Many of the functions of Student Government are not the glamourous type of duties which may be envisioned when one considers such a body, but they are long dreary jobs which require a lot of work but which never earn any praise. It is these which the commenters failed to consider.

With the new method too much public criticism should stop. The government is functioning, why not give it a chance. A glance of past years will show one of the vast improvement in this field. If a student has any comment to make, drop a letter in the criticism box. Don't publicly damn this group, you may be doing so unjustly, wait or find out from a member of Student Government what the story is on the matter and he will investigate for you.

Presenting

Thus read For T. Six in his Freshman Handbook: "Although rather young and untried, Student Government at the University of Vermont holds the key to a better University and a happier faculty and student body, if all the students cooperate wholeheartedly with each other."

Then followed a long interval of silence.

But Student Government was still destined to make the headlines. The Second Front was opened by an infuriated treasurer, who had failed to receive the support of other groups. "Well," said Fortie, "it takes little things to start the ball rolling. I guess the Student Government was created to handle our finances."

Counter-attack followed swiftly in a student letter to the CYNIC. Reading between the lines, Fortie began to realize that Student Government was established for many other things than finance.

Blow followed blow as Fortie read a brief communique from the battle front issued by Gen. Joe Corbett of the Student Government forces. This report, the first to struggle through the strict censorship, spoke of feeler movements on many fronts. Fortie began to feel that Student Government was a force on campus although not developed to anywhere near its capacity.

"What can be done?" asked Fortie. He soon found out that all his contributions would be cheerfully accepted in a small "Suggestion Box." He has several to make.

For one thing, he feels sure that more suggestions, cooperation and general all-around interest would be shown by the student body if occasional mass meetings were held. At these meetings all business could be transacted in truly democratic style instead of having it done by a small democratically elected autocratic group. "After all," says Fortie, "interest is only kept alive by participation. I mean active participation and not an occasional referendum.

Furthermore, I hope that the officers we elect will use their initiative instead of continuing on beaten paths. Chapel programs have not been adjusted for increased interest. The need for cultural improvement has not been met. There is no literary society on the campus. I'd like to have a chance to discuss the budget for student activities at a mass meeting. All phases of Student Government can be carried out as successfully as has the Social Committee carried out their portion."

Yes, a rather long speech for For T. Six, but occasioned by the downright interest of a newcomer, who wants to take part in what is going on, before he too becomes a part of the "Student Corpse."

Maybe after the war between Critical and Criticized is over, a new cooperative community will emerge. The charge: The initiative rests in the hands of the officers of the Student Government.

Fraternity Notes

LAMBDA IOTA

The walls of the old Owl rendezvous resounded to the music of Benny Goodman, Glenn Miller, Tommy Dorsey and a host of other solid senders last Saturday night at the annual Lambda Iota post Norwich-Vermont tea dance. "Cupie" Stokes poured out his much-bragged-about "North Pole Special" near the warming fireplace, "Kaiser" Coughlin thought it was darned good—especially with the right addition. "Puncher" Howe saw to it that just the right records were played at just the right time . . . especially slow fox trots. The party was chaperoned by Dr. and Mrs. Stultz and Prof and Mrs. Midgley.

Later in the evening another party was on the way—definitely on the sophisticated side . . . in honor of Lieut. "Red" White on leave from the United States Marines. The Kappa Sig's were there for a good time . . . and it certainly was. Lieutenant White returned Monday for southern duty.

ALPHA TAU OMEGA

Robert Early '44, was initiated into the active chapter on November 11.

Pete Kadzis '46, has returned from home in Brighton, Mass., where he was called on the death of his mother.

John "Scat" Ellis '46, is recuperating from his recent week-end trip to Montreal.

Frank "Sugar" Sugrue '46, has been having a little trouble with his snoring at night, and is doing a little research to find a remedy.

Thomas "Scrungy" McCormick '43, and Bob "Firpy" Darling '43, are having a debate to see which is the better man this week-end.

Manager George "Trenchy" Stanley '43, is making plans for future Interfraternity sports.

Michael "Aristotle" Spylios '45, has quit playing the field, and is centering his thoughts on one of the fairer sex.

It seems that Albert "Smart" Martin '45 and Phil "Cheesecake" Chesarone '43, won a bet on the football game last Saturday, and are due to have a gala time this week-end after the Middlebury game.

Jack Fraser '46, and Dave Sullivan '46, turned up at the Tea Dance with their prize packages. John Early '46, due to unkind circumstances was unable to be present with his prize package.

"Rubbergut" Ziegra '44, went to Boston Monday and has been accepted in the U. S. Naval Reserve as an Ensign H. V. P. He has already been granted entrance to the Medical School at McGill University, Montreal, Canada in March.

Plans are being made for Hell Week, to be November 20, with possibilities of a dance thereafter.

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON

Still waiting for his call from Uncle Sam, Roger B. Hunting is staying indefinitely at the house.

SIGMA PHI

The Sigs are proud to announce that after six months of waiting, Chum Reynolds '42; Ed Blakely, ex '43; Dick Pope, ex '44; and Dick Page, ex '44, will be inducted into the Air Corps on Thursday.

Riche Evans '45, is still smoking O.P.B. cigarettes.

Sparky Brown '46, has revealed that he and Rubinoff are on the same plane.

Luke Hamlin '45, just returned from a week-end in his home town. The brothers wonder whether there's a Justice of the Peace in Brushton.

"Top of the bottle"—cork to you—Calkins spent Saturday afternoon in the library studying the classical course.

Robert Bond '44, just returned from his Florida vacation, has decided that Vermont girls are the best.

TAU EPSILON PHI

The brothers of Tau Epsilon Phi wish to report that their tea dance after the Norwich game was very successful. Quite a few alumni attended this event which was chaperoned by Dr. and Mrs. Newton. Even Ernie and Mel were there.

Social Dictator Gipstein claims he has an ace up his sleeve for the forthcoming informal dance to be held Wednesday, Nov. 25. We wonder what he means!!!

Word has been received from Iz Goodman, U. V. M. '41, who is a private in the air force. He is stationed somewhere in Atlantic City.

Cat Power Overcomes Stubborn Panthers

Midd Gridders Wilt After Big First Half

LaPointe, Martin, Beaulieu Score Touchdowns As Green and Gold Eleven Rolls Up 18-7 Victory

In three plays, Vermont traveled only four yards, and Kadzis kicked to Midd's 35, with Johnny Urban toting it up to Vermont's 45. Here it was that the Panthers began marching. A lateral from Cooke to Urban brought the ball down to the 31, and a first down. Bobo Sheehan took the pigskin on the next play, and weaved his way up to the 26 yard line.

At this point, Vermont was penalized five yards for offsides, setting up another first down for the Panthers. Sheehan, all afternoon a great running star, tore over the left side of Vermont's line down to the 11 yard line before Len Kunken brought him down with a vicious tackle. In two successive plays, Urban brought the ball to the one yard line, and Bobo Sheehan plunged for the touchdown.

It was 6-0 for Middlebury, but the officials called an illegal substitution penalty on the downstaters which moved the ball back to the 18 yard line. Sheehan heaved a long overgoal pass to Bill Calkins for the point, and Middlebury was ahead in the first four minutes of the game, 7-0.

An exchange of punts late in the second quarter set up the initial counter for the Burlingtonians. Bushway booted the leather to Midd's 48 yard line, but the chilled ball slipped through the hands of a waiting Panther secondary to be recovered by Vermont on their own 49 yard stripe.

It took just exactly two plays for Beaulieu to rip off a first down, and then standing on Midd's 41 yard line, he flipped a 26 yard aerial into the waiting arms of Ralph LaPointe who carried it to the 11 before he was stopped.

Here again Beaulieu figured. Taking the pass from center, the sophomore left-half churned up to the three. Again taking Chesarone's center, Norm placed the ball on the one yard stripe where LaPointe crashed off tackle, across the double stripe, and into pay territory for the touchdown. Earl Bishop, playing his last game for Middlebury, rushed Beaulieu's extra-point attempt, and the Panthers led by a slim one point margin, 7-6.

With a state championship at stake, and the threat of a defeat by hard-driving, running, passing Middlebury eleven facing them, Fuzzy Evans' charges returned to the field, victory bent.

Rooters Arrive

After several exchanges of the leather on downs, a half-thousand Vermont followers that had poured into Middlebury by car and train, rose to their feet as the entire Green and Gold backfield began to march forward through the air and on the ground. After Peter Kadzis had run his way up to the 16 yard line in three plays, he threw an incomplete pass to LaPointe. It was third down for the Cats, and it looked as though Midd. might stop the clawing Cats yards short of a touchdown, but Ralph LaPointe had different ideas, for he lugged the ball up to the six yard marker, and a second first down. Kadzis failed to gain on the next play, but Middlebury was completely foiled when Monk Martin roared off to the right, snagged a Beaulieu pass, and ran over for the second Vermont score. It was Beaulieu again to boot the point, but his educated toe failed to send the ball against the wind, and the score stood at 12-7.

Vermont couldn't be stopped now! They took the ball away from Middlebury on downs, and in two minutes were down on the five yard line, thanks to a Beaulieu-LaPointe pass which the latter grabbed away from six Middlebury would-be interceptors. On the second play, Bart Barry, a great end all afternoon, took a pass from Beaulieu on the one-yard line, and just to make things even, the ball was fed to Beaulieu who fell across the goal line for the Green and Gold's last touchdown.

Beaulieu tried to pass one across for the point-after, but it was knocked down, and Vermont had to be satisfied with an 18-7 verdict.

Middlebury filled the airlanes with passes in the final quarter, but it was futile, for the Cats were a determined team with the Green Mountain Conference championship as good as theirs.

Cat State Crown First Since '39 Tie

While the majority of the Cat's followers advanced various theories as to the cancellation of football for the duration, the statistically minded proceeded to point out today that Vermont had chalked up a successful season.

With Saturday's defeat of Middlebury, the Green and Gold likewise posted its first state championship since 1939, when the Cats trimmed the Panthers, but tied with Norwich to divide state honors.

Walgren and Eddy Picked

Juniors To Succeed Benoit and Chesarone

It was a tired but jubilant band of Catamounts who clattered into the Middlebury Field House, after last Saturday's thrilling win over the outclassed but game Panthers, on bleak, windswept Porter Field. Fuzzy's boys had plenty to be happy about, for Vermont had annexed its first State Championship in five long years It was the end of a season, a season in which the Green and Gold had proved without a shade of doubt that they were the top eleven in the state.

After the swarms of back slapping, well-wishers and hilarious fans had been shooed out the locker, the Cats peeled off their togs for the last time this year and went about the business of untaping, showering, and getting into street clothes. From the gym they were hustled into cars, and drove to the Middlebury Inn for a steak supper. It was more of a festive occasion than simply an after-the-game meal. At the head table sat the entire athletic staff and the squad was distributed about the dining room. After the meal Manager Joe Corbett presented Miss Margaret Sheeran, who left Sunday for the Navy, a gold identification bracelet as a going away present, from the entire team. Brief speeches were given by Miss Sheeran, Larry Gardner and other members of the athletic staff. Then the voting for next year's captain took place.

This year's Co-Captains Bill Benoit and Phil Chesarone have done a swell job during the past campaign leading the Catamounts through the best season in years. In fact the team liked the idea of Co-Captains so well that they again elected by ballot two players to the honorary post for next year. They are two men who have proved their worth through two years of heavy duty in the varsity line, tackle Paul Walgren, and his running mate on the other side of the forward Dwight Eddy. Paul is well known to Catamount fans for his bruising, hard hitting play of this and last year. He hails from West Hartford, Conn., where he prepped at William Hall High School.

Dwight Eddy is the other captain. A native Vermonter, he comes from Hinesburg and attended high school there. Having no previous football experience, he has developed into one of U. V. M.'s best gridders. A big boy, five feet eleven inches and weighing 191 pounds, Dwight has no difficulty in taking care of himself, and is well fitted for the honorary post voted him by his teammates.

House Teams Clash Today

The second half of the touch football championship classic was postponed from Friday to this afternoon. Both team captains agreed that the weather (snowy and slushy) and the date (Friday the 13th), were two very excellent reasons to justify a postponement.

The Kappa Sigs led at the end of the first half, 34-7. In the first half, as the score indicates, the game was definitely lop-sided, as the TEP's gave the K. S.'s everything—including the ball, on too numerous occasions. Sparked by Joe Corbett (manager cum laude), and "Larripin'" Larry Killick, the K. S.'s simply steam rollered their way to every score. They left the TEP's disorganized and in full retreat as the whistle blew to end the half.

Harriers Win Over Panthers

Coach Archie Post's Vermont harriers made it a perfect weekend for the fans of the Green and Gold by taking Middlebury's cross-country team over the hills to the tune of 15-48, thus closing another successful season for the Vermonters which has brought the state championship to Burlington for the ninth straight year. The final won and lost record for the team is four to one and a sixth place spot in the New England Intercollegiates.

The Cats took the race with a perfect score 15-48 using the displacement system. Running a cool and well-planned race five Vermonters crossed the finish line in the identical time of 25.01 to take first place, Capt. Bud Hoyt, Marty McLaren, Ernie St. Mary, Len Harrington, and Johnny Corliss tying for first place.

The Cats took it easy for the first mile of the race to let the Middmen set the pace, but beyond the mile mark they put on the pressure. Capt. Bud Hoyt was the first to go out in front.

Surprise Running Attack Almost Upset Evansmen

Cats Expected Passes-- LaPoint Keeps Record

Did somebody say it was cold. You might have thought the North Pole was one of the Porter Field goal posts. Everyone was freezing during the first half excepting the Panther team which was red-hot . . . .

A U. V. M. ROOTING SECTION and R. O. T. C. band, arriving late in the first quarter, were greeted with a biting blast from the North which carried the dumbfounding news, that Middlebury led 7-0 . . . .

THE CATS had been practicing against a Middlebury air-attack all week, only to be greeted with a devastating running offensive that passed only twice during the whole first half . . . . Bobo Sheehan, Johnny Urban, and a surprise package from the Jayvees, Phil Dunham, ripped off many (too many) long gains for the Midmen . . .

THE PANTHER LINE, considerably outweighed by the Green and Gold, put up a great battle . . . . Outstanding performances were turned in by two frosh, Charlie Puksta, center, and Dave Thompson, right guard . . .

THE ONLY VERMONTERS who received any Middlebury cheering were the members of the U. V. M. band . . . . During the half they gave an excellent performance and got a big hand from Middlebury for forming an M and playing the Middlebury Alma Mater . . .

ALTHOUGH MIDDLEBURY led 7-6 at the half, Vermont held the statistical edge, leading in rushing 89-86, and in passing 65-0 . . . . Nevertheless they were plenty scared as is shown by the fact that no subs entered the game for the Green and Gold, excepting Bushway for kicking, until the third period . . . .

LAPOINTE kept his record of scoring in every game by racking up the first six points for Vermont . . . . His final total reads 67 points . . . . Monk Martin also scored in this finale, giving every member of the backfield at least one goal-line crossing . . . .

Rate Vermont Over Georgia

Experts' Figures Give Cats 200 Point Edge

Frankie Sinkwich and his Georgia Bulldogs would be spotted 198 points if they were to play Vermont. This calculation is off the Cats' 11-point win over Middlebury, whom the New York Daily News rates as 187 points stronger than Georgia. Here's how they figure it:

Middlebury, which has lost all seven contests this year, rates 187 points better than unbeaten, untied Georgia! Middlebury, you see, lost to Union, 14-13, and thus is only one point weaker. Union lost to Williams, 41-15, or 26 points, so Middlebury is 27 points weaker than Williams. Since Princeton lost to Williams by a 12-point margin (19-7), Middlebury figures as only 15 points weaker than Princeton. Princeton beat Navy, 10-0, so Middlebury is 5 below Navy. Navy beat Penn, 7-0, so Middlebury stands 2 points above Penn. Now, Penn beat Yale, which beat Dartmouth, which beat Holy Cross, which beat North Carolina State, which beat North Carolina, which beat Wake Forest, which beat Clemson, which beat South Carolina, which tied Tennessee, which beat LSU, which beat Mississippi State, which beat Vanderbilt. That accumulated margin is 187 points. Vandy rates on a par with Georgia in this system, because both beat Kentucky by 7-6 counts. So Middlebury rates as . . . but don't you believe it!

Vt. Dairy Plant Association Met

Twenty-first Annual Meeting in Waterman

The Vermont Dairy Plant Operators' and Managers' Association held its twenty-first annual meeting in the Waterman Building, November 5. In the interest of conservation of tires and gasoline and because of the labor shortage in dairy plants, a one-day instead of a two-day conference will be held this year.

Registration began at 8.15, followed by a get-acquainted period. During the morning, W. H. Martin, associate professor of agricultural education at the University, will discuss the relation of the war production training program to the dairy industry. He was followed by H. J. Liedell, eastern manager in New York City of the Mojonnier Brothers Company, Chicago, Ill., who discussed new developments in dairy machinery. F. M. Scales of Sheffield Farms, New York City, a prominent authority on creamery sanitation, talked on the latest and most economical methods of cleaning dairy equipment. H. P. Hood and Sons, Boston, Mass., talked as their representative, Dr. A. C. Fay, who spoke on the quality problem involved in every other day delivery of milk.

In the afternoon, the study of milk hauling routes with the objective of eliminating duplication of truck travel was discussed by Dr. M. A. Collins with J. J. Kalahan and C. L. Hamlen of St. Albans. This extensive study was made by the Vermont Agricultural Experiment Station under the direction of J. A. Hitchcock with the assistance of Dr. M. A. Collins.

Dr. H. B. Ellenberger, former milk administrator in the Boston area, directed a study duplication and over-lapping of city delivery routes in Burlington and had them published as Bulletin 486. J. A. Hitchcock, agricultural economist of the Vermont Experiment Station, made further surveys in the Burlington area and had them published as Bulletin 491. Mr. Hitchcock reported on his study. Fred C. Fiske, manager of the Burlington Co-Operative Milk Products Co., Inc., discussed certain practical aspects of the retail deliveries of milk in the interest of rubber and tire conservation.

C. W. Rink of the Diamond Alkali Company, Pittsburgh, Pa., gave a lecture and demonstration of results obtained with various types of washing compounds; W. P. Hinckley, engineer for the Whiting Milk Company in Boston, gave the plant men suggestions on the way to maintain their present equipment in operating condition; M. F. Jones of the New England Dairy Equipment Company, Rochester, N. H., will demonstrate the high temperature short-time pasteurization of milk in the dairy laboratories in Morrill Hall.

"Dairy Products and War Production" was the address of Clyde Beardslee, chief, dairy products, War Production Board, Washington, D. C., at the meatless banquet in the Waterman Building at 7.00 p.m. The meeting adjourned after the presentation of awards to student judges of dairy products and dairy cattle.

U. V. M. Graduate Wins Promotion

Ft. Benning, Ga.—The promotion of Capt. Roy I. Brooks of Newfane, Vt., to the rank of Major has been announced here by his commanding officer, Colonel Thomas R. Gibson of the First Student Training Regiment. Major Brooks is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Brooks of Newfane.

Major Brooks had been employed as the Assistant Agronomist at the Experimental Station of the University of Vermont, in Burlington prior to his entry into the Army. He is a graduate of the University of Vermont holding a Master's Degree in Agriculture from that institution.

At present Major Brooks is Company Commander of the 17th Co. of the First Student Training Regiment and in this capacity supervises and administers to a full company of Officer Candidates who are enrolled at the Infantry School.

The Officer Candidates are selected from the enlisted ranks of the Army because of their superior ability and leadership qualities and sent to the Infantry School for a three months course of intensive training after which they are commissioned as Second Lieutenants.

The Infantry School also trains enlisted men in radio communications and automotive mechanics. There are a great many classes for officers, including those for divison officers up to the rank of Brigadier General.

Thirty Vermont Coeds Keep Press Informed

Functioning at this University, there is a group of unsung heroes, thirty beautiful Vermont co-eds, whose object is keeping the home school press informed of our various attainments and achievements. This group, functioning under the name of the Press Club, gets all the latest dope on Vermont dopes and sends it to the "Ourtown High School Blatto."

This seems to be a "Women Only" organization with Margaret Cassidy '43, as president and Dorothy Wimett '44 as secretary and treasurer. The membership has increased by fifteen students over last year, the members being required to spend an hour a week on news reports, for which they are rewarded with a banquet in April.

catalogue, while another opened a World Almanac and read in it about Vermont.

One student, in coming, was realizing a childhood ambition, while in other cases the choice was influenced by the inland location in troubled times. Former teachers, financial considerations and the eloquence of speakers all had their share in influencing decisons and the scholastic standing of the University ranked high.

But perhaps the most heart-warming of all reasons was given by the young man from Rutland who wrote, "I am a Vermonter all the way."

Prof. Dykhuizen Speaks On "Life of John Dewey"

On Thursday, November 5, the club met, and Prof. Dykhuizen spoke on "The Life of John Dewey." Wendell Harvey, the president, conducted the meeting.

There is going to be initiation of new members this semester. The next meeting will be held in the first part of December. "The Philosophy of War" will be the speaker's subject which should be of special interest to the men.

W. A. A. Notes

The games between the sorority and the house teams started last Tuesday. The Pi Phi's tied the Allen House team at 15 to 15. The Allen House team led the Pi Phi's all through the game, but in the last two minutes of play a basket from the floor and a free throw saved the game.

The inter-house and sorority games are played on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 5 o'clock. The next scheduled game will be Thetas versus Roberts and McCormick houses.

The sport clubs will welcome any new members. The clubs meet on the following days:

Swimming Club on Fridays at 4.45 at the "Y."

Archery Club on Fridays at 4.30 at Southwick.

Basketball Club at 4.30 on Tuesdays and Thursdays at Southwick.

Bowling Club at Waterman at 5.00 on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Dance Workshop on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 4.30 at Southwick.

Badminton at 7.00 at Southwick on Monday nights.

Health Council to Serve Dessert Hour Sunday

Thursday, November 19, is the day of the Health Council Dessert hour at Southwick at 8.00 Refreshments will be served of which Marjorie Anthony is in charge. There will be a business meeting, following the dessert and also a program of entertainment. Everyone is invited.

Rev. Barry Speaks To Newman Club

On Tuesday evening, November 10 at 8.00, Rev. P. A. Barry of Ludlow, Vt., spoke to many students of the Newman Club in the Waterman student lounge. Father Barry, who was formerly chaplain of the Newman Club, is well known in state circles.

In speaking to the Newman Club at the meeting last evening, Father Barry pointed out particularly the pagan ideas and fallacies which appear in the country's leading papers and magazines and which the "intelligentsia" of this country are encouraging the American public to read. Father Barry illustrated his point by reading excerpts of the discussed magazines.

The Newman Club will meet with Father Cassidy Wednesday morning.

"Fall Play"

of Mrs. Wragg, and Jean Vogler '44, as a mysterious beautiful woman.

University Players

In rehearsal the annual fall play of the University is rapidly taking form. Under the direction of Mrs. Wilnetta Taggart, the rough spots are being smoothed out and "A Murder Has Been Arranged" by Emlyn Williams promises to live up to the high calibre of dramatic presentations already established on this campus.

Emlyn Williams, the author of this year's choice of plays, is now London's reigning playwright and is making a strong bid to become that of New York, too. Perhaps the U. V. M. upperclassmen will remember "Night Must Fall" one of Mr. Williams' plays which was presented on the campus by the University Players a few years ago. "A Murder Has Been Arranged" will probably surpass even that. In addition to the two productions already mentioned the playwright is known for his "The Corn Is Green," "Spring 1600," "The Light of Heart" and several others.

Besdes being an eminent playwright, Emlyn Williams is an actor as well. He has appeared in both the cinema and the legitimate stage. More familiar, in all probability, are his appearances in the movies. He has taken roles in "Night Alone," "The Citadel," "They Drive By Night," and "How Green Was My Valley."

With such an absorbing and celebrated play to start with, the cast of "A Murder Has Been Arranged" will undoubtedly find it easier to turn in a sterling performance at Southwick, Friday, than they might, perhaps, with a less fortunate choice. The actors are working hard to give a performance worthy of "A Murder Has Been Arranged."

"A Murder Has Been Arranged" has all the promise of being one of Mrs. Taggart's usual successes. Don't forget Friday, November 20, at Southwick.

I. R. C. meeting, Wednesday, 7.45 p.m., at Southwick. Convention reports will be given at that time and all members are urged to attend.

VOL. 61 BURLINGTON, VERMONT, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 25, 1942 NO. 19

For what God has given America - - - Let us be truly Thankful

THERE IS A PRAYER we would utter now—as Thanksgiving comes again to America. A prayer we live and feel and know—but cannot find the countless words—the million tongues and voices to repeat.

IT COMES FROM THE CENTURIES that have molded this nation—and made her great and strong. It comes from the canyons of towering cities . . . from the echoing quiet of countless village streets . . . from the roaring tumult of industry . . . and a fisherman hauling his nets.

IT IS THE HEART OF A NATION—giving humble thanks. For blessings we cannot measure. For gifts we cannot appraise. It is a people—saying in one reverent voice: "Thank God I live in America."

IT IS A PEOPLE AWARE, as never before, of the greatness of their nation. The wealth of her resources. The riches in her lands. The strength and courage and unity of her people. A people giving thanks for a nation built from a wilderness to limitless power. To stand firm against those who would plunder and steal and enslave. And thanking a beneficent God for His gifts.

IN A WORLD, LONG SUFFERING from the barbarism and cruelty of war—we have lived in a land of peaceful sky and earth. There has been no ceaseless horror in the heavens above us. No endless devastation to lay our lands and homes in waste. No despot rules that our children shall starve and die.

WE ARE FREE. Free, in a world of prejudice and intolerance. Free to live and speak and act and work and worship as we choose. Free to elect our own leaders. Free to live by the laws of our own making. Free to decide our own destinies. For this we give thanks—and pray that God may guide us in the exercise of this freedom—that others of the earth, now slaves, may share it. That in the end—they may again be free.

AMERICA GIVES THANKS, for the men who saw with clear, unflinching eyes, the nation to be. Who fought as we fight in the cause of freedom and humanity and brotherhood. And for those who now fight—knowing that history has given few men the privilege of fighting for so great a cause.

☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆

THIS THEN, IS THE GREATNESS OF AMERICA. And in our prayer of thanks—there would be the voices of all who share this nation's glory. All who now work and save and fight as one—that no power, however great, may ever be allowed to assault or plunder this freedom that is our lives.

"A Murder Has Been Arranged" Thrills Southwick Audience

Weird, Tense Atmosphere Pervades Dramatic Club's First Major Production

A spooky and tense atmosphere pervaded the Southwick theatre last Friday night when the Dramatic club presented its first major production of the season, "A Murder Has Been Arranged," a play by Emlyn Williams. From the very first words of Bunny Lieberman who, in the role of Miss Groze opened the play, to the drawing of the final curtain, all the promised horrors and thrills, more imagined than real, found their way to the audience.

Under the direction of Mrs. Wilnetta Sproul Taggart, the drama was splendidly enacted by a cast of talented actors and actresses and a band of skilled musicians, all of whom did a fine piece of work. The cast included Bunny Lieberman as Miss Groze, Wendell Harvey as the band conductor, Monty Kelly as Jimmy North, Janet Hackwell as Lady Jasper, Sylvia Wellwood as Mrs. Arthur, Olga Schoelles as Mrs. Wragg, Keith Calkins as Sir Charles Jasper, Merve Morgan as Maurice Mullins, and Jean Vogler as The Woman. Last but not least there was the group unsung and heretofore unmentioned, heroes who were a very necessary part of the play. These are the members of the band, each one of whom was just as essential as any other member of the cast. Oliver Swift, Bob Goss, Warner Black, Bob Stanley, and Melve Kilburn, directed by band conductor, Wendell Harvey, furnished music between acts as well as for the play itself.

Future plans of the Dramatic Club include the presentation of several group plays later in the winter and another major production sometime in the spring.

Zwick Rated Second Speaker

Four Vermont debaters were back in classes today, with the week-end's intercollegiate debating tourney a thing of the past, and a schedule of other colleges awaiting them.

Merrill D. Powers led his student debaters into the forensic tieup among thirteen of the best college teams in northern New York, and New England.

Robert Norton '44 and Philip Robinson '45, carried the affirmative side of the question, while Daan Zwick '43, and Dave Wheeler '45, upheld the negative of "Resolved: that the plan to be presented by the affirmative team, if adopted by Britain, would provide a substantial improvement in the Indian problem." The elasticity of the subject left loopholes for much discussion, and the number of solutions rivaled the number of colleges that presented them.

Four men were rated out of a field of 52 as the tourney's outstanding speakers, and among them was Zwick. In addition to this honor, Zwick slid into second place in the extemporaneous speaking contest held in the halls of the Dartmouth Outing Club following the luncheon on Saturday.

Bates repeated its previous record by carrying off top honors, closely followed by M. I. T. and Dartmouth. Vermont placed 12th, and Middlebury, the other state entry, concluded the list.

U. S. Navy Lieutenant to Come Here Friday to See V-1 and V-7 Adherants

Lieutenant Owen, U. S. Navy, will visit the University on Friday, November 27, 1942 for the purpose of interviewing students interested in enlisting in V-1 or V-7.

All candidates should have with them the following documents:

(a) Birth certificate, properly executed, with signature and seal of the Registrar of Vital Statistics or other proper custodian of the record. Or, if birth is not recorded, acceptable evidence giving date and place of birth, and names of parents.

(b) Evidence of citizenship (if not native-born).

(c) Statement from the registrar or other duly authorized representative of the institution attended certifying that the candidate is a regularly enrolled Freshman or Sophomore student in good standing, or has been accepted for admission as such in the next convening term and is enrolled or has agreed to enroll in the minimum required courses prescribed herein.

(d) Three (3) letters of recommendation from responsible citizens who are in a position to testify as to the applicant's character, etc. It is desired that one of the above letters be from a Dean or other appropriate representative of the institution when the student has been in attendance for a reasonable period of time. These letters should be written on the business stationery of the person making recommendation.

(e) A resume of not less than fifty words in applicant's own handwriting covering all occupational and military service or training.

(f) If a minor (under 21), the consent of applicant's parents or guardians to enlist in the Naval Reserve.

(g) Two photographs (head and shoulders only), one full face and one profile, size 2½ x 2½ inches.

(h) Applicants who have had previous military or Naval Service will be required to present their discharge certificate or certificate in lieu of discharge.

Students interested will give their names to the Armed Services Representative, and a schedule of individual appointments will be posted as to time of interview.

Military Ball to Feature Presentation of Coed-Major

National Defense Theme of Dance Climaxing Thanksgiving Week-end

The Military Ball will be held in the Waterman cafeteria from 8.30 to 12.00 p.m. this week Saturday. It is one of the most popular formal dances at the University and the Champlain Sabres, the Senior military honor society, has planned a very complete evening for all.

The National Defense Theme which will pervade the whole affair will be created by the defense stamp corsages which the boys are requested to present to the girls. These corsages are to be sold by Minute Girls who are helping in the War Bond and Stamp Drive and will be on sale from a booth in the Waterman Building Friday and Saturday, November 27, and 28. The spirit of the dance depends on the cooperation of all who attend; so let's do our part for the U. S. A. and make this Military Ball a true patriotic celebration. Lay down the law girls—Defense Stamp Corsages or else—.

To help promote the National Defense theme the Champlain Sabres will give a five dollar defense stamp as a door prize. The tickets, numbered as they are, will be the reference by which the prize will be given away. The newly crowned Coed Major will draw the ticket with the lucky number, and the person who has the stub with the corresponding number will receive the prize.

As is customary at the Military Ball, the results of the election will be announced and the Coed Major will be presented. Candidates for this post have been nominated by the girls of the University. These nominations list the following girls for election: Ita Casey '44, Alice Needham '43, Elizabeth Deming '43, Janet Hackwell '43, Florence Cudworth '45, Natalie Spear '43, Joan Eldredge '45, Marjorie Smith '43. The entire R. O. T. C. Battalion will elect this year's Coed Major. The result of the battalion selection will be kept secret until the Military Ball when it will be announced.

In the past years it has been customary for the R. O. T. C. students of all classes to wear their uniforms. This year, due to a shortage of uniforms and materials, some of the freshmen are without complete uniforms. As the dance is formal and a tuxedo or uniform is a requisite, freshmen are advised to scout around and borrow what they need to complete their uniform. If you cannot do this, try to borrow a tuxedo; someone is always willing to lend his dress clothes for a school dance.

This dance is open to all pilots and officers studying or living at the University. As a part of the "University Family," it is hoped that they will feel free to come and join the festivities. The price, tax included, will be $1.10 per couple.

The chaperons will be Major and Mrs. F. P. Simpson of the University of Vermont and Lieut. and Mrs. Parks of Fort Ethan Allen.

Proctor Page Speaks At 4-H Club Meeting

Wednesday night, November 18, a very successful party was held at the Waterman Building for all U. V. M. 4-H'er's. Appropriate greetings and remarks were made by Proctor Page, Assistant President of the University. J. E. Carrigan, Dean of the Agricultural College, and E. L. Ingalls, State Club leader. Winston Pierce '43 was master of ceremonies.

The recreational period of dancing and games was led by Miss Dorothy Plumb and Miss Frances Staples, County Club Agents in Chittenden and Caledonia Counties respectively. This was followed by the serving of refreshments.

This social gathering gave the students an opportunity to meet the Extension Staff on the campus and other 4-H Club members. The committee in charge was Helena Anderson '43, Reginald White '43, Fred Webster '45, and Dorothy Day '46.

Bailey Debate Cup Finals Coming Up

Four Teams Remain In Forensic Contest

The semi-finals for the Bailey Cup Freshman-Sophomore Debate will be held during the weeks of November thirtieth to December twelfth, with the final debate the week after. H. A. Bailey, class of '14 and charter member of Tau Kappa Alpha, honorary debating society, donated the cup to stimulate interest in debating. Contests for the cup have been held every year except two, since its inception. Last year the cup was won by the Sophomore team consisting of John Felopulos and Robert Norton. The topic agreed upon for this year's debate is as follows: "Resolved: That the United Nations should establish a permanent Federal Union with power to tax and regulate International commerce, to maintain a police force, to settle International disputes and to enforce such settlements and to provide for the admission of other nations, which accept the principles of the Union." At the present, after the preliminary eliminations four teams remain. They are:

Team No. 1—Melvin Wallshein '45, and Ernest Barash '45, better known as Mel and Ernie.

No. 2—Phil Robinson '45, and Porter Dale '45.

No. 3—Donald Hackel '46, and Joseph Waterman '46.

No. 4—Paul Pascal '46 and David Bikoff '46.

Regular Meeting of Firstaiders December 3

The assignment for the meeting of December 3, is review of the material of last week and that on pages 88 to 107.

Some of those who earned American Red Cross certificates have not obtained them. These may be obtained from Mrs. Childs. A list of the names of these persons is posted in the "Y" Room. Please attend to this immediately.

Dean Entertains Y. W. C. A.

Miss Simpson, Dean of Women, entertained the Cabinet of the Y. W. C. A. at a Buffet Supper at Southwick last Sunday evening at 6 o'clock. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss plans for future work of the Y. W. C. A. on the campus.

There will be a meeting of the Newman Club on Wednesday morning, November 25 in the Waterman Student Lounge.

The Vermont Cynic

The Official Student Newspaper of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College

VOL. 61 NOVEMBER 25, 1942 NO. 19

A couple of weeks ago it was our pleasure to attend the Associated Collegiate Press Conference in Chicago. At this conference many effects of the war on American education were discussed; of these many effects there are two which we consider extremely vital.

These two things were that the luxury of a complete liberal arts course will have to be scrapped for the duration of the war, and that the government will probably have more to say about educational curricula in the future than in the past.

This trend, which is apparent when one looks at the colleges and universities now being used to train men has even reached Vermont in many ways. The liberal arts will disappear if the war is lost, because such a curricula includes subjects forbidden for study in the Axis countries. There was talk about removing the liberal arts course for the duration at the Chicago convention. The reason given for such a step being that all non-essential departments must be diverted to war time organization.

Thus this question seems to center around the fact whether or not liberal arts is essential. We believe it is for a number of reasons. 1. If Axis powers fear it because of bad effect on people we should cuddle it. 2. America needs such courses to reserve basic core of a "true" education. 3. There will be great demand and need for economists, political scientists etc., after the war. 4. New trend for educated men in important government posts could not be carried on with such a course. However, we do believe that with courses geared to peace-time, there is much overlapping and departmentalization. A student may hear the same material several times in four years because of the fringes of material in subjects or courses.

War-time organization demands streamlined in all our activities. The need for change is apparent when we realize that women are vitally needed in industry as trained technicians. We should like to suggest an investigation and clarification of possibilities for changing curriculum requirements at the same time directing technical courses towards a particular job and transforming liberal arts courses.

Presenting

In the true Thanksgiving spirit, For T. Six is going to talk turkey, and wants to chew over a number of campus problems with you. Here goes mental indigestion.

Whenever Fortie decides that he wants to socialize, without either a cup of coffee and a doughnut or a couple of his favorite text-books, he finds that there is no such place on the whole campus readily available to him. In his wanderings through the mazes of the Waterman Building, he noticed a large quadruple door marked "Student Lounge." Upon turning the knob gently (so as not to disturb the Student Corpse) there was revealed to his eyes long rows of examination tables with chairs of the straight-back variety, decidedly un-lounge like. Looking even further, Fortie decided that this room was indeed ideal for the purpose which is marked on the door. The object—a comfortable, convenient place for student conversation; elimination of social-talk in the library; re-conversion of the cafeteria to a quiet eating spot.

The next remark does not directly concern For T. Six, but rather his cousins, For T. Three and For T. Four. Fortie, though, makes it a habit to look out for the best interests of his family, and sees to it that they take the best advantage of their opportunities. The physical education courses offered to upperclassmen are to keep them in good physical shape for the fight to come. Only about ten men will be ready for the fight from U. V. M.'s two upperclasses.

Another suggestion from this corner—Sunday night is a barren spot in the social calendar. Much clamor has been heard for more speakers to address the Student body; we have the time, we have the audience, but no speakers; we can see our movies on Tuesday night.

Fortie made his trip to the Dean's office to get his marks. The results were surprising, not to say shocking; he had figured it up rather differently. Fortie then realized what was wrong. An "A" from one professor is only a "C" from another professor. It is not thoroughly impractical to ask for a standardization of marks so that an equal amount of effort in any department rates the same mark. Courses like Bunk 125½ will thereby have to stiffen their requirements.

Poll tax or no poll tax, Republican or Democrat, Fortie will go to vote, tomorrow. He will try to elect those men whom he thinks will do the job best. For T. Six, being new on the campus, will also attend tonight's convocation to find out more about Student Government. Good government depends on good leaders.

Bring on the turkey!

Evans Drills Catamount Cagers for Opener

Seniors Get Grid Blankets

Varsity Awards Made At Key and Snake Dance

The annual Football Hop which terminated perhaps the last football season for some time at U. V. M., drew a large crowd to the Waterman Building Saturday night from 8.30 to 12.00 p.m.

High spot of the evening was as always the presentation of football blankets to seniors and juniors who through the accelerated program will graduate before another year. Prof. L. W. Dean presented blankets to Larry Gardner, Asst. Prof. of Physical Education, Phil Chesarone '43, and Bill Benoit '43, co-captains, Bart Barry '44, John Reed '44, Roger Prior '43, "Art" Kehoe '44, Don Nutter '43, Bob Bloomer '43, Ed O'Connell '43, Joe Corbett 43, and Harry Parker '43.

Chaperones for the dance were: Coach and Mrs. Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Gardner and Mr. and Mrs. Fogg. Music was furnished by the Catamounts.

Court Veterans Who Start Against Hartwick Next Week

W. P. Cooney '46 Is Poison Gas Victim

William Paul Cooney, 20-year-old freshman at U. V. M., son of Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Cooney of Burlington died Monday of carbon monoxide poisoning. He was discovered in an automobile in the garage at his home Monday morning.

Doctor Luck, city health officer, announced the death as a suicide, and expressed the opinion that the young man had been dead for about eight hours.

Funeral services were held today at 9 a.m. in the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception. Interment was in St. Joseph's cemetery.

Delta Psi News

Stan Pike '42 visited at the house over the week-end. He is now a Naval Air Corps cadet.

Bob Stockwell '43, spent the week-end in Boston.

George "Pottsy" Little '43, announced his intentions of going out for the Delta Psi basketball team. He will train on Tuesday and Thursday nights.

Squid Hess and Howie Bryden have made plans for the Delts' informal dance. The "Collegians" from Barre are going to furnish the music.

Trio of Returning Regulars Forms Basketball Backbone

Killick, Senior Pair To Bolster Quintet

Leading this year's squad of Cat cagers, when they take the floor against Hartwick, ten days hence, will be three veterans, Capt. Bob Doherty, Milt Kaufman, and Larry Killick, who, if past records mean anything, should be the bright spots of another successful season.

Captain Doherty is a senior hailing from Meriden, Conn. Entering Vermont in 1939, he immediately made himself known in the athletic world with a stellar year as a freshman, being elected honorary captain at the close of the season. During the 1941 season Bob alternated at the forward position on the Varsity, and won his first letter. Coach Evans changed him over into the guard slot last year, and from this position his eagle eye made him the second highest scorer on the club. For this coming season it is possible that Bob may be called upon to move up into the center position.

Doherty has starred in many games during his three-year career, but two stand out among the rest. The first was his performance against Middlebury during his sophomore year when he scored twenty points to lead both teams in scoring and bring the state championship to Burlington, and the second was the game with powerful Rochester last year. Rochester was well on the way towards an undefeated season when they arrived in Burlington late in February and on the Vermont hardwood, due mostly to the efforts of Doherty and Kipp '42, they nearly lost it. The Green and Gold were within four points of winning, with Doherty and Kipp on a scoring spree. At this crucial moment, however, both were called out on fouls and Rochester won the game.

The other two members of the veteran trio comprise the forward line of the Cats quintet. Milt Kaufman, a senior from Mountaindale, N. Y., and Larry Killick, a Burlington product now in his junior year. Both men were the regular starting forwards last year.

Milt Kaufman, although he crashed the scoring column only twice to any extent, last season scoring twelve points against Hamilton and eleven against Middlebury, was a terror on the defense, keeping the opponents in a severe state of jitters. His footwork was always fast, and he had an uncanny ability for setting up plays. In short, he is a team player, helping his teammates and the team to victory.

Larry Killick was last year's leading scorer, and a member of the Vermont all-state team. Averaging about thirteen points per game, he led the scorers in nearly every game. He began his career with B. H. S. where he made the Vermont high school all state team in his senior year and one year at Kimball Union Academy saw his playing improve a great deal. As a freshman he led the team in scoring and was elected honorary captain for the 1941 edition of the Vermont Kittens. In his sophomore year he stepped right into a varsity berth, started the opening game, and gave notice of things to come by scoring nine points for the nine minutes that he played.

As things stand now, it appears that these boys will be backed by those famous football stars, the Gold Dust twins, Ralph LaPointe and Norm Beaulieu, in the other two open positions. These five, aided by an experienced squad of reserves, should have another banner year, with a state championship flying at Vermont for the fifth straight year.

Kappa Sig News

The Alpha Chis have offered to buy "Saxey" Manjoney's saxophone. However, rumor has it that the boys in the house have outbid them.

After defeating Tau Epsilon Phi in the finals of the fraternity, touch football championship the boys celebrated by holding a TEP rally.

The two sparrows that have been using Killick's, Morgan's, and Lewgowicz's "machine" as a home have flown to winter quarters in South Shelburne.

After a long period of dickering the Kappa Sigs have finally obtained the services of Mike Stef O'Reiley that renowned Irish tenor who led the Kappa Sigs troubadours on their recent concert tour.

Jim (call-me-body guard) Kinne warns U. V. M. students of that terrible winter disease, the "Horrible Tweedles" which originated on the Nile Delta.

With the addition of Caduceus, the house dog, the pledges have come up with the motto, "Keep 'em Fleeing."

The Kappa Sig's Bowery Brawl was proclaimed the best ever by all those who attended this long awaited function.

Big Squad Cheers Coach

Frosh, Football Men Battle for Vacancies

Despite the curtailments which war has placed on the world of inter-collegiate sports the University of Vermont is going to have a basketball team this year. Several schools in this section have dropped the hoop game for the duration, but to the great relief of sport fans at Vermont, the Catamounts will be out there on the court at least for the '42-'43 season. Next year is a question mark of course, but let's make the best of the forthcoming schedule, and enjoy it to the utmost.

The Green and Gold, to all appearances, is facing, what should be one of the best seasons in many a moon. Left over from last year's State Championship crew are three whing-ding ball sharks, who should make the going pretty tough for U. V. M. opponents. You know who they are, of course, but we'll name them just the same. Larry Killick, Capt. Bob Doherty, and Milt Kaufman, all of whom you'll read about elsewhere on this page.

Gone from the lineup are Big Dick Kipp and last year's Captain Red White, now in the armed forces, and it is Coach Fuzzy Evans' task to fill these important positions. With all the material on hand he should not be too hard pressed to do it.

Up in the van for the coveted assignments are two frosh who to date have shown considerable promise. They are: George Henderson, heralded as one of the best hoopsters to emerge from Pittsfield (Mass.) High School where they really turn out some red hot teams, in several seasons, and Al Johnson, lanky court artist, from Newton, Mass. Other leaders in the fight for starting berths are lads who have already shown their prowess on the U. V. M. boards. Small, but lightning-fast Reno Conti, smooth-working Tommy Clairmont, hawk-eyed Jerry Didinsky and Gil Manheim, plus tall Dick Grosvenor who played ball two years ago and is making a come-back.

In addition to this fund of talent several football men reported yesterday to make Fuzz a very happy coach. Ralph LaPointe recently dubbed "Lobo" (The Wolf) by local sports scribes, has added his presence to the squad and when Norm Beauleau joins the team in a few days, Coach Evans' ecstacy should be complete. Both of these gridiron standouts have proved their worth on the court, in high school and as freshmen hoopsters, and should add greatly to the effectiveness of the Cats. Don Murphy and Mickey Cochran have also reported and will boost reserve power no end.

Sherry Fogg has been holdng nightly sessions with a large squad of freshman and sophomore Jayvee hopefuls, whipping the youngsters into shape as future Varsity material. A number of them have shown considerable promise, and if they continue to improve may be shifted to the varsity to fill the quota of fifteen men.

The Green and Gold combine swings into high gear, on the night of December 4, under the Memorial Auditorium lights against a strong Hartwick College aggregation. It's the start of a good season, so enjoy it. It may be the last.

Juniors and seniors may sign up for the special Gym classes for upperclassmen now. Sign-up sheets are in the Gym office. Members of the faculty may also sign up for the faculty classes.

At a recent meeting of the University Council it was voted that the dates of the Christmas vacation be those originally announced in the catalogue. The vacation will start following the close of classes Saturday, December 19, and students will report for classes at the regular hours Monday, January 4.

It is probable that the hours of meeting classes on Saturday, December 19, will be changed. Definite times will be announced later.

E. Swift,
Secretary.

Three-Fourths of Students Remain for Thanksgiving

Three-fourths of the college students in the country will have to spend Thanksgiving in their dormitories Thursday. This does not indicate that that day will be just another Thursday on the Vermont campus.

As a part of the Thanksgiving program, Rev. E. S. Treat of the Congregational Church in Waterbury will speak in chapel Wednesday morning. Appropriate music will be rendered by the choir.

Thanksgiving eve, the fraternities are ushering in the day with informal dancing until 12 o'clock at their respective houses.

For people who enjoy the peace and calmness of early morn, a walk to the cafeteria will whet the appetite for breakfast (8.00-9.30).

Prof. Helen E. Underwood, director of the Waterman cafeteria and college dining halls, and her staff of willing helpers have taken time from their own holiday to give the students and faculty a real Thanksgiving dinner. The menu, which has a choice of entrees and desserts, includes turkey, cranberry sauce, and pumpkin pie, all for 75 cents. The service will be part self and part waiter. Snowy white linen table cloths with flower centerpieces will add cheer and hominess to the large dining hall. Parties of four to 16 are urged to make their reservations by tonight (Tuesday). There will be no fountain service that day.

Students may not be able to go home but they are thankful that they have homes to which they might go.

". . . In a world, long suffering from the barbarism and cruelty of war—we have lived in a land of peaceful sky and earth. There has been no ceaseless horror in the heavens above us. No endless devastation to lay our lands and homes in waste. No despot rules that our children shall starve and die.

"We are free. Free in a world of prejudice and intolerance. Free to live and speak and act and work and worship as we choose. Free to elect our own leaders. Free to live by the laws of our own making. Free to decide our own destinies. For this we give thanks and pray that God may guide us in the exercise of this freedom—that others of the earth, now slaves, may share it. That in the end—they may again be free . . ."

Reservations for Thanksgiving dinner at U. V. M. Cafeteria should be in by Tuesday, November 24.
Turkey dinner 75c.
12.30 to 1.30 p.m.
Table reservations may be made with Mrs. Behney. Tickets will be given to dormitory girls.

Davis, White and Little Hit Chicago

George Little, Jr., '43, editor of the CYNIC, Dudley Davis 43, editor of the '43 Ariel and Robert White '44, editor of the '44 Ariel left last Wednesday afternoon to attend the Associated Collegiate Press Conference in Chicago. While there, they attended many round-tables discussions and forums, which gave aids for improving the college publication. Speeches were given by famous newspapermen. The students at the convention were guests at banquets with entertainment furnished by the students of Northwestern University and Chicago Teachers College. They returned Monday afternoon with new ideas and which, we hope will help to improve our student publications here at the University.

Joy and Gladness In Religion---Dallas

New Hampshire Bishop Speaks at Vespers

To bring joy and gladness into the traditional grim and dignified New England religious service was the message of the Rev. John T. Dallas, Bishop of New Hampshire, at Sunday afternoon's vesper service in the Ira Allen Chapel.

With his rich Scotch burr, Doctor Dallas illustrated his theme by the following well known child's prayer: "From ghosties and ghoulies and four-legged beasties and things that go 'bump' in the night, may the good Lord deliver us."

Pointing out that rare combination of human and religious feeling expressed, Doctor Dallas asked the congregation to use it as a part of their personal religion.

President Millis opened the service with a prayer of invocation with the University choir under Prof. Howard Bennett singing the Lord's Prayer. Rev. Charles Martin read the Scripture lesson which was from the fifth chapter of Matthew.

Natalie Marston accompanied the choir at the organ and played also for the prelude and recessional.

Book Reviews

Once again the Billings Library has a fine selection of books to add to its collection. The four chosen for mention here are but a few of the fascinating acquisitions of the library. If you find appeal in the books reviewed here, why not come in and inspect more of these interesting purchases?

A Full Length Portrait

by HESKETH PEARSON

Many books have been written about Shaw, but the majority of them have been either critical or expository. Many have treated George Bernard Shaw as a playwright, as a philosopher, or as a critic. This book does none of those things. In this work, Shaw is treated as a great personality. Here the interest is in the man himself. The author has made a vigorous attempt to "Boswellize" Shaw. The effort is a success.

Napoleon's Invasion of Russia

by EUGENE TARLE

This book presents, for the first time, the complete story of Napoleon's invasion of Russia in 1812—and incidentally, offers some remarkable parallels to Hitler's invasion in 1941. There are portraits of dauntless guerillas, some of them women, who made life miserable for the Grand Army. There are vivid accounts of Napoleon, Murat, Davout, Alexander I, and Kutuzov. The accounts of the burning of Smolensk, the desperate battle of Borodino and the conflagration of Moscow are especially startling.

The Book from Manuscript to Market

by LEONARD C. WINANS

Here is the story of the manner in which a book is made, of the changes and processes which represent the transition from the pen of the writer to the book in the reader's hand. We see the many arts and crafts which combine to form the publishing and book manufacturing businesses. We see the processes of paper making, of printing, of binding, of engraving, of the relations between author and publisher.

To those who love books and those who live by them, this book will be welcome.

Sam Adams, Pioneer in Propaganda

by JOHN C. MILLER

Mr. Miller paints a portrait of Sam Adams as a patriot who was more responsible for fomenting—and as often by foul means as fair—the open rebellion of the American colonies than any other individual. To this propagandist, Mr. Miller traces the seditions which culminated in the Boston Tea Party, The "Bloody" Massacre, and the repeal of the Stamp Act. The work is of value not only because of its interest but also because of the originality of its presentation.

Before the war, China had 108 colleges.

Y. W. C. A. to Hold Razz-Dazz Tonight in Lounge

For the poor unfortunates who don't get home to turkey there's a Razz-Dazz Wednesday at 8 p.m. This is an old custom which has been neglected somewhat on our campus for the past few years. Y. W. C. A. is sponsoring the affair with Ruth Jordan '45 as chairman, the admisson has been set at 10c and its to be held in the faculty lounge. Prof. and Mrs. Witham and Prof. and Mrs. Chapman will chaperon.

Music is in the form of Victor records. Coming "stag or drag" is the policy of the evening.

Walt Maurer Heads Quiz Initiation

The Classical Club held a meeting for initiation of members Tuesday, November 17, at Southwick. According to the new rule, caused by the recent change in college curricula, membership is now open to those who have successfully completed a course in Latin I instead of the previous requirement of two years of college Latin.

The new initiates are Virginia Close '43, Catherine Walker '43, Anna Capen '45, Mary Harmon '45, and Marie Rolleri, '45. Initiation consisted of a quiz contest conducted by Walter Maurer, the president.

Following initiation a regular meeting was held during which Walter Maurer gave a résumé of the life of Lucien, the Greek writer. Various members then read selections of Lucien's dialogues.

At the next meeting of the Classical Club a play will be presented. The public is invited.

Outing Clubbers On 12 Mile Hike

Brownell Mountain, a little brook, somebody's cow and a gang of about 10 adventuresome U. V. M.-sters—put them all together and you get last Sunday's Outing Club Hike. The trip, estimated as the longest one yet, covered about 12 miles in all. Everyone brought his own lunch, and a grand time was had by all.

George Moody had the misfortune to fall in the brook! (He hasn't said whether he was goose-stepping or just stubbed his toe . . .) He is in the pink of condition now.

The Club is planning on an equally good time this coming week and hope more people will come.

Fraternity Notes

ALPHA TAU OMEGA

Initiation will be held on Tuesday, November 24, and the boys will be put through the paces.

Manager George "Trenchy" Stanley has produced his plans for intramural sports and the chapter has agreed on them.

Michael "Aristotle" Spylios was in bed over the week-end because of an injury sustained in basketball.

"Red" Dorian has taken up osteopathy, since he is planning to be an osteopathic physician.

Pete "Buff" Kadzis missed an afternoon tea Sunday due to some unfinished business carried over from the night before.

Albert "Smart" Martin has taken up Elementary Education, but he should have taken up Business Economics since he's been carrying on a lot of "Big business" lately.

Frank "Punchy" Sugrue has found a remedy for his snoring. He has taken up astronomy because of his star gazing last Saturday night.

Some of the weaklings of the house have already moved in from the sleeping porch; odd, but it seems they don't care for the night air.

"Spider" McCormick was seen spending an evening at home last Sunday for the first time in four years. It seems he had some conflict with the dean.

SIGMA PHI

Bill Salmon ex '44, and Rudy Kempter ex '44, both of New York City visited the chapter this week-end.

Basil Cook ex '45 of J. & L. in Springfield, Vermont stayed at the house over Saturday night.

Bud Dodge, Frank Kreusi, Bud Taylor, of Union College were visitors at the Alpha chapter this week-end.

All the brothers have sufficiently recovered from the football season!

PHI DELTA THETA

There will be a dance at the house Wednesday night. Informal in the usual Phi Delt manner.

KAPPA SIGMA

Kappa Sigma wishes to announce the initiation of two new brothers, Bart Barry '44, and Bishop McGill. There is also the announcement of the pledging of Bill Bister '44, Joe Pribula '46, and Frank Anger '46.

Debating Team To Challenge Many Eastern Colleges

Katz and Robinson To Start Against Plymouth and Bates

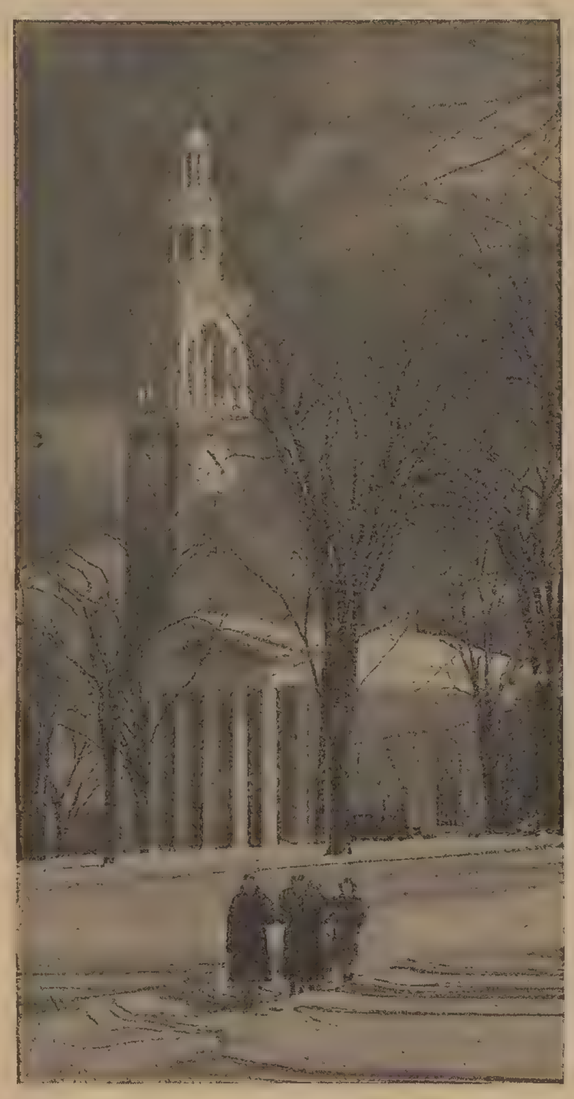

The U. V. M. debating team will be on its way to challenge New England and New York colleges for the next three week-ends.

This Thursday and Friday, December 2 and 3, Jake Katz '44, and Phil Robinson '45, will go to New Hampshire and Maine to meet a Plymouth Teacher's college and a Bates college team.

At Plymouth the Vermont team will take the affirmative side of the question; "Resolved: That the United States should establish a permanent federal union, with power to tax and regulate international commerce, to maintain a police force, to settle international disputes and to enforce such settlements, and to provide for the admission of other nations which accept the principles of the union."

The toughest competition will be encountered at Bates College where the Vermont team will face one of America's best college teams. The topic is: "Resolved: That England should at once guarantee complete independence to India, fully effective not later than ten years after the close of the present war—Allied victory assumed." Vermont will take the negative.

The plans for the two week ends following are not yet worked out, but two to four men will go to Boston December 10, and to New York December 17. This will mean action for all members of the debating team which is led this year by manager Daan Zwick '43, assisted by John Felopulos '44, Bob Norton '44, Jake Katz '44, Phil Robinson '45, and Dave Wheeler '45. All the plans for the debates are arranged, as usual, by coach M. D. Powers.

Coeds Whisk Through First Snowfall

Janet Hackwell Reigns Over Gala Military Ball

National Defense Prevalent Theme Of Champlain Sabres' Military Ball

Coed Major

JANET HACKWELL

Sponsored by the Champlain Sabres, the Military Ball last Saturday night turned out to be the biggest, most successful dance of the season. National Defense was the theme prevalent. Defense stamp corsages replaced the conventional flowers and the Catamounts were flanked by two anti-tank guns.

The high lights of the evening were the drill exhibition, the sham tank battle and the presentation of the co-ed major for 1942.

Colonel Green of Fort Ethan Allen introduced the members of the 1st Service Division of the 187th Field Artillery who then proceeded to demonstrate many intricate and difficult drills. After the drill a fake German tank entered the scene and then a jeep pulling a 37 mm anti-tank gun. A sham battle between the two then followed. Colonel Green then demonstrated the versatility of the U. S. Army Jeep.

Just before intermission Miss Janet Hackwell was presented as co-ed Major for 1942. After being presented with the Champlain Sabre for the year, Miss Hackwell drew from the big "fish bowl" the stub for the $5 defense stamp door-prize which was won by Dick Dehus, a lucky freshman. Just ask him!

Don Nutter and "Mouth" Pulleyn Give Unique Show at Phi Delt Informal

New "Spirit" Invades Gave Delta Psi Dance

Many of the fraternities on the Hill brightened Thanksgiving eve by giving informal dances, at the respective houses.

Phi Delta Theta had a unique presentation during intermission, when Don Nutter and Bob Pulleyn gave a lively demonstration of Kake Walk. Prof. and Mrs. Ladd were chaperones for the dance.

The nativity of a new spirit arose Thanksgiving eve in the Delta Psi house. The Barre Collegians furnished the music, as the Delts tripped the light fantastic in a gayly decorated ballroom.

The TEP house was also the scene of gala Thanksgiving celebration, with twenty couples attending the "Vic" dance. Len Kunken and Seymour Davidoff were in charge of the dance, and Prof. and Mrs. Doane were chaperones.

Decorated with its new drapes, the Phi Sig house in the person of 30 couples ushered in Thanksgiving by an informal dance. Prof. and Mrs. Newton were chaperones. Newton Goldman and Novy Seltzer were in charge.

Vacationers

The Rutland Railroad has asked us to let them know the approximate number of students who will use the railroad facilities in order to get home during the Christmas vacation, and without doubt the bus lines and Central Vermont Railroad would appreciate simiar information. Students, both in the three Academic Colleges and in the College of Medicine, who plan to use public methods of transportation must report to the Office of their Dean, giving the time and mode of travel home. To be of use this must be done before Wednesday evening, December 2.

This information must be given in writing on cards provided by the Deans' Offices. The cards will be ready for distribution after Tuesday noon, December 1.

Zoology Students To Visit New York

To Make Annual Trek to Museum Natural History

The annual field trip for Zoology students of the University of Vermont is to take place this year on December 18th and 19th. The tour, which will be led by Professor Moody and Doctor Perkins, is through the Museum of Natural History in New York. This tour will be conducted only in the mornings of the two days Friday and Saturday.

The students will be shown through the parts of the museum which deal with Evolution and Comparative Anatomy, Darwin Hall will, of course, receive its full share of attention. Other points of interest which will be included are the fossils and the deep sea animals. Some of the members of these departments at the museum are to guide the tour.

The preliminary list of students contains fifty-four names. Professor Moody would like to have any Zoology student who is interested in this work become a member of the group.

Christmas Concert Sunday, Dec. 13

The sixteenth annual Christmas Concert will be given at the Ira Allen Chapel, December 13, Sunday at four o'clock.

This year the highlight of the concert will be "Christmas Cantata" written especially for the University choir and University orchestra by Dr. Richard Stoehr of St. Michael's College. It was written for small orchestra, chorus, and instrumental and vocal soloists.

Other parts of the concert will be taken from Bach's Christmas Oratorio, Handel's Messiah, and well-known Christmas carols.

Professor Howard G. Bennett will direct the chorus and orchestra. Mr. Michael Anselmo will be the concert master, and Miss Miriam Marston, the organist.

Pan-Hellenic To Give Vic Dance For Airmen

Wednesday December 2, Pan Hellenic, under the leadership of Peggy Wishhart, will sponsor a dance for the men of North East Airlines. The Vic dance will be in the south wing of the cafeteria with dancing from 7.45 to 10.45 p.m.

Chaperones for the dance will be Prof. and Mrs. Carpenter, Prof. and Mrs. Ladd and Dean Mary Jean Simpson.

Graduate Club to Meet

The club meets on Thursday, December 3, in the north lounge at Southwick at 8 o'clock. Doctor Robe will speak on the subject "Austria Between Two Wars."

President Millis will speak in Chapel, Wednesday, December 2.

Muriel J. Hughes To Publish Book

Muriel J. Hughes, instructor of English, has a new book nearly ready for release by the Kings Crown Press, of Columbia University. Miss Hughes has chosen a pertinent subject, and her book, "Women Healers In Medieval Life and Literature," shows that women in medicine are by no means a modern innovation.

From the days of the Abbess Hildegarde and earlier, women have been identified with the therapeutics of healing, as physicians, as midwives, as nurses and as "old wives," old women versed in herbal lore. As early as the thirteenth century there is a record of a trial for malpractice in which a woman was the defendant.

Miss Hughes makes three divisions of her book, which she wrote in connection with her doctor's degree at Columbia University last year. She speaks of it as one third medical, one third historical, and one third relating to women healers, in medieval literature.

Library Receives 140 Rare Volumes

Include Editions Of Religious Note

A gift of 140 rare Latin, French and Italian books has been received by Billings library from the Rev. Vincent Ravi-Booth, D.D., of Bennington. The books, which are being catalogued as a special collection, are from the private library of Doctor Ravi-Booth's father, the late S. V. Ravi, of Rome, Italy, and consist primarily of titles on controversial religious subjects of the 16th, 17th and 18th centuries, the earliest being a copy of D. Joan Chrysostomi, In Sanctum Jesu Christi Evangelium, Pariisis, 1543.

According to the library officials, the collection includes some interesting editions on Jansenism, Calvinism, the history of the Spanish Inquisition and several Latin Ecclesiastical histories dealing with the Church of Rome and her various controversies through the centuries. There are also editions of the classics, representative of the most noted European printers of those eras. A good example of the Elzever firm is Joannis Dallaei, De Imaginibus, Ex Officina Elzeviriana, 1642.

In a letter to Miss Helen B. Shattuck, head librarian at the Billings library, Doctor Ravi-Booth states, "My father was the founder of the first Protestant Church in Rome, established two years after Rome became the capital of united Italy, i.e., 1872 . . . During the many years he lived in Rome he prowled around second hand book stores, never missing a chance to buy an ancient book. Some of his books he bought from the library of Cardinal Barberini when it was sold at auction."

Vt. and Midd. Delegates Meet At Univ. of Hawaii

Mr. C. T. Bailey, class of '08, represented U. V. M. at the inauguration of President Sinclair of the University of Hawaii on October 21. Before marching to the amphitheater, the delegates were lined up in two, and when Mr. Bailey's partner failed to show up, another man was assigned to replace him. Surprisingly, this man turned out to be Lieut. Storrs Lee, representing Middlebury College, and out of fifty or more couples, purely by accident, the delegates representing the two Vermont institutions walked and sat together.

There will be another Gold Key smoker soon. Watch for the date.

The Dept. of Music Offers Selections

Numerous Christmas Recordings Available

Down at 70 Williams Street every Friday afternoon a group of students have been getting together for the sole purpose of listening to an entire work without interruption. They have used the records from the Carnegie collection and from the Department of Music collection.

Next Friday they will be listening to the Christmas part of Handel's Messiah. There is room for anyone who wishes to listen. This special music hour is from 4.10 to 5.10. Although quiet is requested during the hour, anyone may come and go when he pleases.

The Carnegie Listening Set has been repaired and is available from two to five every afternoon except Saturdays when it is available from nine to twelve, and Monday and Friday evenings from seven to nine.

For the Christmas season the following music is suggested for your listening pleasure:

Sortie On Fortie

We've had a neighbor for the last couple months. A young upstart, rather noisy, but interested in what's going on in the neighborhood. Fortie Six, one of the more recent sixes to appear hereabouts, has barged here and there around campus, sometimes aptly and again ineptly. And some of his observations have been shrewd and others just what you'd expect from a freshman.

It's fairly easy to note the shortcomings around our campus—especially if you dig around in the dirt a little. Any freshman with the urge can do that. And it's a good thing for us to know what's wrong with us.

From here on the turkey gets tougher. To find out just why these shortcomings exist takes a little knowledge and experience and it's harder yet to suggest workable remedies. Not a patent medicine, for it takes a super dose of a super drug to cure things around this campus. Fortie Six has hit several nails on the head—but being a freshman, he hit his thumb nail too.

About a year ago a great change, a great improvement rose up on one side of our campus. The great migration from Coffee Corner and engineering building began, and the Waterman Memorial became the center of our activities—and non-activities. We wandered through halls reeking with odors of fresh paint, peeked into row upon row of empty, unfurnished rooms—and heard the hollow cough of the University coffers. We wondered, "has the University received a white elephant?"

We know now it is a horse of another color. We sang songs sitting on the floor of the Student lounge. We moved what furniture that could be scraped up from room to room, so everyone in the class could sleep comfortably. In the cafeteria examination tables lost their grimmer aspects when covered with oil cloth and co-ed's elbows.

We have watched this happen gradually—continued steady improvement. So when a freshman asks for love seats in the student lounge, our reaction is, "What do you want—egg in your beer?"

Time And House-Mothers Wait For No Man

Old Father Time has taken quite a beating around here lately. War time has fixed it so we're in the dark when we slapped down the alarm clock. So the University Council has put one over on the old man by making us a half-hour ahead of ourselves. All of which has reason behind it. Far behind it.

But in the meantime there are certain discrepancies. The library gets up early as usual, and quits early. Maybe they'll be healthy and wealthy, but we students will never get wise at this rate. Not unless the powers that be get wise and synchronize the library with the rest of the campus.

And the women! They get a much-needed half-hour beauty sleep in the morning, but no time in which to take advantage of it at night. With morning classes running into the afternoon, and afternoon classes encroaching upon the evening, a girl has to be a track star to have a decent social evening. Some simple ruling such as setting all house mother's clocks back a half hour would help a lot.

Campus Comment

To the Editor of the CYNIC:

Last Sunday evening from five o'clock to six about fifty people mingled together informally out at Southwick. They all appeared to be having a heck of a good time as they put away the refreshments and chatted among themselves around the friendly fire-place. I was one of those persons and I just wanted to say a word about who was there and why, and what a success the whole affair seemed to turn out to be.

Not long ago in a Student Government board meeting the problem of bringing students and teachers into a closer and "friendlier" relationship was discussed and it was decided that one solution of the problem would be to have an "open house" supper somewhere to which everyone on campus would be welcome. Staff and Sandal, women's junior honorary society, thought of a similar scheme at just about the same time. Well, with the go-ahead signal from the Student Government, Staff and Sandal organized the initial "experiment" in making the suggested idea a reality—and the Sunday night affair was the outcome. For the first occasion it was deemed advisable to send out special invitations. About fifteen members of the faculty, representing the various departments, were present and about thirty-five students, representing the Independents and certain organizations as well as the fraternities and sororities on the hill.

In an informal buffet style everyone partook of the plentiful and attractive sandwiches, tasty popcorn, fruit punch, and apples which Staff and Sandal so generously supplied. A small fee of fifteen cents was paid by everyone at the door.

It seems to me that this served as an ideal method both to know your own instructors better as "real human beings" and to make the acquaintance of professors whom you will never have in your particular courses. There were many little groups scattered about the room but the members of them were constantly changing. Everyone felt free to "circulate." In a number of cases some students met fellow students whom they had not known before. All sorts of topics were discussed. Professor Long was at one time in a group which included President Millis in a confab over the second front; Prof. Aiken was noting the number of students who were polishing the apple (literally!); Proctor Page was here, there, and everywhere; Brud Fulton was telling an interested group about the Outing Club plans for the coming week-end; another "bunch" was discussing the disastrous Boston fire. And so it went. Members of Staff and Sandal were everywhere at the right time, helping with the serving, introducing people to each other, etc.

Well, there's probably an article about it elsewhere in the CYNIC and I don't want to steal some reporter's thunder, but I just wanted to say that the thing looks like a swell idea and I hope it's continued. A lot of credit certainly ought to go to the co-chairmen, Priscilla Perkins and Julia Fletcher and to the other members of Staff and Sandal who put it over with such splendid success.

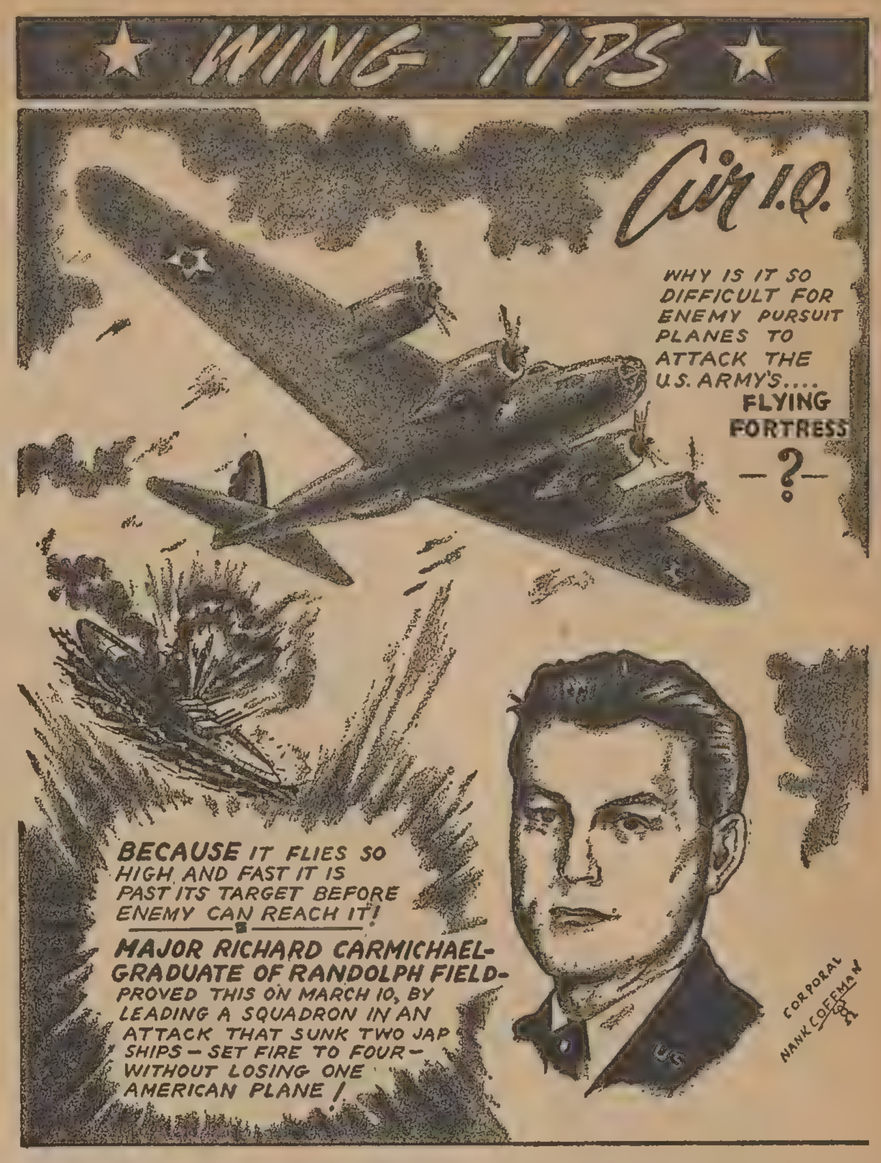

Yours truly,
JOHN CORLISS, '44.

Fraternity Notes

PHI DELTA THETA

This is social week. Strictly private.

Richard "the Chief" Flynn hung his pin.

Louis Bates Codding III lost his pin but the brothers are in doubt about it.

The informal dance had royal entertainment with D. J. Nutter cake-walking during intermission.

"Smiley" Benoit predicts a white Christmas.

Jack Williams is glad that the Pi Phis noticed his new car.

Link Bailey is expected back for "social week."

"Pop" Nutter just returned from the marriage of his daughter in New York City. It might also be added that his stud zoot suit was the rage of the party.

SIGMA NU

Due to increasing demand for conservation of resources, West and Bloomer are selling stock on a "rendering company" to be functioning on the third floor of the Lodge. They seem to have worked out a scheme for obtaining a large output from a "small investment." All contributions are gratefully received. Those with large dogs may contact "the boys" for information or compensation.

The Marzari-La Gray controversy was finally settled over the railing at the Tri Delt House.

Corbosiero has a car??

There has been much mystery over Delano's hurried trip to the President's office. We feel that perhaps the President was concerned over Red's failure to land a position. The mystery was increased when Red returned with a smile on his face.

Sigma Phi

"Chuck" Warner '46, spent another profitable week-end entertaining another headmaster at his former prep school. But the headmaster was not all he "entertained."

"Available" Sam Vail '45, is available now only to Uncle Sam. P.S. He's 1-A.

"Luke" Hamlin '45, and Joe Allen '44, wish to report that all is quiet on the Eastern front.

"Riche" Evans ex '45, has decided that his services are more valuable to the United States war effort than to college work. He has enlisted in the army and leaves December 3 for induction. "Riche" expects to be General by spring.

"Junior" Banghart '45, left Saturday, November 28 for New York by plane. As this is his last trip in the air we all hope he makes it O.K. We also hope that the Stewardess was petite.

After a vigorous work-out last Saturday afternoon, the Sigma Phi basketball club is shaping up in great style. But the brothers feet will be sore for some time to come.

Metcalf to Speak at John Dewey Club

The regular monthly meeting of the John Dewey Club will be held on Thursday, December 3, at 7.45 p.m. in room 140 of the Waterman Building. Prof. J. T. Metcalf, chairman of the Psychology Department, will speak on "Use of Psycology in War."

Prof. Metcalf is well qualified to speak on this topic since he was stationed at Fort Devens during World War I where he was engaged in certain aspects of the psychology of war. The various tests given to recruits and their significance will be discussed. All members of the club are urged to be present for the topic promises to be highly interesting in view of the present situation.

At this meeting initiation will be held for those students who are eligible to join the club. Any student who has taken a course in psychology or philosophy and has received a grade of B or better is eligible for membership and is invited to come to the meeting and join the club.

Killick Doubtful Starter Against Hartwick

Frat Fives Lift Curtain

House Cagers Divided Into Two Sections

Friday at 4.30 the Sigma Phis and the ATO's line up on the floor of the men's gymnasium to open the 1943 season of Vermont interfraternity basketball. This year there are two leagues in two classes of ball. Class A ball is divided into Leagues A and B, and Class B ball into Leagues X and Y.

Class A ball involves the interfraternity championship and Trainer Trophy points, while Class B has been arranged for those men who have not had the experience necessary to compete in Class A but would still like to play basketball for their own personal enjoyment and the benefit derived therefrom. Class B contestants will thus have a chance to compete without the extra pressure of having to win for Dear Old Alpha and the Trainer Trophy points.

Under Class A, League A is composed of six teams: Sigma Nu, Delta Psi, SAE, ATO, Sigma Phi, and Phi Delta Theta. League B has five teams: Kappa Sigma, The Independents, the TEP's, the Owls, and Phi Sigma Delta. Ordinarily the Faculty would be the sixth team of League B but this year they will not be entering a team. In Class B the Leagues and the schedule have not been drawn up yet as it is doubtful whether some fraternities will be able to enter teams.

Following the opener on Friday are three contests Saturday afternoon. At 1.45 the Delts take on the Phi Delts and at 3.45 the SAE's line up against Sigma Nu, in League A competition. At 2.45, Kappa Sigma plays Phi Sigma Delta to open the League B season. The remainder of the schedule will be ready for publication later in the week.

Following pre-season practices and the first game the managers of the various fraternity teams are required to submit to Archie Post, Director of Intramural Sports, a complete fraternity roster, and the names of eight men who will represent the fraternity for the rest of the season in Class A competition.

The pennant-winners in the two leagues of Class A will meet in a post-season play-off of three games to determine the interfraternity champion. The dates of these games are to be set later.

There is also a possibility that the medics will have two four team leagues with two teams representing each class, but nothing definite has been arranged along this line as yet.

Twenty thousand hours of flying instruction have been given at Northwestern University without an injury.

Four Teams Bowl On Interfrat Alleys

On Tuesday December 1, the interfraternity bowling league will pry off the lid when the ATO's meet the RDT's and SAE's oppose PSD's. Much interest, as in years past has been shown as each fraternity team has been practicing, either individually, or as a unit, conditioning themselves for the opening game.

The Sigma Nu's winners of last year's league, promise to display plenty of rolling power again this season. However, they will have to compete against some top flight teams that have developed since the last season.

The PSD's runner ups last year, will be out gunning for the coveted first place, which they nearly had within their grasp last year.

Again this year, the league will be run in round robin affair, with each team playing every other team at least twice during the season.

"Pop" Brooks, custodian of the alleys and a great friend of all who enter the portals of his realm, has announced that he expects a bigger and better season, lots of upsets, with many of the so-callel obscure bowlers, knocking off the top flighters.

A final word of caution, must be given to all those bowling this year. The foul line rule will be strictly enforced, a judge will be on hand to check this violation and any member not adhering to the rule, will be penalized. Let's try and observe the foul line!

Alpha Chi's Score In Girls' Basketball

The Alpha Chi's chalked up the biggest score in the basketball tournament to date, when they beat the Elmwood team 19 to 3. However, the Alpha Chi's had the advantage of twenty to six in the number of players on their squad, which makes a big difference in the amount of snap a team can display in the last quarter.

The next game of the tournament will be played between the Tri Delts and Sanders house on Tuesday, December 1, at five o'clock.

Among members of the freshman class of Saint Mary-of-the-Woods College are seven daughters of alumnae of the school.

Shoulder Ailment Hampers Cage Ace

Evans Drills Conti In Forward's Place

The crystal gazers on Vermont's campus are predicting great things from their court squad this winter, but just how the Cats will look in their opener against Hartwick Friday night is questionable.

Larry Killick, ace forward of the Green and Gold quintet may not be able to go. Larry has been out this past week with shoulder trouble, and may not be set to take off his wraps against the Hartwick team.

As yet the lads have to work out as a team. Their passing attack is ragged, and the scoring plays have not been clicking smoothly. All this together with Killick's possible absence presents a none too rosy picture.

Just what Hartwick may uncork in the way of fancy court work remains a mystery. The invaders will be sporting a new coach.

It looks at this point as though Reno "Little Man" Conti would get the call to team up with Milt Kaufman at the forward slot if Killick stays on the bench. The former Spaulding High School performer has played a lot of ball in preseason practice sessions, and is also a holdover from last year.

Capt. Bob Doherty and Milt Kaufman will be the only two seniors appearing with the Cats Friday. Doherty with three seasons of sensational play behind him will be set to start on a scoring spree such as he figured in last winter as a converted, eagle-eyed guard.

Teaming with him at the other guard spot will be Ralph LaPointe, most recently given honorable All-American rating by the Boston Post.

LaPointe produced plenty of top rate ball playing with the Frosh last winter, and in addition, was a standout at Vermont Junior College two seasons ago. Chick's flashy play should add plenty to the potential scoring power of the Evansmen.

Norm Beaulieu will round out the Vermont five, taking over the center spot. Norm has had plenty of experience on the basketball floor, having played with the state championship Spaulding High School some seasons back, and donning the freshman colors last winter.

On the sidelines, but ready for plenty of action will be experienced Tom Clairmont, a varsity member of last year, and a former Burlington High School court star. Also up from last season's varsity will be Gil Manheim, and Jerry Didinsky.

A couple of freshmen have also been added to Evans' not-to-be forgotten list. George Henderson, a ball handler out of Pittsfield, Mass., was rated as one of the best ever to emerge from the school, and another Bay State lad, Al Johnson bid fair to develop into two of the Cats' most promising dribblers.

La Pointe Takes Bride

Beaulieu Best Man At Star's Wedding

Ralph LaPointe, Chick to U. V. M. sports fans, took time out from basketball practice last Thanksgiving morning, to take himself a wife. Miss Cathryn Ada Maroney was wed to the Vermont athlete at the St. Stephen's rectory in Winooski, with the Rev. John B. McGarry performing the single ring ceremony. The couple are both from Winooski and it was the culmination of a long romance. Of course it was only fitting that Chick's best man should be Norm Beaulieu, his running mate on this year's Catamount, State Championship football team.

Both bride and bridegroom are graduates of Winooski High School, class of 1940. Mrs. LaPointe is also a graduate of Burlington Business College.

After completing a brilliant athletic career at the school across the river, Chick betook himself to Vermont Junior College where he was a standout in three major sports: football, basketball, and baseball. He led the Blue and White to one of its most successful years in history especially on the gridiron, although he had never played eleven man football before in his life. Teaming up with Jim Fabiano, a Massachusetts lad, he showed some of the pass catching ability which was to later make him one of the best gridders in the East. Ralph also was a baseball wizard taking care of the V. J .C. hot corner with ease and slapping the apple out of the park all season.

As a freshman here at Vermont, Chick continued his winning ways. He was on all the frosh squads and led the Kittens to the winning of the State pigskin crown. During the summer he played summer baseball in Maine and several big-league scouts are looking his way as a good prospect after graduation.

This year Chick really came into his own as one of the athletic greats of U. V. M. His running, coupled with the bullseye passing of Norm Beaulieu, paced the slow starting Cats to the state crown and the unbelievable upsetting of the arrogant Norwich football steamroller. Lobo, as he has been called because of his twisting, wolf-like run, amassed a grand total of 67 points during the year to become one of the highest scoring backs in the entire country. He is also expected to be one of the mainstays of the forthcoming basketball quintet, which opens this Friday against Hartwick College.

After the nuptial ceremony, a dinner for the bridal party was served at the home of the bride's parents. The couple will make their home at 109 Main Street, Burlington.

Announce Changes In Cage Schedule

With Trinity definitely out of the picture, Vermont's athletic directors were today looking for some opposition to fill in January 29. Negotiations between Arnold College and Vermont are in progress now, but as yet no official announcement as to the former's annexation to the schedule has been made.

In addition to Trinity, Bowdoin College has dropped its engagement with the Cats.

The revised schedule:

Amateur Artist and Modelers To Get Chance in Hobby Group

Have you ever wanted to get your hands into modeling clay, even if the resulting object could not even in kindness be called art? Do you feel that, given a chance, you could paint circles around some of these strange modern artists? Are your nerves frayed? Maybe a little whittling on some white pine is the answer.

The hobby course, started a short time ago in the Art Center, has already saved a few souls, but there is room and opportunity for many more. To date, students who have come over to the Art Center on Monday and Thursday afternoons have turned out sculpture, linoleum blocks, a great many figure drawings, gessoed boxes, book ends and other objects d'art, both useful and decorative.

Started during rushing and other campus activities, the hobby course is not as well known as it should be. The course, for which no credit is given, and to which there are no attendance requirements, is open to any student on the campus. It offers an opportunity to let off steam through the exciting medium of creation. Some students came to the Art Center from curiosity and have come faithfully ever since to work; others knew just what they wanted and found it. Some of them are good and some very properly don't care if they are or not . . . but they are all having a good and an instructive time.

What can you do in the hobby course? Almost anything—within reason. Go over and confess your secret artistic yearnings to Mrs. Mills, or Miss Colburn, or visit Mr. Colburn's studio. These instructors are on hand for the hobby course meetings and will talk with you any time, giving advice and encouragement.

Beside the sculpture, block printing, gessoing and painting of wooden articles already mentioned, a further wide field of activity is open to interested students. "Drawing and painting is a limitless field," says Mr. Colburn, and Mrs. Mills points out that thus far no one has undertaken jewelry making, or puppeteering.

When a large enough group has expressed interest, Horace Eldred of the Fleming Museum is going to give practical instruction in photography.

Whatever your interests, and whether or not you feel yourself an accomplished artist, go over to the Art Center on Monday and Thursday afternoons. Who knows? Maybe you are the Twentieth Century Leonardo! If you can't make it at these times come over any time and talk the situation over. And remember, it's for the fun of it.

Astrolabes Given to Fleming Museum by U. V. M. Alumnus

Have you ever met an astrolabe? Most people haven't, but it's not hard to do if you live within reasonable distance of the Fleming museum. The museum has an interesting collection of these astronomical instruments, cunningly constructed, according to Dr. H. F. Perkins, director of the museum, by F. R. Bolster of Forestville, Conn., an alumnus of the University in the class of 1916.

The astrolabes are hand-made replicas used by mariners in the long ago days for telling latitude and longitude by the stars, chiefly the North Star, at night. One is an exact reproduction of that carried by Samuel de Champlain on his tour of discovery which resulted in his finding of Lake Champlain, the original instrument being now in the Chateau Ramizay in Montreal.

The collection given the museum by Mr. Bolster contains various items, all different and all for different use, but in the main all are intended to obtain similar results. They are examples of skilled technique, cleverly wrought and fitted. Most of those used for sighting by the stars are equipped with brass gunsights.

There are also a few smaller dials, including a ship dial; a French disk dial; a card dial; a nocturnal dial; a seven faced dial, a reproduction of the Palace Dial at Copenhagen, Denmark; and a Roman universal adjustable dial, the gentleman's pocket watch at 250 A.D.

Doctor Perkins says of Mr. Bolster, "He has an interesting hobby, which is really a double header. Not only does he have the fun of fabricating these unusual instruments, but when finished, he has the additional fun of putting them to actual use, calculating by them in the manner of centuries ago."

First Bailey Cup Semi-Final Debate Wednesday

The first of the two semi-final debates for the Bailey cup contest will be held this Wednesday December 2, at 4.15 p.m. in room 152 in the Waterman Building.

Donald Hackel '45 and Joe Waterman '45, will meet Melvin Wallshein '44, and Ernest Barash '44, in a discussion of the question; "Resolved: That the United Nations should establish a permanent federal union with power to tax and regulate international commerce, to maintain a police force, to settle international disputes and to enforce such settlements and to provide for the admission of other nations which accept the principles of the union."

Debating coach Merrill D. Powers is in charge of all arrangements and will be one of the judges in the debate. Everybody is cordially invited.

DELTA PHI EPSILON

A tea was held last Saturday in the south lounge of Southwick by Delta Phi Epsilon in honor of their two visiting alumnae, Alice Reichman and Ruth Spivak, both from New York City. Details were arranged by Marge Rubin, social chairman.

As we say good-bye to Shep Fein, Delta Phi Epsilon welcomes back Estey Berkson and Gerry Jasper from Boston and New York, respectively and respectfully.

Last Tuesday, the pledges of Delta Phi Epsilon held a very successful tea for the pledges of the other sororities on the campus. The tea was held in the North Lounge of Southwick and Lucile Goldstein, Pledge Mother, and Phyllis Eisenberg, pledge social chairman, poured.

Betty Perley '39, and Madge Duba Stannard '41, visited at the house over the week-end.

Colleges to Compete In Radio Debate

Universities and colleges throughout the country are registering for the second series of National Intercollegiate Radio Prize Debates to be held under the auspices of the American Economic Foundation with the cooperation of the Blue Network. The Foundation conducts the "Wake Up, America!" Radio Forum heard every Sunday afternoon over the Blue Network.

Dr. William F. Pierce, chairman of the board of trustees of the American Economic Foundation and formerly president of Kenyon College, will moderate the local and national radio debates held in connection with the contest. There will be eight local qualifying debates broadcast between February 15 and March 15, the winner and second best to receive a $50 and a $25 cash prize, respectively.

The finals will be debated on Sunday April 18, at the "Wake Up, America!" period 3.15 to 4.00 p.m., E.W.T., WJZ, New York. The winner of the final will receive a $1,000 War Savings Bond and $250 cash and the runner-up a $500 War Savings Bond and $125 cash.

The subject of the debate is "Should American Youth Support the Re-establishment After the War of Competitive Enterprise as our Dominant Economic System?"

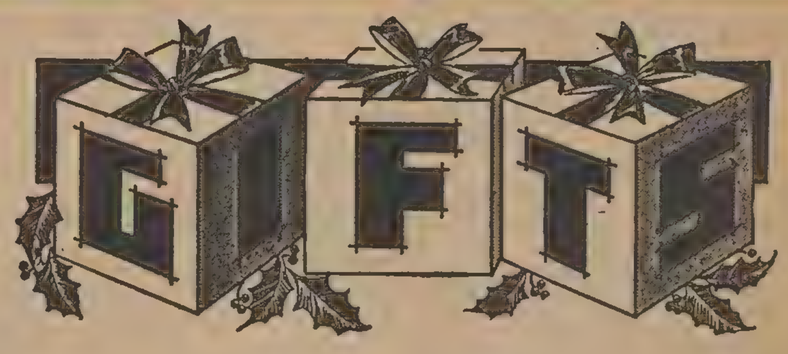

Students of 185 universities and colleges representing 44 states and the District of Columbia entered the first series of National Intercollegiate Radio Prize Debates held under the same auspices early this year. The success of this contest, the first of its kind ever to be held over the air, prompted the initiation of the second series. Colleges receiving invitations have until November 15 to notify the American Economic Foundation, 295 Madison Avenue, New York, of their intention of entering students in the contest.

Christmas Concert Features Dr. Stoehr's New Cantata

Other Highlights—Bach And Handel's Messiah

As in past years the climax of the musical activities during the first semester will be reached in the sixteenth annual Christmas Concert to be given at the Ira Allen Chapel December 13, Sunday afternoon at four o'clock.

This year the highlight of the concert will be "Christmas Cantata" written especially for the University Choir and University Orchestra by Dr. Richard Stoehr of St. Michael's College. It was written for small orchestra, chorus, and instrumental and vocal soloists.

Doctor Stoehr received his degree in medicine from the University of Vienna but turned his attention to music. At the Conservatory he studied piano under Schenner, organ under Vockner, and composition under Robert Fuchs. He was assistant teacher in 1901 and full teacher in 1904 of theory there. His works include several books on theory and a number of instrumental and vocal numbers in addition to a fairy opera, Rumpelstilzchen.

Last year the Women's Glee Club performed his composition for women's voices, New Year's Eve; and a group of music students performed four of his works for women's voices, Daybreak, Cradle Song, Echoes and Spring, at the Red Cross benefit concern last May.

Other parts of the concert will be taken from Bach's Christmas Oratorio, Handel's Messiah, and the well-known Christmas carols.

Professor Howard G. Bennett will direct the chorus and orchestra. Mr. Michael Anselmo will be the concert-master, and Miss Miriam Natilee Marston the organist.

This year the Chapel Orchestra is being replaced by the University Orchestra and the Choir is being augmented by students, members of the faculty, and townspeople.

Gold Key Aided By Prof. B. Ladd

Perhaps unheralded thus far this year is Prof. B. Ladd who is doing a bang-up job as advisor for Gold Key, men's sophomore honorary society. There are eleven active members now since Dave Phillips has left for the air corps, and they have staged two highly successful smokers so far this semester.

The primary purpose of these smokers is to view the freshman talent for Gold Key next year and about forty men, selected alphabetically, are invited each time. Speakers are heard; the last time they were Archie Post, coach of track, and Bob Doherty, basketball captain; and refreshments are served.

The next smoker will be held on the 17th and as an added attraction a technicolor film which has proved highly interesting on the lumber industry in the state of Washington will be shown. There will be a business meeting in the cafeteria next Wednesday night to discuss plans for this smoker.

Prof. Dean Guest At Pilgrim Fellowship

The members of Pilgrim Fellowship had a grand time last Sunday at Mrs. Harwood's on Ledge Road. Professor Dean was guest. He tried to find out just what it is students object to in the way their classes are run. The discussion proved very revealing.

This Sunday we meet at Mr. and Mrs. Jones' on 16 S. Winooski Avenue The groups appointed to look into (1) Japanese student problem; (2) the books for soldiers problem are going to give a report of their results. Be sure to show up!

President Millis Speaks On Faith

"Faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen" (Hebr. 11-1) was the topic of President Millis' speech in the chapel last Wednesday morning. One hundred and thirty-four persons and the choir heard him say that there is faith in physics, social science, and democracy as well as in religion. Said President Millis, "The sons of our Alma Mater who are dying for democracy are evidence of our faith in democracy."

"Hark, Now, O Shepherds," a Moravian Melody, was the choral anthem. The audience joined in singing "Faith of Our Fathers" and in reading together the responsive reading, "The Source of Wisdom and Knowledge." Miss Natalie Marston rendered appropriate organ music.

Intrepid Hikers Brave Mansfield

Outing Club Members Smother Forest Fire

Several hardy members of the Outing Club braved the blizzards of Mt. Mansfield last Sunday. The party visited the Cave of Winds and proceeded from there to Taft Lodge, where, after much difficulty, they finally succeeded in building a fire. After sitting around the fire and singing for some time, they left the lodge in the afternoon and started back, taking the route over the highest point of Mt. Mansfield. Darkness, heavy snow, and a terrific wind caused the hikers to miss Sunset Ridge, their intended trail. Finally arriving at Stevens Trail, one of the members caught sight of a glow in the distance. The glow turned out to be a tree whose top had caught on fire, spreading flame to nearby brush. While the boys chopped off the top part of the burning tree, the girls put out the smaller fires with snow. After reporting this incident to the local fire warden, the group continued their journey down the trail, returning home quite late.

Convocation to Mark Pearl Harbor Tragedy

December 7, the first anniversary of Pearl Harbor, will be marked on the University campus by a special convocation at 10.30 in the morning. The hour program on that day will begin at 7.30 a.m. as it does regularly on Wednesdays.

The program which will be held in the Chapel will mark the observance of our first year of war both as a nation and as a University. It is expected that the University's service flag, being made by the Home Economics Club, will be on display for the first time.

All members of the R. O. T. C. unit will be in uniform on December 7 and will be expected to attend the convocation in a body. The Color Guard unit will take part in the program, as well as the University Choir. A brief address is to be made by the President.

The meeting of the women of the faculty which was to be held Friday evening, December 4, has been postponed to Thursday evening, December 10, so that those who wish to attend the Community Concert will be able to do so.

First In Series of Suppers Great Success

Last Sunday evening, the first in a hoped-for series of faculty-student suppers was held at Southwick. Sponsored by Staff and Sandal and headed by Pussy Perkins and Julia Fletcher, the supper turned out to be a grand success.

Many of the University's celebrities, including President Millis, Dean Swift, Dean Simpson, and professors from each of the colleges, were present. They mingled informally with the students, chatting about current events, the weather, and apple-polishing.

For this first supper, invitations were sent out for representatives from each sorority, fraternity, and the Independents. However, a general invitation to all students will be extended for the next supper which is planned for Sunday, January 10, 1943, again under the direction of Staff and Sandal.

This is certainly a wonderful chance for all students to become better acquainted with the University's directors, professors, and instructors, besides having a good time (It's really possible, just ask John Corliss or any of the others who were present last Sunday). This may be the long-awaited solution to the problem of promoting better relationships between the faculty and students here at U. V. M.

The supper is strictly informal, so, boys why not drop in with your dates on your way to the movies Sunday evening? There will be plenty of time to make the first show as the supper is from 5 to 6. Hope to see you at the next supper—will I?

U. V. M. Debates Bates and Plymouth

Jake Katz and Phil Robinson represent the U. V. M. debating team at Plymouth Teachers' College in New Hampshire and at Bates College in Maine.

At Bates, the Vermonters will face one of America's best college teams. Vermont will take the negative of the question: "Resolved: That England should at once guarantee complete independence to India, fully effective not later than 10 years after the close of the present war—Allied victory assumed."

On December 10, representatives of the debating team will go to Boston and on December 17 a group will go to New York.

There will be meeting of Staff and Sandal next Thursday, December 10, 8.00 p.m., at Southwick.

Sorority Girls Hold Big Dance Saturday

All the sororities on the hill together with their pledges will join in the annual Intersorority Dance Saturday night, December 5. Sponsored by Pan-Hellenic the dance is under the direction of Jean Blume '43, chairman, "Dee" Welsh '43, Esther Gustafson '44 and "Margo" Benoit '43.

Something new in the way of music for the campus will be furnished by a band from Fort Ethan Allen. Chaperones for the affair will be Prof. and Mrs. Nuquist, Prof. and Mrs. Carpenter and Miss Mary Jean Simpson. This dance, which will be strictly informal is at the Waterman cafeteria from 8.30 to 12.00 p.m. Saturday.

Canterbury Club To Organize This Sunday

Canterbury Club, the College group for Episcopal students, will meet this Sunday, December 6, at 7.30 p.m., in the Parish House. A short worship service in the adjoining Chapel will precede the business meeting at which the election of officers will take place. Other matters of organization will be discussed along with a service project which the group hopes to begin soon. All Episcopal students and any others who are interested are cordially invited to attend.

Training as volunteer nurses' aides is open to University of Michigan women students in a new course.

Five Men, Two Women ave Excellent Marks

Seven members of the senior class, five boys and two girls, last Wednesday achieved the enviable honor of being elected to the Vermont Alpha Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa. The elections were made on the basis of excellence in scholarship throughout their college course and of high moral character, the new members being H. Nelson Browne, Jr., G.S.; Llewellyn M. Jones, G.S.; Helen M. McLean, C.T.; Russell Marshall, E.E.; William A. Pierce, L.S.; Mrs. Faith K. Prior, H.Ec.; and Oliver F. Swift, G.S.

The fact that they attained their position during the fall of the year constitutes a distinct honor in itself since a higher average is required than for membership in the spring.

All seven have been outstanding students throughout their four years in one way or another and definite assets to college life. Browne is affiliated with Lambda Iota fraternity and has been active in interfraternity athletics as well as a constant upholder of the Dean's list.

Jones of Swanton is a member of Sigma Nu, has put in valuable time on the Cynic staff and as a member of U. C. A., Le Cercle Francais, A. R. C. and other clubs, Freshman camp director his sophomore year and S. C. M. Regional Delegate.

Marshall, who comes from Adams, Mass., has been an active member of the electrical engineers, elected vice-president by the club his junior year.

Pierce of Lyndonville is a member of Gold Key his sophomore year, is connected with various clubs, among them Le Cercle Francais and John Dewey Club, has been promoted to position of business manager on the Cynic staff and achieved the Howard Freshman first prize.

Swift, a native of Burlington, is a member of Delta Psi fraternity, was assistant manager of track his junior year and has been particularly active in the musical organizations, namely R. O. T. C. Band and University Orchestra.

Both girls are members of Alpha Chi Omega sorority. Miss McLean of Johnson being a staunch supporter of the W. A. A. besides showing scholastic prowess. She is treasurer of W. A. A. Council and a member of All Sports Club, honorary women's athletic society, and active in Y. W. C. A.

Mrs. Prior of Vergennes transferred from Pratt Institute at the end of her freshman year and is an active member of Newman Club and Home Economics Club, as well as President of Bluestockings, women's honorary literary society, and Omicron Nu, honorary Home Economics Society.

The seven will be initiated on Tuesday, December 8, following which there will be a banquet in their honor.

At a public meeting following the dinner, President Stephen A. Freeman of Middlebury College will speak on "Barriers." All who are interested are cordially invited to be present for this address.

The Vermont Cynic

The Official Student Newspaper of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College

VOL. 61 DECEMBER 4, 1942 NO. 21

Doctors and hospitals that treated victims of the Cocoanut Grove disaster have testified to the great value of blood plasma in treatment of burns and shock. More than 1,000 units of plasma were used in this mass administration.

The entire state of Massachusetts was combed for this vital material needed for transfusions. However, this fact in itself indicates that there was a shortage of plasma in the greater Boston area and that perhaps several lives were lost for this reason. The shortage gave rise to a call to the Washington Red Cross which obliged by sending many units to the scene by plane and likewise the Boston Red Cross contributed a number of units. The fact remains that there was a shortage and that if there had not been such a deficiency many lives would have been saved.

Thus through such an emergency the value of blood plasma should be brought home to everyone. Those that doubted Vermont would never be bombed can now understand how other situations may arise in which the plasma is greatly needed. Too bad most of us must learn by experience in sucn matters.

The blood bank at U. V. M. is proceeding underway as planned. The equipment is gradually being procured (gradually because the Red Cross has priority on such materials) and very shortly the doctors will be able to send out the call for blood donors. Students will be called upon to give the blood, many of them signed to do so a few weeks back on Blood Plasma Day, but those who did not sign at that date are still welcome to contribute.

When donors are needed each student will be notified as to the time and place. Let us not fail to keep that engagement with the blood bank. The value of plasma has proven immense, we must create a supply of it. A deficiency in this stuff created a serious problem in Boston, don't let it happen here.

The hospitals of the state will collect the blood, send in to the University of Vermont to be processed, after which it will be returned to the original hospital so that a store may be built up for any emergency.

"Doc" Cuther gave first aid demonstrations after Wednesday's dance with Jimmy Baum giving a very convincing and realistic performance as the patient.

Bob Hallet and Sid Grace have been billed for an act at Marietta's. They claim it is a very high billing at that.

"Irv Honey" Harris has changed the slogan "Go West Young Man" to "Come East Young Girl."

Dave Bikoff visited Bernie Kaye's home for Thanksgiving. Bernie's mother is still wondering where all the food went.

Recent fraternity elections haven't brought out as much jubilation as in past years. Perhaps the effects from the last informal still haven't worn off. Our precocious young gent, Paul Schoenberg '44, was duly elected master frater.

The Phi Sig basketeers are out to cop the championship this year in no uncertain terms. Stan Fieber '44, is coach and will be ably assisted by that notable authority and mentor, David "Bee" Kenet '44. Dave intends to introduce the old "razzia" system which promises to be devastating.

The fraternity wishes to make it clear that Melvin Walshein '45, has no affiliations whatsoever with it, as was erroneously stated in the last issue of the CYNIC.

For once, George Little and Sam Otis are grateful for poor service. Because of it, they had left the Cocoanut Grove at nine thirty p.m. just a half-hour before the fire.

John Baxendale has repaired the part of the House that fell apart the other night. He was ably assisted by Fred Boardman, the "Flying Tiger."

The celebration at the Delt House after Military Ball was quite a fine affair.

Former Senator George E. "Spook" Little took his place among the greats of the nation—Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln—when he was inaugurated as new president of Delta Psi on Monday, November 30. Little thus fulfilled the expectations and hopes which his parents have always held for him, and also proved that old Americanism: "Anyone can become president." The oath of office was administered by Chief Justice Frank R. Swift, assisted by Associate Justices Corliss and Ryan.

Pledge Bill Worthen had a difficult time locating a spot in which to sleep in the bed mixup following the informal last Wednesday. Epithets flew when he was ousted from several preclaimed trundles.

Under its provisions discharges, whether or not they have had previous college or university training will, if they apply within fifteen months of their discharge, and providing their course of study is approved by the minister of pensions and national health, have their fees paid and in addition receive a weekly subsidy of $9 for unmarried students and $13 for married students.

Foundation Favors War-time Debate By Announcing Radio Prize Contest

By DR. WILLIAM F. PIERCE

(Doctor Pierce, former president of Kenyon College, as chairman of the Board of Trustees of the American Economic Foundation will moderate the second series of National Intercollege Radio Prize Debates just announced by the Foundation and for which this college has registered. The Foundation conducts the famous "Wake Up, America!" Radio Forum heard every Sunday afternoon over the Blue Network.—EDITOR)

Is intercollegiate debating worthwhile in time of war? To this question the American Economic Foundation gives an emphatic affirmative reply by announcing its second National Intercollegiate Radio Prize Debate.

To the colleges the war has brought changes that have altered profoundly the campus atmosphere. Long summer vacations are no more. The festivities of Commencement week have disappeared and organized amusements have been retired to the background. The period of student residence has been shortened by a third. Courses, more concentrated in subject matter, impose a heavier schedule on the student. Hard work and intensive preparation for patriotic service are the rule.

War demands of all, student and citizen alike, discipline, prompt obedience to official authority, instant action without deliberation or discussion. But the colleges are training the leaders of tomorrow's world and the young men and women in them should and must develop the ability to think clearly and constructively. Vitally important for the nation is it that its college-bred citizens gain sound ideas about public problems and express them with a cogency that carries conviction. For such training public speaking in debate is the best and most effective instrument and every college program should include it.

In the judgment of the American Economic Foundation the question selected for this year's debate is of supreme importance. Vast economic and industrial changes have been made for the war and a tremendous economic and industrial readjustment must follow the peace. In this post-war period the youth of today will be building his or her career. No one else has a stake of such overwhelming importance in that coming time of peace as the young man and young woman in college halls today. What are their future opportunities to be? Under what economic system will their life's success be best built up? To be specific—"SHOULD AMERICAN YOUTH SUPPORT THE RE-ESTABLISHMENT AFTER THE WAR OF COMPETITIVE ENTERPRISE AS OUR DOMINANT ECONOMIC SYSTEM?" That is the question selected for this year's debate.

Campus Comment

December 1, 1942.

To the Editor of the CYNIC:

The students at our University have been hearing a great deal of late concerning the interfaith movement which has been organized on the campus through the initiative of President Millis, Professor Hall and our Student Government.

You are probably aware of the fact that in order to promote a successful interfaith organization the various groups that are to be represented must possess an understanding of each other's principles.

I am writing to tell you about what progress the Jewish students have made in cooperating with this concept. We have organized the Hillel Society which is affiliated with the National Hillel Foundation. (The Society was named after one of the greatest Hebrew scholars and Talmudists in history.) The purpose of the organization is to educate the Jewish students concerning their own heritage and to further the cause of the Religious Life Committee of Student Government and the Interfaith Committee as well.

On Wednesday, December 9, the Hillel Society will hold its first social function in the form of a Chanukah party to celebrate the "Festival of Lights"—an established traditional custom in all Jewish circles. The festival originated more than 2,000 years ago when a small band of determined men fought against overwhelming odds to rescue their nation from oppression. To put the story in modern terms, the democratic spirit was triumphant—it succeeded in overcoming even military superiority.

Such an historical tale is significant for us even today, because looking back upon the successes of the Maccabees—they were called thus by the name of their leader—gives us comfort and new courage to enter into our united effort in this World War.

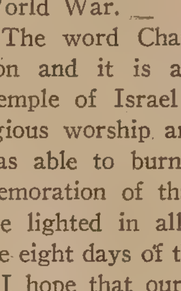

The word Chanukah means rededication and it is appropriate because the Temple of Israel was reopened for religious worship and the "Eternal Light" was able to burn once again. In commemoration of that happy event candles are lighted in all Jewish homes during the eight days of the "Festival of Lights."

I hope that our Hillel Society will be able to find its niche on the U. V. M. campus, and that you will feel free to join us in our activities and meetings through the interfaith work, as we shall most certainly welcome all of you.

J. G. COHEN,
President, Hillel Society U. V. M.

Killick and Gridders In Doubtful Condition

What has appeared, on paper, to be a banner year for the Catamount cagers, may get off to a bad start against a powerful and experienced Hartwick quintet in the Auditorium tonight at eight o'clock. Vermont has been hampered by injuries since the beginning of pre-season practice, with three of its starting men in none too good shape, while Hartwick, although its captain is on the bench, will field an excellent team of four games ' experience.

Coach Beale Banks has a squad composed largely of freshmen. who, although they lack experience, possess speed and shooting accuracy as well as height, four of the first team Frosh averaging over six feet. The starting five minus the services of Captain Geiselman, last year's second highest scorer, who is out with a muscle injury, lists one veteran among four freshmen. The group looked very good in the first game, downing Delhi Aggies twice 69-28 and 63-22, and the Cobleskill Aggies 43-28. Their fourth encounter was against Middlebury in the latter's opening game last night. Coach Banks' boys also have a lot of practice behind them, since most of the varsity are not football men they have been practicing three times a week from the opening day of college.

The Hartwick starters are: Forwards, Jeffers and Baker standing 6′ 3″ and 5′ 11″ respectively. Jeffers has a splendid set shot and Baker is perhaps the cleverest man on the squad, a good team player and smart ball handler. The center will probably be Marcellus, another freshman, who is noted for his defensive work. A short man of only 6′ 2″, he is valuable at recovering rebounds. The two probable guards are Tedywsky and Pilgington of 5′ 10″ and 6′ 3″ heights respectively. Tedywsky has his eye set for the long shots and is also a fast cutter under the basket. Pilkington, the only football man on the squad, has just joined the boys but bids fair to make a permanent place for himself at the guard position.

Vermont's prospects, with three key starters on the injury list, are none too good. Larry Killick worked out Wednesday for the first time, having been troubled with a sore shoulder, and while he may be able to start, he is not yet in shape for a full game. Norm Beaulieu also started practice Wednesday, having just recovered from a bruised foot sustained in football. Chick La Pointe has been out for practice a week but is troubled with a sore elbow, that he bruised against Middlebury in the final football game. All will probably be ready to start tonight and will probably play quite a bit, but they won't be in tip-top shape.

The probable Cat lineup will be La Pointe and Doherty at guards, Beaulieu in the center slot, and Killick and Kaufman at forwards, with George Henderson to start for Killick if the Cat's scoring star isn't ready.

Favored Squads Win In First Round Play

The interfraternity maple spillers launched forth on the first edition of the 1942-43 season, Tuesday, with pre-game favorites starting the season successfully.

A steady A T O team, led by Bob Bennet, downed a comparatively weak Phi Delt team, 6 to 1.

In an afternoon encounter, Phi Sigma Delta shut out the S A E's, 7 to 0.

The T E P's found a little satisfaction in drubbing the Kappa Sigs, 7 to 0, who beat them in interfraternity football finals this year.

A favored, Sigma Nu outfit continued its winning ways of last year in shellacking a pitifully weak Owl five, 7 to 0. As expected the champs showed plenty of form and they promise to make it a real battle for this year's laurels.

The Independents fell victims to Delta Psi, dropping a 6 to 1 decision to the boys from Summit Street.

The Faculty got off to a good start but slumped considerably in the waning frames, and a powerful Sigma Phi aggregation bounced through to win 7-0.

Incidentally, Phil Robinson stepped out of his rôle as sports writer last night, and turned in the high single and doubles score for the league so far.

A new Faculty league rolls them down the alley Monday night. So far four teams of five men each have been formed. If anyone else is interested in entering the league, please contact "Sherry" Fogg.

Catamount Harrier In Marathon Run

Friends and fans of Bud Hoyt, captain of the 1942 edition of the Green and Gold harriers, will be interested to hear that the blond speedster of the hills and dales is turning into a creditable marathon runner. He began his first practice session last Saturday by running home to Milton for the week-end, a distance of about 18 miles. Bud clocked an unofficial time of two hours and fifty minutes, which is miraculous going considering this was his first crack at a long distance. He wore the regulation track suit for his jaunt, and other than being very tired and a little sore he finished without injury.

Green Mountain Postpones Contest with Jayvee Five

Opener Delayed, Fogg Continues Preparations

The Vermont Jayvees first tilt of the season, a prelim against Green Mountain Junior College, scheduled for tonight, has been cancelled. Coach Jack Hefferman, of the Greenies has been ailing of late and felt unable to bring his lads to town for the encounter. Despite this disappointing news Sherry Fogg's group of hoopsters have been working out steadily this week in preparation for the next contest a bit later on in the season.

Sherry has cut his squad down to twenty men, after two weeks of looking over the prospects. Plenty of court talent has made itself apparent during this time and the Kittens should be headed for a successful year. Among the leading contenders for the first five are footballer Mickey Cochran, Bill Flanders, a promising freshman from Island Pond, Len Harrington, cross-country standout, and Al Wees, veteran of a year of college ball. Ray Massucco, another Frosh, who hails from Bellows Falls, has had plenty of court experience and has been exhibiting plenty of basketball savvy on the gymnasium boards.

There is no lack of height on the club, a number of the lads towering six feet or more. Several other men retained by Coach Fogg are, Eddie Andrews, Goldstein, Fraser, Krupp, and Pribula.

Bombs To Cause Quake

Pocatello, Idaho—(ACP)—Two professors at the southern branch of University of Idaho have advanced the theory that extensive bombing of Japan might cause displacements that would set off devastating earthquakes. They are C. A. Lee and A. L. Lillibridge of geology and mechanical engineering departments.

"Bombings themselves won't cause earthquakes, but there is the possibility, how actual or remote I don't know, that vibrations set up by continuous bombings might result in changing earth pressure which normally wouldn't occur for years," Lee explained.

If faults that cause earthquakes in the island were almost at the "shifting point" repeated bombings might be the right factor to set off a quake, Lee said.

State Fives Begin Play

Norwich, Middlebury Open Case Seasons

The long quiet which has blanketed the Vermont sports world since the last football game was played off on frigid Porter Field, three weeks ago will be dissipated with a mighty bang this week-end as the three Green Mountain colleges rip the cover off their respective basketball schedules. Middlebury opened against Hartwick last night. Vermont meets the same foe this evening, and Norwich rolls into high gear against a Fort Ethan Allen combo tomorrow P.M. All the clubs are unknown quantities, at this writing, and just who will upset who is purely a matter of conjecture.

Despite the fact that they didn't win a football game this year, Middlebury may come up with a basketball quintet good enough to erase the marks of the disastrous pigskin season. Led by Captain Freddie Lapham of this city, the Panthers boast a veteran lineup. Bob Adsit and Earle Bishop, football co-captains hold down guard and forward posts respectively. Johnny Cadwell, Pittsford, Vt., fills the other back-court spot, Mac McGarry, Rutland, is center, and Lapham teams up with Bishop at forward. The veteran Panthers, lettermen all, average over six feet, and have an average weight of 176 pounds. A pretty rugged crew, which may put plenty of kinks into U. V. M.'s hopes for another state title this year.

Over at Northfield, Vermont's little Siberia, the Norwich Cadets are still recuperating from the drubbing which the Catamounts handed them on Centennial Field last month. Nevertheless the Horsemen hope to get revenge, at least in some measure when they meet the Cats on the court sometime after Christmas. Never a worldbeater at the hoop game, the Maroon may come up with a Tarter, but prospects now do not appear very bright. Capt. Don Maynard has been benched indefinitely, due to a knee injury incurred on the football field. Most of the talent is green and untried. New Coach Leon Shepphard may have a big headache guiding the Horsemen this winter through their stiff lineup of games.

As for Vermont things are looking up despite Larry Killick's injured shoulder. The Cats may be headed for a great year so—here's hoping.

Fraternities Make Plans For Christmas Formals

December 11 Opens Holiday Festivities

December 11 will be the opening night of the long-awaited Christmas formals, with Sigma Nu, Kappa Sig, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, and Phi Sigma Delta, holding the annual dance at their chapter houses.

The Sigma Nu formal will be held at the Lodge, and plans are underway to make it the biggest success of the year. To date the band and chaperones have not been decided upon.

The Owls are going to have a dinner dance January 9, in place of the Christmas formal. Harris Thurber, Bob Doherty, "Harry" Howe are on the committee in charge of the dance, and they promise an extra special good time for all.

The Delts have plans for their formal well under way and Oliver Swift, and Stuart Haven are co-chairmen in charge of arrangements. The band and chaperones have not yet been decided upon.

Phi Sigma Delta is anticipating the most memorable dance ever. Since this might be the last affair, much fervor is apparent among the fellows around the house. Although the name of the band can't be announced because of a strict military censorship at the fort, it will undoubtedly be the best on campus. Also the decorations are unparalleled in originality and are to be incorporated with many other novel ideas. The committee is a composite of such able men as Sey Baum '44, chairman, Bob Tarshis '44, Joe Margolis '44, Dave Kenet '44, George Goldsmith '44, and Stan Fieber '44.

Christmas Carols Are in Order Fri.

Bright new green and yellow posters are displayed in the various buildings on the Vermont campus announcing the Christmas campus sing which will be held in the student lounge of the Waterman building Friday night, December 11, at 7.30. It's just like all the sings that have been held in the past, only this time it's going to be much bigger and better. It's going to be a University "family" sing; members of the faculty and administration and their families have received special invitations; and Christmas carols will feature a large part of the program.

Three hundred new song books with covers of the Vermont Green and Gold, just off the University printing press, containing over 75 songs, will be used for the first time.

The University Fire-Eaters, directed by Philip Robinson '45, of Burlington, will sing one or two new Christmas songs which they have prepared especially for Rumor is that Santa Claus will stop in the sing program with a sack full of good things, enough for everyone.

Prof. Robert E. Long of the political science department will lead the singing.

The public is invited.

President Millis Speaks at Chapel

Rabbi Stern of Montreal Booked For Next Wed.

The subject of Pres. John S. Millis' Chapel address Wednesday at the University was "Creeds," in which he stressed the important part faith plays in science, social sciences and democracy. There were 234 students present.

Rabbi Harry J. Stern, Emanuel Temple, Montreal, will speak next Wednesday. Prof. R. A. Hall, head of the department of religious education, recommends him highly, stating that he was the outstanding speaker of last year's Chapel program.

Rabbi Stern has travelled widely in Europe and the Near East and is able to present a clear picture of their political, social and economic conditions. He is author of "Jew and Christian" and "Judaism in the War of Ideas."

He will also address the students in Professor Halls Old Testament class next Wednesday, will be guest at a Hillel Club luncheon, and will speak in the evening to the Council of Jewish Women.

Vol. 1, No. 1, of "Chapel Chimes" was published by the Y. W. C. A. December 2 at the University. This bulletin is to be circulated among the Protestant groups, featuring Chapel speakers and containing other pertinent information. A different group will be responsible for each issue.

The Hillel Club, representing the Jewish student group, has been publishing a leaflet for its members; and the Newman Club has its organ written by Father Joyce of Northfield, chaplain.

The Interfaith Council met with the Student Committee on Religious Life Wednesday to formulate plans for Brotherhood Week which will be observed February 19-26.

I. R. C. Hears Ellen Stewart On India Wed.

The International Relations Club held its meeting Wednesday night, December 2, at Southwick. Patty Page '43 presided over the meeting and introduced Ellen Stewart '43 who spoke on her experiences in India where she has spent most of her life. Mal Mickler '46 read a paper about what might be done with India today.

Watch the CYNIC for announcement of the next meeting.

"The Captives" Is In Rehearsal, Opens Soon

Rumor has it that the Goodrich Classical Club is presenting its annual play next Wednesday, December 9. It will be the "The Captives" by Plautus.

This program will be open to the public and there is no admission charge. More about it in next week's CYNIC.

Pan-Hellenic Dance

More than 70 girls and an almost equal number of birdmen attended the "Get-acquainted" Vic dance given by the members of Pan-Hellenic last Wednesday night. Introduced by Pan-Hellenic members and by means of the Paul Jones dance and the cut-in technique, everyone enjoyed the dance.

Peg Wishart '43 was in charge of the dance and Miss M. J. Simpson and Professor and Mrs. F. D. Carpenter were chaperones.

Faculty Women Will Meet Next Thursday

A meeting of the University of Vermont women's faculty which was to have been held at Southwick Friday evening has been postponed to Thursday evening, December 10, so that those who wish to attend the community concert will be free to do so.

Collegium at Jordans

Instead of its usual meeting at 7.00, a tea for the members of the Collegium will be given this Sunday at the home of Ruth Jordan, 449 South Prospect St., from 4.30-5.30. Everyone is cordially invited.

Harriet A. Parker Joins WAACS Soon

Harriet Ann Parker, daughter of Attorney General Alban J. Parker, has enlisted in the WAAC and will report for duty December 12, it was announced here today by her father.

Miss Parker, who graduated from U. V. M. last June, enrolled as an auxiliary, but as a result of entrance exams will be considered for officers' school following her basic training.

Reporting to the induction center at Baltimore, Miss Parker will later proceed to Fort Des Moines, Iowa.

This is the second of Attorney General Parker's children to enter the service. He has a son, Cadet Richard H. Parker, in his third year at the U. S. Military Academy at West Point.

Museum Veritable Store of Interest

Frequent Exhibits, Collections, Rareties

Unfortunately the vast stores of interest and information open to the students of the University at the Robert Hull Fleming are not always investigated. Undoubtedly this is partly due to the fact that they, the students, are oblivious of the opportunities afforded there. In addition to housing permanent exhibitions and rare collections of various types, the Museum also affords temporary and changing ones.

As a person enters the front door, he finds something of interest in the cases on either side of the lobby. As one example, the sole meteorite found in Vermont is now being shown. On the ground floor are also found Primitive, Oriental, and Ancient art collections, also the lower forms of animal life in a Biological series. The second floor contains the Pioneer Room, and an art library with the Carnegie collection of books and reproductions for students of art, as well as a biological series of mammals.

The third floor is in the form of an art gallery, the exhibitions of paintings changed monthly. Being shown this month is a collection of paintings of the Cambridge School of Art. Other things to be found in the Museum are the Geology and Paleontology collections in the basement, and the Wilbur Library in the south wing.

N. Y. A. WORK PROGRAM

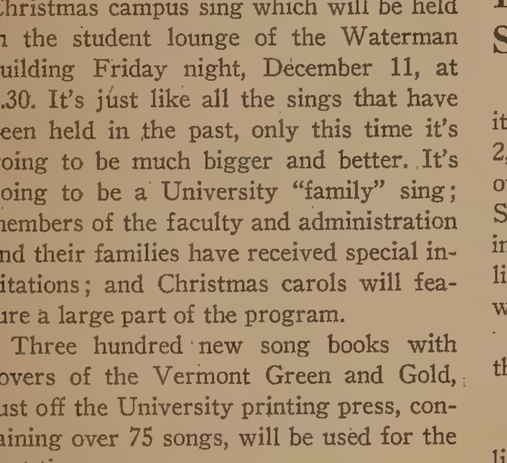

If there are students who would like to be considered for employment, application should be made as soon as possible at Room 151, Waterman Building.

Campus Sing to Feature Santa Claus and Mr. Long

"Biggest Affair" will Be Held in the Lounge This Friday Night

Whatever happens in the world, nothing can prevent the seasons rolling around. And so, being December, and winter flinging its banners, you just can't help getting that Christmas feeling. It's part of the rounding out of the year; it's as full of memories and traditions and sentiment as a plum pudding is full of raisins. Christmas is in the air, and on our campus we're going to celebrate it with a campus sing. Only it's not going to be just an ordinary sing; it's going to be our University Family Christmas Sing. And members of the faculty and administration are going to help us make it a real family affair.

Alfred Amee '43, is responsible for it, just as he is for all of the campus sings. He has set this one for Friday night at 7.30, in the student lounge in Waterman. And he says that it's going to be the biggest and best campus sing that we've ever had.

Plans for the sing program include the use of 300 new song books, attractive in covers of Vermont's traditional green and gold, which are just off the University printing press and contain the words to over 75 songs.

The University Fire-Eaters will sing one or two new songs which they have prepared especially for the sing program, and Mr. Long will lead the singing.

Santa Claus has promised to come, and his sack will be full of surprises for everyone.

Incidentally, the attractive campus sing posters which have been placed in the various campus buildings are the work of Priscilla Bennett '44, who generously donated her time and talent.

Girls to Sell Defense Corsages

Soft music, dim lights, flowers—all the glamour of a Christmas formal. But this year there is going to be something more. In the midst of our fun, we are going to remember the other fellow. What could be more appropriate than a stamp corsage? When Champlain Sabers tried it for Military Ball, almost all of the boys were in favor of it, but some of the girls, it seems, objected to having a corsage just like everyone else's. At any rate, one very good idea did turn up—one which Mortar Board would like to propose for Christmas formals. That was the idea of a combined flower-stamp corsage.

Women Three War Savings Committees have been formed in every county in the United States. These groups everywhere are putting on a special drive during the month of December, and Mrs. Van Patten, who is in charge of the Chittenden County Committee, has asked the college to co-operate, as colleges all over the country are doing, in this drive.

Mortar Board in co-operation with Dean Simpson, has made arrangements for selling these corsages. One member of each fraternity giving corsages, has volunteered to take orders for his house. It is getting in the Christmas spirit to give to your country when you give your date a corsage.

Joint Meeting

There will be a joint meeting of the cabinet members of Y. W. C. A. and V. C. A. tonight, Tuesday, in the Religious Life Office, room 265 of the Waterman Building.

Large Audience To Crowd Chapel

Professor Long Will Direct Xmas Carols

From what we hear from our St. Michael's friends there's going to be quite a crowd down from there to hear our Christmas vespers Sunday afternoon. It seems that they are especially interested in hearing Doctor Stoehr's Christmas Cantata. Of course this means that those who plan to listen to the concert in comparative comfort will be on hand while there are still seats available. At any rate, the Michaelmen are going to hear the performance of an extraordinary composition, exciting in its contrasts and bold in its rhythmic content.

At present we are wondering who is going to take care of the Christmas caroling this year. It would seem that Professor Long is the logical person, he having been one of the leaders last year. Now that it has been announced on the University social calendar, let's see some action.

Last Friday afternoon there were several on hand to hear the selection from Handel's Messiah; this Friday afternoon Tchaikovsky's Nutcracker Suite will be played. It was written with the Christmas season in mind with especial emphasis on the toys.

Several of the birdmen on campus who are waiting for some decent flying weather have been taking advantage of the Carnegie Room lately. The Music Department wishes to emphasize that they are more than welcome to use these facilities. The range of music includes everything from Gregorian chant to Duke Ellington.

Painting by Di Credi Is Shown in Art Gallery

A Tondo painting by Lorenzo Di Credi is on exhibition in the Art Gallery of the Fleming Museum. The subject of the Christmas painting by the 16th century artist of the Renaissance is "Madonna, Christ-Child, and John the Baptist." The painting will be on exhibition for the month of December.

Rabbi Stern to Speak at Chapel

Well-Known Writer Will Also Address Classes

Rabbi Henry J. Stern of the Emanuel Temple, Montreal, is to be the speaker of tomorrow's chapel program. Rabbi Stern is a graduate of the University of Cincinnati and Hebrew Union College. By traveling in Europe and the Near East, he has made himself familiar with political, social, and economic conditions. He is the author of "Judaism in the War of Ideas" and "Jew and Christian." This week's "Chapel Chimes" is to be published by the Methodist group.

Rabbi Stern will also speak in the Old Testament class at 12.00 on the subject of Hebrew prophets. Visitors are welcome.

The speaker for the chapel program of Wednesday, December 16, is to be Rev. Max Webster of Burlington, Associate Secretary of the Vermont Congregational Conference.

The Truth About Our Aviators; New Students Arriving Daily

Even now, after all these months of seeing various types of uniforms around the campus, knowing that the Northeast Airlines Company is giving instruction of some sort to aviators, many of the University students do not know yet, exactly what is being accomplished and how it is being done in the aviation school. This situation really ought to be remedied. After all, we do practically live with the fliers, and most certainly a great many of us eat our meals with them in the Waterman cafeteria. We should all know the fundamentals at least, of why they are here and what they are doing.

Every week new air students arrive in Burlington. The exact number is being safely guarded as a military secret. The training which they receive here is not primary instruction, for, to qualify for admittance to this school, the minimum number of hours in the air which any flier can have is well over one hundred. Aviators are admitted from all branches of the armed services—Army, Navy and Marine Corps, as well as C. P. T.—Civilian Pilot Training students. That explains the heterogeneous collection of uniforms.

Northeast prepares students for blind flying which is, flying soley by instruments and without any outside visibility. All Northeast commercial pilots must have an instrument rating, and although many of the students at the school do not intend to become airline pilots, they receive an instrument rating for use in some other line of aviation. In addition to blind flight instruction the students take a transitional course in twin-engine or multi-motor equipment.

The administrative make-up of the school is a point of distinct interest. Many people have been heard asking who is at the head of the entire project, is it run under government control, and various other questions which have often been left unanswered or perhaps have been answered incorrectly.

At this point there is nominally no government control. Northeast Airlines are prime contractors to the Civil Aeronautics Administration and as long as they do their job, the government does not interfere. This condition is sustained even in war time which is a good indication of Northeast's competence. There are seven C.A.A. regional districts which

Christmas Vespers and Concert to be Held Sunday

Doctor Stoehr will Present His "Christmas Cantata" Assisted by Student Soloists

On Sunday afternoon the Ira Allen Chapel will be the scene of the sixteenth annual Christmas vespers. The University Choir under the direction of Howard Bennett, head of the music department, with Miss Miriam Natilee Marston, organist and members of the University Orchestra, Michael Anselmo, concert-master, will present a concert of Christmas music, the chief work of the afternoon being the "Christmas Cantata" by Dr. Richard Stoehr of St. Michael's College. The cantata was written expressly for the University musical organizations.

Several well-known soloists from the student body will be heard during the course of the afternoon. Theresa Coderre, '43 and Philip Robinson '45, will be heard in Doctor Stoehr's "Christmas Cantata"; from Handel's Messiah Doris Squire '43, and Shirley Lampman '45, will sing the familiar "He Shall Feed His Flock" and "Come Unto Me"; Robert Goss '44 will be heard in the recitative "For Behold Darkness Shall Cover the Earth" and the aria "The People that Walk in Darkness"; and Marjorie Southworth will sing the French Christmas carol "Sleep, Little Dove."

For the concert the University Choir has been augmented by students, members of the faculty and townspeople to about seventy-five voices.

The orchestra plays an integral part in the concert in that the cantata calls for much more effort on its part than does it from the chorus. Several townspeople and faculty members have taken time from their busy lives to practice for long hours with the student members. Due to the nature of the composition the orchestra has been reduced for this concert. Again as was done for the Lenten-Easter concert last spring the services of Miss Flora Beecher Strickland, harpist, of Moretown have been secured.

Following is the orchestra personnel First violins, Nellie Herrmann '43, Edwin Colodny of Burlington High School, Carolyn Douglas of Burlington, Clifford Joseph '43, Marie Tirrell '44; second violins, Mrs. Mary Whitney Rowe of Bur-

Essay Contest Open to Students

Prize Awarded To Best Thesis On Constitution

Announcement has been made of the Percival Wood Clement Prize contest which awards a prize of $500 to the writer of "the best thesis in support of the Principles of the Constitution of the United States of America, as established March 4, A.D. 1789, and the first ten Amendments thereto." The contest is open to undergraduate men and women students of the junior and senior classes of most of the New England colleges and universities, enrolled in curricula leading to a bachelor's degree. Among the colleges included in the contest are Amherst, Bates, Wesleyan, Tufts, Colby, M.I.T., Dartmouth, Middlebury, Harvard, Radcliffe, Trinity, U. V. M., Yale, Williams, Norwich, and Maine.

Any undergraduate may submit an essay of not over three thousand words, neatly typewritten upon one side of 8½ x 11 sheets. The sheets should not be folded and the outside sheet should contain only the title, the date, and an assumed name. Each essay must be accompanied by a sealed envolope containing on its outside the title and assumed name, and within the real name, college and home address of the writer. Enclosed must be a statement from the Registrar of his college that he is duly registered in the junior or senior class of one of its undergraduate curricula leading to a bachelor's degree. It is recommended that competitors limit their essays to some particular phase of the entire field that they may do "adequate justice within this limit."

The prize of the aforementioned sum of five hundred dollars will be awarded by a board of judges consisting of the Presidents of the University of Vermont, Yale University, and Williams College. In case of failure to agree, award will be made by the President of Columbia University.

Essays for consideration in 1942-43 must be submitted not later than April 1, 1943, to President Millis, chairman of the committee. Report will be made by the Trustees of the Clement fund to each of the colleges included in the contest of the name and college of the winner.

It is hoped that a large amount of interest will result from this announcement and that a number of competitors will submit manuscripts.

Thrift Shop Offers Bargains At Token Price

The season for formals and Christmas parties is here when one's enjoyment of life is greatly improved by a new dress. Why not drop into the Thrift Shop in the north wing of Waterman some Friday afternoon and select from the bargains which are offered there, something to give your wardrobe the pick-up that all wardrobes need at this time of year. If you don't find just what you want ready-to-wear, there will be someone on hand to advise you how to make over or refurbish a last year's model so that it will look as if it was copied from Vogue. The prices are token prices only, and all the income will be used to keep the shop supplied with sewing equipment. The machine and pressing equipment are for use any day in the week. All one does is to apply at the office of the Dean of Women for the key.

Aviators Dance At School Party

Novel Entertainment Made Dance a Success

Wednesday night in the South Waterman cafeteria, seventy U. V. M. girls welcomed a large number of Northeast aviators to a dance which was sponsored by the local Pan Hellenic Society. Those who attended said, "It was fun!" The dance was entirely stag, but both the men and girls had the privilege of cutting in, or asking for a dance. This was used to advantage by both sides. There were, in addition, novelty dances such as the Paul Jones for those poor unfortunates who could not seem to be able to leave politely an unsatisfactory partner.

Being on a week night, it was necessary that the dance, under the direction of Peggy Wishart '43, end at 10.45 to enable the girls to be safely home by 11.15. This was the sole phase of the whole proceeding which was unpopular.

Miss Mary Jean Simpson, Professor Carpenter of the German Department, and Mrs. Carpenter acted in the capacity of chaperones. George Jean Holden, with the help of records and an amplifier furnished the music. On the dance committee, headed by Peggy Wishart were Margo Benoit and June Hoffman.

The Vermont Cynic

The Official Student Newspaper of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College

VOL. 61 DECEMBER 8, 1942 NO. 22

Americans have drawn a circle of blood around a date on the calendar and vowed to remember it forever. On this, the first anniversary of Pearl Harbor, it is fitting that we turn silently inward to confront our own minds, asking ourselves what is it exactly that we are remembering. Is it the murderous treachery of Japan? Yes. Is it the shameful state of our own unpreparation? Surely. Is that all? If that were all, the cry, "REMEMBER PEARL HARBOR," would have but the limited, and in the end, empty meaning contained in all cries of mere vengeance—and in all acts of mere vengeance.

December 7 is a day for us to remember with as much shame as indignation. Consider the dreadful kernel of its meaning. It took the death of many Americans, the shattering of our ships, the destruction of our planes—it took all this to make us recognize the fact that this was our war. It took the sacrifice of American lives to make us realize, with tragic tardiness, that the war really began when Hitler took office almost ten years ago. A sensational act of treachery was needed before we could, as a nation, abandon (and only in part, for some of us are still blind, or worse) our self-seeking, our lethargy, our half-admiration of the dictators. It took spilled blood to make men and women of us, instead of ostriches with our heads in the sands of isolation. It took men lying twisted and dead on a Pacific island to call us away from our petty internal fight, our interest in our own small individualities.

That is the meaning of December 7. It means that we acted late, almost too late. It means that our country was forced to come of age overnight when it should have matured from 1933 on, under the bitter schoolmastering of Adolf Hitler. If we remember Pearl Harbor, let us remember it with silent shame. And as we remember it, let us resolve that we shall never be late again, that when we see the bloody hand of intolerance and tyranny rising—and reaching, from whatever distance, to include in its threat—we shall unite at once to cut it off. In 50 centuries men and women have made worlds. A new one is now being made. It will be yours, you young men and women. What kind of a world do you want?

Presenting

This article will not be read. Read a little further and find out why.

Just so many Cynics are printed each issue. There was a time when these limited copies disappeared quickly from the bookstore. They cannot be read lying on the counter. Times have changed . . . .

Does the student body disapprove of the Cynic? Apparently not, for no complaints have been voiced.

Let's analyze: Are these articles of importance? Yes, if you want to know what is going on around the campus.

Does the student body disagree with the policy? No, the "Letters to the Editor" column is barren one week after another.

Is student opinion aired in the Cynic? No, the students very seldon express their opinion, but that's not the fault of the paper.

Is there variety? Variety comes as a result of many campus affairs; if the students had the interest to read the Cynic they would also have the interest to attend these affairs; if they attended these affairs there would be variety to report on in the Cynic. Is there variety? A rather vicious cycle.

Are the articles interestingly written? Well, English I is still a required subject. Personally, what do you think of this column?

Is the Cynic necessary on the campus? Yes, it has many important functions.

The lady is right. Pay her twenty silver dollars.

While we're on the subject, the beating which Student Government has taken in the last few months is largely due to the apathy of the student body (there's that corpse again) in reading reports on its doings in the Cynic.

This is definitely not a column of advice for the lovelorn. A love-nest in the Student Lounge was farthest from the mind of Fortie Six in his discussion (especially so dangerously near the deans' offices). Can't the author of "Sortie on Fortie" even imagine a congregation of students without . . . . maybe it's a good idea after all.

In defense—Fortie doesn't want egg in his beer, nor does he fail to appreciate those things which have taken a long time to acquire—but, after all, the point was constructive and meant to be helpful. We do need the Student Lounge, and we do need it lounge-like.

Girls Invite Boys

cover the entire country. John P. Morris is the director of the whole arrangement. Each district has a Regional Manager. Being in District 1, Burlington has, as Superintendent of Pilot Training, Frank G. Andrews of LaGuardia Field, and Mr. B. B. Follett as local Director.

Not only is the school intending to continue for the duration of the war, but the aim and ambition of Northeast is to have Burlington as the training center for all of their commercial pilots after the war. In fact they plan to make their greatest progress after the war. This hope is not merely theoretical, but is already being proved by the building of a new hangar even now under construction. This hangar 211′ by 205′ when finished will be the largest this side of LaGuardia. If the $101,500 hangar is not occupied, it will automatically revert to the city of Burlington. This fact is an excellent indication that the current plans will be fulfilled.

Another point of interest is the fact that the landings made at the local airport in a single day are one half those made at the Boston airport at its peak. The exact figures are not available, but it is known that Burlington is one of the busiest air fields in its region.

Unfortunately there is no place for women in Civilian Pilot Training. Prior to the war, one girl in each unit of ten was admitted to the primary course and from there, if qualified, would continue on with the secondary. However, with the declaration of war this practice was discontinued.

Platter Chatter

Joe Allen

"Lucky Green" is not the only thing that's gone to war. Swing has descended the bandstand for the duration and fewer recordings of the real hep-jive are being released. Today there is a big demand for music pertaining to the war effort. (Rosie the Riveter).

Jan Savitt, virtuoso of shuffle rhythm, has now completed his band with the addition of seven violins. No recordings of the new combo have been released as yet, but enthusiasts may hear him on the CBS network at 11.30 p.m.

Harry James still heads the popularity list in Martin Block's "Make Believe Ballroom Time," WNEW 10.00 p.m. Nice going Harry, "Keep 'em Sawing."

Benny Goodman comes back into the spotlight with Artie Bernstein leading out with a swell rhythm section. Get a load of the Columbia release of "On The Sunny Side of the Street," with Peggy Lee on the vocal. Goodman is now at the Hotel New Yorker, and this week he opens up at NYC's "Paramount."

Gene Krupa is reported to be in the "Windy City." His most recent outstanding release is on a Columbia, "Deliver Me To Tennessee."

Glenn Miller is now taking Army life as a serious matter. After his brief training at the Army routine, he'll be known as Capt. Miller. Incidentally Glenn has a brother who is now forming a band of his own. Watch for recordings.

Benny Carter has recently released a new recording written by Benny himself. The name is "My Favorite Blues" and waxed on a Bluebird. Benny did a swell job of arranging for the tune. Opposite side has good dance tune, "Midnight."

Remember Stan Kenton at "Frank Daily's Meadowbrook" in August, well Stan has grooved a twelve inch Decca of "The Gamblers Blues." Listen for the trumpet and the sax breaks.

Jimmy Dorsey made a swell arrangement of "Daybreak." Bob Eberle does the vocal. Decca did the waxing job.

Well this worn-out needle needs changing, so until next time "Goodbye" by Goodman.

Northwestern University's homecoming features a competitive pajama race in which each fraternity participating must purchase a war bond as an entry fee.

Home Economics Club Meets At The Old Barn

The November meeting of the Home Economics Club was held at the Old Brick Barn of the Home Economics Department. Miss Hazel Westby, Instructor of Clothing and Textiles, gave an interesting talk of the people and country of her home state, North Dakota. She described the international houses in which she lived while in California and New York and illustrated her talk by showing pictures and slides of the places referred to in her talk and also of buildings here on campus and of the Clothing and Textiles Laboratory.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served.

Hikers Climb Bolton Mountain

Fifteen hardy members of the U. V. M. Outing Club and the no less hardy Professor Haller of the Economics Department climbed Bolton Mountain to Bryant's camp last Saturday night. The transportation problem was solved by one car and two kerosene devouring model T's, "Diana" and "Apollo" Ford who (with a good deal of pushing) transported the eager hikers to the foot of the mountain and deposited the weary but happy hikers in Burlington Sunday night. Ghost stories, skiing, singing and eating were the orders of the day. (Did you know that Professor could make wonderful pancakes?) This was the first overnight hike of the season and was according to all accounts a huge success. Just ask anyone you see limping across campus.

Hartwick Topples Cagers, 41-37

Cats Lose Late Lead

Jeffords, Visitors' Ace, Scores Decisive Goals

An unusually strong Hartwick five spoiled the season's opener for the Green and Gold, Friday, eking out a close 41-37 victory in the last two minutes of play, Harlan Jeffords, the evening's scoring leader, going on a three basket scoring spree to bring his team from behind.

In a rough and tumble game, in which both teams employed tactics that reeked of the past football season, Hartwick led the Vermonters by one or two points most of the way. Neither team had a very strong defense, and Hartwick was able to win mainly by getting in the last offensive word.

After a minute of passing, Capt. Bob Doherty bagged the first two points for Vermont to open the scoring. Displaying a sloppy brand of basketball throughout the first half, both teams did little scoring, the score at the half being 16-12 in Hartwick's favor.

Following a half-time which was highlighted by a surprise blackout, the ball game improved and became much faster. Doherty scored the first basket again, with a long shot from center floor, and Milt Kaufman followed it up by swiping the ball from Hartwick for the third time during the game, dribbling down-floor and scoring on a step shot. Midway through the period five baskets found the netting in about a minute's time. George Henderson scored his first basket for the Green and Gold on a beautiful pass from Larry Killick, and Doherty followed it with another ringer from the center floor. Hartwick, represented by Doc Tadyewski quickly scored on two 'step shots, and Norm Beaulieu wound up the spree with another.

Cats Gain Lead

With two minutes remaining Vermont trailed 33-32, when Johnny Baker fouled Captain Doherty, Bob tying the game with the resulting free throw. As Hartwick took the ball out Jack Marcellus committed another foul, this time on Henderson, the freshman sharp-shooter sank two free throws to put Vermont in the lead. Bob Doherty then brought the score to 37 for the Green and Gold with a step shot. In a last desperate try Hartwick personified by Harlan Jeffords, sank three baskets in quick succession to put the Blue and White in the lead, and just before the final gun sounded Jack Marcellus scored the clincher to an exciting ball game.

A more careful guarding of Jeffords and freezing the ball might have saved a win for the Green and Gold, but in spite of the loss, the Cats showed that they had the stuff to make a sucessful season. They will try to prove this to fans Thursday night when they go after a service team from Fort Ethan Allen.

Faculty Joins Fitness Drills

Three Classes Added To Athletic Program

With the inauguration of the new faculty athletic program, the University of Vermont has taken a broad step forward in the field of physical fitness. Not only do the students have to be physically fit, but also the faculty, for it is their job to see that the students make the most of their short stay in college.

Every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, at 5:15, in the gymnasium, athletic classes are held for the faculty. All sports in season are available. Those now available, are volleyball, handball, basketball, and gymnastics. Here is an excellent opportunity for the faculty to indulge in the physical torture called athletics.

The turnout for these classes has been quite large; however, the Athletic Department would like to see more members of the faculty out. Your muscles will groan and your backs will ache Professors, but the pride in your athletic achievements should wipe away the anguish. You will look better, feel better, and be better. That paunch will disappear, and there will be a spring in your step reminiscent of the time, years ago, when you walked with your best girl. Just think, you can be young and gay once more. The whole faculty will be at the next period, won't you? For further details inquire at the Athletic Office.

S N Bowlers Rout Phi Delts

TEPs Advance, 7-0, Over Phi Sig Pinmen

The "fraters" of the TEPs, eked out a narrow win over a Phi Sigma Delta bowling team coming through by four pins to defeat their opponents 7-0. H. Stroyman, at home as much in the bowling alley as on the gridiron scattered the maples effectively to attain a high 120 for the winners.

Last champs of '41, the Sigma Nus displayed a little of their old spark and power, in copping their second win, downing the Phi Delta Thetas 7-0. It proved to be an easy win, as the winners were out in front by 68 pins. Norm Boyden displayed his talents to a great advantage, and in doing so, took high single with 112.

In this week's meets, the SAEs once defeated, will be pointing for their first win, when they clash with ATOs in a Monday encounter.

The Kappa Sigs and the Independents, will square in a Monday engagement. Each team has been defeated in its initial start, and will be gunning for its first scalp, in this meeting.

DELTA PHI EPSILON

Estelle Berkson '44, passed chocolates Monday to announce her engagement to Cpl. Norton Josephson of the United States Army Signal Corps.

Dr. Robert Franklin Poole, president of Clemson College, was graduated from Clemson in 1915. He is an internationally known plant pathologist.

ATO's Crush Sig Courtmen

Kappa Sigs, Delts, Sigma Nu's Triumph

A skyscraping ATO team exploded the top off of the Interfrat basketball league Friday afternoon when they walloped Sigma Phi 36-8, in the League A opener. Bennett topped the afternoon's scoring with five baskets for the winners. Sigma Phi's eight points went to Walt Brown, Luke Hamlin and Bill Styles with Brown scoring four.

Saturday afternoon saw the opening of League B, when the Kappa Sigs barely eked out a determined Phi Sig team 18-16. Behind, 14-8 at the half, the boys from Pearl Street put on a last half drive that held the Kappa Sigs to four points, while they scored eight. The scoring was evenly divided between the members of both teams.

Two other games Saturday continued the League A competition, with Delta Psi winning handily over the Phi Delts 27-19, and Sigma Nu taking the SAEs into camp 28-19. In the Delta Psi game Dick Conrad and Monty Kelley walked off with the scoring honors, bagging ten and eight points respectively. Grosvenor scored ten for the losing SAE's in their game, but the combination of Bloomer, West and Reed nullified his work.

In next week's games the Independents of League B take on the Owls Saturday afternoon. League A's games take place Wednesday afternoon with Sigma Nu lined up against the Phi Delts and on Saturday when the defeated Sigma Phi's and the SAE's face off at 1.45. At 2.45 the Delts and the ATO's two previous winner's will be out for the coveted first place position.

Winter Teams Doubt Status

Ski, Hockey Squads Encounter Difficulties

Art Paterson, this year's ski team captain, is looking forward to a doubtful season of skiing, after the Christmas holidays. Art and his merry men have been working out in the gym, in preparation for the tentative meets, but as yet, they are not sure that "la guerre" will permit transportation (tires and gas)—to and from their practice slopes.

In addition to last year's team members, Art Paterson, Bob Goss, Bud Pierce, Ernie St. Mary, Brud Sutton, the squad will be bolstered by some new prospects, in Doug Pierce and Charley Plumley.

Unless adequate transportation can be provided, the ski team may disband for the duration. Let's hope that conditions favor these winter stalwarts and permit them to display their wares again this year.

The hockey team's future is still in doubt also. An appropriation has been made for the maintenance of the squad, but to date there has been no meetings of the interested members. The team was formed last year after several seasons' layoff, and it had a fairly successful season. Returning veterans include "Bish" McGill, Dave Tuholski, "Whit" Switzer. If those who aspire for a U. V. M. hockey team do not meet and discuss the where's and why, another great winter sport will be put on the skids on the Vermont campus.

ALPHA CHI OMEGA

Virginia Crocker recently attended the Army-Navy game.

Harriet Woods '42, announced her engagement to Misty Rice '42.

Virginia Mitchell who went home about a month ago because of illness will not return to school this year.

A tea dance was held at the house Saturday afternoon in honor of the pledges. Marjorie Southworth '43, and Tony Darling '46, were in charge.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt recently was initiated as an honorary member of Phi Beta Kappa at Radcliffe College.

Blackout Between Halves Brightens Court Opener

By MONTY KELLEY

Vermont opened its current basketball campaign last Friday night, not with the resounding bang which everyone anticipated, but with a rather dismal thud. Fuzzy's warriors looked pretty ragged to the 2000 fans who packed the Memorial Auditorium for the contest, and demonstrated without doubt that they were far from their expected form. However, the lads at least made it apparent that they have the makings of a ball club and a few more weeks of practice should see them in much better shape.

The main event of the evening turned out to be not the game but the surprise blackout which plunged the Auditorium into inky darkness for almost half an hour. Just as the teams were lining up for the second half toss-up the lights flicked off and everything was completely blacked out. Everyone seemed to immediately sense what was going on and no panic or rush for the exits resulted. All the spectators retained their seats and waited for the electricity to be switched on again.

Smoking Persists

The only unsavory note of the whole affair was the stupid behavior of a number of asinine bleacherites who insisted upon smoking after they had been requested not to do so, and in howling down anyone who attempted to make an announcement. There are always some such dopes in a crowd of any size, but you'd think they would at least have some sense of proportion. They're the kind who promote such major disasters as last week's Cocoanut Grove horror in Boston. As Whitey Killick aptly put it in his column the next day, "It might have happened here."

Joe Lechnyr and the ROTC Band did a swell job of entertaining the crowd during the blackout. They gave out with a number of stirring marches and popular songs all without benefit of a written score. "Cotton Babes," "Somebody Else Has Taken My Place," "The Marines Hymn," and last but not least "The Strip Polka," all were included in their impromptu concert.

When the Band ran out of regular numbers the crowd began a Community Sing and the musicians launched into a jam session. A regular song fest resulted and everyone enjoyed themselves until the lights came back on.

The Cats' shooting was miserably off. They fired away at the basket 68 times and nicked the net for only 13. Hartwick shot 57 times and connected with 16 for a much better average.

Bob Doherty was the only Vermonter who could score consistently. In the second half he shot five times from the floor and made all but one. A truly amazing average when you consider that most of them were long set shots from well back of the foul circle.

New Uniforms

Clad in brand new white uniforms trimmed with green and gold the Catamount squad looked exceedingly "zoot." The new garb is really effective.

Much credit goes to Larry Killick who played creditable ball although not yet recovered from a painful shoulder ailment. It seemed to hinder his shooting but he should be in better condition for the next fracas.

Milt Kaufman was up to his old ball-stealing tricks of last season and time after time wrested the spheroid away from much taller opponents.

Foul shooting was the only department in which the local lads excelled. They dropped in 11 of their 13 attempts.

Firsts of the season: Frist shot taken: Bob Doherty. First basket made: Bob Doherty. First shot missed: Milt Kaufman. First personal foul: Bob Doherty. First foul shot made: Norm Beaulieu. First substitution: George Henderson.

Band in Blackout

The R. O. T. C. band entertained at the basketball game last Friday. The band played throughout the blackout at which time it was especially appreciated.

There have been thirty-four men accepted into the Enlisted Reserve Corps.

Sophomore Aides are holding a big barn dance in Waterman Building Saturday, December 12. A three piece orchestra will provide music for square dancing and a vic for round dancing. The girls have located a caller for the square dancing and promise many dances old and new. Everyone is welcome, stag or drag, boys or girls, with or without dates. All things considered this looks like an evening of old fashioned fun.

Classical Club to Stage 'The Captives'

"The Captives," a play by Plautus, will be staged in the English version by eight members of the Goodrich Classical Club at Southwick, Wednesday evening, December 9, at 8.15 o'clock. Under the direction of Mrs. L. M. Prindle assisted by Prof. J. E. Pooley of the Classical department, noblemen in richly colored gowns, slaves in bright-colored tunics, and white-clothed captives will reenact a street scene in Aetolia and bring back for us the likeness of a day in Ancient Greece.

A bluff Shakespearean coarseness of thought and expression runs throughout the play, together with a number of atrocious characters, scenes and situations.

One of Hegio's sons has been taken prisoner in a battle with the Eleans; the other was stolen by a runaway slave and sold when he was four years old. The father, in his great anxiety to recover the captured boy, bought up Elean prisoners of war, and among those that he purchased was the son he had lost many years before. The son, having exchanged clothes and names with his Elean master, secured the latter's release, taking the consequences himself. This master of his returned, bringing Hegio's captive son, and along with him that runaway slave, whose disclosures led to the recognition of the other son.

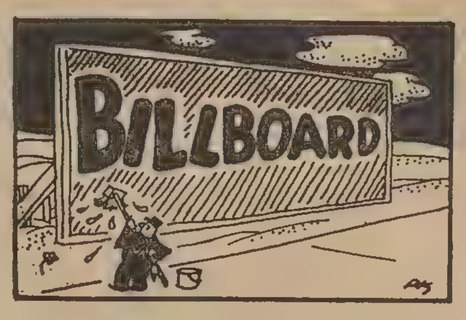

The cast of characters is as follows:

Ergasilus, a parasite..Margaret Fake, '44
Hegio, an old gentleman..Mary Perry, '44
Slave Overseer, belonging to Hegio .....Gertrude Sherman, '44
Philocrates, a young Elean captive .....Jean Davison, '44
Tyndarus, his slave, captured with him .....Vesta Stevens, '45
Aristophontes, a young Elean captive .....Mary Butler, '43
A Page, in the service of Hegio .....Ruth True, '44
Philopolemus, Hegio's son .....Zelva Flower, '44
Stalagmus, Hegio's slave .....Beatrice Thompson, '45

"In this play," says Plautus, "you have no vicious intrigues, no love affair, no supposititious child, no getting money on false pretences, no young spark setting a wench free without his father's knowledge."

"Plautus finds few plays such as this which make good men better."

COPIES OF OLD CYNICS NEEDED

The staff of the VERMONT CYNIC desires to obtain copies of the following CYNIC issues so that its files may be made complete:

No. 40, 1941, March
No. 29, 1940, January
No. 27, 1940, December

ATTENTION

There will be a Newman Club meeting Tuesday evening, December 8, at 8.00. The speaker will be Prof. Jeremiah Durick of the faculty of St. Michael's College.

This meeting, previously scheduled for Thursday, is changed because of the basketball game.

All out at 8.00 sharp.

The meeting of the Newman Club will be held this evening instead of Thursday evening.

All men who want to play hockey this year, report at the Student Lounge at four o'clock, Wednesday. A meeting will be held at that time to determine plans for the year.

Down at the City Hall last Friday night a Burlington audience of music lovers had a threat of unusual brilliance and also unusual novelty. When the Governor decides that surprise blackouts are the best way to make the citizenry war-conscious, it makes no difference whether it be concert or sports. And when an air-raid siren literally next door starts its foreboding drone while one of the world's finest pianists is performing the beautiful Chopin Sonata in B flat major, the audience becomes slightly disturbed and loses its classic consciousness. But the real climax comes when the funeral march from the sonata is played with only the artist's hands and the piano keyboard visible to an audience in a completely blacked-out auditorium without so much as even exit lights glowing.

This young artist, "whirlwind" pianist, the last pupil of the late Ignace Paderewski completely won his audience to the point that many felt that he was one of the coming great. Already he is great in his interpretation and devotion to the music of his native country, Poland. Witold Malcuzynski has traveled to a majority of the great capitals of the world including a very successful recent tour of South America. His technique is dazzling and his ardor incessant. Every chord seemed to be the object of his main effort.

Resembling his great teacher are his hands in particular, large, muscular, and beautifully developed. This scribe had the opportunity to meet the artist personally during the concert and happened to be the one who held the light for him to play during the blackout. Senor Malcuzynski is very charming and a very practical man. He speaks French and Spanish in addition to his native tongue. At present he is working very hard to learn the English which he finds is very difficult. He has a strong affinity for tea, and feels that he must have it at intermission of every concert. He is a slave to his music practicing many hours every day. At present he seems a bit homesick, although his mention of Poland is very curt. His sense of humor is excellent; he laughed about the interruption by the blackout, saying that he had never played under such conditions before.

National fees of fraternities and sororities in the United States have been estimated at $3,838,800.

Christmas Concert

lington, Mrs. Roy Buchanan of Burlington, Pauline Clark '45, Phyllis Taylor '44; viola, Mr. Francis Colburn, artist-in-residence; 'cello, Miss Freda Harris, assistant dean of women, John Goss '43, Joan Garrity '46, Phyllis Hardy '45; contrabass, Robert Goss '44; flute, Jean Vogler, '44; trombones, Herbert Foster, '44, Betty Newcomb, '46; trumpets, Charles Comstock, '46, Mary Greene, '46.

Mr. Michael Anselmo will be the concert-master. Professor Bennett will direct the orchestra for the concert. The University chaplain, Professor Raymond Avery Hall, will read the Christmas story from the scriptures.

The Fleming Museum announces that the Italian Renaissance painting, Madonna Adoring the Child by Lorenzo di Credi will be on display in the Chapel during the concert. It is an original loaned to the Museum by the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City through the efforts of H. E. Schnackenburg a special friend of the Museum here.

The concert is free and is open to the public. Students who plan to attend are warned to go early, that is several minutes before four o'clock, due to the fact that the chapel is overcrowded for the Christmas concert.

Library Open Longer

Beginning Monday, December 7, until the Christmas recess, the Billings Library will be open until 10.00 p.m., with the exception of Saturday and Sunday evenings. This means that reserved books may not be taken out for overnight use until 9.45 p.m.

Omicron Nu Pledges Five New Members

A meeting of the Omicron Nu, Home Economics Honor Society, was held Monday afternoon, November 30, at Doctor King's residence. The purpose of the meeting was to pledge five new members. The president pro tem, Faith Kenyon Prior, presided. She was assisted by Doctor King, Miss Terrill and Miss Bailey. The girls pledged were: Helena Anderson, Catherine Walker, Irene Quimby, Jean Sprague and Florence Bevins. After the pledging ceremony tea was served.

Fifty cadets are enrolled in the flying school at Louisiana State University.

The Vermont Cynic

VOL. 61 BURLINGTON, VERMONT, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 11, 1942 NUMBER 23

Student Government Reports to You

President of Student Government Outlines the Duties of a Campus at War

War Council Planned Under U. V. M. Students To Coordinate War Work

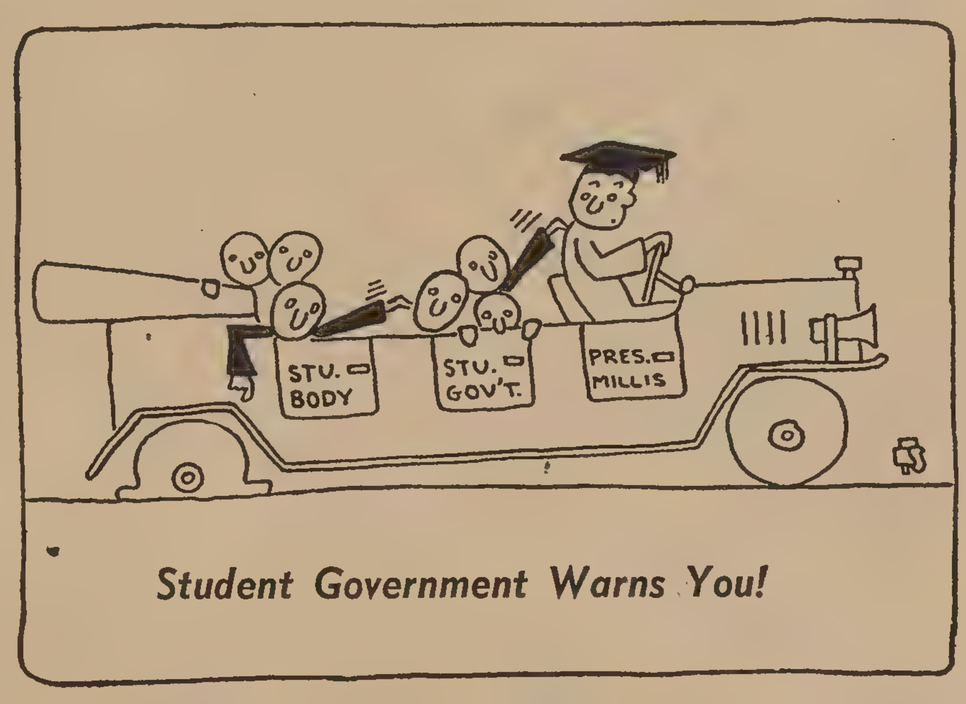

For almost a year student government at U. V. M. has thrived. It was born amid criticism, hope, and cynicism and has trudged through a year which has been replete with a University crisis and the national crisis which we all face. It isn't merely a Vermont project set up to alleviate all the problems of the U. V. M. campus but should be and is a governmental unit which is as much a part of the American constitution as the Bill of Rights. Tomorrow's leaders are today's students; their abilities rest in their preparation to become leaders. Each and every student at U. V. M. is a potential leader and should guide his or her capabilities in the channels which will best help this nation, our nation, in every crisis with which it may be confronted. The most insignificant duty we may be asked to fulfill is a part of the foundation of our democracy and should be discharged with as much regard and diligence as is asked of our nation's leaders. Duty to God and Country is duty to our associates, our campus, and to ourselves. It is all a part of our great system of life, each infinitesimal act as integral as life itself.

Participation in campus affairs should be the desire of every student. It should be our aim to better ourselves, our university, our state, our government, even the world itself. Most organizations function because of the efforts of a few—student government must not. It must function because of the efforts of all, no matter how great or small those efforts may be. Do something! No doubt some will criticize; some will praise but keep in mind the adage—"To escape criticism, Do nothing; Say nothing; Be nothing."

Within the next month Student Government will attempt to organize a War Council. Most of the schools all over the country have organized such bodies and are doing their part in civilian aid to the country's military aims, morale and individual benefit. The functions of such a war council are innumerable. Cordination of all war activities on the campus is the prime purpose of the body. Problems and activities such as the following could be included in the function:

1. Salvage collections.
2. War stamps and bond sales.
3. Campus protection—student air raid wardens, practice blackouts, fire drills, etc.
4. Student war relief drives.
5. Campus discussion program—on issues at stake in the war and post-war problems.
6. War workshop—knitting, bandage rolling, surgical dressing, etc.
7. First aid instruction.
8. Student curriculum committee—to study needed curriculum changes brought about by war.
9. Service to service men—activities for men in the armed services where near army camps, also collection of books, magazines for soldiers.
10. War social programs.

These and many more problems can be dealt with by a war council as a service to the government, the campus and to individuals. Such a movement needs cooperation and it is the duty of every student on this campus to give that cooperation when the time comes. Be able to answer the question, "What have I done to help win the war?"

Student Government Warns You!

Student Management of Activity Fee Is Job of Financial Committee

Social Committee Handles Calendar

One of the most successful phases of Student Government this semester has been the efficient organization and work of the Social Committee. With Bill Roeder as chairman, a committee composed of June Hoffman, Marguerite Benoit, Priscilla Perkins, and George Little has done much to further the interests of social life here at U. V. M. The social calendar had previously been in the hands of Dean Swift and a committee of faculty members. Thus, the new committee found quite a task on their hands last semester when they met to discuss and formulate plans for social activities of the fall term. In doing this, the five members of the committee tried to keep in mind those organizations who had not previously sponsored dances and other socials. As a result of this, Gold Key, Sophomore Aides, the French Club, and the Faculty-Student Council took part in this semester's social events.

Upper classmen will recall that in past years, many of the organizations were confused as to which dance would be held on which Saturday night. The Social Committee has done away with this inefficiency by handing to Dean Swift on the twentieth of each month a copy of the following month's events. These are checked and double-checked so that scheduled dances take place at a definite given time. The committee, itself, gave a "Vic" dance two months ago at which approximately $35 was collected to be used in sending CYNICS to service men. In addition to seeing that there is some social event every Saturday night, the committee has also included plays and Friday night dances on its calendar.

The key to the success of this new venture of Student Government is probably the fact that the members of the committee are a cross-section of the student body and thus, they know what the students want. In addition, student suggestions and petitions are always welcome. Through this system, the return of bean suppers was brought about, and men's informals were abolished. The committee has moved the Pan-Hellenic Dance

Thirty-five dollars down . . . a receipted bill . . . ocasional glimpses of some higher authority doling out allotments with a lavish hand. These few words sum up the total of the student body's previous consciousness of finances and their management on the campus.

With the advent of Student Government at the University of Vermont came a new idea, that the students themselves could and would manage their own money affairs.

When the organization of this government was already functioning, when other committees were already well on their way towards definite accomplishments, the financial committee found itself faced with a problem which might well have been expected, due partially to lack of information and partially to apathy or lack of interest. It was all very well that the members of the committee assign themselves the task of learning the details of the financial system, that they set themselves studiously to plan out a workable budget or plan of expenditures; these things they could do by themselves. Yet student cooperation, a positive essential, was lacking, and progress was correspondingly retarded.

Gradually however, things began to take shape and the organization began to function. Professor Prentice, member of the faculty formerly in charge of student financial matters, very ably assisted the Student Government Financial Committee in starting their work. The committee consists of Julia Fletcher '44, treasurer, Howie Vreeland '43, and Bob White '44. It was their job to familiarize themselves with the tasks which were to be theirs in the future, and to start the ball of student managed finances rolling. Another person who has willingly and ably aided in initiating the Student Government move has been Mr. Kennedy of the Accounting Office, who has given unselfishly of his time.

The first step consisted of studying old records of expenditures of the many campus organizations and from these, plus the budgets or requests submitted by each group, to decide just how much each club or society would need for the present year. Then these figures had to be reviewed with the total income available in mind, and treated accordingly. Many clubs had funds remaining from previous

The Challenge

Out of all criticism and ignorance there arises the story of a Student Government at work. It is our government, the one which you did not support.

But the job was begun and the reconstruction will continue. It will be done by people who do not look for excuses in a war or in an accelerated program; there are always those who never give up.

Student Government reports. That must be an answer to many a critic. The executive committee as well as all the various sub-committees on student activities began less than a year ago to destroy everything that was only living in name and to rebuild a new student-world on the ghostly ruins. The Social Committee went to town and gave us a workable social calendar. The Religious Committee began to investigate all spiritual activities on the campus in an effort to include every student in some kind of religious education. The Pep Committee gave us dances, suppers, and sings. Other committees did their share. It is true that a few committees failed but even they will find their place in due time. Above all, however, there is the executive committee, meeting week after week, trying to find new ways to help, entertain, and satisfy the students.

Student Government reports and its report is on these pages so that everyone can see what has been done; so that everyone can realize how much more must still be done.

Student Government is on its way. The students must travel on the same road to assure success. The goal is already in sight, however far away it may be. It is a campus where students run all their affairs without having to ask for outside help all the time. It will be a campus on which all students will speak up in a constructive effort to improve their own four years in school and the years of the students to come. The goal is distant but the march has begun.

Student Government has reported. Where it leaves off you must continue. State your demands, come to meetings, co-operate in all activities and Student Government will be the force you always have wanted it to be.

It is hard to construct in times of war, but the job must be done and we must ask the students for their support, however hard it may be for them.

Suggestion Box For Student Wants

Here it is at last, a way by which the student ideas, suggestions and criticisms may be brought out in the open and everyone can know them and discuss them. Where is the box? An answer to that is probably not necessary, but for the books we shall give an explicit answer on the whereabouts of said box. As one goes down the flight of three stairs just before entering the cafeteria, he may see on the right hand side of the door through which he must walk, a box on which is lettered, Student Government. Beside this box is a large poster on which there is a man (?) pointing to the box. His mouth is open very wide and from thence issues one word "Hey!" This is a gentle reminder to make those interested persons put their complaints, ideas, and suggestions in the box where they will be noticed and heeded. The suggestion box we hope will eliminate shop talk and gripe sessions, since Student Government will solve the problems. Perhaps without the usual stu-

U. V. M. Student Government---Birth And How It Grew

Enthusiastic Student Group Revised And Ratified Constitution

In the beginning of the 1941-42 academic year the first real beginnings toward a Student Government on this campus were made. Out of a spontaneously organized outlet for student expression, the student forum, grew the nucleus of a plan of action. Campus problems and wants of all sorts were set forth in a special "Wake Up U. V. M." issue of the CYNIC. Boulder and Mortar Board Societies took it from there. The far-sighted leaders of these organizations spent many hours of real work in carefully drawing up a tentative constitution. Johnny Spasyk '42, was the leader of a convocation which was well attended by an eager student body on December 13, by special permission in the Ira Allen Chapel. The tremendous turn-out then and the numerous suggestions which came in from various sources demonstrated student interest in really bringing a democratic government to the University. After another mass meeting, the first four articles of a revised constitution were ratified with a few changes at a convocation at which 400 students made their choice known. In a spirited debate of further issues of importance the undergraduate body adopted fully the constitution at a convocation on February 9. More than 24 petitions each bearing the names of at least 100 students were submitted to the first nominating committee which was made up of the deans of the three colleges and members from Boulder and Mortar Board. Election of the four officers and 10 members of the executive committee took place on March 16.

The initial meting of the new executives took place on March 24 when Johnny Spasyk presented the ideas which had come out of the student opinions at convocations and as the result of conferences and discussions with President Millis. The members of the executive committee tried to meet the demands for action on var-

Athletics Aspect Has Possibilities

Up till now, no work has been done by Larry Killick and the members of the Athletic Committee of Student Government, nor has any been planned for the future. It was thought that the reason for this failure to function lay in the fact that the duties that would have ordinarily been allotted to the Athletic Committee were being taken over by the University Athletic Council.

To bear this out Larry Gardner was contacted to see if the Athletic Committee had made any effort to cooperate with the Physical Education Department. It was discovered that no member of this department had been approached by the Student Athletic Committee, in spite of the fact that there was no lack of work to be done.

Acodring to Larry Gardner, the committee should have been in charge of forming the Hockey Club, of securing a skating rink, and of helping out in skiing and Outing Club activities.

It must be concluded either that the Athletic Committee is incapable and should be changed, or that there is not enough for them to do, in which case the committee should be abolished.

Constitution of U. V. M. Students

At the student convocation held in the gymnasium, the constitution for student government was at last fully ratified. Following is the constitution in its entirety, a document created by the students themselves for the purpose of the carrying out of a better and more enduring self-government upon the University of Vermont campus:

PREAMBLE

In order to bring about a systematic administration of student affairs on this campus, to codify existing customs and traditions of the University of Vermont, and to provide for an organized student control of campus activities, we, the students of U. V. M., adopt this constitution.

ARTICLE I—NAME

This organization shall be known as the U. V. M. Student Government.

ARTICLE II—MEMBERSHIP

All students shall be voting members of this organization on payment of the Student Activity Fee. The amount of the fee shall be determined by the Executive Committee after consultation with the president of the University or the responsible officer designated by him.

ARTICLE III—MEETINGS

Meetings of this organization may be called by the president of the University, by its president, five or more members of the Executive Committee, or by the petition of fifty or more members presented to the Executive Committee at least ten days prior to the proposed date of the meeting. The notice of the time, place, and purpose of meetings shall be posted on the official bulletin boards of this organization, and printed in the CYNIC at least one week in advance. These meetings shall be conducted according to Robert's Rules of Order.

ARTICLE IV—QUORUM

A quorum for the transaction of business in the meetings of this organization shall consist of at least five hundred members.

ARTICLE V—ORGANIZATION

Section I—Officers

The regular officers of the U. V. M. Student Government shall be a president, a vice-president, a secretary who shall be a sophomore at the time of election, and a treasurer.

Section II—Executive Committee

On the first Monday in March the Executive Committee consisting of four juniors, four sophomores, two freshmen (at the time of election) and the regular officers shall be elected, these officers to serve also as officers of the Executive Committee. Their terms shall be one year. Vacancies shall be filled by special elections.

Clause A—Duties of the Executive Committee

It shall be the duty of the Executive Committee:

1. To bring to the attention of the student body all matters pertaining to the welfare of the U. V. M. Student Government.
2. To discuss matters of common concern with the administration.
3. To act as an apportioning committee for the Student Activities Fund. This appointment shall be submitted to the president of the University for approval by May 1 of each year.
4. To elect, to advise, and to direct its sub-committees.
5. To elect a student court.
6. To make all rules and regulations necessary for the execution of the duties herein mentioned.

Clause B—Meetings

1. Meetings shall be held at least once a month during the college year.
2. Attendance at Executive Committee meetings is required of all members. Excuses shall be granted only by a majority vote of the committee members present. The vote on the absence shall be by secret ballot. Membership on the committee shall be forfeited by two unexcused absences.
3. An excuse stating the reason for absence of any member shall be presented not later than the next regularly scheduled meeting.
4. Minutes of all meetings shall be printed in the next issue of the CYNIC.

Section III—U. V. M. Student Court

Clause A—Organization

Each undergraduate college shall have two representatives plus one additional for each two hundred students over the first three hundred. The court shall elect its own presiding officer.

Clause B—Duties

It shall be the duty of the U. V. M. Student Court to try such problems of discipline and social conduct as shall be designated to it by the Executive Committee and the Administration.

Clause C—Procedure

The U. V. M. Student Court shall set up its own procedure subject to the approval of the Executive Committee and the University Council.

Section IV—Sub-committees

Clause A—Membership

Sub-committees shall be chosen by, and shall include one member of, the Executive Committee. Terms shall be for one year. Sub-committees shall choose their own chairmen.

Clause B—Names and Functions

1. Finance Committee—to cooperate with the Treasurer in the handling of the finances of the U. V. M. Student Government.
2. Social Committee—to draw up a social calendar and to arrange social functions in which all students may participate.
3. Publications Board—to advise and approve the election of the staffs of student publications. It shall consist of the editor of the Ariel and his immediate predecessor, the editor of the CYNIC, and three faculty members.
4. Athletic Board of Control—(joint student-faculty-alumni) to arrange an athletic program which will meet the needs of all.
5. Pep Committee—to conduct pep rallies and other functions so as to build school spirit.
6. Religious Life Committee—to arrange a religious program suited to the needs of the students.
7. Freshman Orientation Committee—to arrange a program for the orientation of freshmen at the University.

Section V—Duties and Powers of Officers

Clause A—Duties of the President

It shall be the duty of the president:

1. To act as the executive of the U. V. M. Student Government.
2. To act as the chairman of the Executive Committee.
3. To preside over meetings of the U. V. M. Student Government.
4. To present to the Executive Committee matters pertaining to the welfare of the U. V. M. Student Government and not provided for in this constitution.
5. To call a meeting of the new Executive Committee the third week in March.

Clause B—Duty of the Vice-President

It shall be the duty of the vice-president to act as executive and preside over meetings in the absence of the president.

Clause C—Duties of the Secretary

It shall be the duty of the secretary:

1. To keep a record of all minutes and documents of the U. V. M. Student Government and of the Executive Committee.
2. To handle all correspondence.
3. To see that the minutes of all meetings are printed in the next possible issue of the CYNIC.

Clause D—Duties of the Treasurer

It shall be the duty of the treasurer:

1. To supervise all financial operations of the U. V. M. Student Government and to act as administrator of all financial operations of the Executive Committee and as financial supervisor of its sub-committees.
2. To make monthly reports to the Executive Committee.
3. To approve the requisitions of all student organizations and to forward them to the Accounting Office.

ARTICLE VI—ELECTIONS

Section I—System of Nominations

Officers shall be nominated by a Nominating Committee composed of the dean of women, the three deans of the under-graduate colleges, three members of Mortar Board, and three members of Boulder. Members from the honorary societies shall be chosen by their respective organizations. Additional nominations for officers may be made by a petition of one hundred and fifty members at the U. V. M. Student Government to the Nominating Committee.

Nominations for the Executive Committee, except officers, shall be made by petition to the above Nominating Committee, such petitions to be signed by at least one hundred members of the U. V. M. Student Government.

Candidates shall be in good standing in the University.

Section II—System of Election

Elections shall be held under the supervision of the head of the political science department and members of Mortar Board and Boulder. Election shall be by plurality vote.

ARTICLE VII—RECALL

Any officer or committeeman may be recalled by a three-fourths vote in a meeting of the U. V. M. Student Government. A meeting for this purpose may be called by a majority of the Executive Committee and must be called by the Executive Committee when petitioned by fifty students.

ARTICLE VIII—REFERENDUM

Matters considered of sufficient importance by the Executive Committee may be submitted to the U. V. M. Student Government for approval or rejection.

ARTICLE IX—INITIATIVE

Proposals which have been rejected by the Executive Committee or have not received their consideration may be brought before the U. V. M. Student Government for consideration upon submission to the chairman of the Executive Committee a petition signed by fifty members. At such meetings the vote of the U. V. M. Student Government shall be final.

ARTICLE X—AMENDMENTS

Section I—Proposal

Amendments may be proposed by a petition signed by fifty members and presented to the chairman of the Executive Committee, who shall call a meeting of the U. V. M. Student Government to consider such amendments.

Section II—Publication

The proposed amendments must be printed in the CYNIC at least one week before said meeting.

Section III—Adoption

A two-thirds vote of the members present at such meeting shall be necessary for the adoption of the amendment.

President Millis Elaborates On Needs And Purpose of Student Government

Student self-government is an institution which can and should answer a very real educational need on the part of the college community. All colleges and universities have as their chief purpose the provision of a complete environment in which young people can obtain preparation both for life and living. It is hoped and expected that students completing a college course are prepared to take their places in a democratic society. Hence it is essential that during the college period they receive some genuine experience in the fundamental concept of democracy, namely, self-government.

The most obvious area in which students are able to assume responsibility and thereby to be granted authority is in relation to their own activities. Hence the first concern of student government should be the planning and regulation of the program of extra-curricula activities, including athletics, publications, special interest clubs, and social organizations. They should assume responsibility for and authority over the financing of these various activities through the student activity fee. Though this is a rather large responsibility, nevertheless it can be and should be done by student officers elected by general ballot.

The second area in which students should assume responsibility and eventually be given authority is in the matter of establishing standards of personal and social conduct and the regulation of such matters. The honor system in the class room is a natural outgrowth of an intelligent appreciation of the obligations of self-government, as is the work of the Women's Student Union and the social control exercised by fraternities and sororities. This latter area of activity cannot be brought into existence by mere legislation or the adoption of a constitution. It will come only when the students are prepared to assume the rather grave responsibilities involved and later to assume authority.

If we assume, which I believe we must, that young people approaching the end of their formal education, are both rational and responsible, student government becomes an absolute necessity and a responsibility is placed upon every student to participate in that democratic institution.

Cultural Program Series Coming Soon

For quite some time it had been the wish of Student Government to establish on this campus a broad cultural program. However, nothing was done about it until today as it was very uncertain whether the student activity fund could support such a program.

It has been found just recently that there will be enough money to sponsor a cultural program this year on a limited basis. The dates for two events have been set and Student Government feels that both programs will be very acceptable to the students.

The first in the series is a lecture on the Far East (particularly Japan), by Mr. James Young, a former Far East Director of the International News Service. He is known to have a very vital and effervescent personality that will surely appeal to the whole campus.

Our second guest-attraction will be a young woman from the Abbey Players in Dublin, Ireland, who does excellent character sketches. The quality of Miss MacMurroughe's work is very fine and should prove interesting to all students.

The dates are February 4 and March 16, respectively. The series is entirely free and it is for you!

How about it? Will you hold those dates open for us?

Attention, Authors

The University News Bureau, room 111, Waterman Building, will be glad to be notified of any publications by members of the faculty or staff. Such publications are of interest as indicating what the University is doing, and this office finds it difficult to keep track of them unless informed by the writers themselves.

Will Miss Dorothy Stevens please call at the CYNIC office and collect the letter addressed to her there.

Yuletide Concert Features Cantata by Dr. Stoehr

Chapel Expected To Be Very Crowded Sunday

The Christmas vespers in the Ira Allen Chapel on Sunday afternoon at four o'clock will be the highlight of musical events on the campus for the first semester. Under the direction of Howard G. Bennett, the University Choir with Miriam Natilee Marston as organist and a group from the University Orchestra, Michael Anselmo, concert-master, will present selections from Bach's Christmas Oratorio and Handel's Messiah, a group of Christmas carols, and a Christmas Cantata written for the University musical organization by Dr. Richard Stoehr of St. Michael's College.

Soloists for the concert are Marjorie Southworth '43, contralto, Doris Squire '43, contralto, Theresa Coderre '43, soprano, Robert Goss '44, baritone, Shirley Lampman '45, soprano, and Philip Robinson '45, baritone.

Christmas vespers is usually one of the largest attended events at this college during the entire year. This year through the courtesy of the Fleming Museum the Italian Renaissance painting, Madonna Adoring the Child with the Infant, St. John and the Angels by Lorenzo di Credi will be displayed during the concert on the stage of the Chapel.

The program follows:

Author Gives Two Volumes Of Her Work To U. V. M.

The Billings Library has received as a gift from the author of two volumes of verse by Martha Wilson. The books are "Testament" and "Penitent Earth." "Testament" is a sonnet sequence of which the London Times says in their literary supplement, "We are impressed by the high-flown force of her words—a sustained vigor of expression—a dynamic intensity and depth of feeling equal to the force and daring of the language." "Penitent Earth" is a collection of poems written against a background varied and often exotic.

Honorary Societies

The Sophomore Aides announce the election of a new member, Kay Henessey. She takes the place of Priscilla Clark who has left school. Miss Westby of the Home Economics Department is the newly appointed faculty advisor.

At the last meeting, Margery Anthony was elected secretary.

President Millis on Reserve Corps

To All University of Vermont Men:

There appears to be considerable confusion in the minds of many University of Vermont men concerning their relation to the armed services. Recently I have had the opportunity of talking to officers of both the Army and Navy, as well as to persons concerned with the coordination of educational institutions and the armed services. Though no announcement has been made of the final plan for utilization of colleges for training centers for the Army and Navy, nevertheless certain facts are now clearly established.

With the new powers allocated to the War Man Power Commission, all voluntary enlistments of men within the draft age are stopped. Students who were in the process of enlisting in one of the reserve corps prior to December 5th may complete such enlistment provided such is done before December 15, 1942. No definite information is available concerning just when any or all of the reserve corps will be called, but the most informed opinion seems to be that they will not be called immediately nor in mass, but rather will be incorporated in whatever programs the Army and Navy work out for training selected groups in the colleges and universities.

There have been absolutely no changes in the directives to the local draft boards with reference to deferment for students in selected classifications. Students in Medicine, Pre-medicine, Engineering, Chemistry and Physics will continue to be deferred since critical shortages of trained personnel exist in these categories.

It is now clear that both the civilian and military officials wish a system which amounts virtually to total selective service. Hence it is desired that students now in college remain at their studies until they are called for duty or are sent to some particular group either in this or some other institution.

There is also apparently some misunderstanding concerning the regulations of the University of Vermont relative to refund of tuition in case a man is inducted in the armed services through the operation of the selective service or calling of one of the reserves. Should a person be called for duty near the end of any semester, the faculty will make every effort to enable the student to complete the work in the time available so that he may receive credit for the entire semester. Should the student be called at a time which would make that impossible, he has a choice of two options, the establishment of a credit in the University's books for all tuition paid which will be available at any time a student wishes to return to college, or a cash refund of tuition fees paid.

The leaders of the armed forces obviously believe that the experience received in college is highly significant as a preparation for military service. Therefore, it is encumbent upon every man in college to get the most from his present experience and to thus have the finest possible preparation prior to the time he is called to active duty.

Sophomore Aides Sponsor Barn Dance

This Saturday evening, the Sophomore Aides are sponsoring an old fashion barn dance to be held in the cafeteria of the Waterman Building. This is going to be the real thing with square dancing to the tune of a four piece hill-billy orchestra and a caller. In between the square dancing there will be regular social dancing to records.

Marge Anthony, chairman, says this dance is informal to the nth degree, and the girls may wear blue jeans or slacks.

The decorations will be extremely novel and will carry out the theme of the dance. Dancing will be from 8.00 to 12.00 midnight. Everyone is invited.

Girls Invite Boys To Exciting Dance

Sorority girls and their men crammed the Waterman cafeteria Saturday night in one of the most exciting dances of the college year. Down from Fort Ethan Allen came a band, bringing with it a red hot trumpet player, to set the stage for the evening.

School spirit ran high all evening evidenced by the singing of college songs at intermission. High spot of the evening was the two Conga lines, led by Peggy Durfee '44, and Ben Vail '45. Many and varied were the individual interpretations to this dance. A fashion note for the women is the predominance of red wool and white wool dresses to be seen.

Chaperones for this grand dance were Prof. and Mrs. A. E. Nuquist, Prof. and Mrs. Fred Carpenter and Dean Mary Jean Simpson. Thanks and bouquets go to Jean Blume '43, "Dee" Welch '43, Esther Gustafson '44, and "Margo" Benoit '43, for making this annual Pan-Hellenic dance such a great success.

Dr. Raab Speaks To Unitarians Sun.

Dr. Wilhelm Raab of the University of Vermont Medical College will speak on "Austria Between Two Wars" at the Channing Club of the Unitarian Church on Sunday evening, December 13, at 7.00 p.m. A native of Austria, Doctor Raab lived in Vienna during those critical years from 1918-1940, and speaks from first-hand experience.

Carol singing and refreshments will follow the talk. College students are cordially invited to attend.

Dr. Ladd At Collegium

Collegium will meet at the College Street Church this Sunday at 7.00. Doctor Ladd will give the last of his very interesting and helpful talks on the Bible. Refreshments, carol singing, and social hour. Let's come, everyone.

Sophomore Aides' coffee hour this Sunday at Southwick from 2.30 to 3.30. Everyone is invited.

Recess Extended; Leave on Time

In view of transportation difficulties the University Council has voted to extend the Christmas Recess by one day. For members of the Junior and Senior classes in the three academic colleges the Recess will begin Friday, December 18, at 11.00 a.m.; for Sophomores and Freshmen in the three academic colleges the Recess will begin Saturday, December 19, at 11.00 a.m. The Recess will end for Juniors and Seniors Monday, January 4, at 8.00 a.m.; for Freshmen and Sophomores Tuesday, January 5, at 8.00 a.m. On Friday and Saturday, December 18 and 19, the following will be the schedule of morning classes:

Military Science	7.00- 7.40
First hour	7.50- 8.30
Second hour	8.40- 9.20
Third hour	9.30-10.10
Fourth hour	10.20-11.00

Afternoon classes Friday, when held, will meet at the usual hours.

Classes in the College of Medicine will meet at the usual hours Friday and Saturday, December 18 and 19. Christmas Recess in the College of Medicine for all classes will begin Saturday, December 19, after the close of morning classes and end Monday, January 4, at 8.00 a.m.

The above dates and hours should be carefully noted to avoid unnecessary absences.

The University Council took this action in view of the fact that the Rutland Railroad and the Central Vermont Railroad as well as the bus lines felt that they would be unable to handle traffic if all students were excused on Saturday and returned on Monday, January 4. The railroads asked that we encourage students to take other trains than the noon trains on these two days since they believed there would be more accommodations available on the night trains.

Juniors and Seniors who use public methods of transportation will be expected to leave town not later than Friday evening or by Saturday evening or Sunday trains. The whole purpose of extending the holiday will be defeated if Juniors and Seniors leave on the Saturday noon trains or buses.

The attention of all students is called to the rules concerning absences immediately preceding or following recesses, University Regulations II, 4 b. Students desiring excuses for absences must submit their requests in writing to their Dean not later than Tuesday, December 15, at NOON. No excuses will be granted except for imperative reasons. The citing of trivial reasons will simply result in waste of time.

E. SWIFT,
Secretary, University Council.

Five Fraternities Hold Their Formal Dances Tonight

Decorations and Even Bands Are Not Revealed As Censorship Sets In

Amid the rush and lush of going home, under soft lights in gaily-decorated rooms, the ten fraternities on the hill will try to outdo each other in smooth music, novel trimmings, and new dance steps at their respective formals on the eleventh and the eighteenth.

Alpha Tau Omega will blaze forth with Benny Goodman's Trio, the latter if transportation facilities permit.

Delta Psi expects to have a very artistic affair the 18th with Mr. and Mrs. Francis Colburn as chaperones.

Kappa Sigma is expecting to have a formal versed in figures tonight. The Catamounts will pound out the jive, and Prof. and Mrs. Witham will chaperone. Phi Delta Theta's theme for the 18th is still a mystery but the place will be lit up with neon.

Decorations at Phi Sigma Delta tonight are a military secret, as is also the music.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon's plans are enshrouded with silence. Rumor has it that Prof. and Mrs. Carpenter will chaperone.

The Collegians of Barre will reign at the Sigma Nu Lodge tonight. Dancers will glide under boughs of holly and green and white crepe.

Sigma Phi and Tau Epsilon are furiously working to complete their plans for the eighteenth.

A dinner dance will be held at the Owl House on January 9.

A clanging bell, a drawn-out shishing sigh, an all aboard, and we're off for home!

Trophy To Be Awarded

At a meeting on Wednesday, December 2, of Boulder Society, senior men's honorary society, final plans were drawn up for the presentation in the near future of a Bert Mott Memorial Trophy to the University in honor of the late E. Bertram Mott, former member of Boulder. This trophy will be awarded each year to either the most outstanding track man or to the best all-around athlete.

It was arranged that Boulder men will usher at the Christmas Concert in the Ira Allen Chapel on Sunday, December 13.

Catamounts Roll Over Fort Cagers, 57-36

Killick, Beaulieu Lead Evansmen to Triumph

Otskey, Soldier Star, Tallies 17 Points-- Jayvee Five Shades Little Indians, 28-27

By the Sports Editor

Paced by Larry Killick's fourteen points, Vermont's five coasted to a 57 to 36 win over the 71st Field Artillery team at Memorial Auditorium last night. The win was the first of the season for Fuzzy Evans' squad, which dropped its opener to Hartwick last week.

In a preliminary game, the Vermont Junior varsity rallied to nip Cathedral High 28 to 27. Bill Bister netted a set shot in the last minute of play to provide Sherry Fogg's team with a victory in its first game.

With Killick feeding his mates underneath, Vermont rolled up a 10-2 lead on the soldiers in the opening minutes. Beaulieu, Doherty, LaPointe, and Kaufman all socred in this surge.

Beaulieu and Killick resumed this steaming pace after the Fort five had interrupted with three points of its own. Norm and Larry alternated on the scoring end of this drive, and Vermont was soon ahead at 27 to 9. Killick's passing and shooting were superb all evening. He clicked at one point on four consecutive baskets, and had ten points to his credit before as many minutes had elapsed.

Only Jerry Otskey, the soldiers' x-professional star, could hold his own with the collegians. Otskey engineered his team's play, and his seventeen markers earned him individual honors.

Evans substituted freely. A second team of Reno Conti, Leon Sheppard, George Henderson, Don Murphy, and Mike Spylios worked frequently as a unit.

40--13 at Half

Vermont led at the half, 40 to 13. The shap-shooting Catamounts had succeeded in 17 of 37 field goal tries and six of seven free throws.

Otskey pitched in a flurry of spectacular baskets as the second half opened. But Vermont was content to loaf on its comfortable lead, and the Catamount regulars experimented with plays. Evans worked Spylios and Henderson in with the starting five through most of the second half. the unconditioned Fort five furnished meager opposition, of course, but the Catamounts appeared vastly improved in team play, passing and shooting over their opening performance. Vermont scored on 26 of its 64 basket attempts, a remarkably good average. Killick alone countered with seven out of eleven efforts.

The Evansmen travel to Williamstown, Mass., tomorrow to meet Williams. The Purplemen inflicted a heavy loss on Vermont here last year.

Jayvees Pressed

The fast, scrappy little Cathedral five set a blistering pace for the Jayvees in the first game. The Little Indians, coached by former Vermont star Don Maley, overcame a big lead to forge ahead, 16 to 15, at the half.

Cathedral held a four-point margin through most of the second half, largely through the scoring efforts and defensive play of Red Collins. But with three minutes left, Len Harrington wheeled under and scored to narrow the schoolboys' margin to 27-26, and Bister's popshot a minute before the gun won the game for the Jayvees.

Dribbles: The Vermont cheerleaders, a much-improved squad over previous years, were resplendent in new green uniforms. Hank Beauchemin, Catamount high-scorer of two seasons back, attended the game on leave from Fort Sill, Oklahoma, where Henri is a first lieutenant.

LaPointe Honored By Boston Papers

Now that the nation's sports writers have finished putting their heads together, reaching into the hat and pulling out their selections for the season's greats on the gridiron, Vermont finds itself still somewhat in the public eye, thanks to Ralph LaPointe.

The Boston Post last week dug deep and gave LaPointe honorable mention for All-Amercian. The Boston paper rated Ralph above Norwich's Walt Domina.

The AP sports writers last week pooled their ballots for Little All-American honors, and LaPointe again drew an honorable mention along with Domina, and Zipper Zoukis of Norwich.

TEP'S Topple SAE Keglers

Delta Psi, Kappa Sigs Progress With ATOs

A winning TEP Bowling Club downed a surging SAE team Wednesday night by the tune of 5½ to 1½. Irving Goldstein and Ed. O'Connell shared top honors, each scattering the pins for a neat 123. O'Connell walked away with high doubles with 235 to make it somewhat of a personal victory.

In a low pinfall event, Delta Psi took the measure of the Faculty 6 to 1. Fred Boardman showed consistently good form and as a result he copped the high duo with 215. Fuzzy Evans had enough on the ball to hit 115 for high single, but his teammates were somewhat lacking and they crumbled to a defeat by 52 pins.

Two Wednesday night matches were postponed until last night because a goodly number of the team were attending an Army training film, displayed by the military department in collaboration with its intensive war program.

As a result the Sigma Phis, and the Owls—the ATO's and the Sigma Nus tangled yesterday.

On Tuesday the Kappa Sigs shut out the Independents, 7-0. "Wen" Harvey took high single and double, with a 129, and 229 for a better than average score for the evening.

The SAE's lost another in dropping a 7-0 decision to the ATO's. J. Ellis of the winners, made it double or nothing by annexing high single with 121, and high double with 215.

Today the Phi Sigma Deltas take on the victory hungry Independents and the Phi Delts battle it out with the high flying Sigma Phis.

Tulane University had its beginning in the Medical College of Louisiana, organized in 1834.

West Stars in 31-13 Win-- Medics Launch Tourney

In the only mid-week game of this week the Sigma Nu's took the measure of the Phi Delts 31-13, in a last period drive, to establish themselves as the undisputed holders of first place in League A. Leading by only 12-8 at half time, the Sigma Nu's, sparked by Russ West, who bagged thirteen points, put on a last half drive that left the Phi Delts way behind for their second loss of the young season.

Also this week the Medic League has gotten under way. Archie Post, Director of Intramural Sports, has divided the Medics into four teams, playing a double round robin. The Sophomore class has been divided into two teams, the Greens and the Reds, captained by Dick Lynch and Henry Pache, respectively, and the Junior class has been divided into the Blues, captained by Al Fergosi, and the Whites, with Bill Pratt as leader. In the openers the Greens won over the Whites 19-13 and the Blues trounced the Reds 45-22, in a fast scoring game.

Director Post has also released the schedule for Class B ball, and the dates of the playoff games in both classes. Class B has been divided into two leagues of five teams each, the Owls not entering a team in Class B competition. Sigma Nu, ATO, the Delts, the Phi Sigs, and the Kappa Sigs, make up League X, and the Sigs, the TEP'S, the Independents, the Phi Delts, and SAE are in League Y. The schedule and the playoff schedule follows:

League X—Dec. 10, 5.00, ATO vs. KS; Dec. 17, 9.00, DP vs. PSD; Jan. 7, 8.00, SN vs. PSD; Jan. 11, 5.00, ATO vs. DP; Jan. 22, 4.30, KS vs. DP; Jan. 26, 8.00, SN vs. ATO; Jan. 30, 4.45, PSD vs. ATO; Feb. 3, 5.00 KS vs. SN; Feb. 8, 3.45 DP vs. SN; Feb. 17, 5.00, PSD vs. KS.

School Scribes Pick 'All' Team

Sinkwich Leads Voting- Governali in Backfield

Eleven colleges are represented on the 1942 All-America football team selected by the nation's college sports writers and announced today in the Sporting News, national sports weekly. It is the first time in the nine-year history of the poll that some one college has failed to place two men on the honor eleven.

Frank Sinkwich of Georgia walked away with top honors and the captaincy of the star aggregation, and his backfield mates are Paul Governali of Columbia, Bill Hillenbrand of Indiana and Bob Steuber of Missouri. Linemen named to the team are Dave Schreiner of Wisconsin and Bob Dove of Notre Dame, ends; Dick Wildung of Minnesota and Gill Bouley of Boston College, tackles; Alex Agase of Illinois and Chuck Taylor of Stanford, guards; and Joe Domnanovich of Alabama, center.

There were 482 players nominated to the All-Star team by the 86 writers who represented colleges in 40 states and the District of Columbia in the balloting which was compiled by Robert S. Kunkel, executive secretary of the National Inter-Collegiate Sports Writers Association.

Second team: Poschner of Georgia and Gantt of Duke, ends; Wistert of Michigan and Csuri of Ohio State, tackles; Ramsey of William and Mary and Wright of Notre Dame, guards; Moseley of Yale, center; and Holovak of Boston College, Bertelli of Notre Dame, Harder of Wisconsin and Dobbs of Tulsa, backs.

Third team: Kelleher of Army and Shaw of Ohio State, ends; Whitmire of Alabama and Palmer of Texas Christian, tackles; Franks and Pregulman, both of Michigan, guards; Naumetz of Boston College, center; and Daley of Minnesota, Castleberry of Georgia Tech, Fekete of Ohio State and Graham of Northwestern, backs.

Iowa State College enrollment for the winter quarter is announced at 5,904 by J. R. Sage, registrar.

Students at Campus Sing

Religious Life Committee Has Taken Strides as Advisor to Groups

"The Religious Life Committee suggests that Student Government discuss the matter of taking action in order that all organized activities, of any nature other than religious, be curtailed during Chapel Hour."

So read a challenge to the Executive Committee of the Student Government in form of a suggestion dropped into the suggestion-box in the Cafeteria by the Religious Life Committee after its meeting on December 2.

This challenge is the first step in a long-range program to make the U. V. M. campus more appreciative of religion, under the guidance of the Religious Life Committee, according to Marjorie Witham, chairman of the committee. Fully aware of the lack of interest in religion on this campus, it is the aim of the committee to arouse the student body gradually to be more aware of their religious heritage.

No panaceas for campus ills, no revolutionary plans or radical changes are offered. The committee made up of Wendell Harvey, Jacob Katz, John Corliss, Faye Lippman, Mary Germain, and Marjorie Witham, chairman, in full realization of the long, hard task ahead of it and its successors, has started a drive which will continue through future years until religion and its teachings will have assumed their proper place in U. V. M. students' lives.

Not that the Religious Life Committee has any intention of accomplishing this purpose by driving every single person to chapel this very next Wednesday. The committee has only an executive function. Its work is done through the organized religious groups on campus, like Newman Club, Hillel Foundation, Y. M. C. A., and V. C. A. (Decentralization was agreed to be the best policy at a recent joint meeting of the Senate and Student Committee on Religious Life.) The individual student is to be encouraged to attend the functions of the organized group of his faith. The function of the committee will be to act in an advisory capacity to these groups, to unify the groups in interfaith functions, and to provide publicity for the other religious groups.

The committee will gradually lead the students to a better religious life by directing their own efforts towards that better religious life.

The importance fo both faith and interfaith activities are recognized by the committee. The campus religious life will be furthered not only by a spiritual awakening of the individual student but also by mutual rededication of all the students of all faiths to their brotherhood, submerging of the differences of each faith in a program stressing the essentially basic similarities of all.

Brotherhood Week, during which the campus will dedicate itself to the Interfaith ideal, is being planned under the guidance of the Religious Life Committee for February 19 through 26. The program is still in the process of preparation; three committees are working. The publicity committe is under Phil Robinson, Jake Katz, and Mary Germain, the meeting committee is under Penelope Easton, Seymour Baum, and Patricia McCormack, and the community committte is under Wendell Harvey, Faye Lippman, and Marjorie Witham. These committees are working hand in hand with the Interfaith Council. A proposal is now being considered to extend Brotherhood Week outside of the campus to the entire city; hence, the community committee: Further details will be published in the CYNIC as plans materialize.

The snowball which has been set rolling by President Millis hasn't been stopped. It is growing as it rolls on. The president's interest in the University's religious life has been taken over by a guiding body of six representatives of the faiths on campus. Already they have organized successful chapel programs, including Rev. Stanley Jones' popular sermon several weeks ago. Under earnest and intelligent leadership, they are working to fill the long vacant gap in the spiritual life of the campus.

Theirs is the job to keep the ball rolling until the average student has become an unofficial member of the Religious Life Committee. There is much to be done, but there is every evidence that the leadership offered is capable.

Theme Clinic Conducted By English Department

The English Department has been conducting a theme clinic as a part of their attempts to teach students to express themselves coherently and intelligibly in their mother tongue.

Up to the present, only freshmen have been taking their problems to the doctors of the English Department, but the clinic is open to upperclassmen who have reports and themes which have involved them in difficulties. Problems of organization of material through to grammar will be attacked at these sessions which are every Friday evening from 7.00-9.00 p.m. in the English office in Old Mill.

Pep Committee Runs Campus-wide Events

The Pep Committte of U. V. M. Students exists for the purpose of promoting school spirit through campus-wide activities like Pep Rallies, Block Dances, the annual Hobo Day, Bean Suppers, and special events that may arise during the year.

The first presentation of the Pep Committee was a Block Dance last spring that was held in the parking lot outside Waterman. A public address system furnished the music. Because of the large turnout at this dance, the committee expects to hold more Block Dances this spring.

Two of the Football Pep Rallies this fall were put on by the Pep Committee, assisted by the college cheerleaders. The committee was responsible for the addition of girls' cheerleading, an idea which will be continued during the basketball season.

The campus sings, which, although are not the work of the Pep Committee, have done much to promote spirit and interest in campus affairs.

The Bean Supper, held during Open House Week-end this fall, is the biggest undertaking of the Pep Committee this year. The supper was attended by 1,000 members of the faculty and student body. As well as the supper, which was arranged by Miss Underwood's staff, the committee's entertainment included songs by the "Fire-Eaters," twirling by Sis Warden, cheerleading, a short talk by President Millis, and a parade of contestants in the Hobo Day Contest which was staged to build up spirit for the Norwich game.

The future plans of the Pep Committee include a cheering squad for basketball games, a Clean-up Day for the campus, a possible Sadie Hawkin's Day, and an assistance committee for the purpose of helping other organizations with publicity for their activities.

Carolyn Brown '44 is the Student Government Representative on the Pep Committee.

Suggestion Box

dent shop talk general level of students' conversation will be more intellectual. Well, it's an idea anyway!

Some of the suggestions so far have been constructive, some destructive. Here are some examples of the more constructive ones!

1. Candidates for various school officers should have something about them, their capabilities, etc. in the CYNIC preceding the election, since many people, because they don't know the candidates, don't vote.

2. How about a central Lost and Found Department? (This was suggested three times.)

3. Could all organized activities other than those of religious nature be curtailed during Chapel?

Here are a couple more. Destructive, Constructive? or What? You decide:

There was one very strongly put, the essence of which was as follows:

1. Could we change the managers of the cafeteria and have some good food?

Evidently, the five undersigned of this suggestion were not at the student convocation at which President Millis gave a very fine explanation of the conditions under which the cafeteria works.

However, a definite student committee (not composed of Student Government officers) has been assigned to investigate the cafeteria question.

2. Where is the Student Government Constitution?

May I gently suggest that it was printed in the CYNIC prior to this time. If you didn't see it then, please see Marilyn Eimer, Pi Beta Phi House, Tel. 3083 and she will show it to you and maybe even read it to you.

There doesn't seem to be room enough for more about the suggestion box today. We would like you to know that some of these suggestions will be brought up in a Student Convocation (to be held soon); some are being attended to by committees; and still others have already been done. Each one is under the attention of Student Government.

All members of Le Cercle Français, except those who came last Wednesday, are asked to come to Southwick, Tuesday, December 15, at 7.30 o'clock to try out for the two French plays which will be given in February.

Faculty Members Approve Work of Student Leaders

Administration Feels In Due Time Much Good Will Be Accomplished

Since U. V. M. Student Government has been in effect and has received a great deal of help from the faculty, we have wondered how the faculty feels towards its accomplishments and defects. Here are the sentiments expressed by a few members of the faculty:

MISS SARAH HOLBROOK of the Education Department feels that the Student Government is taking hold and will accomplish much.

MISS SIMPSON, Dean of Women, said; "The U. V. M. Student Government is gaining ground, although gradually and slowly. Some of the officers are discouraged and they are justified in that feeling because although Student Government exists, it hasn't yet been sold to the students who seem to leave all responsibility to the officers and expect miracles of them. Those who do the least, criticize the most. Girls in the student body seem to respond more to Student Government than boys (evidenced in particular by attendance at Student Government Convocations.) Perhaps this is due to experience of girls in Student Union."

In spite of the lack of coöoperation, Miss Simpson is impressed by the actions of Faculty Student Council and the forming of a future cultural program for the benefit of the students.

THE VICE PRESIDENT, MR. PROCTOR PAGE, has expressed these sentiments: The Student Government organization can and should be a vital force in the life of the University. Its organization can and should be the clearing house for all student problems, plans, and procedures. It will not succeed however unless and until the student body gives the organization freely of its time, energy and thought. It will be just as good and just as effective as the students themselves make it.

PROF. DANIEL CARROLL, feels that the Student Government is a splendid idea and its possibilities must be developed. For having been so recently organized, he feels that it is making progress.

PROFFESOR DOANE, who has worked with the Student Government with other faculty advisors feels that the Student Government has a two-fold purpose: to prepare college students to take responsibilities later in life and to assume the immediate responsibilities that fall within its sphere of action. It can administer affairs affecting students only where enthusiasm, loyalty and esprit de corps are involved. The greater the willingness to hear one's share in decisions affecting the common good, the greater will be the success of the system. The Student Government organization shows that youth is accepting a major share of responsibility for its conduct.

Brotherhood Week To Be Observed

Interfaith Council and the Student Government Committee on Religious Life are making plans for the observance of Brotherhood Week the last week-end in February. The principal event will be a convocation at which there will be three speakers—a Catholic priest, a Jewish rabbi, and a Protestant clergyman.

Three sub-committees have been appointed to make arrangements: A meeting committee composed of Seymour Baum, Penelope Easton and Jacqueline McCormick; a committee on publicity composed of Mary Germain, Jacob Katz, and Phil Robinson; and a committee on community relations composed of Wendell Harvey, Faye Lippman, and Marjorie Witham.

The above committees are working in conjunction with the New England regional office of the National Conference of Christians and Jews. The secretary of this office, Herbert L. Seamans, will be on the campus in January to help in laying the plans.

Fletcher, Vreeland, White Handle Fee

years, the total of which were deducted from their allotments this year. The entire sum of the student activities fees ($35 per), this year amounting to $37,149.67, is included in these allocations.

The entire report on just how these affairs of figures were finally decided was published in detail in last week's CYNIC. In that report, compiled by Julie Fletcher and her committee, are many interesting facts, to be observed between the lines. That these important facts are not easily read by every student is apparent.

The financial committee therefore, in an attempt both to inform and to make the necessity of cooperation more apparent to the students, has invited any student to drop in at the scene of financial management, 244 Waterman, at any time during office hours; the visitor will be shown anything and everything which he may wish to know, about his own affairs actually. Office hours are on Tuesday afternoon from 2.15 to 5.00 and on Wednesday morning from 8.30 to 9.00 and from 11.00 to 12.00.

The way in which the committee handles all financial matters is easily explained Either a requisition or an itemized bill is presented to the treasurer of the Student Government by the organization treasurer. This statement of needs is approved by the treasurer and forewarded to the Accounting Office, where it is entered on the books against the account of that particular organization. All that remains is for the organization to receive the required funds from the Office of the Cashier. All money which is received as income by the groups under the plan is turned over to the cashier. Thus the cashier serves as a bank for the organizations under Student Government, with the financial committee as trustee or guardian.

The financial committee during its short tenure has had frequent occasions to carry on business through announcements printed in the CYNIC. The importance of these announcements to the whole scheme cannot be overemphasized. Treasurers of all the organizations which are utilizing the Student Government plan for handling their finances add greatly to the functioning of the committee by watching for and complying with these notices.

President John S. Millis approved in accordance with the Student Government Constitution the allocation of the Student Activity Fees for the college year 1942-43 as follows:

Functions Handled By Administration

Committee Has No Chance To Co-operate

It appears that however successfully some parts of the Student Government have functioned to date, there are other cogs that have failed to click.

One of these has been the committee for Freshman Orientation.

But the facts do not show a lack of interest on the part of the student members in this case; rather, a usurpation of power by the administration itself.

It seems that the committee of freshman orientation was set up to guide the freshmen in their three day pre-class schedule on campus, having nothing whatsoever to do with freshman camp.

Previously these freshman activities had been supervised by Prof. R. M. Collier and associates. As soon as Student Government was created, the duties of Collier and his staff reverted to this committee, but here another story enters which took all the power away from the students, leaving them with exactly no function in the entire set-up.

The office of Director of Admissions was set up under the head of Heath K. Riggs, and Riggs proceeded to assume the duties of the freshman orientation program.

As far as the facts and figures would lead us, it must be assumed that the Director of Admissions was set up in business for the express purpose of directing freshman activities, thus leaving no need for supervision by a student committee.

According to committee members, functions of their post were never exactly clear, and after Mr. Riggs assumed responsibility for this freshman activity, there was no real need for them.

Also committee heads maintained that they would have been glad to assist, but that "no jobs were passed out."

Just where anybody stands on the freshman orientation committee at present is doubtful, but one thing seems clear, they are serving in name only at present, and either should be dissolved or be given some work to do to justify their existence.

into the fall semester in place of sorority informals.

The committee considers the social calendar a vast improvement this fall, and this testimony is corroborated by informal student opinion. Student welfare is always kept in mind as is faculty suggestions. Of course, this entire new system could not have been successful if it was not for the enthusiastic participation of the student body.

Next year, the Social Committee will have the job of helping the new members appointed by the Student Government.

Let us remember that student organization of social events is an innovation. Eventually, a completely efficient system will be brought about, and at that time, the Social Committee will concentrate on new and different ideas for social events in the hope of creating an even better calendar for the student body.

ious campus problems by drawing up a tentative slate for the five sub-committees. The Financial, Social, Pep, Religious Life, Athletics, Publications and Freshman Orientation Committees were drawn up with one member at least of the Executive Committee serving on each sub-committee.

On May 6 at a general voting, the student body voted that the election of class officers be discontinued with the exception of the senior class permanent officers. At this election a student count of 7 men was established to act with the Women's Student Union Judiciary in all cases of student infractions of University rules.

In April, 1942 a Student Conference Committee was organized which replaced the old Faculty Student Council. Seven members from the faculty and the administrative staff along with the officers and executive committee of Student Government make up this committee. "The purpose of the Committee on Student Conference is to secure cordial relations and cooperation between faculty and students in regulating and controlling student affairs. Any subject which concerns the students may be brought before this committee for action by it alone or by a joint meeting of this committee and the Executive Committee. These subjects will be discussed and recommendations, if any, pertaining thereto will be submitted to the President of the University. Copies of such recommendations will be sent to interested committees or persons." This Student Conference Committee has held meetings on the first Tuesday of every month of the school year.

The constitution of the U. V. M. Student Government and the reports of the workings of the sub-committees are published on these pages. The minutes of the meetings of the officers and executive committee have been published in the CYNIC each week for all to read.

Gala Formals at Fraternity Houses

Seasonal Cheer and Decorations Abound

Last Friday evening, the 11th of December, four fraternities held their long-awaited Christmas formals in their respective houses which were decorated with the traditional gala trimmings, holly boughs, Christmas trees, and bright Christmas lights.

The Catamounts played for the Kappa Sigs and their partners and Prof. and Mrs. Witham were the chaperones.

Prof. and Mrs. F. D. Carpenter chaperoned the dance at the S. A. E. house and music was supplied by the Fort Ethan Allen Cavaliers. Richard P. Grosvenor, Howard C. Vreeland and Edward J. O'Connell were on the Arrangements Committee.

Navy blue and gold formed the color scheme at the Phi Sigma Delta house and Mr. and Mrs. Long and Mr. and Mrs. Machanic were the chaperones. Jimmie Baum was the chairman and his committee was made up of Bob Tarshis, Joe Margolis, David Kenet, George Goldsmith, and Stan Fieber.

The Collegians from Barre reigned at the Sigma Nu Lodge and Bob Story and Porter Dale were in charge. Mr. and Mrs. Archie Post and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hinman chaperoned this formal.

Christmas Carols To Be Sung to All Dorms Thursday

Groups of Singers Will Cover Campus With Four Leaders

Plans are complete for the annual Christmas caroling which is headed this year by Alfred Amee '43, who has scheduled it for Thursday night. Participation is open to all who are interested, and it is hoped that about 100 students will respond.

Based upon the hope that 100 students will respond, the campus has been divided into four sections and a group of about twenty-five will cover each section. Group One, which will include the area around South Willard Street, will stop for wassail at the Tri Delt house. Group Two will visit the frats and dorms on College, Main, and Williams Streets and will wet their whistles at the Alpha Chi house. Group Three will spread out on Pearl Street and campus points north and the girls at Dresser Cottage will hold open house for them. Group Four will cover South Prospect Street and Redstone campus and they will quench their thirsts at the Pi Phi house.

Leading will be Bob Goss '44, Alfred Amee '43, Phil Robinson '45, and Mr. Long of the faculty.

About ten-thirty, all four groups will meet at Southwick where they will be entertained by the Mortar Board girls, Helena Anderson '43 in charge.

War Relief Supper To Be Held Thurs.

Tri Delta Effort To Support Russian Drive

Attention, Students! Next Thursday night the Tri Delts are planning a Russian war relief supper which will take the form of a campus Christmas party. All of us, of course, know about the statewide campaign which Professor Dean and Mr. Long have been conducting. Success has attended this drive all over the state, and, now, is the chance for the University to do its part in showing gratitude to the Russians for the grand job they are doing in this war.

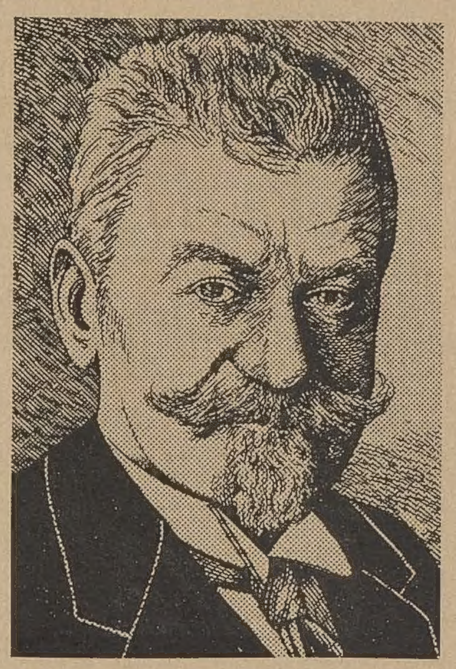

The Russian War Relief, Inc. is a national organization operating from New York City. The purpose is to distribute aid directly to the Russian people. Over five hundred of the most distinguished Americans in every walk of life are represented as backing wholeheartedly their effort. Among them are such people as Pearl Buck, author, Charles Chaplin, producer and actor, Katherine Cornell, actress, and many others.

The most important aspect of the aim of their drive is the effort to obtain medical supplies very much needed by the Russian army. For instance only one dollar will deaden pain during one operation; two dollars will sew up 66 incisions; five dollars will help get the necessary equipment for a minor surgical operation, and so on up. Thus even the smallest contribution will directly aid in saving a life and thus definitely help in winning the war. So far the Russians have proved themselves the worthiest of allies. It's our turn to show them in every possible way!

Chapel Is Crowded For Annual Christmas Concert

Orchestra, Choir and Soloists Combine in Excellent Concert

Distinguished Composer

DR. RICHARD STOEHR

From the first faint strains of "O Come, O Come, Emmanuel" to the enthralling "Christmas Cantata" of Doctor Stoehr, to the "Hallelujah Chorus of Handel's Messiah, to the faint dying notes of "O Come All Ye Faithful," the augmented University Choir held spell-bound an audience of over 1,100 people in the Ira Allen Chapel, Sunday afternoon.

Under the able direction of Prof. Howard Bennett, head of the music department, the members of the choir and the University Orchestra with Michael Anselmo, concert master, affectively presented the Christmas Cantata which Dr. Richard Stoehr of St. Michael's College wrote for the University musical organizations. The audience were captivated now by the fear and anxiety, now by the excitement and joy, now by the glory and love portrayed in the work. Theresa Coderre '43, and Philip Robinson '45 rendered their solos in the Cantata very effectively.

Prof. Raymond A. Hall, University chaplain, read selections from the Scriptures. The German melody, "Lo, How A Rose E'er Blooming," was sung as a response by the members of the choir.

Robert Goss '44, was heard in the recitative "For Behold Darkness Shall Cover the Earth" and the aria "The People that Walk in Darkness" from the Messiah.

The French Christmas carol, "Sleep, Little Dove" was sung by Marjorie Southworth '43.

Doris Squire '43 and Shirley Lampman '45, sang "He Shall Feed His Flock" and "Come Unto Me" from Handel's Messiah.

The Madonna Adoring the Child with the infant St. John and the Angels by Lorenzo di Credi was suspended on the gray background of the platform. This painting of the Italian Renaissance was loaned to the Fleming Museum by the Metropolitan Museum of New York City.

Miss Natalie Marston as organ accompanist rendered the Christmas Chorale by Pachelbel as prelude and Rhapsodie on Christmas Themes by Gigout as postlude.

Lt. Boney Lipsky Reported Captured

First U. S. Airman To Fall To Nazi Hands

Lt. Clarence "Boney" Lipsky, pilot of the first Flying Fortress to be shot down in a big raid over France is alive and well in a German prison camp. He was first reported killed in action.

"Boney" graduated from U. V. M. in 1939. While in college he was active in student affairs, member of Gold Key, Key and Serpent and held military honors.

According to information received by his mother, the lieutenant is the first United States airman to fall into Nazi hands.

On September 6, Lipsky went on a raid over occupied France. Enemy interceptor and heavy bombardment set the giant bomber on fire. With flames leaping from the fuselage, wings smashed and motor missing, "Boney" continued on his course, keeping in formation until he dropped the bombs over his objective—airplane factories.

According to Col. Frank Armstrong, his squadron leader, Lipsky kept his ship flying until several members of his crew had parachuted to safety. Then, "still giving hell with his ship guns, though the plane was entirely out of control, Lipsky shot earthward out of sight."

Mrs. Lipsky was then notified that her son was missing. Last week she received the second notification stating that the International Red Cross had received word from him that he was safe.

Redstone Campus To Hold Formal Dinner

Gov. and Mrs. Wills, Pres. and Mrs. Millis, and Dean Simpson will be guests at the annual formal Christmas dinner at Robinson Hall this evening. As is the custom a male quartet will sing Christmas songs during the dinner. This annual formal dinner is an old Christmas tradition on Redstone campus, and one of which all Redstone girls are proud.

Square Dancing at Waterman Saturday

The good old fashioned square and round dancing that was held in the Waterman Building Saturday night, under the direction of the Sophomore Aides, went over in a big way for all those attending. The hall was festively decorated with straw, cornstalks, and milk pails, with the main feature of the decorations a huge scare crow in the middle of the floor. Frank Deegan's five piece orchestra provided music for the dancing, and the leader used the "Public Address System" of calling the dances.

Margery Anthony was in complete charge of arrangements for the dance, with Shirley Needham as head of the decoration committee, Marjorie Rubin, of the ticket committee, and Ruth Jordan, in charge of chaperones. With the combined efforts of all the Sophomore Aide members the evening was a great success.

Miss Wesby, Professor and Mrs. McKee, and Professor and Mrs. Martin were chaperones for the dance.

The Vermont Cynic

The Official Student Newspaper of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College

VOL. 61 DECEMBER 16, 1942 NO. 24

For the past few weeks American educators have been confering with the military minds of the country over the grave problem of higher education in wartime. This problem has not reached the point of public discussion because colleges have felt the criticism that such institutions were havens for draft dodgers, thus boys better off economically were more apt to evade the selective service than those otherwise.

Thus our college executives have kept quiet and now a great change is about to take place in American collegiate institutions which will set education back quite a number of years. The main difficulty seems to be in the fact that the army thinks the thing to do is to take men out of college, give them basic training and send a few select ones back to college. This means that students in vital courses, sciences and engineering, will have their courses interrupted, go into the army and then if they are lucky try to catch up where they left off. Educators say this is a most fantastic scheme and is a violation of the first principles of study.

Another aspect of the problem is the difficulty the army is having in obtaining professors to teach in army schools. Investigation has revealed that the same subjects are taught in these schools as in colleges, no doubt, they could be taught much better in college before the men even go to camp. Why not give the colleges a little more to say in the selection of officers by having army and navy men on the campuses. In this way officer material could be determined without interruption of study.

Many of our high officials believe that college men make no better officers than other young men. Well, General MacArthur does seem to think so, in fact some years ago when he was Chief of Staff, he tried to revise the curriculum at West Point so that a graduate of that institution would not be the rigid, technically minded man that he so often is.

In this war the resourceful and broad man with a background of high education will play the great part in moulding an army. Evidently the militarists as in other problems, do not recognize the only intelligent solution with the result that unless the public rises up our army will not get the proper officer material and the educational system will be shot after the war.

Mr. J. E. Corbett, President
Student Government
Kappa Sigma House
Burlington, Vermont

My dear Mr. Corbett:

The Central Vermont Railroad and the Rutland Railroad as well as the various bus companies have told the University that they would not be able to handle the University student traffic Saturday, December 19. As you know from notices posted, the University Council is permitting juniors and seniors to leave Friday noon, December 18, and sophomores and freshmen Saturday noon, December 19, these classes returning for work Monday, January 4, and Tuesday, January 5 respectively.

The whole purpose of this will be defeated if juniors and seniors stay over Friday night and leave by public methods of transportation Saturday. It is imperative that all juniors and seniors who plan to leave town do so by Friday night at the latest or else wait over until Sunday trains, otherwise there will simply not be places for those who wish to travel Saturday.

The purpose of this letter is to ask you to make clear to the student body through Student Government that it is essential that juniors and seniors do not stay over and attempt to take the Saturday day trains. The war has placed such a strain on transportation that even when we divide into two parts those wishing to travel, the ordinary accommodations will be barely sufficient if indeed a number do not have to stand. The administration does not wish to be arbitrary but as a war time measure will insist that juniors and seniors do not travel on Saturday.

Yours sincerely,
ELIJAH SWIFT,
Secretary.

Burlington, Vermont
December 15, 1942

Dear Editor of the CYNIC:

I am replying to the article which appeared in last Friday's CYNIC in which the writer states that "the office of Director of Admissions was set up under the head of Heath K. Riggs, and Riggs proceeded to assume the duties of the freshmen orientation program." It further states that, "as far as the fact and figures would lead us, it must be assumed that the Director of Admissions was set up in business for the express purpose of directing freshman activities, thus leaving no need for supervision by a student committee."

Evidently no investigation into the facts of the situation was made by the writer of this article. The freshman orientation program was not planned by the Director of Admissions but rather by the Senate Committee on Student Personnel. The Director of Admissions is not even a member of this Senate Committee. The Committee on Student Personnel planned this orientation program and transmitted it to me through the chairman for publication in the "Freshman Preliminary Days," the publication of this leaflet has been a function of Registrar's Office for several years, for which I have the responsibility. Some of the minor details of this program were left to me by the committee. These details were concerned with the assigning of rooms and the securing of help for the execution of the program. There has been no "unsurpation of power" by the Director of Admissions in this matter; rather I have carried out the work that has been assigned to me to the best of my ability.

May I humbly suggest, before any more personalities are involved in this matter, that a combined meeting of the Senate Committee on Student Personnel and the Student Committee on Freshman Orientation be held with the President of the University as soon as possible for a clarification of the duties and responsibilities of each. I am certain that a cooperative arrangement between the two committees can be worked out.

Sincerely yours,
HEATH K. RIGGS,
Director of Admissions.

Prof. Metcalf Addresses Club

On Thursday evening, December 3, Prof. J. T. Metcalf, Chairman of the Department of Psychology, spoke on "The Use of Psychology in Warfare" at the regular monthly meeting of the John Dewey Club.

Professor Metcalf spoke of some of his personal experiences as an officer engaged in psychological work at Fort Devens in the last war. The chief uses in World War I made of psychology were the use of group intelligence tests such as the Army Alpha in order to help to classify recruits quickly and accurately for the jobs which they were best fitted to fill, the use of psychology in aviation, and the use of psychology in the rehabilitation of soldiers returned from the front, especially shell-shock victims. Professor Metcalf then pointed out that after the Armistice psychologists were not included in the standing American Army as they were in the German Army which, although it was composed of only 100,000 men, by the use of psychological methods of selection and training, was capable of being rapidly expanded into a powerful war machine with the standing Army as the nucleus of the enlarged Army of the Reich. Thus the speaker forcibly stressed "the use of psychology in warfare" and by implication stressed the need and usefulness of having trained psychologists in our Army after this war.

At this meeting twelve new members were initiated: Jane Collins, '44; John Corliss, '44; Patricia Fowell, '44; Betty Hawkinson, '44; Lloyd Hazen, '44; Llewellyn Jones, '43; Ione Lacy, '44; Farnham Little, '46; Hilda Lund, '43; Peggy Palmer, '44; Shirley Wedge, '44; and Sylvia Wellwood, '44.

Fort Chaplain Addresses Newman Club Today

At services on Wednesday morning, December 16, 1942, the Newman Club will have as its guest speaker Father Murphy, chaplain at Fort Ethan Allen. Father Murphy's talk should prove very illuminating and helpful to the men on campus who are planning to enter the armed services soon. A graduate of Notre Dame, Father Murphy is familiar with college students and should prove a very interesting speaker.

At a meeting of the officers and executive board plans were made for a Communion breakfast before mid-years. It was also decided that committees would be formed to organize the students in groups to see Father Cassidy privately. It is hoped that the students will cooperate with this new arrangement.

Larry Gardner and Joe Corbett To Be At Smoker

On Thursday night in the student lounge Gold Key, sophomore men's honorary society will hold the last in its series of smokers for freshman men.

The speakers for the occasion will be Larry Gardner, Director of Athletics, and Joe Corbett, President of Student Government. A medical student, agent for a lumber company in the State of Washington will, present a very interesting technicolor movie showing the history of lumber from the sawing down of the tree to the presentation of the finished product to the public.

There will be community singing for which the new campus sing books will be used, and refreshments will be served.

Delta Psi wishes to announce the pledging of Daan Zwick '42.

Catamounts Prime for Christmas Contests

Cats Trip Williams, 38-36, On Kaufman's Late Score

Vermont Rally Decisive In Close Encounter

By BILL STYLES

The Cats are now launched on a series of tough practice sessions in preparation for the coming Xmas journey into the Bay State and Rhode Island after returning from Williamstown with a close 38-36 victory over the Ephmen and sweet revenge for last year's trouncing. Milt Kaufman turned the trick in the last minute of play when he took a pass under the basket from Larry Killick and tossed in a back-hander to win for the Catamounts.

Playing their best game as a team, so far this season, the Cats began the scoring after about three mnutes of play, to take an early but short-lived lead. Neither team could gain a decided lead as play see-sawed back and forth, although at the half Williams managed to hold a three point 20-17 advantage.

Their lead was soon nullified as Vermont started to roll with a nine point barrage that Killick started by sinking a long shot. Bob Doherty followed with a two pointer as did Milt Kaufman; Killick added another and Beaulieu dropped in a foul. Williams slammed right back however, with a spurt of their own, led by Capt. Jack Harter and Roy Tolles, that carried the Ephmen into a 31-28 lead. Again Vermont came back with Norm Beaulieu going under the net to sink a step shot, and Doherty scoring on a long set shot, to give the Cats the lead again. Don Lindsey nullified it with a follow-up and Jack Harter widened the gap to two points with a free throw. Killick then evened it up at 34-34 and added another as Vermont gained the lead once more. At this point Dick Hole fired in a long one to tie up the score.

Kaufman Scores

With Williams getting the ball again they made a last desperate attempt to win with a long shot, but in the battle for the rebound Killick got the ball, fired a pass to Kaufman under the Vermont basket and Milt set it in with a backhand shot. Milt was fouled while shooting, but missed his throw. Williams then tried to tie it up and in the process Bob Doherty drew a free shot. Vermont took the ball out, however, and managed to hold on to it until time ran out.

Roy Tolles of the home team and Larry Killick vied for scoring honors with thirteen points each. Norm Beaulieu's and Ralph LaPointe's work on the rebounds was outstanding all evening, with Ralph holding the Williams' captain to only four points. Capt. Bob Doherty sent four long loopers into the netting from way out, and Milt Kaufman won the ball game on one of his two goals. Both coaches sent in only two substitutes, Henderson and Spylios going in for the Cats.

Sig Bowlers Score Twice

Owls, Phi Delts Bow-- Sigma Nu Beats ATO

In a postponed encounter, the Sigma Phis, tripped a weak Owl spillers 5-2. The winners had plenty of consistency, filling in their weak spots to good advantage. Browne, of the Owls, made it somewhat of a moral victory by taking high single with 114 and high double with a 207. Brud Sutton featured for the winners with a 109 string.

The Sigma Nu's, continued their winning ways by shutting out the ATOs 7-0. Again Harry Packer and Ed. Boyden sparked their team; Harry with a great 125 and Ed with the high doubles 228. The champs are yet to be stopped and they promise a great battle for top honors this year.

In a close match, the Phi Sigma Delta squad eked a win over the Independents, 6-1.

J. Machanic bowled a great game for the winners, taking high double with 232, Luna, mainstay of the Independents, came through with a high single of 125. The pin fall was close. The Phi Sigs having 1006 and the Independents, a close 1000.

The Sigma Phi team won by the "proverbial" skin of their teeth, 6-1, in a match with the Phi Delts. Al Wees, copped high single with 118. The Sigs had to be content to take 219, for high double. The Sigs have yet to go down in defeat, but they have dropped considerably since their first win. They must come back fast, or they will be soon a second best squad.

In this week's matches, the SAE meet the Sigma Nus, and the Owls, take on the Delta Psi in a Tuesday match. On Wednesday the TEPs tangle with the Independents, and the ATOs clash with the Sigma Phi.

All members of Le Cercle Français, except those who came last Wednesday, are asked to come to Southwick, Tuesday, December 15, at 7.30 o'clock to try out for the two French plays which will be given in February.

Sigma Nu, ATO Win On Court

Leaders Stay Unbeaten-- SAEs Win First, 27-16

Action has been fast and furious on the gymnasium court these past few days as the fraternity quintets battle it out for supremacy in their respective loops. Some really good ball has been displayed by several of the combines and rough and tumble action has featured most of the tilts thus far. Partisans of the game have been on hand whenever games are scheduled to cheer on their favorite clubs.

The Sigma Nu hoopsters exhibited a fine passing game and several hawk-eyed shots last week-end as they took measure of the Phi Delta Theta stalwarts, 31-13. Working the ball through the Phi Delt defense the Sigma Nu-ers piled up the score with ease. For the winners Roy West dunked in the most tallies, with 13 points to his credit. Bob Bloomer was close behind with eight and Wright netted six. For the Blue and White, footballer Bill Benoit was high man with six markers.

On Saturday afternoon the SAE five took the floor against the Sigs and emerged some forty-five minutes later with their first victory of the season, 27-16. The Summitt Street lads showed plenty of court savvy despite a rather ragged passing game. Lanky Dick Grosvenor was high scorer with eleven points while Bud Pierce, dapper SAE forward brought up the rear with six counters. For the much trampled but game Sigma Phis, freshman Ronnie Page topped the roster with eight. The SAE lads showed much improvement over their first appearance and may prove a real threat to league leaders.

In the day's nightcap, the ATO powerhouse loosed a second half blitzkreig to trample the Delta Psi quintet, 23-12. Leading by only one point at the half-way marker the ATO five, undefeated so far this year, turned on the heat in the third and second quarters to down the valiant but outscored Delts. Slam-bang action featured the tussle as both clubs surged up and down the floor. Monk Martin took scoring honors with twelve points, while Ellis netted six. Dudley Davis and Stu Haven played great floor games for the losers and Spook Little exhibited some spectacular shooting. Bicoulous and Chesarone were also outstanding for the ATO's, as was freshman Frank Sugrue.

Evansmen Face Strong Tufts and Providence Fives

Jumbos and Friars Among East's Best

Larry Killick Cat forward who is setting the scoring pace for his team for the second year. The talented shotmaker netted 13 points in the win over Williams and is expected to lead the Vermont offensive against Tufts and Providence.

With two wins on the ledger against one defeat, Fuzzy Evans' Catamount courtsters will open their annual Christmas excursion, primed to annex to more hoop tieups.

The Vermont five pulls out of Burlington, and will stage their opening battle in Medford, Mass., against a usually potent Tufts outfit.

The following night will find the itinerant Evansmen in the state of Rhode Island facing Providence College in Providence. The lads from Providence are rated as one of the best basketball outfits in the east, and will be set to give the Green and Gold plenty of court work to digest.

Saturday's 38-36 thriller over Williams proved beyond a doubt to the more dubious followers of the Vermont hoopsters that the club has the makings of one of the best fives in some years.

Squad Intact

With Larry Killick fully recovered from a painful shoulder, plus the marksmanship of Kaufman, LaPointe, Beaulieu and Doherty, the Cats will be clawing hard when they face the southern New Englanders a few nights hence.

Although Milt spilled only five counters through the netting against Williams, his general aggressive playing and clutch shooting won the game for the Cats, and will render him a potent force against Tufts and Providence.

Although Red White, now a lieutenant in the Marines, dropped in the deciding basket in a 50-48 win over Tufts a year ago, it was the point-making of Kaufman and Killick that accounted for the Cats victory. Milt chalked up five double markers, while Larry rang up a total of twelve points.

Friars New Foe

On their southern swing last winter, Vermont faced off against M. I. T., and was set back 48-38. This year the Providence five will fill in for the engineers, and shape up as an unknown quantity other than the name they have set for themselves here in the east.

Thanks to Doherty, LaPointe, and Beaulieu who did some real service off the backboards against Williams, the Green and Gold was in possession of the ball a good share of the time which may prove a deciding factor against the fast and shifty playing of Tufts and Providence.

In addition to Evan's starting five, Mike Spylios and George Anderson have seen a lot of action in Vermont's three games to date, and will be important cogs in the Cat's machine on their week-end jaunt.

PI BETA PHI

A group of approximately twenty soldiers from Fort Ethan Allen were guests at the Pi Phi house Sunday evening from 6.30 until 8.30.

The members of the sophomore and junior classes were hostesses. A buffet supper was served. Jean Sprague '43, gave a humorous monologue; Christmas carols were sung and dancing was enjoyed.

This was the second Sunday night supper held by the Pi Phis in connection with the G. S. O.

Vt. Debating Team On New York Trip

Rutgers and Brooklyn To Play Host Friday

The debating team will conclude its activities of the first semester with an invasion of New York City and New Jersey. Bob Norton '44, and Jake Katz '44, will debate Friday, December 18 against Brooklyn College and New York University . The debates will take place at 2.00 p.m. and 4.15 p.m. respectively. The second team consisting of John Felopulos '44, and Dave Wheeler '45, will meet Rutgers University on Friday at 4.15 p.m.

Both teams will take the affirmative of the question; "Resolved: That the United Nations should establish a permanent federal union, with power to tax and regulate international commerce, to maintain a police force, to settle international disputes and to enforce such settlements, and to provide for the admission of other nations which accept the principles of the union."

While arrangements were made for the New York trip, John Felopulos '44, and Bob Norton '44, went on a debating trip to Boston. On the way they met Keene Teachers College in New Hampshire on the question; "Resolved: That the Atlantic Charter is the best basis for post-war world organization." On this question the U. V. M. debaters took the negative.

They then met M. I. T. on the question; "Resolved: That the United States should establish a permanent federal union, with power to tax and regulate international commerce, to maintain a police force, to settle international disputes and to enforce such settlements, and to provide for the admission of other nations which accept the principles of the union." To show that they can prove as well as disprove, the two Vermonters took the affirmative side of the question.

In both of these debates the Vermont team held its own against tough opposition.

This will be the end of a semester of much debating. Vermont met two college teams on its own campus, while it made four trips to debate eleven colleges. The successful arrangement of all these trips is entirely due to M. D. Powers, debating coach, who is already making plans to send out his teams against any opposition during the second semester.

CANDIDATES WANTED FOR RIFLE TEAM

Calling all candidates for the rifle team. Report at the military office before Wednesday, December 16. Freshmen are eligible for varsity competition.

The military department is starting an intensive program of instruction. For the rest of this semester and well into the next semester, up-to-date training films will be shown at least once a week. It is evident that visual aid in instruction is worth a great deal more than lectures. These modern films are sure to help a lot. The first one was shown Wednesday evening, December 9.

The military department is in a position to accept for enlistment in the Enlisted Reserve Corps, a limited number of outstanding juniors and seniors who graduate not earlier than May 18, 1943, and who have a high academic standing in scientific or specialized courses which render them of particular value to the government in the war effort. A limited quota of men, who, prior to the present, have not been able to be accepted may also be enlisted. All men interested should report at once to the military department to be considered and enlisted before December 15 when all enlistments terminate.

Aggie-Home Ec. Party At Southwick Thursday

The annual Aggie-Home Ec. Christmas Party will be held at Southwick, Thursday, December 17, from 7.30 to 11.00. The girls are planning some new refreshments that will really capture the boys hearts. There will also be dancing and caroling. Everyone please bring a 10c gift for the tree. We hope the boys will turn out in force just to give the girls a good time.

Monsieur Lanou French Club Guest

Eminent Frenchman Gives Views on Politics

Prof. and Mrs. R. F. Doane were hosts Tuesday evening to the Alliance Francaise and about a dozen of the students interested in France and the French language. The speaker was an eminent Frenchman Monsieur Pierre de Lanux, who presented his interpretation of the French character, politics and outlook today.

M. de Lanux has traveled widely in the past few years addressing groups interested in international affairs all over the United States and many foreign countries. He was in charge of the Office of the League of Nations for a number of years. He has known most of the heads of the French government since that time. At present he lectures three times a week at Middlebury College on Contemporary Civilization, the course formerly given by Prof. Waldo Heinrichs, now in the Air Force.

In an informal discussion, M. de Lanux demonstrated the individualism of his people by saying that where there is one Frenchman, there is one political party; this figure multiplied by the millions of French people can give some idea of the problems confronting those who govern France. The speaker assured his audience that there was never a question of the disloyalty of the leaders of France, to his mind. Marshal Petain, in his opinion, has hurt the cause of France by being at the beginning so much respected by his own people that they didn't realize that he was merely acting under Hitler's orders. One tremendous fault of the French army which proved most fatal was the backwardness of her leaders, who were not converted to the necessity of mechanization of the army and it was they who were responsible for the quick fall of France. Their troops fought well and 200,000 of them were killed, that number being third highest among the losses of the countries at war, exceeded only by the losses of China and Russia.

It lies within the power of the French people to come back to their position of importance in world affairs. Time and again in the past the nation has seemed on the verge of extinction, only to unite and rise again. It will be so once more. The same characteristics of a Frenchman which cause him to dispute the wisdom of the leaders of his own government will prevent the conquerors from imposing a lasting domination over him. Thus reasons M. de Lanux.

A persuasive speaker, personally informed to speak for France, M. de Lanux left an impression of vigor, understanding of the problems and of the possible solutions to France's present situation. It may well be that he will play one of the chief roles in the reorganization of France when the time comes.

Blue Stockings Hold Initiation Friday

The Blue Stockings held an initiation ceremony last Friday night, at Southwick Memorial at 7.45 p.m. Those who were initiated are: Jane Collins '44, Mary Jean Dunsmore '46; Lucille Goldstein '43; Ione Lacy '44; Barbara Powers '46; Louise Shutler '46, Vesta Stevens '45.

A new formal initiation was conducted by Mrs. Faith Prior, president, and helping her were Mary Perry, vice-president, Margaret Delano, secretary, and Margaret Palmer, treasurer.

Each new member received an official Bluestocking pin—a small silver pin with a blue enamel stocking on it. Never before has the club invested in pins.

A short business meeting followed the ceremony. Alison Carr directed a literary game and refreshments were served.

Y. W. and V. C. A. Hold Joint Meeting

Plan Mass Meeting And Conferences Later

Y. W. C. A. and V. C. A. held a joint cabinet meeting Tuesday night, December 8, in room 265 of the Waterman Building. At this meeting Y. W. C. A. formulated plans for a mass meeting late in January, at which time they expect to have as speaker a German woman, Mrs. Eleonore Nerac, a refugee from Nazi Germany.

Plans were also made by the joint cabinets to sponsor a conference later in the year on post-war planning. Tentative plans call for a University convocation at which a nationally known leader will present the theme of the conference. After the convocation, group meetings, led by equally well-known and competent experts, will be held. Invitations have been extended to Dr. Henry Lieper, one of the secretaries of the Federal Council of Churches of America, and to Dr. Edward Lindemann of the New York School of Social Work. Dr. George Buttrick, minister of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church of New York City, was invited to be the opening speaker but writes that he will be unable to be so far away from his church at that time because of the busy Lenten period.

Y. W. C. A. Holds Party For Foreign Students

An International Supper was held last Thursday evening at Southwick. It was sponsored by the Y. W. C. A. Council with Ruth Jordan as chairman of the affair. Girls representing Spain, Costa Rica, France, Germany, Austria, Greece, and Wales were present at the buffet supper. After the supper Christmas carols were sung.
